Do you know how it ends? In Death. A premature, horrible, agonized, pitiful death. The victim has no peace, no ease in life. His days are filled with tortures. His nights are waking dreams of agony. He longs to die, yet fears the terrors of his end. He dies, a bloated, fetid, repulsive mass of corruption. That is the only end of unchecked Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it. They drive it out of the system thoroughly, create new, clean blood, rebuild the diseased kidneys, and restore robust health.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

Dear Sir,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value.....	$1,564 96

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

An Unusual Find.

Finding a four leaf clover is considered a stroke of luck, but when one is found on Jan. 5th as green as a hedgerow shamrock leaf in Ireland, the luck must be much increased in value. Mr. T. Kelly, timekeeper on the Nassau-Little Lake section of the canal, while proceeding to his duties on June 5th, found a four-leaf clover near Burnham's Point. The thaw of the previous day had removed the snow and disclosed the freak of nature mentioned—an infringment on the Emerald Island's copyright as represented by the Shamrock.

TOOK THE LAW IN HIS OWN HANDS.

A Citizen who was Unable to Recover his Wages From a Merchant Takes Goods and Refused to Pay for Them.

A peculiar case was before the police magistrate this morning, when a citizen who was arrested on a charge of theft received a hearing.

It appears that last evening the prisoner entered a store and asking for some goods took them away, refusing to pay for them. The merchant followed him into the street and, seeing Officer McGinty, complained to him about the matter. The man was placed under arrest, but explained to the magistrate that he was hired by the merchant at the time of the Bicycle Meet here in July. He was to receive $2 a day for three days. After working a day and a half he was discharged, as there was not sufficient work for his presence to be needed. He only received one dollar in payment for his services at the time, but was to receive the balance next day. Being unable to get what was still owing him he took the goods in question.

The case against the prisoner was dismissed.

INSPECTION OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

A Change in the Regulations of Interest to the Public.

The last issue of the "Canada Gazette" contains an order in-council, bringing into force the amended Weights and Measures Act of 1898:

Section thirteen of the Order provides that the following scales must be verified at least once in each year: Those used for elevators, railways, collieries, flouring mills, cheese factories, grain warehouses, public markets etc., and scales for weighing scales. Those concerned shou'd take note of the change. The above specified scales under previous regulations did not need to be verified more than every two years.

THE LA GRIPPE EPIDEMIC.

Its Prevalence and the Precautions that May be Taken.

Though the grippe epidemic is not so bad in Peterborough as in some other places, it is bad enough. While the type is not severe nor the attack so lasting as on previous visitations, it will serve. From those who have the grippe and those who are recovering, a pretty extensive list might be compiled. Besides the heretofore immunes are patiently waiting their turn. They seem to feel the applicability of a slight paraphrase of Macaulay's verse, "To every man upon the earth grippe cometh soon or late." The people should take every care of themselves, carefully avoiding the conditions that usually bring on colds. The first symptoms of a cold should be at once dealt with—prompt and effective purgation, not necessarily severe—and liberal doses of hot lemonade or other use of lemon juice, which has a toxic effect on the influenza bacillus. During the prevalence of grippe, the old proverb gains additional force—"an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Regular Adjourned Monthly Meeting Last Night.

At the postponed monthly meeting of the Town and County of Peterborough Historical Society, held in Association Hall last night, in the absence of Colonel Rogers, president, through illness, Rev. J. C. Davidson occupied the chair.

There were present, besides the secretary, Mrs. Birdsall, Mrs. Collins, Miss Dunlop, Miss Watt, Miss Fowler; Dr. Harrison, Keene; Mr. Grieve, Mr. Yokome, Miss Stewart and Miss Collins.

A communication was read from the Secretary of State acknowledging the receipt of the protest of the Historical Society against the granting of a site for a monument to a foreign military officer, General Montgomery, and stating that the matter would be laid before the Governor-General-in-Council.

A communication was also read from Mr. David Boyle, Curator of the Ontario Archæological Museum, informing the Association that a winter meeting of the Ontario Historical Society would be held in Toronto on Feb. 15th and 16th, and inviting the Society to send delegates.

The president and secretary were appointed delegates with power to add to their number in case of the inability of either to attend.

A letter from Miss FitzGibbons was read calling attention to a loan collection exhibition to be held in Toronto in May next and requesting the Society to loan specimens.—Referred to the Museum Committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

The annual meeting of the Nicholls Hospital Board was held in the council chamber Thursday afternoon. Those present were Messrs. R S Davidson, J D Tully, W Aldridge, J Stevenson, W H Hill, Dr Fife and A P Poussette.

It is worthy of note that for the past three years the ratepayers have not been asked for anything towards the maintenance of the Hospital.

A BRAVE RESCUE.

Mr. Allan Stevenson Saves a Boy From Drowning—Deserving of a Humane Society Medal.

A brave rescue of a drowning boy was accomplished yesterday afternoon by Mr. Allan Stevenson, who is in town visiting his brother, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, curate of St. John's church.

Mr. Stevenson, it seems, went down to Little Lake during the afternoon to enjoy a few hours skating and on his arrival on the shore noticed a small boy making vain, but apparently ineffectual, efforts to get out of a hole over which the ice had broken under his weight.

Mr. Stevenson hastened out on the ice and reached the lad only just in time to save him, as his sudden plunge into the icy water and his fruitless struggles to extricate himself had almost exhausted him. At the peril of his own life Mr. Stevenson crawled to the hole and rescued the boy, who quickly sped away homeward without informing his rescuer of his name.

It is understood that the rescue is to be reported to the Royal Canadian Humane Society and Mr. Stevenson's brave act certainly seems to deserve recognition.

Several citizens who witnessed the rescue describe it as one which reflects great credit on Mr. Stevenson, who without a moment's hesitation ventured out on the thin ice which just a moment before had given way beneath the weight of a boy.

CONCERT POSTPONED.

We regret to have to announce that it has been decided for various reasons to postpone the Miller-Cowper concert until early in March. Mr. Crane assures us that the people of Peterborough will not lose the opportunity of hearing these artists; but through no fault of his it has been found necessary to postpone the concert for a month.

OBSEQUIES.

A STUDY OF LA GRIPPE.

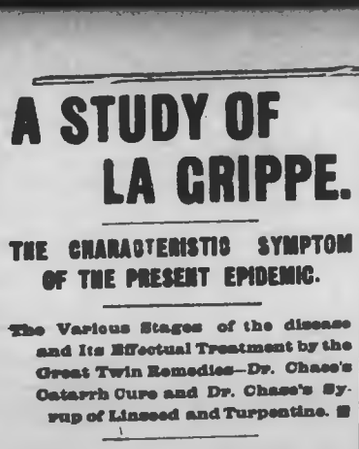
THE CHARACTERISTIC SYMPTOM OF THE PRESENT EPIDEMIC.

The Various Stages of the disease and Its Effectual Treatment by the Great Twin Remedies—Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure and Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

When LaGrippe visited this city in 1790, physicians were at a loss to know how to treat it. I was so entirely different to anything with which they had previously come in contact and had such a variety of symptoms that it required the study and experimenting of a newly discovered disease.

Experience has taught pyysicians and people alike that la grippe is a form of nasal catarrh, and its earlies stages must be treated as catarrh. The dull, splitting headache, the running at the nose and eyes, the "Stuffed-up" feeling of the head and droppings into the throat are unmistakable signs of a sort of catarrh.

In the epidemic which now prevails in Toronto the characteristic symptom is vomiting in the morning, which is caused by the mucous droppings entering the stomach, upsetting digestive system, and resulting in stomach sickness and loss of appetite. A study of the accompanying cut will show how this occurs.



A. Posterior Nares, where la grippe begins, causing running at the nose and headache, B. Nasal Duct, through which the eyes are affected, H, Throat, where the mucus drops, F. Oesophagus, through which mucous droppings pass to the stomach and cause sickness, vomiting and loss of Appetite. G. Larynx, thorough which la grippe enters the lungs and develops into pneumonia.

It is in this stage of la grippe that Dr. Chase's Catarrah Cure proves its wonderful effectiveness by entirely clearing the head and choked up air passages, stopping the running at the nose and eyes and droppings into the throat. With the removal of these symptoms, the pressure which causes la grippe is eradicated from the system.

But la grippe is so entirely different in its two important stages that no one remedy can hope to cope with all cases, and hence the popularity of the great twin remedies for la grippe—Dr. Chase's Catarrh and Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

PREVENT PNEUMONIA.

The newspapers are filled with reports of death from la grippe and it will be noticed that in most every case la grippe had developed into pneumonia before death resulted. It is not so much la grippe itself as pneumonia or complicated lung troubles which usually follow it that is to be feared.

If la grippe is not cured before it enters the throat, the greatest precaution is necessary to avoid fatal results, and it is at this stage of the disease that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine proves its inestimable value.

During the great epidemic of 1890 it became evident that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine was a prompt and unfailing remedy for la grippe, and since then it has lost none of its popularity, but, on the contrary, has reached the largest sale of any similar preparation, and has established itself as an unrivalled remedy for bronchitis, asthma, croup and all throat and lung troubles.

By combining these two great preparations Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure and Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the very worst case of la grippe can be completely and permanently cured, suffering relieved and all danger from fatal after effects avoided. All dealers sell these remedies at 25 c. or they can be procured from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LOVERS OF FLOWERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

MEMBERS OF THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY MEET.

Reports of 1898 Received From the Directors and Caretaker—The Financial Statement of the Year—Officers Elected.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society was held Thursday afternoon in the council chamber, with Dr. Burnham, president, in the chair. The other members present were Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, J. H. Cobb, J. H. Roper, D. W. Dumble, Walter Stocker, Jas. English, T. A. S. Hay, Felix Brownscombe, W. H. Foord, Jno. McClelland, Jas. Stevenson, W. H. Hill and Frank Wise.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Mr. Felix Brownscombe submitted the director's report for the year as appended :

To the Members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society :

GENTLEMEN,—We your directors beg to report as follows :

The annual exhibition of the Society for 1898 was held on Thursday, the 1st of September, and the fact that the number of entries was considerably in excess of several preceding years would indicate that those who exhibit are taking an increasing interest in the advancement of the society. This increase we appreciate all the more when we remember that for some time previous to the show it was exceedingly dry weather, which made it very difficult to bring flowers to perfection and caused several members to withhold entries they had intended making. While we were pleased with the increase in the list of entries, we cannot speak so encouragingly of the attendance at the annual show which is growing less, notwithstanding that the display has been getting better and better. We therefore ask that the directors and members take more interest in the show and invite their friends to attend and if there are any suggestions you can give whereby the show can be made more attractive, your directors will carefully consider the same.

As instructed at the last annual meeting we offered prizes for the four most tasteful lawns or grounds of members and we received five entries, which was far less than it should have been. You are therefore asked to consider whether or not it is advisable to continue prizes for this purpose.

As you are doubtless aware the grant received from the town council for 1898 was $150 less than the preceding year and $50 less than we have received for several years. On this account we were unable to make certain improvements contemplated, while the slat walks, seats, etc., have not received repairs, which are badly needed. It will therefore be necessary to bring this matter to the attention of the council and ask them to make the grant for 1899 larger than that for 1898, or else the park must be neglected.

During last fall we ordered 3,000 tulip bulbs, which we had planted in the centre bed and along both sides of the centre walk. These will flower early in the spring and give a bright appearance to the park till the other plants are placed out.

Submitted on behalf of the directors.

GEO. BURNHAM, President. FELIX BROWNSCOMBE, Sec'y-Treas.

The report was adopted on motion of Messrs. Cobb and Hay.

The financial statement was read by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Brownscombe, as appended :—

THE CARETAKER'S REPORT

was submitted by Mr. J. H. Cobb, as appended :

To the Officers and Members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society :

Gentlemen,—I beg to report as follows regarding Victoria Park for the season of 1898 :

The park was opened to the public on the 1st of May, between which time and the 1st of June the walks were repaired, seats overhauled and painted, and the various flower beds all planted. The season of 1898 was the driest since I have had care of the park, which made it necessary to devote more time than usual to it in order to keep the grass green and the plants in growing condition. The beds having been well manured the previous fall was a great help to the flowers during the dry weather, and acting under instructions from Mr. Adam Hall, Chairman of the Park Committee, I have again had them attended to.

During the time of the Bicycle Meet I applied to the Mayor for police protection for the park, and he was kind enough to grant me the help asked for, and I am pleased to say that no damage whatever was done to our property.

At the present time there is no place in the park to stow away tools, pots and other property of the society as I did in the Park and I have to cart them forward and back to and from my own house. This causes considerable expense and I would suggest that your directors be empowered to fix a place under the band stand for this purpose.

By instruction of the President I planted last fall 3,000 tulip bulbs in the Park which would make a splendid showing in the spring.

I might remind the society that there will have to be something done the coming spring to repair the slat walks leading to the Court House, as the sleepers are all rotten so that the slats cannot be nailed on them. There will also have to be repairs to the water pipes and taps, some of which are worn out and leak badly.

Yours truly,
J. H. COBB

The report was adopted on motion of Messrs. Dumble and Stocker.

Officers for the year were elected as follows :

President—Dr Burnham.
1st Vice-President—D W Bamble.
2nd " —Jas Stevenson.
Sec-Treas—Felix Brownscombe.
Directors—Percy Hamilton, Benj Cooney, T A S Hay, J H Roper, T E Bradburn, J H Cobb, W H Foord, H C Rogers, Adam Hall, Rev H Symonds, J R Stratton, M.P.P., and W H Hill.
Park Committee—Adam Hall, W H Foord, Henderson Nesbitt and John McClelland.
Committee to revise Prize List—T A S Hay, D W Dumble, W H Foord, J H Roper and W Stocker.
Committee to wait on Council re usual grant—D W Dumble, Dr Boucher, Jas Stevenson, J R Stratton, M.P.P.
Auditors—T A S Hay and J H Roper.

When the question arose as to how the public might become more interested in the annual exhibition, Mr. Frank Wise mentioned an idea, which was most favourably received. The proposition was for the society to offer a school children's prize, a plant to be given to all children applying in the spring on the understanding that it was to be shown in the fall.

On motion of Messrs. Bradburn and Foord the Prize List Committee was authorized to add such a class to the list.

The Secretary was instructed to notify the County Treasurer of the state of the slat sidewalk in the Park.

The meeting then adjourned.

THEY CANT VOTE.

An Audience at the Y.M.C.A. Decides That Women Should not Have the Franchise.

Last night's debate on the question of "Women's Suffrage" at the Y.M.C.A. added one more to the many successful meetings of the club this season. Mr. F. Ray presided. The question was "Resolved that the franchise be extended to women on the same conditions of men." The affirmative was most heartily supported by Messrs. J. W. Bennet and G. H. Williamson, and the negative by Messrs. W. H. Collier and S. D. Hall.

Mr. Hall, the youngest debater, won great praise, and undoubtedly made the best speech.

The affirmative speakers declared they had won on the arguments, but the audience decided in favour of the negative.

The following interesting programme will be given next Thursday evening : Four papers on Canada—"Canada's Resources," "Outdoor sports in Canada," "Canada in A.D. 2000," "Canada's famous men."

PROF. CAYLEY ON MATTHEW ARNOLD.

LITERARY DISSECTION OF THE APOSTLE OF SWEETNESS AND LIGHT.

Sketch of his Life—Beautiful Analysis of his Character, Essays and Poetic Works—Deeply Interesting Lecture to a Large Audience.

The second lecture under the auspices of the National Home Reading Union was given in the Y. M. C. A. last evening by Rev. Professor Cayley, M. A., of Trinity University, to a large number of N. H. R U. and their friends. The subject of the lecture was "Matthew Arnold," and proved to be a well arranged and lucid study of this influential writer, delivered in a pleasing and effective manner.

Matthew Arnold, said the lecturer, is a man who appeals to many types of mind. He was a poet, prose writer, educationist, literary critic, and censor of men and morals. After briefly noting the uneventful but labourious character of his life, Prof. Cayley referred to the various influences brought to bear upon his early life. From his father, the great Arnold of Rugby, came his passion for righteousness. From Oxford he learned the doctrines of sweetness and light. The ancient literature of Greece inspired him with the love of pure and true ideals, whilst of modern writers Wordsworth more than any other contributed to his natural love of nature. Goethe, who assailed authority and convention and demanded that all things be brought to the test of his own time, also deeply influenced Arnold.

Arnold was pre-eminently a critic. He conducted a vigorous and life-long crusade on behalf of the highest civilization, a crusade which was conducted by means of a searching criticism and analysis of our modern strength and weakness. The main want of the Englishman he found to be a want of ideas.

His critical work may be divided into three heads : - (1) An attack on Philistinism ; (2) An attack on Puritanism ; (3) An attack on Orthodoxy in religion.

1. Philistinism is a German nickname given to those who oppose the light and leading of culture. In this connexion the function of literary criticism is to learn to know and to make prevail the best that has been said and thought. Great historical periods are also great literary periods. But in the nature of things great literary periods must be few and far between. Literary criticism, however, prepares for new ages by studying and enforcing the best ideas.

2 In his crusade against Puritanism, it must not be overlooked that Arnold fully allowed for the good that was to be found in it, and paid a high tribute to its strength and integrity of character. At the same time it was narrow in its spirit and dull. It was generally opposed to new ideas. Man is a many-sided being and Puritanism is one-sided. Culture aims at the production of the man who is perfect on all sides. Culture aims at sweetness and light. It seeks to mould the man from within, by touching the hidden springs of action.

3. The book in which Arnold assailed orthodoxy is "Literature and Dogma." The lecturer here criticised the critic, who, he contended, fell a victim to the zeit-geist or spirit of the times. Arnold believed in nothing that could not be verified by the ordinary scientific methods. He concluded therefore that miracles did not happen. He evaporated the doctrine of a personal God who thinks and loves, into the indefinable. "Tendency, not ourselves, that makes for righteousness." On the other hand albeit he went to extremes his criticism, even here, finds some justification in the fact that the age in which he lived to a much greater degree than our own had elevated dogma at the expense of morality.

The lecturer concluded by reading a few characteristic selections from Arnold's poems.

HOCKEY.

Saturday evening's match at the rink between the Colts and the Parkdales, of Toronto, promises to attract one of the largest crowds of the season, as the Colts have steadily worked their way into public favour by the sweeping victories which they have been securing. Their match in Toronto was the first close contest, and it remains to be seen what will be the issue of the return game here on Saturday evening. The Parkdales are a heavy team with a dashing style of play, which is at all times dangerous, and the Colts will have to work hard to hold their own on Saturday.

The bringing of sticks to the rink on the occasion of matches for the purpose of making a noise is a nuisance which the management has decided to abate. Patience has ceased to be a virtue, and the small boy has received his last warning, as has his older brother, who should have more sense. Prompt ejectment is to be the course adopted towards the next offender, and doubtless this will have the desired effect.

The Toronto News contains the following two paragraphs of local interest : Walter Phelan has rounded to in good style. Just now the ex-Peterborough centre is in fine condition and playing the hockey of three years ago. Phlean is already a favourite in Listowel....Lionel King's refereeing is being much appreciated throughout the O.H.A. territory.

DYING BY INCHES!

But Dodd's Kidney Pills will Yet Renew Life.

Thousands of persons die in the prime of life because doctors think Bright's Disease and Diabetes incurable. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cure them both. They have cured thousands of cases.

These diseases and other Kidney complaints are as common as ordinary colds. But people don't realize that they are afflicted till the disease has eaten deep into the system. Even then, Dodd's Kidney Pills will positively cure.

Thousands of people are dying on their feet, but do not realize it. They notice one or more of these symptoms: shortness of breath, loss of memory, failing sight, ravenous appetite, pale or reddish urine, with brick-colored deposit, scalding when urinating, constipation, nervousness, pains in the loins. Their only hope is Dodd's Kidney Pills. They won't fail. They never do.

THE SASSAFRAS PLANT.

From It May Be Brewed a Pleasant Tea and a Good Mucilage.

A correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier says of the sassafras plant: "The whole plant is valuable for its medicinal properties. The root makes an excellent tea, spicy and fragrant, and has alterative virtues quite as good as the sarsaparilla. The stalks have an inner pith that, although tedious to extract much of it, when scraped out and put into cold water and agitated for a few moments with a spoon forms a most thick and tenacious mucilage, retaining a delicate flavor of the smell of the sassafras and is a bland and soothing drink in fevers, when the mouth is dry and great thirst exists. It is frequently retained gratefully when plain water is ejected.

It is astonishing how mucilaginous a small quantity of this pith makes a tumbler of water, which becomes thick, as gum arabic water. A mere teaspoonful of the pith taken out of the small green branches of the bush will make three or four tumblerfuls of thick mucilage.

For inflamed eyes this mucilaginous water is very soothing and curative and has long been used for all forms of inflammation of delicate tissues, but is so simple that it is ignored by the profession.

The oil of sassafras, which is made from the root as well as other parts of the plant, makes a splendid liniment for pains and aches in combination with turpentine in proportion of one-third of the former to two-thirds of the latter. Other stimulating tinctures, such as spirits of ammonia, are sometimes added, but the chief ingredient of the lightning liniments hawked about by itinerant quacks are composed principally of sassafras oil, which is really pungent and effective.

WONDROUS REMEDY,

Is what a London Doctor Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Jan. 9.—A large decrease in the number of cases of Kidney Disease has been noted in this city during the past year.

"There's only one thing to be said about it," said a prominent physician speaking on the subject the other day.

"This falling-off is due solely to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills by the people. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most wondrous kidney remedy ever known. They are used in nearly every household, which accounts for the great decrease of Kidney Complaint."

Music and Eating.

I dined the other day at a restaurant where the dinner is served to the accompaniment of an orchestra. We had "King Cotton" with the oysters and rag time with the soup. Then the orchestra slid into that always beautiful intermezzo of "Cavalleria Rusticana." They played it much more slowly than I remember ever to have heard it before. The head waiter fidgeted and gnawed his lip. There was misery in his eye. At last he disappeared in the direction of the musicians, and a moment later the intermezzo began to gallop along, presto, prestissimo, and at the end of it the orchestra struck up a two step. The head waiter came back relieved.

"We can't have slow music here, madam," he said to me when I asked him about it. "We'd never get through, and I wants to get off early. People eats too slow when they plays slow music."

And when I looked around I saw that knives, forks and spoons were moving to the tempo of the twostep. Everybody was hurrying. The head waiter knew what he was about.

About Catarrh.

"I was weak and hardly able to walk. My blood was thin and I was as pale as death. Being told about Hood's Sarsaparilla I began taking it and in a few months I had gained twenty pounds in weight. I kept on with it until I was as well as ever" Arthur Mills, Dresden, Ontario.

LOTTERIES AND LUCK

TRICKS THAT HAVE BEEN PLAYED BY FICKLE FORTUNE.

Some Instances That Aptly Illustrate the Truth of the Old Adage That There Is Many a Slip 'Twixt the Cup and the Lip.

There are few things with which romance is more closely connected than the distribution of lottery prizes, and there can be no doubt that we Britons are all the better off because of the illegality of holding lotteries in the United Kingdom. A big lottery must disappoint hundreds of thousands while it enriches one winner, who often finds that his hastily acquired wealth results in doing him more harm than good.

A short time ago the first prize in one of the Italian state lotteries, which amounted to some £8,000, fell to a peasant who, with his wife, had actually died of starvation within a few hours of the drawing of the prize.

Owing to a dream in which a peasant had the presentiment that a certain number would be on the ticket which would win the splendid prize, he scraped all his money together and purchased not the ticket he wanted, because it was already sold, but one which bore the same numerals, differently arranged. Then he and his wife fell on desperately hard times, which eventually closed upon them in death from sheer starvation, for he had tried and failed to sell his lottery chance, which was the last thing left to him.

When the drawing came on, he won the first prize of £8,000, but as he was dead and no next of kin could be discovered the prize was raffled for again, when it fell to swell the purse of an Italian banker who already was possessed of vast wealth.

A German lady living in Brunswick had a fancy that a certain ticket would win a prize in a lottery in which the first prize was £15,000. It may seem strange, but it is vouched for as being perfectly true, that she so altered her opinion as to the chances of her ticket winning a prize that she bartered it away for a new hat from her milliner within a few days of having purchased it.

This was a melancholy exception to the rule that "second thoughts are always best." The ticket which she had exchanged for a hat, possibly worth a couple of guineas, succeeded in capturing the first prize of £15,000, and the milliner, who considered he had run his risks, absolutely refused to palliate his customer's bitter disappointment by anything beyond the payment of a few pounds, which were dragged from him by hollow threats of legal action.

On one occasion the first prize in an Italian lottery, amounting to nearly £5,000, fell to a man who had died three days before the raffle, the second prize of £2,000 fell to a lady who had sold her lucky ticket at the eleventh hour, and the third prize of £1,000 to a private soldier who, on hearing of his good fortune, drank himself mad and then committed suicide. For want of claimants who could establish their claims satisfactorily, the first and third prizes were again raffled for, and this time they both fell to the same person—the owner of one of the largest private estates in Austria, who was quite indifferent about the addition to his already huge fortune.

Silly superstitions play an important part in the buying and selling of lottery tickets, and it is no uncommon thing for a person who fancies a certain number to buy it at a price equal to hundreds of times its original cost, and many of those who indulge in this kind of speculation with the fixed idea of gain generally discover that it is an expensive game.

A German banker conceived the idea that the first prize in a certain lottery would fall to the holder of a ticket on which the figure three stood either alone or with others. So greatly impressed was he with this belief that he bought up every ticket that bore the numeral three, a little deal which cost him some thousands of pounds, because many of the tickets he fancied were held by persons to whom he had to pay fancy prices.

One of these persons when approached on the matter refused to sell his ticket unless the banker purchased a complete bundle of 20, of which he was anxious to get rid. The banker did not wish to do this, as there was only one ticket bearing a three in the bundle, but he ultimately consented, took the ticket he wanted and gave the vender back all the others. Great must have been his annoyance on discovering later that the first prize had not fallen to him, but had been won by one of the tickets he had bought and scorned.—London Tit-Bits.

COLD CURE

THE PRICE OF PEPPER.

It Helped to Change the History of the Old World.

In the sixteenth century all the pepper consumed in England was bought by the English merchants from the Dutch, who brought it from India. Owing to racial jealousy, the Dutch traders in 1599 raised the cost from 3 shillings to 6 shillings per pound. This petty display of ill feeling caused considerable annoyance to the English merchants and aroused in them that feeling of independence which has always been so characteristic of our race.

They determined to import their pepper direct from India in their own ships, and for this purpose formed a company, called the Governor and Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East Indies, and which in latter days became eventually known as the East India company.

Their first voyages embroiled them in almost innumerable quarrels with the Dutch and Portuguese, and for a time the venture proved a financial failure. It was not until 1615 that the company became successful and obtained lucrative treaties, owing to their decisively defeating the Portuguese.

From this time on their possessions gradually increased, slowly at first, and then very rapidly, until, by the wise and beneficial management of such men as Clive, Warren Hastings and Cornwallis, they exercised sovereignty over the greater portion of India.

In this manner it happened that an increase in the price of pepper momentously affected the history of mankind.—London Standard.

A Shining Mark.

A lady, grievously tormented with a corn on her toe, was advised by one of her friends to anoint it with phosphorus, which in a weak moment she did, but forgot to tell her husband before retiring at night. It had just turned 12 when the husband awoke, and was startled to see something sparkling at the foot of the bed.

He had never heard of a firefly in the locality, nor did he ever remember seeing such a terrible looking object as the toe presented. Reaching carefully out of bed till he found one of his slippers he raised it high in the air and brought it down with great force upon the mysterious light.

A shriek and an avalanche of bedclothes, and all was over When at last he released himself from the bedclothes, he discovered his wife groaning in a corner of the bedroom, but she had not got that phosphorated corn.—London Answers.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcombe Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities, and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

LAURIER'S TRIBUTE TO DINGLEY.

America Has Lost One of Her Oldest and Purest Statesmen.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—A special to The Herald from Washington, dated Jan. 18, says: "Of the numerous expressions of esteem called forth by the lamented death of Representative Nelson Dingley, none is more evidently sincere than the following from Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

"'By his demise,' said the Canadian Premier, 'America has lost one of her oldest and purest statesmen. It was impossible to know Mr. Dingley without entertaining for him the respect which a man of high character and mental attainments always inspires. The longer one was associated with him the higher became the opinion of his worth. He was a legislator of the highest type, and his untimely departure is cause for national sorrow.'"

Carbon Trust Clutches Canada.

New York, Jan. 19.—The Wall street law firm of Butler, Notman, John & Mynders engineered the big carbon deal which has absorbed all the principal manufacturers in the United States and Canada, under the name of the National Carbon Company. The capital stock will be $10,000,000. In addition to the United States industries, the new company will own a half-interest in the Ottawa Carbon Company of Ottawa, Canada, which company controls the carbon industry of Canada.

Will Sanction the Cession.

London, Jan. 19.—The Spanish Cabinet, according to the Madrid correspondent of The Daily Mail, has decided to submit a bill to the Cortes sanctioning the cession of the Philippines before presenting the peace treaty for ratification.

The quorum which ratified the United States constitution for Pennsylvania was secured by abduction and held behind locked doors.

"Trivial" is derived from the Latin for three ways, and means the petty gossip of the crossroads.

INCALCULABLE GOOD,

AN EXPRESSION OF FAITH.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done me an incalculable amount of good. I think they are the best, surest and quickest acting cure for nervousness, unhealthy action of the heart, insomnia or sleeplessness, anemia or impoverished blood, loss of appetite, general debility and ill-health. For nine years, before I commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and nerve Pills, my heart was weak and in an unhealthy state. Its action was so much impaired that I could not walk across the street without suffering great distress, my heart fluttering and beating so rapidly that I could scarcely breathe, causing faintness, loss of strength, and leaving my nerves all unstrung. My sleep was very much disturbed, I had no appetite and there was little strength or vitality in my blood; I was always excessively nervous.

I have now taken three boxes of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills and since taking them I have not been away from my business an hour. Before taking these pills it was a frequent occurrence for me to be away from business. As a result of taking Dr. Ward's Pills my heart is perfectly healthy and strong and gives me no distress or trouble whatever. They removed all nerve trouble, made my nerves strong and gave me healthy sleep. These pills also made my blood rich and strong and gave me a healthy appetite. Dr. Ward's Pills have given me perfect health, restoring my lost strength, in place of continual ill-health, weakness, heart trouble and nervousness. In justice I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful medicine. Signed, Miss N. Millward, Walton St., Port Hope, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00 at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DOCTOR WARD CO. Limited, 71 Victoria Street, Toronto. Book of information free.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Coterie," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

"I borrowed your wife's medicine, Mr Durand," answered the detective, with a grave smile, "and my eyes told me that Mrs. Durand's life was being tampered with. I have had considerable experience in poisoning cases, and I recognized the symptoms as described by Mrs. Durand."

"Good heavens! I shall take this immediately to Dr. Worthing."

"No! don't go to him, Mr. Durand," said the detective, gravely.

"Why not?" sharply.

"Because—that bottle has just returned from Dr. Worthing's hands."

"What!"

"I have had it examined by him; and I would not put such a grave matter before you until I had made assurance doubly sure."

"And he said—what?"

"He said what I have told you, the bottle has been tampered with; it contains a strong mineral poison."

"My God! Bathurst, tell me what to do," cried the old man, despairingly.

"Will you act upon my advice?"

"? Yes!—yes! without question; take everything into your own hands, but tell me how to act. God of heaven, my wife might have died but for you!"

"True," rejoined Bathurst, gravely. "Listen, sir, and remember our compact; ask no unnecessary questions."

Neil Bathurst leaned nearer the old man, and for more than half an hour they conversed, the former speaking in grave, firm tones, and the latter uttering, for the most part, broken, horror-stricken ejaculations, and listening with a face that grew set and stern, and almost vengeful, before the discourse was done. At last the two men arose as if their conference was at an end.

"You understand me fully, do you not?" asked the detective, as he took up his hat and prepared to go.

"Yes; I understand, Bathurst, and have no fear. I shall do my part."

"Then I will say good-by to you for the present. When we meet again I hope your house will have become a safe place for your wife—and yourself."

And so they parted, to meet again after many days and under circumstances most strange and startling.

On leaving Mr. Durand, Neil Bathurst, still driving the light carriage, turned his horse's head toward a still more unfashionable quarter of the city. The streets were full of moving humanity, and his progress was, of necessity, slow. As he was picking his way along a somewhat narrow, although busy, street, his eye fell upon the form of a woman who was hurrying along not far in advance of him, and in another moment a well-known figure passed swiftly, and evidently in pursuit, it was evident enough to the detective, at least, for the woman was the one who had been so nearly murdered after purloining his wallet from Jason Bradwardine, and the man was Bradwardine himself.

At that moment the woman turned into a still more obscure street, and like a flash the pursuer was upon her. She felt a hand close upon her arm like a vise, and, uttering a cry of terror, turned to face her enemy. Instantly her face blanched, and she made a desperate effort to elude his grasp, but it was quite hopeless—he held her with a clutch that caused her to writhe with pain; and the true spirit of the man shone in his eyes as he fixed them upon her, with a wolfish glare, and ejaculated:—

"Curse you! you jade! I have caught you at last. What have you done with the papers you robbed me of, you white-faced thief?"

"I have not got them," faltered the woman; "I never saw them after that night."

"You lie! Will you give up those papers, or go to prison?"

"I tell you I have not got them; let me go," she cried.

"Not I! Come along, madame, we will see what a couple of policemen will do for you."

But the woman resisted, and with a brutal oath he raised his arm as if about to strike her. But the arm was arrested, and a voice said in the villain's ear:—

"Cur! Take your hands off that woman."

Jason Bradwardine turned swiftly and confronted a young man, in the dress of a mechanic.

"Devil take you for a meddler," he cried. "Mind your business! This woman is a thief. I am taking her to the police. Stand out of the way." Still keeping his fierce grip on the quivering arm.

"Let go that woman, I tell you," commanded the mechanic, with an ominous flash of his grey eyes. "You are using unlawful violence."

For answer Jason Bradwardine lifted up his voice and bawled "A thief! a thief! Police! police!"

By this time a small throng had congregated about the three, and two policemen, who had been called by some onlooker, came tearing around the corner; at the same moment Neil Bathurst walked quietly into the small arena.

"What's the matter?" he said, addressing the woman.

"Oh, sir, help me. He is trying to arrest me," cried she, eagerly.

"Here, policemen, take this woman in charge; she has robbed me. She is a professional thief," said Jason Bradwardine, authoritatively. "I will go with you and enter my complaint."

The bold policemen stepped up to the woman, and grasped her as if she had been a desperado of several tons fighting power, while the mechanic looked on, quivering with indignation, and apparently at a loss how to act.

"Arrest this man, too, for assaulting me," said Bradwardine, who did not fail to note the fire in the young man's eye, and preferred keeping him at a safe distance until he could put himself out of harm's way.

The mechanic laughed scornfully.

"Perhaps you had better arrest me too," said Neil Bathurst, turning to the policemen. "Officers, hands off that woman."

"Who the devil are you?" growled Jason Bradwardine, turning upon him fiercely.

"I'll attend to your case in a minute," retorted Neil; then turning again to the staring policemen, he said, with a significant brush of the sleeve, "Hands off, boys, or by Heavens, I'll knock you down first, and have you discharged afterwards. I'll take care of this woman."

Something in his manner convinced the wiser of the two custodians that here was no mere meddler, and he asked, quite respectfully:—

"Who are you, sir, and what authority have you to interfere?"

The detective leaned forward, and whispered something in the man's ear. It was a very low whisper, but another ear, trained to catch the slightest sound, heard one word, "Bathurst."

The whisper had the desired effect. The man's arm dropped to his side, and he turned to his companion.

"It's all right," he said; "let go the woman or you will find yourself in hot water."

"Now then," said Neil, turning upon Bradwardine, and pointing in the direction he had come, "your way lies there; and if ever you attempt this dodge again it won't be well for you, Mr. Bradwardine."

At the mention of that name, the villain started as if a ball had struck him, and the young mechanic's eyes glowed with a sudden light.

"Look here!" cried Bradwardine, recovering himself, and turning to the officers; "that man is an accomplice; I swear it; he stands in with that woman who has robbed me."

"It don't make no difference what he is," said the second officer, who had just received a whispered communication from his comrade; "he has told you to move on, and my advice to you is, git!"

"And to make sure that he does move on, and don't turn back, gentlemen, won't you escort him as far as the river?" said Bathurst, with a wink to the two men

"We will that," said the man who had last spoken, touching his hat, respectfully. "Move on ahead, mister, and if you try any dodges we'll try the 'stop thief' game on you."

And, with the cheerful alternatives of being made conspicuous by the escort of two policemen, or, still worse, being chased through the streets for a thief, Mr. Jason Bradwardine was forced to content himself; and, with a farewell glare of rage, directed toward the woman and her two champions, he turned away.

"When you get that party safely at the river, just stop and refresh yourselves," said the mechanic, pressing some money into the hands of the nearest policeman.

And then he turned toward Neil Bathurst.

That cool individual was conversing with the woman, who, in obedience to a sign from him, had stood passive, just where the officer had left her.

"Pardon me, sir; may I speak one word with you?" said the mechanic.

Bathurst turned; he was aware that Jason Bradwardine had been shadowed by some stranger, and he did not want this woman to be followed by any one. He felt assured that this was the man who, for some reason, was on Bradwardine's track. "I will be with you in a moment," he replied. Then he turned and exchanged a few hurried sentences with the woman, who soon set off, at a rapid pace, in the direction where she had come. For a moment he gazed after her, and then turned toward the mechanic.

"Now I am at your service, sir," he said, courteously.

"Thank you. Then let us move on a little way," replied the young man, with a significant glance toward the people who still stood on either hand, gaping and wondering at the unexpected turn of affairs. They walked away and turned into the broader street, where Neil had left his horse.

"Now, then," said Neil, "can I be of any service to you, sir?"

"I believe that you can, Mr. Bathurst; at least, you can give me your hand," said his companion, with a smile that lighted up his whole face.

Neil started at hearing his name upon the lips of this stranger.

"Whom do I address?" he asked. "You seem to know me, sir."

"And yet I never saw you until this lucky moment. But my ears are very acute—and I have heard of Bathurst, the detective. I am Francis Ferrars."

"What! Ferrars, the English detective?" cried Neil, his whole face beaming with surprise and pleasure.

"The same."

Impulsively Neil extended both hands, which were grasped by the Englishman and warmly shaken. "Jump into my buggy, Mr. Ferrars," he cried; "you must give me a little of your company now, and command me when you want assistance."

"Thanks; I accept gladly. I want both your society and your assistance now."

"And I want to introduce you to a brother detective, who would rather shake your hand than that of the President."

"Indeed! who?" springing lightly into the little carriage.

"My best friend, Rob Jocelyn."

"What! Big Jocelyn, the counterfeiters' enemy?"

"The same."

"Then I am indeed fortunate. I am already repaid for coming to America."

Neil laughed. "I think, by-the-by, that you two have met," he said.

"How is that?"

"If I am not mistaken, Rob and you are shadowing the same game."

To be Continued.

There is no argument so good as an absolute, plain, truthful statement of fact. There is nothing so interesting as fact.

In the true happenings in the everyday life of every-day people are materials for most thrilling novels. There are every day stories of heroism, suffering and the final triumph of good over evil—of happiness finally crowning endeavor. Here is a case in point:

In the county of Escambia in Alabama is the little town of Flomaton and there lives Mrs. Mollie Grimes. She was a good wife and mother but several years ago she found her health slipping away from her. She realized that this meant the inevitable nervousness and irritability that would surely lose for her the affection of her children and husband, and that as her health declined discord and misery would appear in her home. She was filled with the loving motherly instinct, but two miscarriages in succession almost broke her heart. She had almost lost hope when the clouds rolled away and the light of health and happiness returned.

She tells her story in these words:

"I was almost heart-broken to think I could not raise any more children and had to suffer as I did. I had lost two children by miscarriages and I fully expected to lose another when, in August 1897, I learned of and began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took it until after baby was born in November. With my other children I had suffered everything that flesh could suffer but this time I was in perfect health and had a very easy time. I was in labor only a short time. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines enough for I believe they certainly saved my baby's life and maybe my own life as well. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and also the 'Pleasant Pellets' The 'Pleasant Pellets' act like a charm."

Cruel Captain!

It would not occur to many people that a voyage in one of the swan boats which sail the little pond in the public garden of a New England city could be attended with horrors, but that idea was firmly fixed in the mind of a small maiden of 7 years.

"Would you like a ride in one of the swan boats, Marjorie?" asked the little maid's aunt as they crossed the bridge over the pond one day.

"No, indeed," said Marjorie, with sudden shrinking. "I couldn't bear to see them throw the babies in.

"The man says that's what he does," she asserted with rising excitement as her aunt looked much perplexed. "Hear him! He's saying it now."

Her aunt listened, and of a truth the man's statement, viewed from Marjorie's standpoint, was far from reassuring.

"Take a ride in the swan boats," he called loudly from the landing. "Grown folks, 10 cents; children, 5," and then, with a deceptive smile, he added, "Babies thrown in."—Youth's Companion.

Napoleon In Evergreen.

The great Napoleon, done in evergreen, is the unique statue that stands in the garden of M. d'Aguilleres, in the suburbs of Paris. The statue is a perfect model of the "little corporal" in characteristic attitude, wearing a cocked hat and sword and muffbox in hand. The features are very lifelike.

The greatest care is necessary in order to preserve the likeness, and the artist gardener spends considerable time in clipping off dead leaves and cutting away an occasional branch. The signature of Napoleon is reproduced at the foot of the statue in flowers.—Paris Letter.

VIA PETERBOROUGH.

General Manager Hays Says the Midland Will be the G.T.R. Grain Route.

General Manager Hays, of the G.T.R., informed a deputation from Meaford yesterday that the Grand Trunk had centred its energies on the development of the short route from Midland to Montreal, by way of Peterborough. The road, he declared, would not enter upon any policy which would divert the north-west grain trade from this route.

THE SPIRIT NOT THE BULK MAKES THE MAN.

How Featherweight Lord "Bobs" Won His V.C.

A stray paragraph in an American paper remarks that the first man to become a field marshall after winning the Victoria Cross was Lord Roberts, "Bobs" as the army nicknamed him. Whether the statement is true we do not know, but it is interesting to recall how Roberts won the Cross. It was in a skirmish in the Sepoy mutiny. Roberts, then a captain, charged with some cavalry who scattered a body of Sepoys. Roberts saw a couple of Sepoys making off with their standard. He galloped after them, and they turned on him. He cut them both down in a hand to hand fight and took the standard. Roberts is a little man whose average weight was at that time in the neighbourhood of 120 pounds. He remarks in his "Forty-one years in India," that at one time during the Mutiny he was so pulled down by hard work and fever that, though remaining on duty, he weighed only 112 pounds.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association will be held in their rooms, 168 Brock street, on Saturday evening next, Jan. 21, at 8 o'clock. The reports for the year will be read and the election of board of management and committees for the ensuing year made. An interesting evening is expected. All are invited to attend.

MR. ANDREW STEPHENS
FERGUS, ONT.

Is now enjoying the best of health after having suffered some time from nervous prostration and weakness of the heart.

Fergus people are pleased to see the well-known boss carpenter, Mr. Andrew Stephens, looking a picture of health again.

He had been complaining of his heart for some time, could not sleep well at night, and seemed nervous and generally broken up.

A friend met him not long ago and congratulated him on his healthy appearance.

"Well, you see," said Mr. Stephens, "if it hadn't been for those Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills that I got at Phillips' Drug Store, I don't know where I would have been to-day.

"I used to suffer a great deal from palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, and was unable to get restful sleep."

"You were in a pretty serious condition then," said the friend.

"Indeed I was," replied Mr. Stephens, "but I am thankful to say that my heart never troubles me at all now, I sleep well at nights and never have any sign of nervousness."

"And you owe your restoration to health entirely to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills?"

"Yes, Sir, their action on my system was simply marvellous, every dose seemed to do me good. I don't think there is any better remedy made for curing diseases of the heart and nerves, and for toning up the system."

"Are they many people in Fergus that have been cured by these pills?" Asked the friend.

"As far as I have heard, quite a number. I know I have recommended them to several and in every case they have done good."

Then the friends of Mr. Stephens parted, the former to visit the city in Phillips' Drug Store to find out more about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills—the Blood Life givers.

Young Turks Are Telling Some of the Iniquities of the Palace.

London, Jan. 20.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Times says: "The Sultan is disturbed at the growth of the Young Turkey party, which is daily winning recruits from the best Turkish families. He is especially concerned because he has been informed that the party is preparing his biography, revealing gross palace iniquities and describing in detail the arts and methods constituting the Hamidian system."

Good Times in England.

London, Jan. 20.—Returns just issued show that there has been a general rise in wages throughout England in the last year. The aggregate rise in the wages of 900,000 workers affected amounted to £78,000 a week, an average of 87 cents a week per capita. This rise is chiefly in the mining industry, but the operatives in the building trades also are favorably affected.

Coste Contradicts Miss Shaw.

London, Jan. 20.—The Financial Times yesterday published an interview with Mr. Louis Coste, Chief Engineer of Public Works, Ottawa. Recently Miss Shaw published statements with reference to the Yukon in The London Times. Now Mr. Coste says that the evidence of Miss Shaw's information is unreliable and not worth much.

THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

Two Cases In Which a Pleasant Face Saved the Owner's Life.

Many years ago the late Dr. Shippen of Philadelphia left his house in early morning and was hurrying down the street when he noticed a singular and ferocious looking man, whose gaze was fastened upon him. With instinctive politeness and bonhomie he smiled, raised his hat and passed on, when suddenly he heard a shot. Turning, he found that the stranger had just left his home with the insane intention of killing the first man he met. He was the first man, but his absolute fearlessness and constitutional as well as cultivated courtesy had put the man off his guard, and the next passerby had caught the bullet intended for him. That smile and bow had saved his life.

When the country was a century younger and the Indian was yet in the land, a gentleman upon the then frontier was hunting with friends, got separated from them and completely lost his way. Every effort to retrieve his steps led him still farther into the wilderness, and night overtook him in a dense forest. Overcome with fatigue, he lay down under a tree and slept profoundly. In the morning he awoke with a start, with that indescribable feeling that some one was looking at him, and, glancing up, he saw that he was surrounded by hostile Indians, and that the leader of the band, in war paint and feathers, was bending over him in no amiable mood.

He took in the situation at a glance, knew his immediate danger and had no means of averting it. Neither did he understand a word of their language. But he was self possessed, knew the universal language of nature and believed that even under war paint and feathers "a man's a man for a' that." He fixed his clear, bold eye upon the Indian and—smiled. Gradually the fierceness passed away from the eye above him, and at last an answering smile came over the face. Both were men, both were brothers, and he was saved! The savage took him under his protection, brought him to his wigwam and after a few days restored him to his friends. Courage, self command and tact had gained the day.—Lippincott's.

Failings of Great Minds.

"I don't know what to do with that clock," said Professor Thinkard, looking up in a perplexed way at the timepiece that hung on the wall of his study. "The servant carelessly let it run down yesterday and it stopped. I wound it myself this morning, but it won't go."

"Why don't you start the pendulum?" asked the caller.

"Sure enough!" exclaimed the professor, rising to carry the suggestion into effect. "I never thought of that."—Chicago Tribune.

All doctors told Resick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Bright's disease, he would die unless a surgical operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure in the world, and the best Salve in the world. 25c a box. Sold by all Druggists.

HER NAME AT THE TOP

"U. S. S. BROOKLYN" WENT ABOVE "H. M. S. SPHINX."

A Heroic Feat at Muscat by Some of Uncle Sam's Old Time Jack Tars That Thrilled the Hearts of a Whole Ship's Crew.

There was once another Brooklyn, the forerunner of the present armored cruiser, but the old Brooklyn, which, during the civil war, gained the name of the "Butcher Shop," had no resemblance to the floating fortress that hurled destruction into the fleet of Admiral Cervera.

The old ship bore a great spread of canvas and had but auxiliary steam power. Her lofty masts and creaking yards would seem singularly out of place today, but they served their purpose in their own time. Her open deck, with double row of muzzle loading, smoothbore guns, looked like a scene from a mediæval drama, and when she went to sea the flapping of the sails and the snap of the cordage were not an unwelcome lullaby to those who slept beneath her cool white decks.

This old Brooklyn sailed one day from New York, bound upon a roving cruise and came in time to the Azores islands, whence she sailed for Lisbon and Gibraltar and, passing through the Mediterranean and the Suez canal, steamed slowly down the scorching Red sea. A stop at Aden for a day or two made her ready for a journey to the Persian gulf, but when the gulf of Ormas was reached the skipper thought to take a look at Muscat, and so the course was shaped for the capital of the son of Abraham, whose forefathers for hundreds, nay, thousands, of years, had been sheiks of the desert.

In all her journey the good ship had entered not a port where the proud cross of St. George could not be seen from the staff of a British man-of-war, but here at Muscat it was thought that at least our flag would be the only token of western civilization in evidence. But it was not so, for, as the Brooklyn rounded a high promontory that shut in the little harbor, there, lying at anchor, was seen the English gunboat Sphinx with her milk white flag floating above her.

Muscat had much that was strange and weird to interest the Americans, but neither the palace of the sultan, with its double wall, between the two parts of which are kept the tigers whose duty it is to guard the palace at night, nor the imperial harem's grim exterior, nor the gorgeous apparel of the sultan himself had half the attraction for the westerners that the grim, sheer face of the promontory that shute in the harbor had; for there upon the bleak wall of this towering height were painted the names of many ships, and high above them all, in a place that seemed inaccessible, were the words, "H. M. S. Sphinx."

The men of the Brooklyn stared at that name day after day, until it seemed burned into their brains, and the spirit of emulation grew within them.

The night before the Brooklyn was to sail for Persian waters there were evidences of a secret movement among the crew, and after the night had fallen still and black a boat pulled off from the vessel's side, and with muffled oars made rapidly for the shore. It carried many things of various sorts, and among them a lantern, whose tiny glimmer those on the ships watched with bated breath as it reached the shore and slowly began the ascent of the promontory. Now it would disappear and then glitter again like a star of hope and comfort, and so it went slowly on, over up and up the face of the outlined precipice.

The hours dragged slowly by, and it was far into the night when a tired boat's crew clambered slowly over the Brooklyn's side and dropped exhausted into their hammocks for a short sleep before the call of "all hands" in the morning.

The Brooklyn sailed away just as the sun began to show above the eastern horizon, and as she swung upon her course and stood for the waters of the open gulf a cheer burst from the throats of the whole ship's company. For there, in great letters of white that caught the warmth of the rising sun, far above the name of her majesty's ship Sphinx, far above the highest name of all, could be seen the legend "U. S. S. Brooklyn."

And there today, looking down upon the tiger guarded palace and the harem of the sultan, ever before the Arabs and the Beloochistanees of the tiny sultanate, still gleams the magic name that Sohley and Cook once again made famous and that shall endure in history when Muscat itself shall be forgotten. —Washington Post.

How a Frog Hibernates.

According to Simon Henry Sage, the frog does not hibernate in leaves or the trunks of trees, but in a dry hole in the ground not likely to freeze. He scratches the hole with his hind feet and enters backward. Once inside, there is apparently no trace of the fact outside. Frogs found under frozen leaves are still able to move about. Mr. Sage has found hibernating frogs with their extremities and skin frozen, but their vital organs were still intact, and they recovered their activity on being liberated.—London Globe.

Men Laugh at their Wives About Bargains

But What Is Business Life but a Hunt for BARGAINS?

A woman who visits our store and invests now would not only please her husband but could only be considered by him as "economy" personfied—prices on Furs are so very low that for anyone who needs them—not to invest, would be like throwing away money.

ROBERTS' WOES.

Congressman Roberts is generally known as "That Husband of Ours" to Mrs. Roberts in the plural number.—Los Angeles Times.

It must be rather embarrassing to a Utah politician to have his wives get to debating over which of them made him the man he is today.—Washington Star.

American women will oppose the efforts of Brigham Roberts to take his seat in congress as a representative from Utah. They probably feel that a man with a plurality of wives cannot retain the serenity of mind necessary to lawmaking.—St. Louis Republic.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Olive of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day to day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle, every bottle guaranteed, at any Drug Store.

AN HISTORICAL EVENT

Monson and Delcasse at Work on an Anglo-French Treaty.

OF THE HIGHEST IMPORTANCE.

The Samoan Difficulty—Rumors of What Steps the Powers Interested Will Take—The Rebellion in China Is Spreading—A Missionary's Wife Burned to Death in Japan.

London, Jan. 21.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: "I am informed that Sir Edmund Monson (the British ambassador to France), in an interview, with M. Delcasse (French Minister of Foreign Affairs), has virtually laid down the lines of negotiation upon all disputed points between France and Great Britain. The program so far amounts to an Anglo-French treaty of the highest historic importance. In official circles last night the approaching solution is foreshadowed rather cautiously; but, while the amicable, explicit terms which have been hinted at are scarcely realized as yet, they only leave one or two details of mutual compensation unsettled."

The Daily Chronicle, commenting upon the foregoing despatch from its Paris correspondent, says it thinks the news almost too good to be true.

THE SAMOAN DIFFICULTY.

The Indications Are That Some Good Hot News Will Yet Be Furnished From That Country.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—The Foreign Office informs the correspondent of the Associated Press that the official reports received from Samoa by the Government tally with those received by the Associated Press. In any event, Germany will not support any possible irregularity inconsistent with the treaty, but the Foreign Office officials point out it is not yet clear that the German consul at Apia has been guilty of any irregularity of that nature. On the contrary, the Foreign Office insists it still remains to be explained why Mataafa's election was declared invalid, as he was admittedly elected by an overwhelming majority.

The Foreign Office admits that Germany has long been dissatisfied with the convention, which in its nature is provisional, "though, unfortunately, other powers, especially the Washington Government, have thought otherwise."

The Foreign Office officials say that the captain of the German warship Falke, at Apia, "does not attach much importance to the recent incidents," and hence the Government does not intend to send additional warships to Samoa, unless the other powers do.

British Warship Has Started.

Wellington, N.Z., Jan. 21.—The British third-class cruiser Tauranga has started for Samoa.

The Kaiser Is Kept Busy.

Berlin, Jan. 21.—Emperor William yesterday had a long conference with Baron von Buelow, the Imperial Foreign Secretary, and afterwards with Sir Frank Lascelles, the British ambassador. It is assumed that Egyptian and Samoan affairs were under consideration.

Judging from the tone of the German press, France has little to hope for regarding the Soudan convention in this direction.

The Berlin papers, satisfied that Great Britain is adopting the "open door" policy in the Soudan, see therein prospective advantages for German trade.

Peaceful Solution Expected.

London, Jan. 21.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News says: "In authoritative quarters here it is firmly believed that the diplomatic negotiations which must now inevitably be resumed will lead to a solution of the Samoan question satisfactory to all the interested powers. It is thought most improbable that any complications will arise with the United States."

REBELLION IS SPREADING.

The Central Provinces of China in Danger of Entanglement.

London, Jan. 21.—The Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from Shanghai: The rebellion in the Province of Anhoui (Naganhoei) is spreading rapidly, and it is feared that all the central provinces of China will become involved. On Jan. 10, 8,000 Anhoui rebels, under the notorious desperado, Nui, reinforced by rebels from the Province of Honan, attacked the city of Kuyung. After firing a volley, the troops who were defending the city threw down their arms and fled. Two hundred men of one battalion were killed, including the commander and the captain. The city is now besieged, and the Viceroy of Nankin and the Governors of the Province of Honan and Hupoh are hastening with troops to its relief.

Loses Her Life in Fire.

Tokyo, Jan. 21.—News has been received from Hirosaki, in the northern part of the Island of Nippon, Japan, that the mission house of the General Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in that city has just been destroyed by fire. Mrs. Alexander, wife of Rev. R. P. Alexander, who is in charge of the mission, was burned to death. Her husband, as well as Miss Otto and Miss Hewitt, who are working under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, who have been in Japan for about five years, have been connected with the Hirosaki Mission only since the fall of 1897. Miss Otto was sent out by the Chicago Woman's Missionary Training School.

The Czar Suggests Copenhagen.

London, Jan. 21.—The Copenhagen correspondent of The Daily News says he is informed on the best authority that Emperor Nicholas expressly desires that the conference on the limitation of armaments should meet here.

What the Strikes Did.

London, Jan. 21.—The Calcutta correspondent of The Times says: "The recent English strikes effectually prevented the placing of orders for rails, girders and rolling stock for railways building in India, and it is only too possible that in future the orders will go to a large extent to the United States, particularly for locomotives."

HERE'S FOOD CONDENSED.

A New Food Which the British War Office Is Now Investigating.

London, Jan. 21.—A retired officer of the Royal Artillery is reported to have invented a new food which is thought to offer inestimable advantages for purposes of military and naval sustenance. The new food has been subjected to the severest tests, and it is declared by experts that it has succeeded in the very point wherein all other condensed foods have failed—the preservation of the flavor, as well as the food qualities, of the original articles. Eggs, meat, fish and vegetables have all been successfully treated. Fifty-three pounds of this food, occupying one cubic foot of space, is equal to the carcasses of 18½ sheep.

Thus a 6,000-ton vessel could carry the equivalent of 324,000,000 pounds of meat, or rations enough for the whole population of the British Isles for eight days. The War Office, which is taking up the invention, preserves the strictest secrecy as to the methods of condensation employed.

90,000,000 PEOPLE

And 2,000,000 Square Miles of Territory Come in Under Cairo Convention.

Cairo, Jan. 21.—The limits of the territory involved in the convention signed here between Great Britain and Egypt Wednesday are variously defined. It is the district lying south of the Sahara Desert and north of the Congo Basin. On the eastern boundary lie the highlands of Abyssinia, while Senegambia forms its western border. The Egyptian Soudan has an area of not less than 2,000,000 square miles and a population of about 90,000,000.

Will Bring Them Face to Face.

Paris, Jan. 21.—According to The Soir, the Court of Cassation intends to conclude the enqury by confronting Capt. Le Brun Renault, who was in charge of Dreyfus at the time of his degradation, with Dreyfus himself. The necessity for this confrontation is advanced as a pretext to justify the return of Dreyfus to Paris. The court also proposes, according to The Soir, to have the bordereau dictated successively to Dreyfus and Esterhazy, whose handwriting will then be compared with the original document.

King Case Again Postponed.

Walkerton, Ont., Jan. 21.—The King extradition case came up again yesterday before Judge Barrett, and, after argument by counsel, was adjourned for judgment until Monday next at 11 o'clock.

Death Was Natural.

Guelph, Jan. 21.—A sister of Mrs. Sallows has been in Buffalo and is now satisfied that the woman's death was due to natural causes.

A BOILER EXPLODED

And Killed One Man and Injured Three Others.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN TORONTO.

A Mysterious Explosion on Controller Burns' Property on Logan Avenue—Death of Engineer Evoy—Francesco Cairo May Yet Succumb to His Injuries—Houses in the Neighborhood Shaken.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—An explosion 40 minutes after noon yesterday shook the houses in the vicinity of Logan and Eastern avenues, and killed one man, while three others were seriously injured. The scene of the disaster was the large ice storehouse of William Burns & Co., at the foot of Logan avenue, on Ashbridge's Bay. The 30 employes had returned from dinner, and were waiting for the hour of 1. In the rear of the big icehouse was a small building containing the boiler and engine. Here stood Engineer Andrew Evoy with his hand on the lever, and beside him Frank Cairo and several others. Foreman John White came in and called those in the boiler room into the big building to assist in raising some planks. All went but Evoy and Cairo, and no sooner had they got through the door than the boiler exploded.

The premises were soon covered with flying embers, and escaping steam hid the view. When the steam had cleared away, a horrible sight was presented. The boiler room was a complete wreck. Evoy's body was found some yards from where he had been standing a few minutes before, but it was unrecognizable. His boots had been blown off his feet, and his body had been fearfully battered. His clothing had been nearly all torn off. Lying over beside the icehouse building was the prostrate form of Frank Cairo, who was also terribly cut and bruised. He was still alive. Over near the stable, about ten yards away, lay Richard McGuigan, who was moaning pitifully, and crying, "For God's sake save me!" The head of the boiler had struck him while standing on his sleigh. Another man, George Kingston, was found lying under a pile of boards, with a big gash in his head. He was not badly injured, and assisted in caring for those so badly hurt.

In the meantime crowds of residents began to arrive, and physicians were sent for. Doctors O. B. Fraser and J. W. Rowan were soon on the spot. In the meantime the police ambulance arrived, and P.C. Geddes, after bandaging up the wounds, removed the three men to the General Hospital for attention.

In the case of poor Evoy, he lived only a few minutes after reaching the hospital. He did not regain consciousness before death. The other two—Cairo and McGuigan—are resting easily, but the physicians think the former's injuries are such that he cannot recover. He is semi-conscious, and his scalds and wounds are terrible. McGuigan will likely pull through.

The cause of the explosion will likely always remain a mystery, as the dead engineer was the only man who attended to the boiler. There is some discrepancy as to the power of steam carried on the boiler; some say 30 pounds, others more. The boiler was carried 100 yards from its foundations. The terrific force may be seen when large posts were broken by the boiler in its flight. The engine was also carried away by the explosion. One wheel was found a half-mile from shore on the ice.

Ald. Burns, the head of the firm, was soon on the scene. He said when he visited the icehouse at 11 a.m. he had found everything all right. The engine and boiler had been procured from a Toronto firm only last week, Mr. Burns said. They had only placed it in position on Wednesday. One of the best men in the works had tested it, and had pronounced it to be in first-class order. The boiler had formerly been used to run a threshing machine, but it had just been rebuilt. Evoy had only been employed a few days ago to run the engine, but he had worked for Mr. Burns as a laborer. The one fault with the boiler, said Mr. Burns, was that the steam would escape around the rivets, but this fact, he thought, could not be attributed as the cause of the explosion. The property loss is about $500. An inquest will be held.

THE SESSION.

The North Lanark Railway Incorporation—Inspector Moore's Report.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—At the approaching session of Parliament application will be made for an Act to incorporate the North Lanark Railway, with the power to construct, lay out and build a railway from some point on the K. & P. Railway at or near Mile Lake, in Renfrew County, to some point on the C.P.R. or O.A. & P. S. Railway, at or near Arnprior. The route of the proposed road has been surveyed by Mr. A. Bell, C.E., of Almonte, acting for a number of capitalists interested in mining.

Inspector J. D. Moore of the Northwest Mounted Police is in the city. He is here making a report to the Government on his trip from Edmonton to Dawson. It took him a year to get through, having to winter midway. Had he started earlier in the year he could have got through in about five months.

Searches for Andree.

London, Jan. 21.—The expedition being organized by Capt. Daniel Bruun to search for Andree this summer will start from Copenhagen and go to Jan-Mayen, a small volcanic island, 300 miles east of Greenland, where a depot was left by the Austrians. This will be searched. Thence the expedition will proceed to Cape Bismarck and Cape Barclay to the east coast of Greenland.

FRIENDS PREVAILED

A Nervous Toronto Woman Walked the Floor During the Night for Hours at a Time—She Makes a Statement.

TORONTO, ONT.—"I was troubled with nervousness. It was impossible for me to keep still and if the spells came over me during the night I had to get up and walk the floor for hours at a time. My blood was very poor and I was subject to bilious attacks. My feet would swell and I was not able to do my own housework. I treated with two of the best physicians here but only received relief for a time. I became discouraged. One day a friend called and advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I laughed at the advice but I was prevailed upon and procured one bottle. Before I used it all I began to feel better. I took several bottles and also several boxes of Hood's Pills. Now I can eat and drink heartily and sleep soundly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has entirely cured me and also strengthened me so that I now do all my own work. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all sufferers from nervousness, weakness or general debility." MRS. H. F. PARM, Degrassi Street.

SATURDAY, JANUARY, 21, 1899.

YES, A RECORD YEAR.

The Mail says: Canada is making a record. During the last year we had the largest crops, the largest exports of our own produce, and the largest mineral output that we have ever had. But we have also reaped the largest expenditure, the largest taxation, and the largest debt that has been.

It is worthy of remark that the Mail carefully refrains from noting that Canada has also had

The largest revenue,

The largest surplus.

But for the Mail to point this out would be fair, which is not usually the Mail's habit. The Mail seems to think its readers are as stupid as itself.—Toronto Star.

THREE RAILWAY PROJECTS.

There are three railway routes between the Georgian Bay and Montreal :

1. The Ottawa & Parry Sound, from Parry Sound to Montreal via Ottawa and Coteau, 384 miles.

2. The Grand Trunk, from Mid and via. Lindsay and Belleville to Montreal, 383 miles.

3. The Canadian Pacific from Owen Sound to Montreal via Toronto, 480 miles.

The Grand Trunk is t e most advantageous one present. It is better built, has simpler grades and curves, has a double track from Belleville east and a good harbour at Midland.

The Parry Sound Road has as yet heavy grades and only a single track. But it claims it has the best and deepest harbour at Parry Sound.

The Canadian Pacific is longer than either, has a good port at Owen Sound, and before long will no doubt shorten its route, straighten curves and reduce grades. It handles a lot of ocean bound freight.

PEN PICTURES OF THE PHILIPPINES.

Delightful Features of Uncle Sam's White Elephant.

A visitor to the Philippines gives this cheerful description: Hurricanes blow 150 miles an hour, and spread ruin everywhere. Floods come from falls of 100 inches of rain, and for six weeks in July and August he had felt an earthquake shock every day, and saw the cathedral fall. He felt heat at an average temperature of 84 degrees, and knows something about cholera, smallpox and other diseases.

Father Coleman, speaking of the Moros, who inhabit some of these islands, says that head hunting is their chief object of existence. The man who has chopped off sixty heads is entitled to wear a scarlet turban, and those turbans are far from uncommon. Gen. Merritt will require thirty thousand men to keep order in these islands, and it is an expensive service. Thirty thousand missionaries could be sent out for the same sum. Every shell sent from an United States thirteen inch gun, costs as much as a missionary for a whole year.

A SUPERIOR PEOPLE.

2,300 Doukhobors Arrive in Halifax From Russia.

WILL MAKE GOOD SETTLERS.

All Are Healthy—Arrangements for Their Transportation to Winnipeg—SS. Lake Huron's Trip—The Dominion Government Will Care for the Strangers on Their Journey—More Coming.

Halifax, Jan. 21.—The steamer Lake Huron was sighted off the harbor at 10 o'clock and at 3 o'clock the fine former Beaver Liner with her 2,300 Russian Doukhobors, was anchored off quarantine. Dr. Montizambert and the local health officers at once went aboard. An hour later the agents of the steamer started down the harbor in a tugboat, containing, besides the immigration officials, Prince Hickoff of Russia, Messrs. Elkinton of Philadelphia and Gildry of Dartmouth, Mass., two prominent Quakers. The orders to the agent's tugboat were that she should approach the Lake Huron from the windward, in case there should be disease on board. As the tug drew near Dr. McKay, port health officer, shouted: "All right, round to the other side." This was welcome news to Prince Hickoff and the friends of the Doukhobors, for it meant that, so far as could be learned, there was no contagious disease aboard. The tug made fast alongside the steamer and permission was granted Prince Hickoff and staff and the Deputy Minister of the Interior and staff to go aboard. All others were excluded, but your correspondent, for the time being, attaching himself to one of the staff, boarded the Lake Huron. It was a picturesque sight. Though nearly 2,300 were on board, only a few hundred could be seen leaning over the steamer's rail. One of the Quakers shouted: "Welcome Doukhobors."

Broke Into Singing.

Old men and women and children broke into singing, the plaintive melody being wafted over the shining waters. I asked Prince Hickoff what the words were, and he said they were singing a Psalm, "God is with us. He has brought us through."

When the deck of the steamer was reached, J. S. Elkinton, taking off his broad hat, with Prince Hickoff beside him, and surrounded by a crowd of devout Doukhobors, engaged in fervent prayer. In the group was a Crimean veteran, who had seen good service on behalf of Russia, his grey hair and wrinkled face betokening a man of remarkable character. This man after the war left the service, and when 55 years of age joined the Doukhobors, one of whose texts of doctrine forbids them to engage in war. Another in the company of worshippers was a man 85 years old, who had been in exile on the borders of the Glacier Ocean. He was allowed to come home, but only to leave the country.

A particularly attractive face among those that hung over the rail was that of a young woman. Prince Hickoff informed me that she was not a peasant, like the others, but a lady doctor, not a Doukhobor, who had volunteered to come across and help the people. She would return to Russia.

The health officers will make a close examination of the condition of the passengers. The steamer proceeded to the Lawler's Island quarantine wharf. Dr. McKay says that this morning the passengers will be marched ashore and examined as they march down the gangway. In the meantime, so far as the health officers can learn, there is no contagious sickness on board, except one case of measles. It is an infant, who, with the parents, were isolated. If the examination is favorable, a clean bill of health will be given and the Doukhobors will sail for St. John to-day, except the family with measles. These will be detained in Halifax.

Ten Deaths on the Voyage.

During the voyage there were ten deaths, chiefly very young children and aged people. There was one birth on board.

The ship took the southerly course, and, while she experienced some rough weather, the passage was comparatively uneventful. No damage whatever was sustained in the long voyage.

Prince Hickoff, in conservation with your correspondent, said: "I am happy that the ship has come all right. The Doukhobors will do all right in Canada. They will find a good home here and be happy. The ship's officers were very kind. The people wanted to come to British soil. Proposals had been received from France, offering them a free passage to a French colony, but they preferred the prospect of life under the British flag, because they knew that the British loved liberty."

That comparatively good weather was enjoyed is apparent from the fact that while it was expected that 1,200 tons of coal would be required at this port, only 400 will be needed to take the steamer back on her return voyage across the Atlantic. She still has 600 tons in her bunkers.

It is very probable that the Lake Huron will sail from here late Saturday night, or at such an hour as will give her time to reach St. John early Monday morning.

"NOT GUILTY"

Said Taggart Jury on the Ground of Insanity—Murder Charge Dropped and Prisoner Held at Crown's Pleasure.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—The Taggart murder trial was finished yesterday afternoon, and the jury found that the prisoner, Robert Frederick Taggart, was not guilty, on the ground of insanity. During the afternoon a short consultation took place between Mr. Justice Falconbridge and the counsel engaged in the case. The trial then developed a new phase. The judge told the jury that the Crown had fully proven that the prisoner had committed the deed, but the defence raised, and the evidence of the four distinguished medical men, took the case out of the ordinary course, and the one question the jury must decide was, "Was the prisoner insane?"

His lordship added that the jury might retire and decide whether counsel should address them. The jury left the court room and discussed the matter for about a quarter of an hour. There was a difference of opinion, and the court instructed Mr. Riddell to address the jury on behalf of the prisoner.

Mr. Riddell's remarks were brief. He spoke solely of the insanity of the prisoner, and the unanimity of the medical witnesses on this question, both for the Crown and defence.

Mr. Kerr, Q.C., did not address the jury on behalf of the Crown, and his lordship charged them, showing that there had been no motive shown for the crime. In 25 minutes the jury returned a verdict that they believed Taggart was insane. Lawyer Riddell heaved a sigh of relief. He has defended in 11 murder trials, and no hangings have yet resulted. Taggart was placed in confinement at the pleasure of the Crown.

THE GOODALE CASE.

Mr. Goodale Tells His Story in His Own Words.

Was in Hospital for Two Months for Kidney Disease—Received no Relief—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him, Though he Used Only Three Boxes.

HAMILTON, Jan. 20.—In order that the public might get the story of the wonderful experience of Mr. William Goodale, at first hand, and that there might be no misunderstanding regarding it, Mr. Goodale was interviewed and asked to give the facts of the case, for publication. He complied at once, and his statement reads as follows:—

"For the past five years I have suffered from weakness of the Kidneys, and sleeplessness.

"I could get no relief from any of the various medicines I used, and I was obliged to go to the hospital for treatment, as I was rapidly growing worse.

"I remained in the hospital for two months, and at the end of that period I left, no better than when I went in.

"My friends now urged me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did not think they would do me any good, but to please my friends, I bought a box and began to use the contents.

"When I had taken part of this box I began to feel better. My back grew stronger, and I felt the improvement in many ways. I used three boxes in all, and they cured me, completely and thoroughly.

"I believe I am only doing justice to other sufferers, by making public my experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have effected such a remarkably large number of cures of Kidney Diseases in Hamilton that they have won a place in almost every household.

When it is remembered that Dodd's Kidney Pills cost only 50c a box, are so easily procured (at every drug store and are an unfailing cure for all Kidney Diseases, there is no wonder they are held in such high favour.

Friday Evening, Jan. 20.

Liverpool wheat futures to-day opened easy and closed ¼d per cental below the previous final figures. Paris wheat declined 5 centimes, with flour unchanged.

Chicago's market was dull and uninteresting to-day and at the close prices were about unchanged from yesterday's close. Foreigners were light buyers.

Toronto Live Stock.

The run of live stock at the Cattle Market to-day was very large, 84 car loads, composed of 1117 cattle, 525 sheep, 2000 hogs and 35 calves.

The quality of fat cattle, taken as a whole, was far from being good, fully 80 per cent. being unfinished. It would pay the farmer to keep this stock until properly fattened, which would be a benefit to all concerned.

All good cattle found a ready market at steady prices, but inferior and unfinished cattle were off in price fully $2 per head and slow of sale.

APPALLING DEATH

From Kidney Disease Prevented by Dodd's Kidney Pills, Only.

"Kidney Disease." Do you know what it means? It means that the kidneys are either rotten, or rotting; the blood is full of poisonous, death-dealing corruption; that the Kidneys can't do their work; that the victim is a walking charnel-house; that his hours are numbered; that the victim MUST take Dodd's Kidney Pills if he does not want to die.

Have you Kidney Disease? Is your skin hot and dry; memory failing; breath short; urine, reddish, or pale colored; does it scald when passing; is your appetite changeable; do your ankles swell; have you bitter taste in the mouth on getting up mornings; is there a brick-dust deposit in your urine?

Any of these signs is proof positive of Kidney Disease. Will you be cured, or will you die? Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only means on earth that will cure you. They never fail.

Weather Forecasts.

The first attempt at scientific forecasting of the weather was the result of a storm which during the Crimean war, Nov. 14, 1854, almost destroyed the fleets of France and England. As a storm had raged several days earlier in France Vaillant, the French minister of war, directed that investigations be made to see if the two storms were the same and if the progress of the disturbances could have been foretold. It was demonstrated that the two were in reality one storm and that its path could have been ascertained and the fleet forewarned in ample time to reach safety.

DEATH OF RICHARD CROFT.

Cobourg's Well Known Horseman Passes Away in his 58th Year.

The death occurred yesterday at Cobourg of Mr. Richard Croft, aged 57 years.

The deceased was a brother of Mr. Wm. Croft, of town, and was almost as well known in Peterborough as in Cobourg.

A sudden but acute attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. A widow and five children survive. The funeral will take place in Cobourg on Tuesday at 2 30 p. m.

THE LATE MRS. BROOK.

On Friday afternoon, at her residence, McDonel street, Mrs. Daniel Brook very suddenly passed away in the presence of her youngest daughter and several neighbours. The deceased lady has not been well for some time, but was not so seriously ill as to cause any immediate anxiety to her family and friends, but her sudden death will be a surprise and a severe shock to her family. Mrs. Brook's husband, Mr. Daniel Brook, formerly carried on business in Peterborough and Ashburnham, running woollen mills on the Dickson raceway and did a large business. He afterwards removed to the western part of the province. Since his death, eighteen years ago, at Plateaville, Ontario, his widow and one daughter have resided in Peterborough. The deceased leaves one son, Mr. John Brook, of Winnipeg, who is at present in British Columbia, and four daughters to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate mother. The daughters are Mrs. Dr. Freel, Detroit; Mrs. John Forsythe, Berlin; Mrs. John H. Chambers, Winnipeg, and Miss Laura Brook.

Mrs. Brook was 74 years of age and leaves a large circle of friends, who will regret to hear of her sudden death from heart failure.

Mrs. Forsythe and Mrs. Freel will arrive in Peterborough to-day. Mrs. Chambers is confined to her room, in Winnipeg, with la grippe and is unable to attend the funeral.

WEDDED IN KANSAS.

An Event in Which Residents of Peterborough Will be Interested.

The Marshall County News, of Marysville, Kansas, publishes the following account of a wedding which will be of interest to residents in this vicinity:

"The event of the week in Home City was the marriage of Dan. R. Thomas and Miss Alice McKee, which took place on Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's parents in Centre township. Although the weather was stormy it did not prevent a large number of invited guests from being present to witness the ceremony, which was performed by their pastor, the Rev. Covert, of the Centre Baptist church. Rev. Covert was at his best and united the young couple in a very happy and impressive manner thereby winning the approval of the assembled guests. After the ceremony all were invited to a wedding supper which was a model of perfection in all its details. The table decorations were of a very high order and all present enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Dan. R. Thomas has been at the store of Thomas Bros., at Home City, for the past seven years, and is too well known by our people to need any commendation from us. Miss Alice McKee is one of the purest and best of Center township's young ladies and is possessed of qualities of mind and heart of a high order and we congratulate Daniel on his good fortune in securing so congenial a companion for life's journey. Master Merlin Thomas, cousin of the groom, acted as page and Miss Mollie McKee, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honour. These little people, though young in years, performed their part in faultless manner and will long be remembered by those present. Miss Lizzie McKee played the wedding march, and the words which made them one were pronounced under a "mistletoe," the gift of Miss Mary Massey, of Guthrie, Oklahoma. The happy couple received many beautiful and costly presents from their many friends. Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, Canada, whose company was appreciatdd on account of old time associations. These young people start out in life under very favourable circumstances and we join their many friends in wishing them a full share of life's joys and none of its sorrows. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will be at home to their friends at Home City after January 1st."

Just now, things are going at a merry Bargain rush.

We do not intend carrying over any Winter Goods, if we can help it and there is but one remedy—to make the Price an Inducement to sell the stock.

Pity that sacrifices must be made just at a time when Winter Suits and Overcoats are so seasonable. But if its our manufacture, its your benefit.

Remnants and Odd Lengths of Cloths, suitable for Boys' Suits and Men's Trousers are having a quick sale.

Those snaps in Trouserings at $3.50 a pair, made to measure, hardly leaves enough price on them for you to appreciate qualities.

ANNUAL METTING OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

STATEMENTS FOR THE YEAR WERE SUBMITTED.

A Tea Was Served by the Ladies and Afterwards the Congregation Heard the Annual Reports.

The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's church was held on Thursday evening.

Tea was served by the ladies between 5.30 and 8.00 o'clock. Devotional exercises followed, and Rev. Mr. Potter took the chair.

Mr. Alex. Campbell, clerk of the Session, read

THE SESSION'S REPORT

as follows:

Since our last annual report we have been called upon to chronicle the death of some who for years have been constant in their attendance, and others who, for some time, had not been permitted to attend, through age and infirmity.

We have have also been called upon to part with a familiar face at our Communion seasons, in the person of Mr. Robert Tully, Elder, who for many years represented the congregation in Presbytery and Synod. The Session extends to all who through the past year have been called upon to mourn the loss of dear ones, its deep sympathy and earnest prayer to God.

The attendance on ordinances has been encouraging, and we do trust that the seasons of the past year may have given us a stronger desire for more Christian fellowship.

We would remind our people of the weekly prayer meeting, and would like the congregation to turn their attention to make this meeting a greater success this year than ever before. The meetings are short, bright and helpful.

We note with pleasure the interest shown, and the faithful work done, by the different societies, and we desire to express our appreciation of the good work done by the large staff of teachers and officers in the Sabbath School.

We would further desire to see the parents take a sympathetic and practical interest in this important part of church life and work.

We are pleased to see the very praiseworthy services of the Young Men's Guild and we trust they may be greatly prospered in the special practical work they have undertaken.

There are now under pastoral oversight 183 families, and 348 on roll. There were added during the year 42; by profession, 18; by certificate, 24. There were removed from roll 30; by death, 4; by certificate 18; without certificate, 8. There were 14 baptisms.

In closing, we would like to urge upon everybody the duty of giving regularly on the third Sabbath of each month to the missionary schemes of the church. If all who can will contribute a definite portion each month, we may look forward to a larger increase for 1899.

The report was adopted.

Dr. R. W. Bell, chairman of the Board of Managers, read the

as follows, stating that it gave him greater pleasure than for many years to present such a report as this year:

"We close this year with our finances in a more satisfactory condition than what they were twelve months ago. By reference to receipts and expenditures it will be seen that we have received in contributions and rentals, $132.30 more than our expenses have been for the year. Because of the apparent shortage which was staring us in the face in the early part of the year, we deemed it necessary to cut down expenses, and therefore dispensed with the services of a choir leader, (the duties of leader being added to that of organist) and reduced the salaries of organist, janitor and secretary, thus making our expenditures for salaries about $247 less for this year.

"We have not been able to take up our note of $340, given for wiring and fixtures for electric lights. This has been renewed twice during the year, and will fall due February 14th next.

There have been $306 paid in on "special subscription" opened at our last annual meeting for the liquidation of our debt of about $660 at the close of last year. There is about $30 on this list that has not been paid.

We have about $35 due us for arrears on subscriptions, and $40 for rents. The balance at our credit in cash account is $89.99. Assuming that all arrearages on subscriptions, both regular and special, and on rents be promptly paid, it would give us $194.99 with which to pay our note of $340, leaving us short $145.01. Even this was better than it was last year, but would have preferred could we have shown this amount at our credit, instead of short—or at least come out with a clean slate.

This is the first year that we have used incandescent lighting exclusively in church and school. You will see it cost us $86.70. This is a large saving on our old way of lighting, our light for 1894 95-96, when we used are lights and gas, cost on the average about $180 per year.

Many of our people do not use envelopes in making their contributions. We would like each one to adopt this system, and the secretary will gladly supply envelopes to any who ask for them.

The report was adopted.

Mr. F. A. Walden gave the

for 1898 as follows:

Our average attendance for this year has been 209, 129 in the school, 46 in the infant class, 30 in the Bible class and 4 officers. The highest attendance was 264 on Jan. 16, and the lowest 133 on July 24 and 31.

During the year 74 scholars (47 girls and 27 boys) have taken 75 per cent. and over of the whole marks given for the year. Two of the Infant class, 1 boy and 1 girl, have been in attendance every Sunday; 3 girls missed only one Sunday and 1 boy missed two Sundays.

Maud McCrea won the pastor's medal for general proficiency.

The report was adopted.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

Mr. Bruce Anderson read the report of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour:

In looking back over the year just closed your Society of Young People feel thankful that they have been permitted to take some part in the progress and the building up of our church's work. We are learning more and more the fact that our special work is to stimulate life and character in the young of the congregation, and this we find can only be accomplished by regular and systematic study of the Word of God. During the months of July and August we undertook the conduct of the weekly prayer meeting, studying our own topic each week. Two or three social evenings were spent during the year, thus giving an opportunity for pleasant intercourse with members and strangers. We have undertaken to support two native helpers in India, and have assisted in the support of a missionary in the Northwest, and were able to donate ten dollars to the Apsley mission.

The report was adopted.

THE LADIES' AID.

Miss Mary Forsythe presented the report of the Ladies' Aid Society for the year as appended:

"The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's in presenting their annual report for 1898, take this opportunity of thanking all those who have so kindly helped us financially and otherwise, and trust more of the congregation will interest themselves in the work of the society and unite with us during the coming year.

While our membership has not increased, the members have taken a deeper interest in the work, and the average attendance at our meeting was larger than during 1897.

There were no meetings held during July, August and September, and but nine meetings were held with an average attendance of twelve.

Our usual Christmas donations were received on Wednesday, Dec. 28th, and distributed among several families.

THE W. F. M. S. REPORT

In presenting our report for 1898, it is with hearts full of gratitude for the many blessings we have received as a society during the past year; our meetings have been interesting and helpful to those who have attended.

Our average attendance has not been as large as we would wish, but we hope that during the coming year more of the women of the congregation will take a deeper interest in Foreign Mission work.

There are forty-one members on the roll for 1898, of which two are members of the General Society.

Throughout the year we have lost three members by removal and one by death, Mrs. Lundy was our first life member.

Eleven meetings have been held during the year with an average attendance of seventeen.

Forty five Missionary Tidings are subscribed for; as the cost is only twelve cents a year, we would like if every family in the congregation would take a copy.

The amount contributed this year was $107 00.

At the January meeting all the women of the congregation were invited; at this

AN EMILY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Florence Jackson and Mr. Henry Lowes.

A very interesting and pleasing event took place at the residence of Mr. Henry Jackson on Jan. 18th, when his daughter, Miss Florence, was married to Mr. Henry Lowes, of the township of Emily, by Rev. Mr. March, of St. Paul's church, Lindsay.

Promptly at 2 two o'clock while the strains of the wedding march pealed forth, the bride appeared in the parlour leaning on the arm of her father, and looked handsome in a travelling costume of blue gray Amazon cloth, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations, while the bridesmaid, Miss Sarah Jackson, sister of the bride, was dressed in a darker shade of blue gray cloth and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by Mr. J. S. Armstrong, of Millbrook.

After the ceremony was performed and congratulations received, the guests, numbering about fifty, repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, among them being a handsome China tea set from St. John's church, where the bride has faithfully discharged the duties of organist for five years, also a pretty silver mounted biscuit bowl from the Sunday school, accompanied by the following address.

Dear Organist and Scholar:

As you are about to sever your connection with our Sunday school, to which you have been a regular attendant as a scholar and a great assistant as organist, your friends have esteemed it a pleasure to show, at least to a slight degree, their appreciation of your help. You have, since our Sunday school was started, been faithful and attentive to your duties as organist, and in the class a thoughtful and helpful scholar. The little gift we offer you is of slight intrinsic value, but it is rich in love and respect, and will serve to remind you of the hours that you spent in our little school, that I trust have been enjoyable and profitable to us all. We all join in wishing you every happiness in your new home and that wherever you may attend Sunday school you may enjoy the rich blessing of heaven.

Signed on behalf of the school.

LIZZIE JACKSON,
W. H. HOOPER.

The young couple left on the 5.45 train for Toronto, St. Mary's and other points west, amid showers of rice and old slippers. Upon their return they will take up their residence near Frank Hill, Emily.

Some Plain Questions.

Have you catarrh? Have you bronchitis? Have you offensive breath? Have you slight symptoms of consumption? Then send for a free sample of catarrhozone. What is catarrhozone? Not a snuff, wash nor ointment, but an odorous gas, which is carried by air directly to the diseased parts. It penetrates wherever air can go, and never fails to effect a cure. We do not ask you to believe this until you have tested it for yourself. Send for a trial bottle gratis to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A Guaranteed Asthma Cure.

Clarke's Kola Compound Cures.

Some years ago this would have been considered an impossibility, but Dr. Clarke's as solved the problem since completing his experiments with the wonderful Kola plant in England. In December, 1895, he found, that in combing extracts from the Kola with other extracts made from the Grendona plant which grows in California, that the compound would cure the the severest cases of asthma. Upon experimenting in one of the leading London hospitals he found that 95 per cent, of the cases were cured in from 60 to 90 days' treatment. Since the introduction of this remedy into Canada in 1895 there have been over 800 cases cured in Canada alone. Mr. R. N. Hume, C. P. R. engineer, Western Division, writes: "I have been a great sufferer from asthma in its worst form for over twelve years, and never succeeded in getting anything to help me permanently until the C. P. R. doctor prescribed Clarke's Kola Compound for me in Dec., 1895, when two bottles entirely cured me: at least, I have not since had any return of the asthma. I am personally acquainted with at least six persons who have been cured from asthma by Clarke's Kola Compound, and feel it my duty to recommend it to all who may be troubled with this disease.

Three bottles are absolutely guaranteed to cure. A free sample bottle will be sent to any person troubled with asthma.

Address, The Griffiths & Mopherson Co., sole Canadain Agents, 121 Church street, Toronto, Ontario. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough.

THE ALBATROSS.

A Bird of Majestic Aerial Velocity and Insatiable Appetite.

Out of the blue void the albatross comes unhasting on motionless pinions, yet at such speed that one moment a speck hardly discernible, turn but your eyes away, and ere you can again look round he is gliding majestically overhead. Nothing in nature conveys to the mind so wonderful an idea of effortless velocity as does his calm appearance from vacancy. Like most of the true pelagic birds, he is a devourer of offal, the successful pursuit of fish being impossible to his majestic evolutions. His appetite is enormous, but his powers of abstinence are equally great, and often for days he goes without other nourishment than a drink of the bitter sea. At the Gargantuan banquet provided by a carcass of a dead whale he will gorge himself until incapable of rising from the sea, yet still his angry scream may be heard as if protesting against his inability to find room for more provision against hungry days soon to follow.

Despite his incomparable grace of flight when gliding through midair with his mighty wings outspread, when ashore or on deck he is clumsy and ill at ease. Even seated upon the sea, his proportions appear somewhat ungainly, while his huge hooked beak seems too heavy to be upheld. On land he can hardly balance himself, and the broad silky webs of his feet soon become lacerated. Thus his visits to the lone and generally inaccessible rocks which are his breeding places are as brief as may be, since even conjugal delights are dearly purchased with hunger and painful restraint. A true child of the air, land is hateful to him, and only on the wing does he appear to be really at home and easeful.—London Spectator.

Gratifying Improvement.

"My face was covered with pimples and blackheads when I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, but after the use of this medicine a short time I was entirely cured. I cannot recommend it too highly since it has done so much for me." MAY RYAN, North Street, Oungah, Ontario.

The White House Design.

The White House is an exact copy of the Duke of Leinster's palace, Dublin. In March, 1792, the commissioners on building advertised for "a plan for a president's house to be erected in the city of Washington." The prize offered was $500, and that of James Hoban, a young Irish mechanic, was accepted. The design was supposed to be original, but when the house was completed it was learned that Hoban had copied it from the duke's palace.

Sweethearts.

Mr. A. Ballard, B. A., LL. B., sends us the following from Oxford: "Your tale of the Italian prelate reminds me of the negro student who at one of our great missionary colleges was conducting family prayers, and in an outburst of enthusiasm prayed, 'Give us all pure hearts, give us all clean hearts, give us all sweet hearts,' to which all the congregation replied, 'Amen.'"—London Chronicle.

ESCAPADES OF A DESPERADO.

Rode Over the Country and Dared Officers to Shoot.

"Doc Middleton was the most daring desperado that ever terrorized the Elkhorn valley and ruled the Black Hills country with a high hand," said John C. Barclay.

"Middleton always bore the sobriquet of Doc, but nobody seems to know how he was so dubbed. Before the railroads were built into Deadwood, S. D., I used to make one trip a year by stage to that country, and I saw Doc Middleton several times. He was a powerful fellow, with quick, elastic step, and wore a dark sombrero, an overcoat of wildcat skin and a bright handkerchief, and his cowboy make up gave him the appearance of a typical western frontiersman. Leading a band of rangers, he waged war on the Sioux Indians and protected the settlers of the Elkhorn valley in Nebraska. Government officials in those days feared him, and for years he was the chief of desperadoes in those parts; but he settled down to a respectable life in Nebraska over 18 years ago and was engaged in the cattle business.

"When I first knew Doc, he was freighting from Sidney, Neb., to the Black Hills. One night in a Sidney dancehouse a half dozen soldiers engaged in a quarrel with Doc, and there was a shooting scrape. Middleton escaped and hid in the hill sands on the Platte river. While living in the hills he picked up a bunch of horses and started out with them. He was captured and thrown into jail in Sidney. The second night there he got the jailer drunk and walked away. He next appeared at a road ranch up the Elkhorn, having been without food for five days. Soon after that he was hurrying down the Elkhorn valley with a bunch of horses that belonged to the Indians. Doc and his party were pursued by a company of United States soldiers, about 50 settlers and a band of Indians. The white men gave up the chase in a few days, but the Indians kept on the trail. One night the thieves were overtaken by the Indians. The red men dared not shoot Middleton, so they took the horses and returned home. Middleton's front teeth were filled with gold, and he was known to all the redskins as the 'Gold Chief.' The Indians believed that Doc must have been favored by the Great Spirit in order to have gold teeth, and they would not kill him.

"One of Middleton's escapades was known over all the country. He was at North Platte, and a sheriff tried to take him. Doc mounted his horse, pulled a couple of revolvers and rode over all the town daring any man to shoot at him. The government finally made a determined effort to capture Doc and sent out four secret service men. They met Doc at a Fourth of July celebration at Atchison, Neb. He took their pistols away and made them run foot races and join in the other festivities of the day. Once Judge Moody of Deadwood demanded Middleton's surrender. He made the judge throw up his hands and then took all the valuables he had.

"Middleton was finally captured by Deputies Lewellen and Hazen, who were sent out by Governor Thayer of Nebraska. Doc was taken to Omaha, where he received a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. He was shown leniency because he always protected the white settlers and only stole the stock belonging to the Indians. At the expiration of his term Doc returned to Atchison, Neb., and became a law abiding citizen."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WONDROUS REMEDY,

Is what a London Doctor Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Jan. 9.—A large decrease in the number of cases of Kidney Disease has been noted in this city during the past year.

"There's only one thing to be said about it," said a prominent physician speaking on the subject the other day.

"This falling off is due solely to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills by the people. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most wondrous kidney remedy ever known. They are used in nearly every household, which accounts for the great decrease of Kidney Complaint."

Nobody's Mother.

There is a story told on one of the circuits, which may or may not have seen the light of print already, of how not long ago a very young barrister rose to examine one of his witnesses with an unaccountably hazy notion of her identity. "I think that you are the prisoner's mother?" he began.

"Certainly not, sir," was the unexpected answer.

Turning hurriedly to his brief, he thought he had found the reason for her evident annoyance. "Ah, yes," he continued, "I see, you are the prosecutrix's mother?"

"Certainly not," came her reply, still more emphatically.

"Then whose mother are you?" he demanded, almost in despair, and she fairly boiled over with indignation as she retorted: "Nobody's, sir. I am a single woman."—St. James Gazette.

The Mote and the Beam.

When Lord Morris was chief justice of Ireland, a young junior barrister arose in his court one day to make his first motion and spoke in the hard brogue of the north of Ireland.

"Sapel," said the judge in a low voice to the registrar of the court, "who is this newcomer?"

"His name is Clements, my lord."

"What part of the coontry does he hail from in the name of all that's wundherful?" asked the judge.

"County Antrim, my lord," was the reply.

"Well, well!" said the judge. "Did you iver come across sich a froightful accint in the whole coorse of yer born loife?"

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

LIVING IN THE COUNTRY.

The Growing Fondness For Rural Life a Good Sign.

In The Ladies' Home Journal Edward Bok, with much satisfaction, notes the strong tendency to country living and believes that "it is one of the best signs of the times. Nothing in the world can keep a man or woman so young and fresh as to be able to be in touch each day with the perpetual freshness and youth of nature. Suburban life means more out of door living, and that is what we Americans all need. We want more exercise, and suburban living makes that easier. We want our interest in things kept fresh, and that nature does for us as nothing else can.

"The more our busy men see of nature's restful ways the more restful will they become. The closer we keep our children to the soil the healthier will they be physically and the stronger will they develop mentally. The more our girls breathe in the pure air which God intended for all, but which man in the cities pollutes, the better women we shall have, the fewer worried mothers we shall see. The more our young men see of out of door sports the more clearly will they realize the greatness of splendid physical health.

"The more the tired housewife sees of flowers and plants and trees the closer will become her interest in all things natural and simple, and, as she sees the simplicity with which nature works unconsciously, will the lesson be forced upon her and enter into her own methods. We all agree that there is no teacher like nature herself. Let us all, then, get as close to her as possible. Whatever she teaches is wholesome to the mind and uplifting to the soul and strengthening to the body. In the very act of studying her wonderful ways there is health."

Careful Jane.

"Yes, dear children," said the teacher, "we must throw away our naughty faults. They are like wormy chestnuts. Now, what do you do with a wormy chestnut when you find one? Jane may answer."

"Please, ma'am, I give it to me little brother Pete."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mr. M. T. Wigle

Of Kingsville, Essex Co.

CURED OF ITCHING PILES OF 23 YEARS STANDING

M. T. Wigle, better known to every one in the vicinity as "Uncle Mike," was troubled for over 23 years with itching piles. At times he was so bad he would have to quit work. The irritation became so intense with constant rubbing that they became ulcerated and would bleed. He had been treated by many physicians, but found nothing that gave him relief. Reading in the paper the cure of a friend who had suffered in a like manner, and been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, he procured a box. After the third application he got such relief that he had the first comfortable night's sleep he had enjoyed in years. The one box made a complete cure, and he says he would not be without it for $50 a box if it could not be replaced. Mr. Wigle is a wealthy farmer, well known in the community in which he resides. It is over two years since he was afflicted, and he has never been troubled since.

Physicians fail to make a cure when Dr. Chase's Ointment gave immediate Relief. . . .

THE SCHOOL PLAYGROUND.

Its Abolition Is a Grievous Wrong to the Children.

This is an evil which has crept in with the tendency to centralize the schools. When in any place the schools begin to overflow, a movement to put up a larger building takes place, accompanied by an effort to create a high school department, not so much the need of the community as the ambitious dream of some principal who would be superintendent or some sort of central sun to a group of satellites.

This dream is too easily realized, because it flatters the people. Then there rises a preposterous structure of stone and brick. A house of many gables, out of keeping with everything, either public or private, in the place; a temple of vanity. Now is rung the knell of the school playground, for the new "high school," although it will house all the children from 5 to 15, must needs be surrounded by a fine lawn, studded with shrubbery and threaded by bluestone roads. The janitor has to employ an assistant to keep the grounds in order.

A shut in, penitentiarylike place has been evolved by the architect and school committee, gratifying to their pride and a deep wrong to the children. There are many wrongs about it. The one insisted upon here is the abolishing of the recess, that time honored joy of the American schoolboy and schoolgirl. —Isabella G. Oakley in Popular Science Monthly.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 96
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of—	126 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

Boils Kept Coming

But after B. B. B. was used they permanently disappeared.

From the days of Job to the present boils have been one of the great afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are bad blood bursting out.

And the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known.

It cleanses the system and removes every particle of foul material from the blood.

Then never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mrs. Roland B. Keith, Butternut Ridge, Kings Co., N.B., made the following statement with reference to her brother's cure of boils by B. B. B.:

"My brother was terribly afflicted with boils for a considerable time. They were of large size, and when one went away another came. I attended him, and poulticed with different things, and he had a doctor attending him, but still the boils kept coming. At last we got a couple of bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and started giving it to him. There was soon a change for the better, and the boils stopped coming in a week's time, and by the time he had used 3 bottles of B. B. B. his blood was purified, all the boils went away and he has never had one to trouble him since."

CHAPTER XXXV.

BROTHER DETECTIVES.

Francis Ferrars turned toward his companion a face of grave enquiry.

"Do you mean the man you have just thwarted so cleverly," he asked.

"I mean that man."

"Then I was right in making myself known to you. If I am a judge, you are no friend to him."

"I am no friend to any dastard," replied Nell Bathurst, gravely.

"Oh! I see you know him in his true character."

"I shall know more of his true character within the next forty-eight hours," said Nell, grimly. "I have drawn you off his trail, Mr. Ferrars, not intentionally, however. I can perhaps assist you; at least, I can promise that he won't escape you for a little time."

"I have followed him from England, Mr. Bathurst; but he is only a means toward an end. I hope, through him, to find others."

Nell Bathurst uttered a low, musical whistle. Then he turned toward his companion.

"We must confer together," he said, gravely. "I think we can help each other. Will you go with me to my quarters, where we can talk freely?"

"That is what I wish," replied Francis Ferrars. "I scarcely hoped to meet with two such allies as one might have in yourself and Big Jocelyn. And, if I have not misunderstood you, we are all in pursuit of the same man."

"And if I have not misunderstood you, we have another interest in common," rejoined Bathurst.

"Another!"

"Yes. You say this man is only a means toward an end. You are seeking others through him."

"True."

"Am I mistaken in thinking that your search is for a woman, or two women?"

Francis Ferrars turned upon his companion a searching look.

"Is it possible that you know the object of my search?" he asked.

Bathurst laughed lightly.

"Things come about strangely," he said. "I know so much about Bradwardine and his iniquities that I am able to give a pretty shrewd guess. I may be mistaken, of course. I know the object of his present sojourn in America. I don't know what crimes he may have committed in his Mother Country."

"You know why he is here now?"

"I do."

"Then— you know why I am here."

"It is a woman, then?"

"Yes—or, two women."

"Then, Mr. Ferrars, you and I must understand each other. I, too, am in pursuit of this woman."

As he said these words, Nell Bathurst drew up his horse before a large feed stable. "I will leave my horse here," he said. "We have only a few steps further now. My rooms are in the next block."

They sprang from the carriage, and leaving it in the care of an attendant, turned their steps toward Bathurst's rooms.

"Jocelyn will be with us soon, if he is not already here," he said, as they approached the door. "He has a pass key."

As they entered the room the odour of a powerful cigar greeted them, and two long legs let themselves deliberately down from the back of a chair.

"Why the deuce don't you stay away altogether," began Rob; and then, seeing a stranger behind his tardy comrade, he brought himself to a standing position, and the remainder of his growl was never uttered.

"Don't grumble, old man," said Nell, laughing. "I am prepared to make amends for all your waiting. I have had an adventure, as young ladies say, and as a result I can introduce this gentleman, first of our brotherhood, Mr. Francis Ferrars."

Rob sprang forward, looking almost incredulous.

"What!" he cried. "Not the Ferrars."

"Yes, the Ferrars," replied Nell, while Ferrars laughed outright, and extended his hand.

"You need not be so much astonished," said Nell, when Rob had satisfied himself as to the identity of Ferrars. "You and Mr. Ferrars have met several times."

Both men turned astonished faces toward him.

"How do you figure that?" asked Jocelyn.

"Easily. I have your word, and his, for it. Didn't you drive a Dutch peddler from the depot recently, and didn't he request you to follow Mr. 'Brady's' carriage?"

A light began to dawn upon the countenance of Ferrars.

"Was it you who drove me that day?" he asked, turning to Rob.

"Were you the Dutchman?" asked Rob, in his turn. "Well, this is getting too deep for me!"

"We are in deep water all around," said Nell. "Let's sit down, as comfortably as we can, and begin at the beginning. First, I'll relate how I fell in with Mr. Ferrars."

They drew their chairs about a small table, upon which the host placed wine, and some prime cigars, and then he told of his encounter with Bradwardine, and its results.

"And now," he said, with a significant glance at Rob, "Mr. Ferrars tells me that he followed this rascal from England, hoping through him to obtain a clue to a woman, or two women, perhaps; and I have jumped to the conclusion that he may be in search of the very girl who dodged me so cleverly a few days ago."

"I don't quite see the probability of such a supposition," said Mr. Ferrars, removing his cigar from between his lips. "However, I intend to trust you with my story, gentlemen, relying upon you as brother detectives; and, as it dates a very long way back, it is in order to tell it before I ask from you the questions that," with a smile, "I intend to ask."

"And that will be answered, to the extent of our knowledge," said Rob Jocelyn, warmly.

"Thanks," said Francis Ferrars, and then, putting aside his cigar, he began his story, omitting nothing, save the names of his employer, and of the mother and child.

"You see, gentlemen," he concluded, "I have good cause for following this man. I have no positive proof that he knows where this woman, and the child, that must now be a young lady, may be found; but I have been his shadow for more than a month, and I believe that he holds a clue, at least, to their whereabouts."

Neither Nell Bathurst nor Rob Jocelyn spoke; they were looking at each other with troubled faces.

"My story has had a strange effect upon you, gentlemen," said Ferrars, taking up his cigar, and coolly relighting it. "Do you think my chances for finding this fugitive heiress so utterly hopeless?"

"No," answered Bathurst, seriously; "you may find her to-morrow, but—I fear you will be doomed to disappointment. You may never be permitted to remove this girl to England."

"Not permitted! and why?"

"Because, as a detective, it is my duty to arrest her for a grave crime."

"What! a crime! what crime?"

"She is accused of having murdered her husband on her wedding night."

Francis Ferrars gazed at him in speechless amazement.

"Listen," said Nell. "Like you, I will begin at the very beginning; at the very day when Rob Jocelyn arrived in this city, and this girl, who called herself Lenore Armyn, also arrived, from the little town of Fairlie."

"Then she has lived in Fairlie?"

"Yes, and her mother is buried there," replied Nell. Then he began, giving minutest incidents as they came. He told how he had met Jocelyn, and how he had left Clarence Arteveldt, sending by him an excuse for not appearing at the Ruthvens. Next, how he had blundered upon Rob, disguised and lying in wait for a man whom he had known for a rascal in London. He told how they had separadted, Rob following the man whom they afterward found to be Jason Bradwardine, and himself strolling away at random, to come unexpectedly upon the woman, who had left Bradwardine only to encounter the assassin's knife. Then he described the scene in the disreputable house; told of the finding of the wallet, and how by investigating its contents, they had assured themselves that this man, "Brady," as he called himself, Bradwardine, as they believed him to be, was bent on mischief.

"I will show you this wallet," Nell said, when he had reached this point in his review, "but I don't think you will need its testimony before you become convinced that Lenore Armyn Arteveldt is the child who stands between Bradwardine and his fortune. We knew that the man had an evil motive, and your revelation has told us what the motive was. But to proceed."

He refreshed himself from his wine-glass, and then went on with his recital; telling next how Bradwardine had advertised for a female detective, and how he, Nell, had presented himself in answer; how since, as Mrs. O'Neil, he had kept the woman who had stolen the wallet from falling into Bradwardine's hands; at the same time deluding him with the belief that a vigorous search for her was being prosecuted.

"I may as well state, just here, that I had befriended the woman, partly from pity, and partly because I believed that, sooner or latter, such a woman could be of service to me. I have kept posted concerning her ever since, and when she left the hospital assisted her to find a safe and quiet place, where she could remain and await further developments. I was on my way to see her, to-day, having found a use for her, when we encountered Bradwardine, and it was she whom the villain was trying to arrest, when you and I, Ferrars, met so opportunely."

"Good Lord!" exclaimed Rob, "how things do come about! Where did you leave off, Nell?"

"I left off where you began," replied Nell, taking up a cigar and preparing to light it. "Please relate your experience while tracking Bradwardine and his game from Elm Valley to Fairlie."

"That does come next," said Rob, reflectively; and then, in his quaint, graphic way, he described his journey to Elm Valley, to look up facts concerning "Madame Bourne," and his subsequent pursuit of Bradwardine to Fairlie, together with the discoveries he had made there. Here he paused, and Ferrars broke in, with more excitement than he had hitherto manifested:—

"I am thoroughly convinced already that this girl, this Lenore Armyn, is none other than the heiress of whom I am in search. The description of the mother, of the girl herself, every detail concerning them, goes to prove it in my eyes. Continue, Brother Detective; what transpired after you had discovered these things at Fairlie, while playing the part of census-taker?"

"What next occurred, I must tell," said Bathurst, "and now comes the darkest part of this strange complication."

Beginning with the morning when Rob Jocelyn left him to start unexpectedly in pursuit of Bradwardine, Nell detailed the conversation between himself and Rob, when he had told him how, because of going to shadow counterfeiters at "Mike's," he had missed the wedding of Clarence Arteveldt and Lenore Armyn. Then he related how he had been summoned to the house of his murdered friend; described the scenes enacted there on the wedding night; the anathema and flight of Lenore; the after tragedy; the accusation against the fugitive bride; the testimony against her; and how, in his pursuit of her, he had visited Fairlie, and learned, to his unbounded astonishment, that Lenore Armyn and the mysterious daughter of the still more mysterious Madame Bourne were one and the same. Finally he related his experience as a medical student; his discovery and sudden flitting to the city; his visit to the asylum, and the manner in which he supposed the girl had escaped him.

"And for the remainder," he concluded, "we may as well compare notes."

They were silent for a time, and then Francis Ferrars said, turning with a slight smile toward Nell:—

"And so you were the medical student?"

"Yes, and 'Bless my heart,' as Doctor Austin would say, why, you were Peterkin the peddler. Well! you sold me!"

"I believe I did sell you some small articles," replied Ferrars, demurely. "So that is what took you off in such a hurry! And it must have been the news of the flight from the asylum that brought the good doctor to town a few days later. I will tell you how we came, as that is next in order."

Among all the mocking horrors of chronic indigestion and liver complaint, none is more unbearable than that dreadful sensation of giddiness in which the whole world, indoors or out, seems to swim around before the sight in the most sickening and nauseating manner until one's entire being becomes faint and wretched with indescribable misery.

"I was suffering with what the doctors called chronic indigestion, torpid liver, and vertigo," writes Mrs. Martha E. Barham, of Newville, Prince George Co., Va. "The doctor did me no good. My symptoms were giddiness in the head, pains in the chest and an uneasy feeling all over. I also suffered with female weakness.

"I was all run-down and could not do any work at all without suffering from nervous attacks. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for advice. He advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I did so, and used five bottles of each, and I cannot express the benefit I have received from these medicines. I gained in health and strength. When I commenced to use the medicines I weighed only 118 pounds, now I weigh 140 pounds. I thank God and Dr. Pierce for my recovery. My husband and friends all thought I would die but to-day I am a well woman."

The wonderful effects of this great "Discovery" are genuine and permanent; they are not due to any false or alcoholic stimulus for it contains no alcohol. Real substantial healthy muscular strength is built up; the stomach and liver are toned; the blood is purified and vitalized; the nerves are steadied; the entire constitution is rejuvenated and renewed.

In case of constipation, there is nothing quite so effective as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They act comfortably though surely; they do not gripe; you do not become a slave to their use. Their effect is lasting. There are countless substitutes; but nothing else is like them.

A bad back is a common ailment. Find it in every household. Old and young alike have backache; comes in many forms. A bad back may be a tired, a lame, a weak or an aching one. Makes no difference which it is. Nine times out of ten the back is bad from one cause. Most backache pains come from disordered kidneys, that's why DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS cure a bad back. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS are made for Kidneys only. Not a drug in them for anything else. No effort to cure all the ills of humanity. A specialist for a special purpose. MONCTON, N.B.

MR. L. J. MELANSON, an I.C.R. employee, living on Robinson St., Moncton, N.B., made the following statement:

"My kidney troubles were fast developing into more serious forms. Beginning with a backache the troubles gradually got worse until I feared that dreadful disease—diabetes. I lost no time experimenting with remedies, but acting on the advice of friends who had tested Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box. Inside of two weeks my back was free from pain and I felt like a new man.

"The trouble arose from a strain, and I have ever since been bothered with a pain in the small of my back. I am glad to testify to the effectiveness of Doan's Kidney Pills, for before I took them I could not stoop to lace my shoes, so intense was the pain and stiffness. I am now quite supple and consider Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me completely."

OTTAWA, ONT.

MR. THOS. McBRIDE, the well-known lithographer, 299 Sparks Street, Ottawa, Ont., says:

"I have been a sufferer for some years with pains across my back and in my side. I suffered from tired feeling almost continuously, and was so bad that at times I could hardly attend to business.

"I have taken numerous patent medicines but got no permanent relief. Latterly a friend of mine who had been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills told me to try them, and I got a box at MacCarthy's drug store.

"From the first I experienced great relief, and although it is only four weeks since I commenced taking them I have now not an ache or pain, and am feeling bright and vigorous. I can recommend them very highly to anyone suffering as I did."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale at all drug stores, 50 cents a box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

INTOLERABLE ITCHING

Eczema All Over Head and Face. Two Doctors, No Benefit.

Tried CUTICURA REMEDIES with Rapid Cure.

I was troubled several years with cutaneous diseases which developed into chronic Eczema, which spread all over my head, and down on my face. I took medical treatment from two doctors and received but little relief. Then I tried several lotions, etc., which we had in the store, but only received little relief from them. At times, the dreadful itching became almost intolerable. When I was heated, the Eczema became painful, and almost distracted me. I was advised to try CUTICURA REMEDIES and did so, and found them all that is claimed for them. The Eczema rapidly disappeared, and I am well, with no trace of any cutaneous disease. Shall always recommend CUTICURA to all.

Baby Scratched Continually

Our babe, two months old, broke out in sores over her face and ears. She seemed to be in great misery, and would scratch continually. I noticed your advertisement in our home paper, and supposed it would be a good thing for our Sadie. I used the CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP, and they were a great benefit to her. I did not like to give medicine inwardly to a child so young, but saw that she must have something to drive the disease out, so I got a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, to purify her blood, and gave her about one third of the bottle, and your medicines have done wonders for her.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

meeting it was proposed that we should make a special study of mission work in India, and many excellent papers have been read during the year.

Miss Forsythe was our delegate to the annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society held in Port Hope, and Mrs. Potter and Miss Forsythe attended the annual meeting of the General Society in Toronto.

In August, a box, containing six quilts, new clothing and a number of useful articles, was sent to the Indian School, Alberni, B.C. valued at $23.

In September, Dr. Margaret O'Hara addressed a union meeting of this society and St. Paul's, when she gave an interesting account of her mission work in India.

In October a social was held at Mrs. Porter's.

In November Rev. Mr. McWilliams gave an address on missions. Proceeds of both towards the funds of the society.

Our thanks are due to one young man in the congregation who gave a voluntary contribution, also to several of the boys who contributed by mite boxes.

F. TULLY,
Secretary.

The report was adopted.

BOYS' BRIGADE.

Rev. Mr. Potter presented the report of the Boys' Brigade as follows:—"During the year the Boys' Brigade has done good work. The members who were determined to make it helpful to themselves have remained faithful to drill and instruction. Since October the time limit for drill is one half hour, after which the boys engage in recreation and reading."

The report was adopted.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD.

Mr. Peter Kerr reported for the Young Men's Guild, as appended:—"In September last, the young men of St. Andrew's felt the need of organizing themselves for work in connection with the services of the church, and being desirous of getting into close touch with each other it was decided to form the "Guild" and hold regular monthly meetings. A programme is arranged for each meeting. The society has already been a great help to the members.

"The Guild provided a number of copies of the Book of Praise for the use of strangers, and has in print welcome cards, which will be freely used.

"We express our thanks to Mr. Thos. Petrie and Mr. John Cameron for the abundant supply of evergreens for church decorations, and to Mr. T. Fitzgerald for use of rig.

"Since organization the receipts have been $18.20; expenditures, $15.14; balance on hand, $3.06."

The report was adopted.

THE MISSION BAND.

Rev. Mr. Potter reported for St. Andrew's Mission Band as follows:

"In presenting our first annual report we would express gratitude to our Heavenly Father for the measure of success that has attended our work. Twelve regular meetings have been held, all of which have been of a very interesting and we trust helpful nature. The attendance throughout the year has been good, our thank-offering meeting in November being the largest of the year. The members have done much to make the meetings a success, in being ever willing and ready to prepare a programme for each meeting, and have had abundance of missionary news that has proved very helpful.

"The total receipts for the year amounted to $25.80, with expenses of $5.25, leaving $20.55 for our Missionary Society."

Messrs. Dr. R. W. Bell and Mr. A. Macfarlane were re-elected to the Board of Managers.

Mr. J. D. Tully was re-elected representative on the Nicholls Hospital Board.

Mr. Wm. Fowler was re-elected representative on the Charity Board.

Dr. R. W. Bell, on behalf of the representatives on the Hall Trust, gave a very interesting report of the work this Trust is doing for the town.

On motion of Mr. Geo. Edmison, it was unanimously agreed that the sessions be directed to convey to Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison, of Grenville, Man., the profound sorrow of this congregation at the very sad news concerning the loss of six of their children by diphtheria. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were connected with St. Andrew's for some years till their departure last July.

Thanks were then tendered Mr. C. S. Mallett for his great interest in the Sabbath school entertainment at Xmas, and also to the excellent staff of teachers.

Thanks were expressed to the choir for their self sacrificing and devoted spirit in connection with the praise service of the church.

Votes of thanks were also extended to the ladies of the congregation for their kindness in providing tea.

The pastor expressed the great pleasure it had given him to preside at the meeting, and said that he appreciated very much the kind Christian spirit that had prevailed throughout the meeting. He had not remembered an annual meeting in his ministry where there was such good will and Christian feeling shown even in difference of opinion.

The meeting concluded with the Doxology and benediction.

The choir of St. Andrew's church are arranging for the event of the year to take place on Tuesday, January 31st. The services of Prof. D. G. S. Connery, of the famous Irish school of education have been procured. Some of the best local musical talent have kindly agreed to render assistance.

THE MEANING OF CHEMONG.

Mr. Dan Whetung Explains its Significance.

Mr. Dan Whetung writes the EXAMINER to this effect: "We have a new post office here now called Chemong. Mr. Fobert might say that we have taken the name of his hotel. But we have not done so without good right, for the Indian village and vicinity is the proper place for the name, owing to the shape of the lake in this vicinity. It was called Chemong before there was a hotel or a place like Bridgenorth or before any white settlers had invaded the original home of the Indians. The meaning of Chemong is bent or crooked lake which just fits the shape of the village. The proper and original way of spelling the Chippewa word is O-ske-kemong.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Olive of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day to day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle, every bottle guaranteed, at any Drug Store.

Out of Death's Shadow.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A LADY WHO HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

Tortured With Pains in the Stomach for four Years—Doctors and Hospital Treatment Failed to Help Her—In her Extremity Dr. Williams Pink Pills Restored her to Health.

From the Pembroke Observer.

Wherever man is to be found there also, side by side with him, is disease and suffering. Those who have devoted their lives to the alleviation of the suffering and bodily weakness of human organization are surely benefactors of their kind and deserve the praise of all mankind. For special honors in this line may be pointed out the discoverer of that wonderful remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Recently the case of Mrs. Maggie Brunette, of Chichester, Que., came prominently under the notice of the Observer reporter. He felt it to be his duty, on hearing of Mrs. Brunette's restoration from prostrate illness to health, to interview the lady and record her experience for the benefit of others who may need the healing influences of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Mrs. Brunette's farm home was found to be very comfortable and even elegant, located near the base of an immense hill, an outguard of the Laurentian Mountains. The reporter was warmly welcomed and Mrs. Brunette said she was very glad to have an opportunity to testify to the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had conferred upon her. She is 42 years of age now. Her husband, the late Chas. Brunette, died 14 years ago, and after his death she worked very hard for some years, with the result that she became completely run down, so much so that, although quite tall, she weighed only about 90 pounds. After taking the slightest food she felt such distress that she was compelled to lie down for hours, being so weak that she was unable to sit up. At last she thought she must have been attacked by cancer of the stomach, so violent were the pains that constantly harassed her. She consulted the best physicians and spent more than a hundred dollars in treatment and medicine, in addition to which she spent nine weeks in the hospital at Pembroke. But withal she was ill four years and despaired of ever being well. Finally she decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and accordingly she procured six boxes. Although they benefitted her almost from the the time she began taking them, she kept on taking the pills until she had taken sixteen boxes, and then felt that she was completely cured, the pills accomplishing in three months what four years of medical treatment had failed to do. From that time, three years ago, Mrs. Brunette has been in good health, needing no medicine. "You can see," said Mrs. Brunette, as the reporter was departing "that I am in perfect health, I attend to all my household work and the dairy and poultry, and have a large number of cows to milk. I never fail to say a good word for Dr Williams' Pink Pills when I have an opportunity, for they did wonderful things for me." Mrs. Brunette is a well educated lady, speaking French and English fluently.

HARD CASH IS WANTED

For Division Among the Breton Fisher Folk.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND QUESTION

M. Radiguet's Idea of an Appeal to Celtic Race the World Over in Behalf of Unhappy Celts of Northwestern France—French Shore Question Through Breton Eyes.

Paris, Jan. 23.—Delegates from Brittany and Normandy are now in Paris, bothering the more than usually distracted Foreign Minister about the French shore question. In this matter the Bretons regard the rest of France as foreigners engaged in a shameful conspiracy against them. The abrogation of the French treaty rights in Newfoundland would, it is asserted, ruin thousands of Breton families, and any compensation given by England would be diverted into channels away from the real sufferers. The Bretons want the compensation to take the attractive, tangible form of hard cash, which can be comfortably divided among the Breton fisher folk. M. Radiguet, a Breton, now in Paris, has conceived the idea of appealing to the Celtic race all over the world in behalf of the unhappy Celts in northwestern France. He denounces Ambassador Cambon as "the agent of Latin decay and the enemy of the Celtic race," and suggests that, if there is to be a deal over the French shore business, it should be made after a decision between the British Government and a delegation of elected bodies of Brittany and Normandy, "in order to prevent the official thieves of Paris from having an opportunity of robbing our population of the indemnity which may be granted them."

Unfortunately for the Bretons, their representatives in the Chamber of Deputies have little influence, and will be unable to divert the course of the French policy, which is to obtain compensation for giving up the French shore rights in Siam or Africa, or both.

A STRONG SEISMIC SHAKE

Destroys Whole Villages in the Southern Part of Greece—Many People Homeless in Consequence.

Athens, Jan. 23.—A strong seismic disturbance was felt yesterday morning about half-past 9 o'clock throughout the Peloponnesus (the southern portion of the Kingdom of Greece), especially in the southwestern departments of the peninsula. All the houses in the town of Philiatra, in the department of Messenia, on the Ionian coast, have been damaged, and the inhabitants are now camping out in the suburbs. Two villages in the vicinity of Philiatra were completely destroyed, many people being slightly injured.

The villages of Kyparissia and Stase were also practically destroyed, though it is not known as yet whether there were any victims there. Much damage to property was done at Navarino, a seaport six miles north of Modon, whose harbor witnessed the victory of the English, French and Russian fleets over those of the Turks and Egyptians in 1827; and considerable damage is reported from Galamata, capital of the department of Messenia, near the head of the Gulf of Koron.

The shock was severely felt in the district of Zante, capital of the Ionian island of that name, but there was no loss of life or property there. Many slighter shocks have occurred during the day, and the people at numerous towns and villages are afraid to return to their homes. The authorities are doing all in their power to furnish tents and supplies.

CHINESE ENDORSE BERESFORD.

Reforms Are Necessary and the Open Door Should Be Maintained.

London, Jan. 23.—The Hongkong correspondent of The Times says: "A crowded meeting of the leading commercial Chinese, held at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce yesterday, unanimously approved the views recently expressed here by Lord Charles Beresford as to the necessity for reform, the maintenance of the "open door," and the reorganization of the army and navy under British officers. It was a spontaneous Chinese meeting, unprompted by foreigners, and was, therefore, highly significant."

THE HOOLEY CASE.

The "Promoter" May Yet Get Two Years Within a Dungeon Cell—Sample Rascalities.

London, Jan. 23.—The official report in the Hooley bankruptcy case has given equal surprise and satisfaction, for the public doubted whether the receiver would have the courage to indulge in absolute plain speaking in the matter. His charge of fraud, if proved, renders Hooley liable to two years' imprisonment, with hard labor. Moreover, according to the bankruptcy law, the official receiver's report is in itself prima facie evidence of the statements therein contained. The only possible sequel is the committal of Hooley for trial before a judge and jury on the Beeston pneumatic tire deal indictment.

In this case Hooley bought 96,000 shares of the stock of the concern. On the same day the capital of the company was raised from £30,000 to £70,000 by the creation of 40,000 £1 shares. Hooley then made the startling offer to buy up the company on the basis of £8 a share. The directors made the offer public, but sent letters and telegrams to the shareholders urging them not to sell, on the ground that the company was doing an enormous business. The shares rose to £7. The offer was eventually refused, but during the excitement Hooley was unloading his shares at the top price. A net profit was made of £89,501 by what the receiver calls fraudulent rigging of the market, the allegation being that Hooley and the directors were acting in collusion. The receiver says that Directors Lawson and Bradshaw took half the net profit and Hooley the remainder. He further charges that Hooley destroyed every trace of the transaction, including books and cheques.

There has been talk of an application to Parliament for a Government enquiry into Hooley's allegations, made last autumn. There is no doubt now that an effort was made by the public prosecutor to sift by means of a criminal trial the whole business.

The report asserts that Hooley paid £511,000 on the "front page dressing" of prospectuses of his cycle companies, and, altogether, expended £1,000,000 for promotion expenses. He spent £51,978 in ostentatious charity in the same 12 months in which he lost £300,000 The public is now waiting to know how some of his associates can be compelled to disgorge their huge illegal gains.

SLAP AT THE BRITISH ARMY.

Broad Arrow Tells of Prejudiced Reports Put in by Superiors.

London, Jan. 23.—The leading organ of the army, The Broad Arrow, publishes an article this week which has given a shock to people here who have lifted up their hands in pious horror at the French military shortcomings, as revealed by the Dreyfus affair. The Broad Arrow draws an analogy between the system of the confidential reports of the British army and the French secret dossiers, and says the British system is a "grievous blot on the military administration, which results in confidential reports being in many cases a mere travesty of justice."

The Broad Arrow explains that commanding officers are empowered to make reports which reflect on junior officers, and influence the War Office in its selection for promotion, without the sufferers being informed of the reasons, and says: "The effects of prejudiced reports are often most disastrous to the officer's prospects. La Chose Jugee is regarded as a fetich. A particular case in point has been thus far smothered, but we are informed that the facts will sooner or later be published in the press, which will not leave a doubt that flagrant injustice has actually been committed. The secret archives of the War Department could tell tales of careers blasted on absolutely unreliable evidence, contradictory proof of which has been in the hands of the authorities, who, in order to avoid a scandal, resisted all endeavors upon the part of the victim for a fair investigation."

ICE BRIDGE PERILS.

Narrow Escape of a Young Couple During a "Shove."

THE ICE MASS MOVED 400 YARDS

Another Niagara Danger Encountered by the Canadian River Ferry—Caught in an Ice Floe, the Niagara Was Swept Down the River Under the International Bridge—Marvellous Escape.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 23.—The ice bridge of 1899 will go down in the history of Niagara as being the greatest ice jam ever known. The past few days the flow of ice over both falls has been tremendous, piling up mountains high in the basin below the falls.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, from the effect of the water and ice pouring over the falls, and not enough space below the ice to allow it to escape, the great force of the water bodily lifted the billions of tons of ice and moved it down the river 400 yards. At the time about a dozen people were on the bridge and with a hasty scramble all made good their escape on the American side, except a young lady and her escort, who were carried down with the shift for 400 yards and landed near the outlet of the tunnel on the American side, and were unable to make a landing. There being several feet of water between where they were and the shore, they had to make their way across the ice jam to the Canadian side, which was a very hazardous and dangerous trip and was witnessed by the thousands of excited people that lined both banks and bridges. The two young people were C. E. Misener of Buffalo, N.Y., and Miss Bessie Hall of Johnsonburg, Pa.

The Maid of the Mist docks, ticket office and sheds are completed wrecked by the ice, which has buried them out of sight. The loss will be several thousand dollars.

THE WAY TO DEATH.

Ferry Niagara's Narrow Escape From Going Over Niagara Falls—An Anxious Time for Passengers.

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 23.—Locked in a monstrous ice floe, the Canadian ferry Niagara, with 19 persons on board, was swept helplessly down the Niagara River on Saturday night and wrecked on the International Bridge.

The boat, which plies between the city and Fort Erie, Ont., left her dock at the foot of Ferry street in the early evening, on her last trip of the day, having on board 15 passengers, six of whom were women, and two children. Her crew consisted of four men. The river was full of floating ice that drifted in from the lake, but the boat headed diagonally against the current and made her way to the centre of the stream. Here she became imbedded in a great field of ice, and her engines were powerless to propel her. The current at this point is exceedingly swift and the momentum of the ice field carried the ferry with it in spite of the furious working of her engines.

The passengers, realizing their situation, were horror-stricken with the fear of being carried over the falls, and the more imminent danger of being dashed against a pier of the International Bridge. The calls of the ferry whistle attracted attention from shore and fire tugs were started from the harbor a mile above to endeavor to rescue the helpless craft.

The passengers and crew of the Niagara put on life-preservers, and stood with blanched faces while she swept on with the current. River navigation being closed, the draws of the International Bridge are inoperative and the swinging engines dead. It was obvious that the upper works of the boat could not clear the span, but the great menace was the piers of solid masonry. The current favored the boat and swept her between the span and a little to the east of the centre of the river. The iron girders of the bridge raked the boat clean to her second deck, carrying away smokestack, pilot house, hurricane deck and life boats, without perceptibly impeding her progress. The passengers and crew were below deck and escaped injury from the wreckage. Swinging clear of the bridge, the Niagara broke free from the ice field and drifted into a patch of clear water. A handgear was attached to the rudder, the engines, which proved to be uninjured, resumed their functions, and the dismembered craft was slowly worked to a dock on the American shore.

Dundurn to Be Closed.

Hamilton, Jan. 23.—The announcement is made that Senator MacInnes has decided to close Dundurn Park, and will not lease it for any public purpose. For some years Mr. William Stroud has had a lease of the park, a portion of which he converted into a baseball ground. Besides the ball games, Dundurn was used frequently for celebrations and fetes, and its closing will be regretted by those who had such affairs in hand, and the general public, for there is no other park in or near the city that is the equal of Dundurn. Years ago the city had the opportunity to buy the park and castle for a reasonable amount, but refused.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THERE is no such thing as satisfying some people, and the editor of the Review seems to be one of that class. The Postmaster-General, Mr. Mulock, took charge of a department that was running behind under Conservative rule and management to the amount of seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year, which sum was being parcelled out to Conservatives all over the country for carrying the mails without tender. Mr. Mulock applied business principles to the departmental business, with what result? First, that the department was made to run itself; increased the mail service to the public, and kept practically within its income. Second, when in England Mr. Mulock brought about Imperial Penny Postage, thereby reducing the postage on letters sent to any part of the British Empire to two cents, instead of five cents as heretofore. Third, he has given to the people of Canada a two-cent postage rate, saving one cent on each letter mailed by the people of Canada in Canada, and to the United States, thereby saving hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the people. Mr. Mulock has just done what the people of Canada desired him to do, and they appreciate it, and this latter is what our contemporary fears. He has reformed his department—the people have all the advantages. The Review must have a very low estimate of the intelligence of its readers when the editor writes such twaddle as appeared in Saturday's issue.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE ADDITIONAL MEETINGS

HELD IN BRIDGENORTH FRIDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Amongst the Speakers Were Messrs. A. C. Holman, New Dundee; J. E. Orr, Fruitland; W. C. Wilson and G. J. Galvin.

Supplementary meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute were held at Bridgenorth hall Friday afternoon and evening. The gatherings were very successful and highly interesting, although, owing to a number of causes, including the prevalence of la grippe and the holding of other attractions in the vicinity the attendance was not large. The chief speakers were Messrs. A. C. Holman, of New Dundee; J. E. Orr, of Fruitland; W. C. Wilson and G. J. Galvin.

At the afternoon meeting the secretary read a letter from Mr. E. M. Elliott, president, regretting that owing to an attack of la grippe he would be unable to be present, and expressing the hope that the meetings would be as successful and be spirited as on previous occasions.

It was then moved by Mr. W. Collins, seconded by Mr. John Telford, that Mr. G. W. Mann occupy the chair.—Carried.

The first speaker was Mr. A. C. Halman, whose address was on the important subject of "The Breeding and care of Dairy Cattle." He gave a description of the proper dairy cow, pointing out the distinctive qualities which such an animal should possess, and pointed out the proper way of developing her by judicious breeding. Care should be taken from the very beginning, and the speaker showed how to feed and care for the calves and how this care in feeding and protecting the animals should be kept up until the animal is ready to take its place in the herd. He gave the best kind of food to develop the growth of a calf so that she may come in at two or two and a half years old. He showed the necessity of kind treatment and the great importance of regular feeding and milking. The speaker advised feeding bran or some such feed to growing cattle when the pasture is short. In his address the speaker used a chart from a photograph of the celebrated Holstein cow, Calamity Jane, the great sweepstake winner in the dairy tests for the last three years, to demonstrate the correct type of a dairy cow and to show her points of superiority.

Mr. J. E. Orr spoke next on the subject of the San Jose scale, which has attracted so much attention of late years. He quoted the highest American authorities on the great danger of the pest, owing to its enormous power of reproduction and gave a full description of the scale in order that his hearers might be able to recognize and destroy it.

Mr. G. J. Galvin gave a splendid address on "Turnip Culture." He dealt largely with the preparation of the soil. He advised that sowing take place in June from about the 20th to the 30th, and gave several excellent reasons why it should not be done earlier.

All the addresses brought forth a lively discussion from the farmers present, which shows that those who do attend the meetings are taking a great interest in the subjects brought before them, subjects in which they are so directly interested. Such an exchange of ideas and experience must be productive of many benefits.

By request Mr. Halman gave an address on the "Ideal Bacon Hog" (illustrated). He described the kind of hogs required by the packers for the British market and showed the importance and necessity of the farmers raising suitable animals.

EVENING MEETING.

The sessions were resumed in the evening with a considerably larger attendance. Mr. G. W. Mann again presided and opened the meeting with a few general remarks. Mr. Halman first addressed the audience on the subject of "Clover Culture." He commenced by emphasizing the importance of growing clover and showed its many valuable qualities. He recommended Lucerne or Alfalfa on account of superior pasturing qualities.

Mr. W. C. Wilson read a paper on "Agriculture in the Public Schools." It read as follows:

The question of whether agriculture, or, more properly speaking, the sciences bearing on agriculture, should form a branch of study in our Public schools, is one of very great importance, not only to teachers, but to the members of every farming community. The farmers are the backbone of the country, and during the last few years their occupation has developed into a profession. The end and aim of education is to fit the youths of our land for the duties of after life; then should not those boys and girls who are going to spend their time on the farm receive instruction that will enable them to perform their duties to better advantage as well as those who are to enter other professions? Pupils of the Public school spend years in the study of history, geography and grammar, which are of comparatively little practical value, while no attention whatever is paid to agriculture. It is true the subject is on our curriculum of studies to-day, but it is optional with the trustees and teachers whether they teach it or not, and in the face of the continual grind to which pupils are subjected in preparing for the several examinations, very little can be done with a subject of this kind.

At present there are already far too many studies on our Public school curriculum, and if our Minister of Education adds this one to the list, as he apparently intends to do, it can end in nothing but a miserable failure. But would it not be advisable to substitute agriculture for some of those that are of far less importance? Surely it would be more useful to have a knowledge of the common things around us, such as plants, soils, minerals, etc.; to know something about animal and vegetable life, and to obtain an elementary idea of those sciences bearing on agriculture and horticulture than to cram the mind with studies of much less practical value.

If this were done the instruction might be made not only useful and valuable, but exceedingly interesting, and would go far to liven the dull routine of school life. And what would be even still more important, it would prepare the pupils to study such objects more intelligently and to carry on investigation to much better advantage when they come face to face with the difficulty of successfully managing a farm.

We have, it is true, an Agricultural College, where a thorough and systematic agricultural education may be acquired, but after all only a very limited number of our farmers' sons can, for various reasons take advantage of this. The vast majority of our boys never get past the common school. It is there that the study must begin.

The time has come when the old slip shod methods of farming must be discarded, and, if Canada is going to hold her place, she must have young men of expert knowledge specially educated for the farm.

We are living in an age of the keenest competition, and the future will demand our best efforts if we are to keep pace with the rest of the world in the advance of agriculture. The governments of all civilised countries are continually paying more and more attention to agricultural education. Can we, as Canadians anxious for the advancement of our fair Dominion, afford to lag in the race?

Mr. James Jopling next gave a pleasant recitation entitled "Eagle's Rock."

Mr. J. E. Orr spoke next on Fungi, or some of the insects which attack our trees and plants. He divided the insects into two classes, suctorial and masticatorial, showed the difference between these, pointed out the ravages made by them, and described the different emulsions used to destroy them. He described the proper time and method of spraying to kill the fungi, but pointed out that regular pruning was also necessary.

This was the last address, and on motion of Mr. Thos. Telford, seconded by Mr. Nurse, the thanks of the meeting were tendered the speakers for their instructive addresses.

Has Been Missing Since Jan. 2 and His Wife Is Anxious.

Owen Sound, Jan. 28.—The local police authorities have been asked to assist in locating the whereabouts of a man named Cousineaux, who mysteriously disappeared on Jan. 2. Cousineaux came here with his wife and two children from Wiarton about two months ago. He is a man of good education and had been employed for some years with the Toronto Paper Company. He was afterwards engaged by the Oxygenator Company to come here and act as agent to sell the company's medicines. When last seen he was driving towards Chatsworth, and nothing has been heard of him since. Cousineaux's wife soon became anxious about his safety and called in the aid of the police.

Shot and Killed His Son-in-Law.

New York, Jan. 28.—Nuncio Salvatore was locked up in the Second Precinct Police Station in Newark on Saturday accused of homicide. Friday night he shot and killed his young daughter's husband. Frank Mareno, the dead man, was beating his wife, as he often had done before, when her father interfered and sent a bullet into his son-in-law's heart.

"That's the end of the most dangerous man in the precinct," said the police when they heard of the tragedy.

The Joint High Commission.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The joint American-Canadian commission on Saturday had under consideration the Alaskan boundary question, but, without reaching a decision concerning it, adjourned until next Tuesday. The adjournment over Monday was for the purpose of giving the sub-commissions on the Behring Sea fisheries and on bonds, canals and transportation an opportunity for a meeting Monday.

Nicaragua Canal Bill Passed.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The Senate passed the Nicaragua Canal bill at 2.42 p.m. on Saturday without taking a vote.

By unanimous consent agreement for a reconsideration of the passage of the Nicaragua Canal bill was allowed in order that a yea and nay vote might be taken, and the bill was passed 48 to 6.

Wolves are reported to be doing a good deal of damage in some parts of Manitoba.

Whisky-drinkers in Hamilton are setting up a wail. On Feb. 1 the price per drink will be 10c.

Mr. George Gooderham of Toronto says he has not sold his interest in the Excelsior Life Insurance Company to Mr. George A. Cox, and that he has not made any arrangements with Mr. Cox with regard thereto, nor are there any pending.

A man named Thomas Falconer attempted to disrobe in St. Mary's Church, Toronto, at the Sunday night service in full view of the congregation. After a struggle he was lodged in the cells by a policeman. It is thought he is demented, as he was perfectly sober.

Three unknown men attacked Joseph Samme at the King-Sherbourne street junction in Toronto on Sunday night, and wounded him so badly with a razor and sword-bayonet that he will be a month laid up. One cut took twelve stitches to close. No trace of his assailants has been found.

Hiram Walker's will was filed for probate at Detroit on Saturday. It bequeaths to the Children's Free Hospital seven-eighths of his estate, real and personal; to Harper Hospital the other eighth, to be used by said hospitals for the care and maintenance of the worthy sick poor. The property is valued at $100,000.

The Crescent Athletic Club on Saturday matched Joe Gans, the celebrated colored lightweight of Baltimore, and Martin Judge of Philadelphia to box 20 rounds in the Pavilion, Toronto, next Saturday night. Bobby Thompson, the bicyclist of Toronto, and Denny Gallagher of Texas meet in a 10-round preliminary.

The commission from Glasgow had a conference with President McKinley at Washington on Saturday and invited him to be present at the opening of the Glasgow World's Fair in 1901. They ask that the exhibits sent to the Paris show from the United States be sent from the French capital to Glasgow without returning them to America.

There is a lack of detailed information regarding the late trouble at Apia, Samoan Islands, and, while there appears to have been a mistake of judgment on the part of the German consul, it is probable that full explanations will dissipate the clouds that have gathered. At Washington it is now assumed that the trouble has passed the acute stage, and that it will be adjusted satisfactorily.

That Throbbing Headache

An Enemy's Courtesy.

When the crusaders under King Richard of England defeated the Saracens, the sultan, seeing his troops fly, asked what was the number of the Christians who were making all this slaughter? He was told that it was only King Richard and his men, and that they were all on foot.

"Then," said the sultan, "God forbid that such a noble fellow as King Richard should march on foot," and sent him a noble charger.

The messenger took it and said:

"Sire, the sultan sends you this charger that you may not be on foot."

The king was as cunning as his enemy and ordered one of his squires to mount the horse in order to try him. The squire obeyed, but the animal proved fiery, and the squire, being unable to hold him in, he set off at full speed to the sultan's pavilion. The sultan expected he had got King Richard and was not a little mortified to discover his mistake.—Nuggets.

Easily Understood.

I am reminded indirectly of an anecdote in Senor Carolino's "New Guide of the Conversation in Portuguese and English:"

"A physician 80 years of age had enjoyed of a health unalterable. Theirs friends did him of it compliments every days.

"'Mister Doctor,' they said to him, 'you are admirable man. What you make these for to bear you as well?'

"'I shall tell you it, gentlemen,' he was answered them, 'and I exhort you in same time at to follow my example. I live of the product of my ordering, without take any remedy who I command to my sicks.'"—Boston Budget.

Of course you don't; so you should take Scott's Emulsion. It is a fact this remedy cures it; and it cures nervousness, nerve debility and insomnia also.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Means.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

Send for valuable little book on stomach diseases by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Mar. hall, Mich. All druggists sell full-sized packages at 50 cents. Prof. Henry W. Public Secretary for the St. Louis School Patrons' Association, and the District Conference of Stewards of the M.E. church; also takes an active part in the work of the Epworth League, and to write on religious and educational topics for several magazines. How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

HOW PLANTS SPREAD.

They Have Ways of Their Own for Getting Over the Ground.

The dandelion is an Old World flower not native in America, save far to the north and on some of the highest of our Western mountains. But somehow, it was brought here, perhaps from England in old colonial times, says "St. Nicholas." Now we see its golden heads and feathery balls at every grassy roadside, the "clocks" the boys and girls blow to tell the hour. A few years ago farmers in the Northwest found a new weed, a vile, prickly weed, in their wheat fields. In a very short time this weed, the Russian thistle, has spread over wide areas of the best farm land in that part of the country, and has done great injury to the crops.

How do these plants spread so fast and so far? They are not carried about and planted. No one would be so foolish as to sow Russian thistles. The mother plant must have ways of her own for sending her offspring abroad into the world. Plants propagate themselves in two ways, from seed or from buds. Sometimes these buds are borne on slender runners. A strawberry plant, after it has blossomed, begins to send out such runners, with buds, unfolding tufts of leaves, along them. These tufts are at first connected with the parent plant, but later the runners between break away, and each tuft becomes a new plant. Many grasses, like Bermuda grass and the troublesome quick or couch grass, have creeping stems, each point sending out a bunch of roots below and a bud on the upper side. If you try to hoe up such grasses, you only make matters worse, for each point when cut off is ready to form an independent plant. Such grasses spread very fast, and soon take possession of the land they get into.

THE SCHEME GOES.

The Hamlins Started the Ball Rolling and $427,000 Was Pledged for Pan-American Exhibition.

Buffalo, Jan. 28.—A banquet was tendered Mayor Diehl at the Hotel Iroquois on Saturday night by the incorporators of the Pan-American Exposition, which it is proposed to hold in this city in 1901. Over 300 representative business men were in attendance. During the evening it was announced that William Hamlin had agreed to pay $5,000 cash for the first ticket of admission to the exposition. C. J. Hamlin, the veteran horseman, offered a similar sum for the second ticket, and his son, Harry, repeated the offer for ticket No. 3. Then followed a perfect flood of subscriptions, and in two hours $427,000 had been raised, and enough more pledged to bring the amount up to an even $500,000. This assures the carrying out of the scheme, as Congress is already pledged to a large appropriation. The idea of holding the exposition on Cayuga Island, on the Niagara River, has been abandoned, and a site in close proximity to the city is to be selected.

ONE MORE WIN FOR THE COLTS.

They Now Enter the Third Round of the Series.

THE FINAL SCORE WAS 15 TO 10.

On Saturday Evening the Parkdales of Toronto, were Beaten on the Local Rink by Six Goals to Three.

The biggest crowd of the season assembled on Saturday evening at the rink to witness what proved to be the most exciting hockey match which has taken place in Peterborough for years.

Smarting under a defeat on their own ice in Toronto, the Parkdales with a strengthened team, came down to completely annihilate the Colts, and openly boasted of the big score which they intended running up against the "kids." They reckoned without their hosts, however, as the Colts came through the test with flying colours, winning the match by 6 goals to 3, making the total score of the series 15 to 10 in Peterborough's favour. The Colts now enter the third round of the series and play home and home games with the Frontenacs of Kingston. The first match is in the local rink on Thursday.

As stated, the crowd was the record breaker of the season. An evidence of the popularity enjoyed by the Colts was shown in the fact that many business men left their stores on the busiest evening of the week to witness the contest. None were sorry they came, as they witnessed a game replete with brilliant plays on the forward lines, which were met by almost perfect defence work.

The ice was soft, and the visitors being by far the heaviest and strongest team, had this advantage over their younger and lighter opponents. The work of the Parkdales and the way in which their forwards started off down the rink in a line, deftly passing the puck from one to the other, made the spectators hold their breath in fear time after time, but again and again the combination was wrecked by the grand work of the Peterborough defence. Armstrong and Graham did great work. If by any chance the puck was manipulated past the former, it was sure to be stopped by the latter. Crossley in goal did not have much to do, but when called on he showed of what he was capable. He probably did not have to stop more than four or five shots all evening.

McBain played a hard steady game at cover centre, generally hovering about a few feet behind the other forwards. King also assisted the defense, but when he made his rushes his shots went in with incredible velocity. The manner in which Bradd followed up was something wonderful. When the puck went down the rink with one of Armstrong's long lifts, Bradd was on it almost before it touched the ice and time and again he was able to pick it off the Parkdale coverpoint's stick and rush in on the goal with it. Whitcroft's specialty seems to be his rushes along the side. Just how he gets that puck past an opposing player is hard to puzzle out. He also follows up well.

The visitors did not arrive in Peterborough until the 8.12 train came in and by the time the match started it was after nine o'clock, the spectators having been kept waiting for over an hour.

Mr. Darling, of Toronto, was the referee and proved a most capable one, having "an ol like an aigle" for offsides and being very strict on rough play.

THE GAME STARTED

off with a rush on the Toronto goal, which was, however, quickly relieved and the puck came down on the Peterborough flags to to be quickly returned by Graham. After some hot play on centre ice Whitcroft got away with the puck and by passing to Bradd eluded the cover-point. Bradd carried it on down to the point and passed to King, who slammed it through with a terrific shot. Time 2 minutes.

Just two minutes later Clemes and Winchester made a beautiful rush down the length of the rink together, the latter tallying and evening up the score.

The third game went to the Colts, King following up a long lift of Armstrong's and scoring before the goal could be relieved. Time 2 minutes. Score 2—1.

The next was also a two-minute game, and as it was scored by Parkdale the excitement went to fever pitch when the score was tied. The count was made by a long lift of Parish, the cover-point, who scored from centre ice.

Two minutes later saw Peterborough again in the lead, Whitcroft scoring from a scrimmage in front of the Parkdale goal.

The whistle blew for half time, leaving the score 3—2 in favour of Peterborough.

Parkdale started in after half time with a most determined effort to score and some very fast play was witnessed, as rush after rush of the visitors was broken up by Armstrong's magnificent play at cover-point. Scrimmages took place, time after time, in dangerous proximity to either goal and from one of these McBain finally scored for Peterborough.

Bradd made victory sure by pushing another one through a few minutes later.

The next game was the most exciting of the match, and for fifteen minutes the crowd shouted with an enthusiasm which was ended by Bradd again scoring.

Parkdale scored one more just before the whistle blew, announcing the end of the match, leaving the score 6—3.

The teams were composed as follows:

Colts.		Parkdales

A CHARITY SERMON.

Eloquent Discourse by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick Sunday Evening.

A large congregation assembled in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday evening to listen to the charity sermon delivered by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point. The reverend gentleman spoke on the word, "Bear ye one another's burdens.' The sermon was an eloquent and practical one, a synopsis of which will appear in to-morrow's issue.

The music rendered by the choir is worthy of special mention, as is also the excellent numbers furnished by the orchestra, Messrs. Hodgson and Wesley.

The collection, which goes to the funds of the Sewing Society, amounted to $72.

A MEDAL PRESENTED.

Offered in Competition by Dr. Burnham and Won by H. Walkey.

Dr. George Burnham this morning sent to the Collegiate Institute the handsome gold medal which he has so kindly donated, and which was awarded by Principal Fessenden to H. Walkey, he having taken the highest standing in the First Form examination.

It was decided by those in authority that as the Nicholls' scholarships are offered for competition in the higher grades, that Dr. Burnham's generous donation should be offered to those in the lower grades of the Institute.

One side of the medal is inscribed as follows: "Presented by G. Burnham, M.D; won by H. Walkey." On the reverse side are the words "Collegiate Institute, Peterborough—First Place in First Form Examinations, 1898."

The example of the doctor, if followed by others, would have the effect of stimulating the pupils to greater activity in their studies and would certainly have a most beneficial effect.

OBITUARY.

Francis W. Heather.

At half past eight o'clock this morning, Mr. Francis W. Heather, who has been a resident of Peterborough for over fifty years, passed away, aged 82 years.

The deceased passed through a serious illness some weeks ago, being afflicted with heart trouble. A few days ago he contracted la grippe and was unable to withstand it.

Mr. Heather was born in Charlemont Barracks, Ireland, being a son of Sergeant Heather, of the Imperial service, who was one of the Waterloo veterans. At the age of five years he accompanied his parents to Canada, his father having retired from active service on a pension, and having received a government appointment at Point Levis, P.Q. He was afterwards moved to Carreau, P.Q., at which point he was located during the Lower Canada rebellion.

The deceased was united in marriage to Mary Ann Green on May 5th, 1844, and his widow still survives. One child, a boy, was born of this union. He died at the age of 4 years. Mr. Heather engaged in the meat business in Peterborough for many years, but retired from active work about thirteen years ago.

Dying in the assurance of pardon, the end was a most peaceful one.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 30 from the family residence, corner of Water and Charlotte streets.

The Late Mrs. James Crossley.

After a protracted illness, death came to the relief of Ellen Swinton, wife of Mr. James Crossley, on Sunday morning at the family residence 361 Aylmer street. Deceased had been a sufferer from dropsy for nearly two years, during which time she bore her affliction with resignation. She was the daughter of the late Mr. James Swinton, one of the first settlers of the township of Smith, and was united in marriage to Mr. Crossley about thirty years ago. Mr. Crossley is melter in the foundry of the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company. One son and three daughters are left to mourn, with a loving husband, the loss of an affectionate wife and mother. Deceased was a consistent Presbyterian all her life. The funeral takes place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 30 from her residence 361 Aylmer street.

The Late William Cunningham.

The deceased, who has been living with his son-in-law, Mr. Alf. Haskill, barber, died very suddenly on Sunday morning, the result of pneumonia. He had only been ill for about a week, and on Sunday arrangements were being made to take him to the Nicholls Hospital, when he suddenly expired while conversing with Mr. Haskill. Deceased was 53 years of age and will be interred in the Little Lake Cemetery on Tuesday, 24th instant, at 2 o'clock p.m.

TRENT CANAL.

As a result of the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trent Canal Association last week a series of educative meetings are about to be held under the auspices of the Association. The first of these meetings will be held in the Opera House on Thursday evening, when addresses will be delivered by Mr. John Carnegie and others upon the subject of canal transportation.

Mr Carnegie was asked by the Association to prepare a pamphlet on the advantages to the country of the early completion of this work and in preparing the book which will shortly be issued, he has gathered together a lot of valuable information, which the Association is desirious of having supplied to the public and it was thought that a public meeting of citizens would be the best way to disseminate the information obtained. The address will be illustrated by lime light views of the canal by Mr. R. M. Rev. The chair will be taken by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., the president of the association, and a large attendance of the citizens is requested. Remember Thursday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, at the Opera House. Mayor Davis and the warden of the county will be present at the meeting.

The president of the association has obtained permission from the mayor for Mr. S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, who is also secretary of the association, to wait upon the county councils of Victoria and Simcoe this week, with a view to their taking more active and practical steps to assist in the furtherance of the programme laid down by the association and to interest the people along the line of the canal and the Government of the Dominion.

A deputation will shortly wait upon the Dominion Government, asking that the balance of the work be placed under contract.

Another deputation will wait upon the Montreal Board of Trade and explain to the Chamber of Commerce the importance to Montreal of this important work being speedily completed.

THE RINK.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—As a stockholder of the Peterborough Skating and Curling Rink Company, I desire to call the attention of the directors of the rink to the fact that the stockholders are becoming very tired of the management. It does not seem that any effort is being made to make this property productive of paying interest on the investment; and it does seem that the curlers have taken possession and that so long as the bailiff is kept out and there is ice for curling that is all that is necessary. Other rinks throughout the province are paying interest upon the investment by making them more skating than curling rinks, and presenting attractions that draw the crowds. Why cannot our rink be made to pay as well as others in less important places?

Yours truly,
A STOCKHOLDER.

TO STOP TRADING STAMPS.

A Bill Introduced at Albany by Senator Munsinger, of New York.

Canada is not the only place where efforts are being made to suppress the Trading Stamp, as evidenced by the following despatch to the New York Dry Goods Economist from Albany: Senator Munsinger of New York introduced a bill today to amend the Penal Code relating to the issue of trading stamps or other devices.

The bill adds a new section, 384, which provides that any person who shall issue trading stamps or other devices to any person engaged in any trade, business or profession, with the promise, expressed or implied, that he will give to the person presenting to him such stamps or other devices, money or anything of value, without receiving from such person the value thereof; or to make to any such person any concession or preference in any way on account of the presentation of such trading stamps or other devices; or, being engaged in any trade, business or profession, shall distribute or present to any person dealing with him, any such trading stamp or other device, in consideration of any article or thing purchased of, or any services performed by him, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The measure is to take effect September 1, 1899.

TAKING AN INTEREST IN YOUNG WOMEN.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE Y. W.C.A. ON SATURDAY.

A Most Interesting Report of the Year's Work Submitted by Miss A. L. Clarke, the Painstaking Secretary.

The attendance at the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association and the interest manifested by those present on Saturday evening must have been very encouraging to those who are devoting so much of their time to make this benevolent scheme a success.

Mrs. Stewart presided at the meeting, and the annual report of the officers was read as follows by Miss A. L. Clarke, Secretary:—

ANNUAL MEETING.

During the year 1898 the work of the Young Woman's Christian Association of Peterborough has been marked by but one event of great importance—the Dominion Conference held here early in October.

Throughout the year the boarding house has been a highly creditable institution, conducted on economic principles and commending itself by its efficient management, the home-like nature of its arrangements and its general security and adaptability to the wants of young women to all those who have their welfare at heart. Classes have been carried on now and then in needlework, etc. The offer of the use of the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium with lessons from their instructor was gladly accepted this year as well as last, and a class was formed for physical exercise and culture. It would be well if the public would interest themselves more generally in this department of young women's work, for if we are to be held accountable for the deeds done in these bodies of ours at the last day, it behooves us to improve their condition by means in our power. The preaching of a gospel of health, otherwise systematic bathing and exercise, is not the least important mission of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of Peterborough. Miss Forsythe's Bible class has been enjoyed by all of those attending it. Among the prominent diversions this year was the garden party at "Castleknock." Periodically social evenings have been held and the results have been most gratifying in the numbers of those attending them. The removal of Mrs. Helen S. Roger last August lost to the institution not only the capable head of the boarding department, but the highly honoured general superintendent. The Association was fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. D'Codin Smith in her former capacity.

The third biennial conference of the Young Women's Christian Associations of Canada was a revelation in some respects to the people of Peterborough. The business like ability of its officers, their devotion to the their profound religious enthusiasm, together with their thorough womanhood, impressed very deeply all who were present at the meetings. These meetings were of the usual nature.

The opening address was given by the President, Mrs. J McDougall, of Montreal, who referred feelingly to the thousands of prayers, which had been offered up for this conference, and to the necessity for individual conservative and personal work of the Young Women's movement was to prove effectual in Peterborough. The address of welcome was given by our own good president, Mrs. Stewart.

In Mrs. McDougall's evening address she recounted many interesting incidents and experiences in connection with her visits from Halifax to Victoria, B.C., in the work of the Young Women's Christian Association. Later, when missionary work was being discussed, and after Miss Ruth Rouse, travelling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, had delivered her address on the World Christian Student Movement, Mrs. McDougall quietly asked, "How much would it cost to support a missionary in India?" Miss Rouse replied "$900 a year." Mrs. McDougall said, "I cannot go, but if you will go in my place I will, as long as I can, pay your way as representative."

Mrs. Stevenson's very comprehensive paper on educational work must have been helpful to all the delegates. Speaking of a girl's domestic education, she said, "I think even those who have been inclined to disbelieve in Young Women's Christian Associations, would form a different opinion if we could send out a class of certificated domestic servants.

Miss Botterell told of the work of the Young Women's Christian Association in India, especially in Calcutta, where Miss Norman is the secretary in charge. The drawing room circles for girls of leisure in Toronto and Montreal during the two years past have been interested in Miss Norman's work, and have been responsible for her salary in part, having occasional letters from her, thus being kept in touch with the young women of India.

One whole day was given up to the college delegates to the Conference, deputations being here from Toronto University, Victoria University, McGill College, Whitby Ladies' College, etc.

Among the most delightful of the exercises, were Miss Winnifred McDonald's beautiful Bible reading. As a result of these, hearts were quickened, and new desires for active Christian work expressed by numbers of those present. The reports from the various associations

WERE VERY ENCOURAGING.

Many were the expressions of astonishment when it was heard from Brantford that $3 000 had been subscribed in three days there. One of the encouraging features of the Hamilton Association is the Junior Branch, 126 children being enrolled last year. The Montreal Association told of the completion of their beautiful new home, the realization of a dream of years. The Ottawa Association is sending one of their members to the Missionary Training School in New York, that she may be equipped for work in the foreign field.

Domestic Science has been a very important branch of the Toronto Association work, nearly 200 pupils having taken lessons. In addition to this over 100 Normal students have been sent every Monday afternoon by the Minister of Education to the Demonstration Lectures.

Is it out of place here to refer to the fact that our Association does not enjoy the full sympathy of the good people of Peterborough? How far are we individually and as a Board of Management responsible for this? We have a prosperous boarding house, with which Mrs. McDougall and the other visiting delegates during the summer were openly delighted; "So often these boarding houses are not even clean," Miss Bottrell one day remarked to me. But, desirable as this may be, it is for more than to run a prosperous boarding house that the Y. W. C. A. was organized. Have we not been remiss in our duty? Should we not, in addition to our individual work, have had a committee whose special duty it was to look after the spiritual welfare and the general well being of the young women of Peterborough. As we enter on another year should we not try to make practical some of the lessons taught by the convention — lessons of spiritual consecration and self-sacrificing work for others? Let us indeed turn our faces towards the light, and take as our motto for the New Year, "Upward and Onward."

A. L. CLARKE,
Secretary Y.W.C.A.

The report was adopted.

The treasurer, Mrs. Kennedy, then submitted the financial statement, as follows:

THE SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

was submitted by Mrs. Smith as appended:

When I came to the Y. W. C. A. as superintendent in the month of August I was handed $6 82 by Mrs. Roger. During the five months in which I have had charge the boarding house has flourished financially. At the end of August, generally the dullest month in the year, I had in hand $27 57, having paid all expenses including salaries.

The house has been well filled up to date, ten boarders are all we can accommodate. Sometimes we have six extra for dinner. In connection with the employment bureau quite a number of girls have sought situations and obtained the same. During the five months 21 have boarded in the house, some for a month, others permanently.

I have much pleasure in expressing publicly my appreciation of the kindness and consideration I have received from the boarders since I came amongst them. Receipts for five months:—Received, $591 35; expended, $550 23; balance, $11.12.

WATERWORKS PURCHASED.

The Insurance Finance Chronicle, of Montreal, says:—"The city of Winnipeg having decided to furnish its own water supply is determined to have the most efficient and modern service possible. With that object in view it has disposed of its issue of $700,000 3½ per cent. water works bonds, which run for some forty years. We are glad to know that an amicable arrangement with the old Water Company has been effected and a satisfactory settlement arrived at, by which the company will receive in cash $237 500."

The systems of Winnipeg and Peterborough are very similar. Winnipeg has twenty miles of 12 inch piping, and Peterborough has eighteen miles of 16 inch mains.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The morning anthem in the Charlotte street church was entitled "Behold what manner of Love."

"The Lord is My Shepherd" was well rendered as an offertory anthem in the Charlotte street church last night.

A social will be held Tuesday night by the Dorcas Society of the Park street church at the residence of Mrs. A. L. Grover, Dalhousie street.

St. Andrew's choir gave a fine rendering of the anthem "Send out Thy Light" yesterday. In the evening Miss Falconer sang "Just for To-day" in excellent voice.

Rev. T. J. Glover delivered two sermons in St. Andrew's church yesterday, which were fully appreciated. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, is confined to the manse through illness.

Rev. O. C. Elliott has returned to town after assisting Rev. P. K. Dayfoot in evangelistic services at Port Hope. Mr. Elliott took the services in his own church yesterday.

Last evening the anthem "I will praise Him" was well sung by the Charlotte street choir. The solo was taken by Miss Florence Hall and the duet parts by Miss Hall and Mr. W. J. Squires.

The Sunday services at Mark street church were conducted by the pastor and proved very helpful. The evening sermon, especially, was the subject of many favourable comments by those present. The morning subject was "The Trial of God's Word," and the evening topic "The Need of Conversion." Mr. Moore is meeting with good success in his special meetings at Bethel. They continue this week.

BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

READ THE PROOF!

GENTLEMEN,—I have for a long time needed something to make blood and build up my system. My blood was watery and thin, lacking strength and vitality. Last January a friend said:—"Why not try Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills? They will supply the oxygen your blood needs and give you health and strength." I told him I was very skeptical as to any benefit that could be derived from any proprietary medicine and had no faith in them. There the matter rested until four months ago, when reading so much about what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done for so many people with impoverished blood, I concluded to give them a trial. I have taken four boxes and my unbelief so far as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are concerned has been entirely removed. They are a splendid blood builder and strength restorer, and an invaluable medicine for weak, enervated people. This has been my experience, they having given me strength of body and strong healthy blood.

BORROWING IN CHINA.

An Astonished Diner Out Who Ate With Her Own Spoon.

Chinese butlers have a way when their own supplies fall short of borrowing from the neighbors—at least this was a very common custom 25 years ago—and goods changed hands over the garden wall with astonishing celerity, the butlers meantime keeping a strict account.

"At the first large dinner party to which I was invited in China I went as a bride," says an American. "I found myself eating with my own brand new knives, forks and spoons. I stared at them very hard. There could be no mistake, for I could see the fresh monograms.

"I was dreadfully distressed, but did not dare to say anything. When I reached home, I told my husband, rather tremblingly, for I was quite sure they had been stolen. To my amazement, he only laughed and said:

" 'Oh, you will get used to that soon, and when you have too many guests you will find that, instead of asking you to get more supplies, the butler will just borrow your neighbor's and always make up the deficiency.'

"And so it proved. I can well remember once when my husband had asked eight guests in to dinner only half an hour before the usual time, one for each of the delicious first spring snipe he had shot, that there appeared later a splendid roast leg of mutton as one of our courses.

"Now, I knew we had no mutton, for earlier in the day the cook had been bewailing the nonarrival of the Shanghai steamer by which it always came. Turning to the gentleman on my left, I asked, 'Did your steamer come from Shanghai today?'

" 'Yes. Why?'

"I looked down to the other end of the table, where my husband was carving the unexpected treasure trove with evident enjoyment.

" 'Well, ours did not,' said I, 'and yet'—

He caught sight of the mutton. 'Oh,' he laughed, 'I suppose that is mine! No doubt yours will come tomorrow and probably be much better, so I shall be the gainer this time and enjoy it all the more.' "—Youth's Companion.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day to day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle, every bottle guaranteed, at any Drug Store.

Animals are Left-Handed.

Somebody has found out that animals are left-handed, if the expression may be used about creatures that have no hands. Several different zoologists have noticed this condition. Parrots take objects preferably with the left claw, the lion strikes with his left paw, and so competent an authority as Dr. Livingstone, the African explorer, asserted that in his opinion all animals are left-handed.

What Impressed Her.

"Oh, all young men say that."

"But they don't say it to me."—Truth.

UNEQUAL ANATOMY.

Strange Differences in the Eyes and Other Parts of the Body.

Some curious features are noted in the inequality in size and influence of corresponding parts of the human body, says an exchange. The ears on the same head are probably more alike than any other of the twin organs of the body. Nevertheless, they vary as regards thickness, length, shape and position most remarkably in different individuals. If the ear, however, on one side is delicate in size and contour, the other will be the same, while if the one looks like a dried fig the other duplicates it in form and color. But with the eye it is different. To say nothing of the fact that one eye is generally more open than the other, all oculists agree that the cases where the seeing power of the two are equal in the same head are very rare. Usually men use the right eye the most. Watchmakers, engravers, microscopists and mariners using the telescope apply their right eye to the instrument and generally overwork that organ. There is no good reason why both eyes should not be equally strong, but they are not. Tailors agree that the right shoulder is almost always lower than the left. This they account for by the universal habit men have of resting the left elbow on the desk while writing, and to the equally prevalent practice of those who carry heavy burdens resting them on the right shoulder.

As regards the arms and legs, there is generally but slight difference. In the size of the hands and feet there is commonly a great variation, and, curiously enough, while it is the right hand that is generally bigger, it is the left foot that often requires a larger sized boot or shoe. Glovemakers give the proportion of large right hands as 900 to 1000, which, by the way, approximates to the proportion of right handed persons in the community. The size of the hand is generally increased by labor. If ladies are to be trusted as to the size of the gloves they wear, the human hand has grown smaller within the last twenty or thirty years. But glovers tell a different story. They confess to making all ladies' gloves a half size smaller than they really are. This, they say, is because ladies almost invariably ask for a size smaller glove than they should wear.

There is nearly always a difference in the size of the hands. This is so marked that the glove that fits the right hand will wrinkle on the left, looking in fact, too large. The left foot, as a rule, is the larger. While the right hand and arm are generally better developed and stronger, the opposite leg corresponds in those particulars. It is found that in athletic persons the advantage of strength is often with the left foot, That is the foot we habitually stand upon, and it is the left foot that leads off in the walking. A man uses the left foot most on the bicycle, and even more so in mounting a horse. While the constant use of the right hand is a matter of training (monkeys use both equally) the more frequent use of the left foot would seem to be a general habit, hence that foot is in many cases the stronger.

WONDROUS REMEDY,

Is what a London Doctor Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Jan. 9.—A large decrease in the number of cases of Kidney Disease has been noted in this city during the past year.

"There's only one thing to be said about it," said a prominent physician speaking on the subject the other day.

"This falling off is due solely to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills by the people. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most wondrous kidney remedy ever known. They are used in nearly every household, which accounts for the great decrease of Kidney Complaint."

A Rare Stone Burned for Lime.

"While up near the Point of Rocks, Frederick County, Md., some days ago," said a prominent geologist, "I visited the quarry from which the stone that constitute the famous pillars in the old hall of the House of Representatives, otherwise known as the National Statuary Hall, was quarried. The stone is known to geologists as breccia, though the common name is 'pudding stone,' from its peculiar formation. It is a limestone conglomerate, though nearly a true marble. It is a handsome as well as a remarkably interesting formation to geologists as well as to others. Strange to say, however, there is no demand for it, though it is easily sawed into slabs for table covers, etc.

"The day I was there I saw great quantities of it broken up and thrown into kilns and burned into lime. It makes a very desirable lime, and particularly for a fertilizer. What made me feel sad was that this wonder of the world, for it is found nowhere else in the world in such perfection, can not be turned into other uses. It seems a pity to have to burn it into lime, when there are any quantity of limestone that will do so well for such uses, though there is but one such a find of breccia in this wide world."

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

A Smart Arithmetic Man.

A Chinaman died, leaving his property by will to his three sons as follows: "To Fuenhuen, the oldest, one-half thereof; to Nupin, his second son, one-third thereof, and to Ding-bat, his youngest, one-ninth thereof."

When the property was inventoried it was found to consist of nothing more nor less than seventeen elephants, and it puzzled these three heirs how to divide the property according to the terms of the will without chopping up seventeen elephants, and thereby seriously impairing their value. Finally they applied to a wise neighbor, Suenpunk for advice. Suenpunk had an elephant of his own. He drove it into the yard with the seventeen, and said:

"Now, we will suppose that your father left these eighteen elephants; Fuen-huen, take your half and depart." So Fuen-huen took nine elephants and went his way.

"Aow, Nu-pin," said the wise man, "take your third and go." So Nu-pin took six elephants and traveled.

"Now, Ding-bat," said the wise man, "take your ninth and begone." So Ding-bat took two elephants and vamoosed. Then Suen-punk took his own elephant and drove him home again.

Query: Was the property divided according to the terms of the will?

Could Only Whisper.

Often Colds settle on the Throat and Bronchial Tubes, and make the voice hoarse and husky, and an effort to speak, distressing. It may be reduced to a whisper or lost entirely for a while.

In cases of this kind nothing will so soon give relief and restore the voice as

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

This is what Thos. J. Smith, Caledonia, Ont., writes: "A year ago I had a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs and throat. It got so bad I could scarcely speak louder than a whisper. I tried several Cough medicines but got very little relief until I used two and one-half bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which completely cured me."

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Colonie," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

And he speedily related how he had delivered the doctor's message to the stage driver; and how the doctor, Jason Bradwardine, and himself, disguised as Peterkin, came to the city.

"And then you all went to the asylum in a string like children playing 'crack the whip,'" finished off Rob. "And I was your Jehu, Ferrars."

"Yes," laughed Ferrars, "and I thought you about the stupidest Yankee I had ever seen."

"Well! we all took each other in at any rate," said Bathurst. "Now, for the next link. Rob, who had again got his eye on Bradwardine, kept it on him, and I turned my attention to another little matter that may or may not develop into something that will put another face on this affair of the murder. So while Rob and you, Ferrars, followed Bradwardine to the dive theatre, and then assisted him to escort two ladies home, I was, to all appearances, out of the ring. Now, Ferrars, give us your version of that theatre business."

"My version is brief," said Ferrars. "I believed that Bradwardine had some sort of a clue to the girl's hiding-place, and I could do no better, just then, than to keep him in sight. When he followed those women home from the dive, I did not feel at all sure that they were the parties I wanted to find, so I went back at the heels of my man; this morning he went to the same house, and remained nearly two hours, and then he repaired to a little restaurant, or cafe, near the river, where he was met by a tall woman dressed in black; these two conferred for half an hour, and then he went home and dined."

At the mention of the tall woman in black, Rob Jocelyn's eyes began to twinkle, and when Ferrars ceased to speak, he burst into a perfect roar of laughter, greatly to the astonishment of the dignified Englishman.

"Now, Rob," said Bathurst, with a mirthful look in his eyes, "sober up, and tell your experience." Thus adjured, Rob "sobered up," and said:—

"That won't take long. Of course I didn't follow in the wake of that grand rascal very long, without discovering that some one else was up to the same dodge, and I wasted a little time trying to figure out who it could be. Then I made up my mind that I had better let Bradwardine go, and 'haunt' the house where the two women stopped, for a while. You see I knew that Bradwardine had seen the girl Lenore Armyn, and I never had, no more than Neil there. So I took it for granted that this was the right party, and hung around the house half the night. Well, it isn't a particularly large house, and before I struck out for these quarters, I had satisfied myself that the girl was not in it. She had left by some rear entrance. Having settled this in my mind, I explored a little, and found that there was a sort of alley or court leading through to the next street. Well, I came here and met Neil about three o'clock this morning, and after a brief consultation and a couple of hours' sleep, I went back to my post, and remained there until noon, or a little after, when this young man came along and ordered me to "pull off." As you have said, I had witnessed the visit of Bradwardine to the house, which I learned belonged to a certain Mrs. Harris, ballet mistress; and I had also satisfied myself that the girl was not in that house." Here he leaned back in his chair and looked across at Neil. "Now, old man, furnish the wind-up. Why did you call me off this afternoon? And who looks after Bradwardine while we consult?" he said.

"I'll tell you, in a very few words," said Neil, soberly. "Just after you, Rob, had left this morning, I, as the widow O'Neil, received a note from Jason Bradwardine, asking me to meet him, without fail, at a certain cafe near the river, at twelve o'clock sharp; he 'needed my help in a delicate matter,' he said. Well, I met him promptly, and the tall lady in black, Mr. Ferrars, was none other than your humble servant. Mr. Bradwardine there unfolded to me a grand scheme, or the outlines of one; he will have possession of this girl to-morrow, and I am to assist him in taking care of her. This is why I called you off, Rob, and this is why I say that Jason Bradwardine may be trusted to look after himself, for a little while."

For a long time they sat in silence, and then Francis Ferrars, who had been thinking busily, looked up.

"You expect, then, to have this girl, virtually, in your power by to-morrow at this hour?" he asked of Bathurst.

"Yes."

"And—shall you arrest her immediately?"

"That," said Neil, "is what we must now discuss."

"You tell me that the strongest evidence against her is circumstantial, Mr. Bathurst. Do you believe in her guilt?"

"That is a hard question to answer; the thing that tells most against her, in my estimation, is the fact of her running away from me, when I went to the asylum, and—she must have had a strong motive for remaining concealed before she would go to that ballet mistress for protection."

"True," said Ferrars, gloomily. "If you arrest her, then my search is ended; if she were proved ever so innocent, upon trial, it would never do to take back to that proud old nobleman an heiress who had been tried for her life."

"True enough," broke in great-hearted Rob Jocelyn. "By heavens, the girl has been terribly wronged; either one of us, if he had a sister who had been so shamefully coerced into marrying a man she despised, would have walked up and shot the fellow in broad daylight, and been applauded for doing it. There's only one thing I can't understand; if the girl had the courage to denounce him so openly, why did she not kill him on the spot, if she wanted his life?"

"That is an argument that has more than once occurred to me," said Neil. "I see how you look upon this matter, Ferrars, and it's the right thing, too. If this girl is innocent, then by publicly arresting her we will do her an irreparable wrong, and will make your mission worse than fruitless. The case against her looks very dark. But—I have got in my hands a clue, a very slight one, but enough to indicate the possibility of a different climax to this affair; a climax that would utterly shatter the evidence against this accused one. Now, it will not do to let the girl escape again, and—I want to see through Bradwardine's game. I have something to tell you now that I think will startle you both a little. I want you to join with me in working out this business; there is more than work enough for us all, and it will require our combined wit to carry it to a successful termination. What say you, shall we combine ourselves for the work?"

"Yes," said Ferrars, promptly, extending his hand.

"Yes," said Jocelyn. "Count on us, and I believe this is about the first detective's league ever instituted."

"Then listen," said Neil Bathurst. "I am going to leave this business in the hands of you two, and—I'm going to take a journey."

"To take a journey?" said Ferrars and Jocelyn, in the same breath. "Now?"

"Yes, now; at least as soon as I have fulfilled my engagement with Bradwardine. We must know his game, now or never; and here is another reason why we should let him fancy the girl in his power—I think he means foul play. Now, Mr. Ferrars, it is always necessary to have a place where people who are working together, yet apart, as we must, can meet at times, with perfect freedom. Rob has a key to these rooms, you must have another; and listen while I tell you why I must leave the city." They drew nearer each other and listened, with faces expressive of wonder, incredulity, and horror, to a startling disclosure from the lips of Neil Bathurst.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

IN THE TIGER'S CLAWS.

Jason Bradwardine's scheme had been, apparently, a complete success. Lenore Armyn and Mrs. Harris had taken up their abode under the roof of that sister mentioned by Senor Castro, and all was going smoothly.

The house occupied by these four was situated in a lonely quarter of the town, at the very foot of a street that, as Mrs. Harris knew, bore anything but an enviable reputation; but much of this lady's life had been passed in questionable localities; and, as they were not to remain there long, it was hardly worth while to trouble Lenore, by repeating "legends of the streets"; besides, Senor Castro, being a stranger, could, of course, know nothing of this. So Mrs. Harris gave herself no trouble about the street. The house was certainly an improvement, in the matter of comfort and elegance, upon her own, and she need take no thought for to-morrow.

This house, as we have said, stood at the foot of the street, and very near the river. It was a large house with some pretensions to elegance, and Mr. Bradwardine had taken it ready furnished. The first great step was taken; Lenore Armyn was in his house; but Mr. Bradwardine was becoming impatient.

On the morning of the second day Mrs. O'Neil left the house to visit that quarter of the city where the woman, who had been rescued from Bradwardine's clutches, had been seen, by him. She was to remain there all day. Mr. Bradwardine fancied that he knew the exact block that the woman had found refuge in, and Mrs. O'Neil must make a thorough search before she returned.

Before Mrs. O'Neil departed upon this mission, she did a queer thing, if any one had been near to see it. But she chose her time with a view to solitude, so no one knew that she made a careful examination of all the locks and bolts upon all of the doors, from that opening upon the street, straight up to the rooms overlooking the river, that had been assigned to Lenore Armyn. It is hardly to be supposed that Mrs. O'Neil feared that burglars would visit the house in broad daylight; but whatever she feared, or thought, she certainly examined the fastenings.

She had not been gone half an hour when Senor Castro begged for a few words with Mrs. Harris. He had just received a message from two young ladies living in the suburbs, he told her; they were very eager to go to Cuba with his company; now, he could make room for one or two more, if they were prepossessing; but he disliked very much to be obliged to interview so many applicants, and—another thing, these ladies had been recommended by a friend whom he really did not wish to offend. Would Mrs. Harris help him out of the difficulty? If she would go and see these ladies he could rely upon her judgment; if she engaged them, he would know they would satisfy; and if she declined to engage them, his friend could hardly be offended with him.

In short, Mrs. Harris was flattered into a very complacent mood, and the remark that she must go in good style, and, as her trunks had not come—Mrs. Harris had excused the one valise that held all she possessed of wardrobe, by saying that she had sent her trunks on ahead by an expressman, and by fidgeting whenever she thought of it, because her "trunks did not come." No one believed in her trunks, of course, not even Lenore; but when Senor Castro remarked that, as her trunks had not yet come, she must draw on him to procure whatever she needed—only he would wish her to go right away; she could go straight down town, get what she required, then take a carriage, and drive straight out to see these ladies—her last scruple was overcome.

In a very short time, with a little roll of bills in her pocket, and exultation in her heart, Mrs. Harris was speeding towards the State street dry goods marts, and Lenore Armyn was alone with her enemy.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, headache.

The Depraved Butterfly.

Medicine Moderne tells us of a demonstration made by Mr. Tutt of London that even butterflies may go on a spree. At a public lecture Mr. Tutt shut up in a case male and female butterflies with flowers of divers species. Now, while the female butterflies quenched their thirst modestly by sipping a few drops of dew in the calyx of a rose the males indulged in characteristic intemperance. They went straight to the flowers whose distillation produced the most alcohol and indulged in their juices till they fell senseless where they stood. The butterflies were dead drunk. To further convince his audience Mr. Tutt introduced into the case a glass of water and several glasses of brandy. The male butterflies without hesitation chose the brandy. The fact does not admit of doubt. Male butterflies in a state of freedom are often attracted by the emanations of a glass of gin that has been left on a garden table, and, having drunk of it to excess, sleep the heavy sleep of drunkenness.—Literary Digest.

Mrs. Claus Nelson, of Pico Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Box 31, writes: "I send you my picture taken with my little boy. I do not look so sad now as I do in the picture; I was sick then and I thought my days would not be long, but your kindness and medicine would not let me die. You have my heart-felt thanks for your kindly advice to me in my sickness; also for your book which I received two years ago, and which I could not do without. LITERARY NOTES.

Journals Represented by the Frigid Klondyke and the Roasting Philippines.

This is a world of violent contrasts. The very rich and the very poor jostle each other in our streets; the good and the bad promenade the same pavements, and one day we are congealed with below-zero weather and the next we are borrowing umbrellas and receiving injunctions from careful housewives to use the door mat. But the greatest climatic contrasts were suggested to-day by the EXAMINER'S receipt of two journals, each published in the antipodes of the other, one is a newspaper from the sub-artic Klondyke and the other a journal from the super-equatorial Philippines.

The Klondyke Miner came by hand through Mr. Thomas Gladman. By hand—for the Government will not carry out from the Klondyke by dog train second-class matter, such as newspapers—only letters. The Klondyke Miner is evidently "agin' the Government" and all for the miners. The government is to have no rights except to spend money for the benefit of the miners by keeping peace, providing protection, paying all the bills, but getting no profits, resigning all royalties and acting as father bountiful generally to a lot of foreign miners. The "Miner" enjoys a large advertising patronage including the cards of four lawyers and five doctors. St. Andrew's day apparently comes later up north, as the paper to hand, Dec. 9th, contains a report of St. Andrew's banquet, "held over from last week." The meterological record gives—just think of it—thermometer readings of 46 below zero with the wind blowing from fifty to one hundred miles an hour—enough to shave the whiskers off a bronze statute.

By way of sharp contrast the other journal comes from Manila, Philippine Islands, about ten or fifteen degrees north of the equator, where the heat is so intense that the sun will furnish you hard-boiled eggs a good deal more quickly than a country hotel cook; the Philippines, where the hurricane tears along at 150 miles an hour, where the rain falls a hundred inches at an innings and earthquakes are as common and regular as Canadian sunsets. The journal referred to is called "The Soldier's Letter," and is published in the interest of the American soldier stationed at Manilla, and its matter appeals chiefly to its military constituency. It is well illustrated with half tones and offers to pay for accepted contributions.

The chief point of local interest about "The Soldier's Letter" is the fact that its business manager is a Peterborough boy. Mr. W. G. McCamus, nephew of Mr. A.E. Dixon, who drifted into the American army and was drafted to the Philippines and has at last drifted into journalism, almost as perilous an occupation, if the Filipino should shoot quick on taking umbrage at some of the uncomplimentary references to the motives contained in the "Soldier's Letter."

Mr. McCamus, in a letter received by Mr. Dixon, suggests his intention of procuring his discharge from the army and becoming a permanent civilian resident of Manila.

WANT OF COLOUR.

All women, whether maidens or matrons, who suffer from palpitation, nervousness, languor, low spirits, anaemia, or bloodlessness, need the tonic, blood-giving work of a restorer like Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, which makes rich, red blood, and give a rosy colour in place of the paleness and sallow complexion so often noticed in those who suffer from weak action of the heart, disturbed action of the nerves, slow circulation, etc. Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills quickly restore health by removing causative condition. They bring back the ruddy glow and blush of health to the pale, wan and sickly face, particularly in the case of young girls. They transform the once weak and delicate into a strong, healthy and vigourous woman. Hundreds of testimonials certify to this fact. As a specimen we quote one recently received:

Gentlemen:—Since using Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills I have recommended them to several of my friends who were troubled as I was, and am glad to say that they are now in splendid health. I had been a sufferer like a great many other women, and in fact my condition was terrible. I lost both flesh and colour, and my friends were alarmed. The doctor said I would always be sickly and delicate, and after I had thus been discouraged I determined to try Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. At that time I weighed but 118 pounds; to-day I weigh 140 and am in perfect health; that is the reason I recommend these pills to those who suffer as I did, and my belief is justified by the results in every case where I have seen them used. May Cole, Simcoe, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00, at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DR. WARD CO., Limited, 71 Victoria street, Toronto. Book of Information free.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH'S LAST.

Political History of the United Kingdom Down to 1832.

London, Jan. 23.—Prof. Goldwin Smith is writing a political history of the United Kingdom down to the Reform Act of 1832, to be published in the autumn. He says this is the last work he will undertake.

May Be Published in Canada.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—The manuscript is nearly finished and will be placed in the hands of the McMillan's.

The learned Professor, asked last night if he intended to publish it in Canada, replied that that would rest entirely with his publishers.

GLADSTONE AND KITCHENER.

Dead Civilian at a Discount Compared With Living Warrior.

London, Jan. 23.—Great Britain presents a vivid contrast between the potency of civic and military fame. To put it boldly, Gladstone dead is quoted at £20,000 in the memorial market, while Kitchener, alive, easily commands £120,000.

The promoters of the Gladstone memorial, who expected to secure £200,000 to establish libraries in the principal cities through popular contributions, are greatly depressed at the results of the appeals to the people. After several months these appeals have only resulted in collecting one-tenth of the sum desired.

But in the case of Kitchener, who dazzled the empire with the laurels of a day spent in mowing down thousands of savages by the perfection of military discipline and machinery, the British climb over one another in their eagerness to pour money into the "college for blacks," otherwise, the Gordon memorial college, at Khartoum, to educate a people who have never been in a country they never cared for, as a tribute to the conqueror.

The Gladstone fund, however, will be made up by wealthy men, who will gladly give their money, but who are grievously chagrined at the lukewarmness of the people who called him leader, and whom they expected to contribute spontaneously.

Still Pursuing Zola.

Paris, Jan. 23.—There was another sale of the furniture of Emile Zola, the author, here Saturday, for the purpose of defraying the 2,500 francs costs resulting from the first sale. His friends offered to settle the matter, but the magistrate refused to allow them to do so. The first lot offered was a looking glass. It was bought by Emile Zola's publisher, M. Fasquelle, for the full amount of the claim. There was no excitement, and there were only a few people present.

Imperial House Feb. 7.

London, Jan. 23.—Lord Salisbury presided over a Cabinet Council held at the Foreign Office on Saturday afternoon. There was a full attendance. The meeting was the first of a series which will be devoted to drafting the Queen's speech, preparatory to the meeting of Parliament on Feb. 7.

Fresh Fighting in the Congo.

Brussels, Jan. 23.—There has been fresh fighting in the Congo State. The Patriots announces yesterday, between the Belgian troops and the rebels, the former having sustained heavy losses including some white officers killed.

Kitchener Is the Man.

Cairo, Jan. 23.—A decree has been signed appointing General Lord Kitchener Governor-General of the Soudan.

A Shocking Hospital Scandal.

Antwerp, Jan. 23.—A shocking hospital scandal has come to light here. An American lady of means and refinement arranged with the physicians of the hospital for an operation. The terms were agreed upon and the lady prepared herself for the operation. At the table the doctors demanded the fees before they would use the knife. The patient came unprepared to meet the demand, being without ready cash, although she is a woman of means, and, known to be such, the physicians refused to operate, telling her to return the next day with money, and saying: "We have had enough of you foreigners."

The operation was postponed, and the following day the patient died from the effect on her nervous system of the excitement and mortification.

The Anti-Anarchist Conference.

London, Jan. 23.—A despatch from Rome to The Central News says that the Italian Government is about to send a diplomatic note to the powers that participated in the recent anti-Anarchist conference, inviting them to state definitely their conclusions relative to the proposals considered. When the answers of the powers are received Italy will call a conference of the ambassadors with a view of taking united action.

Leo XIII. Offers a Prize.

Rome, Jan. 23.—The Pope has set apart the sum of $4,000, which is to be given to the winner of an international prize competition of artists for a new picture for the Vatican. The subject selected by His Holiness is a painting of the Holy Family.

The contest will be an international one, and the prize will be awarded in 1901.

E. F. Clarke's Mother Dead.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Yesterday morning, Ellen Reynolds Clarke, relict of the late Richard Clarke, Bailieboro, County Cavan, Ireland, and mother of E. F. Clarke, M.P., died in her 77th year at the residence of her son, 397 Markham street.

Mr. Ellison Steps Out, Too.

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—Mr. Price Ellison, Opposition member for East Yale, has resigned. Government papers here say Mr. Turner, ex-Premier, will not sit again; also that Victoria elections will take place Feb. 2.

France May Get Fooled.

London, Jan. 21.—The recent experiments and inventions by France in submarine war craft are causing much comment here. The Globe warns France that these inventions, destined to destroy the English navy, may prove as disastrous to the French as the famous mitrailleuse, which it was thought would destroy the Prussians in 1870.

PHILIPPINE COMMISSIONERS

Will Sail From Vancouver for Manila on Jan. 30.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Two members of the Philippine commission—President Schurman of Cornell and Prof. Worcester of Ann Arbor University—will leave Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 30 for Manila. They will be followed about a fortnight later by Col. Denby, the remaining civilian member, who is still sitting as a member of the war investigation commission. At Manila the three civilian members will be joined by Admiral Dewey and Major-General Otis, who will complete the commission.

Sailed With the Doukhobors.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 23.—The Beaver Line steamer Lake Huron sailed yesterday morning for St. John, N.B., with her big load of Doukhobors. Only three of the pilgrims were left in Halifax, being a man named Alixey Ribben, his wife and child. The child had a light attack of measles, and it was decided to keep the family here until the steamer arrives from Batoum next week with the second batch of Doukhobor immigrants. The Lake Huron is due at St. John today.

The Filipinos' Spanish Prisoners.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The War Department has cabled to General Otis, in command of the military forces in the Philippines, asking if the Spanish prisoners held by the insurgents have been released. It is evident from this that the Government is moving toward the execution of article 6 of the peace treaty, by which the United States undertook "to obtain the release of all Spanish prisoners in the hands of the insurgents in the Philippines," and at its own cost to return the prisoners to their homes.

The number of the Spanish prisoners is considerable, running into the thousands. Quite a number are monks and friars.

Kettle River Fight Again.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—A financial man interested in the proposed Kettle River Valley Railroad said yesterday: "On the opening of the forthcoming session of the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada the application for a charter for the Kettle River Valley Company will be renewed. It was defeated last session through the opposition of the Canadian Pacific, which will still oppose the granting of a charter. The proposed road is an American enterprise, backed by American capital. Its object is to open up the rich mining district of southern British Columbia."

Alleged Forgery in Barrie.

Barrie, Ont., Jan. 23.—F. A. Vanskokle of this town was arrested on Friday afternoon charged with forging a cheque payable by his father for $20. He got the paper cashed. He acknowledged the offence, and will receive his preliminary trial on Monday. Bail was refused.

A Drunken Tailor's Suicide

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—Despairing of ever being able to govern his appetite for strong drink, Horace Bourdon, a French-Canadian tailor of this city, ended his life on Saturday morning by taking rough strychnine to kill half a dozen men.

The Greatest of Gluttons.

Apicius, the greatest of all gluttons, wrote a long and elaborate work on culinary science, which is filled with descriptions of extraordinary dishes and sauces. His sole ambition in life was to discover novelties in food, and to this pursuit he devoted all his energy and most of his wealth. Shrimps were at one time his hobby, and, because the marshes of Minturnæ produced shrimps of an enormous size, he set up a magnificent establishment in that seaport and made himself happy with his favorite luxury until he heard by chance that still larger shellfish of the same sort could be found in Africa.

Instantly he bought a ship and set sail for the blissful region. He was nearly drowned on the voyage, but that did not worry him. His single thought was of the delicious monsters awaiting him, but when the fishermen he employed could show him nothing bigger than he had eaten at home he flew into a rage and straightway started across the Mediterranean again, declaring that the whole continent of Africa was worthless compared with his private shrimp bed at Minturnæ.

Well, Apicius spent so much of his fortune on feasting that one day, on looking over his accounts, he found he had only a few millions left. Then the strange idea came into his head that he was going to die of starvation. And what do you think he did?"

"Cut down his expenses."

"Turned miser perhaps."

"He committed suicide. Just hanged himself out of sheer terror lest the time should come when he could not get enough to eat, though, in fact, he was rolling in wealth."—E. H. House in St. Nicholas.

The American Fishing Industry.

The American fishing industry is centered along the Massachusetts coast, Gloucester being the seaport mainly dependent upon it. The fishing fleet consists of about 400 sail, of which 300 engage in the branches of the industry which require bait as an essential. The year's operations begin in January, when a fleet of 80 or 100 vessels goes to Placentia bay, in Newfoundland and loads with frozen herring, for use as an article of food in the New England states and as bait in the halibut fishery on the Georga's banks, the scene of Kipling's novel, "Captains Courageous."

These herring are taken in seines by the Newfoundland fisherfolk and exposed to the crisp, cold air of the winter days on scaffolds or platforms of sticks, which allow them to become thoroughly frozen. They are purchased by the American vessels at $1 a barrel usually, and about 100,000 barrels are annually taken to the United States, besides half as many more which go to Canada in schooners belonging to that country.—P. T. McGrath in North America Reivew.

Rheumatism Cured in 4 Hours.

Mr. H. E. West, Water street, Vancouver, writes: I have been suffering from a bad attack of rheumatism in my right shoulder, and could not attempt to raise my arm, so great was the pain. A friend procured a bottle of Griffith's Mouth Liniment, and in less than four hours the pain entirely left me and has not returned. It certainly is a great pain reliever. 25 cents by all druggists.

FOREIGN RELATIONS DEBATE.

The General Interests of France, Said the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Had Guided His Course—He Recalls a Case in Point—The Czar's Disarmament—Cable News.

Paris, Jan. 24.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday MM. Denis, Radical Republican, and Cochin, spoke in a conciliatory strain, urging friendly negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the disputes with Great Britain.

Former Premier Ribot made a speech, criticising many of Great Britain's pretensions, especially in regard to Egypt and Madagascar, but at the same time upholding the necessity of an understanding between France and Great Britain. In so doing, he pointed out that the Dreibund had been weakened by the Franco-Italian rapprochement, and the Russo-Austrian entente. France only desired the peace of Europe, and to that end Frenchmen ought to forget their internal dissensions and think more of France.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Delcasse, said his policy had been directed towards conserving the permanent general interests of France. He recalled the role of France during the Spanish-American war, and said the appeal addressed to France "by one of the two nations with which we had equally critical relations," was all to the honor of France, and the Government could not refuse its assistance, knowing "that it would not be misunderstood by our friends in America. This was a moral advantage for France, which no one failed to understand."

Referring to the Czar's disarmament proposals, the Minister said France's whole sympathy supported them for two reasons—the good of humanity and respect for the nation with which her friendship was never more complete than now. France was aware that nothing would be asked of her in the nature of diminishing her strength. Relative to the protection of eastern Christians, France's historic position had not been weakened in the slightest degree. Unfortunately, there was a reverse side to the picture. The great states of the world differed, but he believed their disputes might be settled in a spirit of conciliation. It was in this spirit that the Fashoda incident was settled. M. Delcasse praised General Lord Kitchener's treatment of Major Marchand, the French officer who occupied Fashoda. The honor of France had been in no way tarnished. The Foreign Minister said in conclusion: "France is always ready to negotiate, being conscious of her rights. Great changes are preparing throughout the world, and, therefore, it is necessary to walk prudently. To complete our task in a dignified manner, the full support of the Chambers is necessary.

The House then adjourned.

One Friendly Frenchman.

Paris, Jan. 24.—M. d'Estournelles de Constant, Republican, former counsellor of the French embassy at London, in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday raised the question of the Anglo-French relations. He reviewed the Fashoda question, pronounced himself in opposition to the colonial megalomania, criticized the policy of the Government throughout and asked if they were at the beginning or at the end of the difficulties with Great Britain, with which country he urged a cordial understanding.

The Dreyfus Decision.

Paris, Jan. 24.—The decision of the Court of Cassation in the Dreyfus case will be made known in a couple of weeks, and is likely to produce a crisis ending in revolution. It is claimed that there is a plot on foot, not a military plot, but simply a plot to discredit the Court of Cassation. The wish is to prevent judgment or acquittal, which would be a condemnation of the War Office. The whole forces of the reaction are endeavoring under the mask of nationalism to defeat justice.

CHINESE REBELS

Captured the City of Kuyung and Ordered the Execution of All the Officials.

London, Jan. 24.—The Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from Shanghai:

"The Anhoui rebels, who, under the notorious desperado, Nui, reinforced by rebels from the Province of Honan, attacked the city of Kuyung on Jan. 10, captured it and ordered the execution of all the civil and military officials. They have also captured another city and district in the same prefecture, the rebel sympathizers having opened the gates of the town. The rebels are now marching to besiege Shaouchau in the Province of Kwangtung and Canchau in the Province of Kiangsi.

Inoculation for Typhoid.

London, Jan. 24.—Prof. Wright of the Netley Hospital has inoculated at Bangalore, in South India, 259 men of the 2nd West Riding Regiment against enteric or typhoid fever.

Dr. Wright is one of the very greatest living authorities on this disease. He is now in India and serving on the plague commission, and it is evident that he does not intend his special knowledge of enteric fever to be wasted.

Prof. Wright will, it is to be honed, conduct a thorough enquiry into the disease while he is in the east.

Daly Is Mayor of Limerick.

Dublin, Jan. 24.—John Daly, the Irish political prisoner, who was released from Portland Prison in 1896, after having been sentenced to penal servitude for life in 1884 for complicity in an alleged plot to blow up the House of Commons while in session, by throwing dynamite bombs from the strangers' gallery, has been elected Mayor of Limerick by a unanimous vote, under the new Irish Local Government Act.

British Warships Collide.

Devonport, England, Jan. 24.—The British first-class battleship Collingwood, driven by the strong currents, yesterday, collided with the British third-class cruiser Curacoa, driving a hole in the cruiser below her water-line, sweeping off her boats and damaging a gun sponson. The Curacoa filled rapidly and began to list. The cruiser was docked. The damage to the Collingwood was not serious.

READY TO BEGIN.

Prof. Maartens of St Petersburg Is to Judge the Diplomatic Game Over Venezuela.

Paris, Jan. 24.—M. Maartens, professor of international law at the University of St. Petersburg, who is umpire in the Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration, arrived here on Saturday, and promptly visited M. Delcasse, Minister for Foreign Affairs, Gen. Horace Porter, the United States ambassador, and Sir Edmond J. Monson, the British ambassador.

Sir Edmond Monson will give an elaborate banquet to the members of the diplomatic corps in Paris on Wednesday, at which all the members of the arbitration commission will be present.

On Thursday M. Delcasse will give a lunch to the arbitrators of the United States and British ambassadors and the Venezuelan minister. Next Monday evening Gen. Porter will give a dinner to the arbitrators and to the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and Venezuela. The arbitrators will hold a preliminary session on Wednesday in apartments assigned them at the offices of the Foreign Minister, when they will arrange as to their procedure. An adjournment will then be taken till the middle of April.

May Last for Months.

London, Jan. 24.—The Times says: "Owing to the immense mass of documents put in, the Venezuelan arbitration sessions are expected to last for several months."

WAITING.

German Foreign Office Despatches Say the Samoan Government Closed the Court.

Berlin, Jan. 24.—The United States ambassador, Mr. Andrew White, up to yesterday afternoon had not received instructions from Washington in regard to the recent trouble in Samoa.

The National Zeitung declares that no suggestion of a conference of Samoa has yet been made by any of the Governments interested.

The Foreign Office despatches yesterday gave important details of the disturbances. It appears from them that the Supreme Court of Apia was not closed by the German consul's orders, but by the orders of the Samoan Government. It is said that the German consul was not even present when the incident occurred.

As to Private Bills.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Eleven more private bills were registered by the clerk of the Local House yesterday, to be presented at the coming session.

The clerk of the House gives notice that regarding private bills, Monday, Feb. 13, will be the last day for receiving petitions; Monday, Feb. 20, the last day for introducing private bills; Friday, March 3, the last day for receiving reports of committees on private bills.

Fire in the I.C.R. Coal Shed.

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 24.—About 10 o'clock last night fire broke out near the engine in the coal shed of the I.C.R. yards, and soon spread. It almost totally destroyed the building, which was of wood. The loss will be about $1,500.

MR. ELLISON INTENDED

To Have Given Hon. Joseph Martin a Bad Thrashing

IF LATTER HAD STRUCK FIRST.

Exciting Scene in the British Columbia Lobby—Attorney-General Martin's Meeting With Mr. Price Ellison—Ellison's Version of the Encounter—It Is Said Prosecution Will Follow.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 24.—Hon. Joseph Martin created a scene in the lobby of the House on Saturday by making Mr. Price Ellison, the Opposition member from Okanagan, the subject of several uncomplimentary remarks. It seems Mr. Ellison at a bye-election meeting took occasion to deny a Government report that he was disqualified, and he repudiated the rumor that he proposed to flop to the treasury side. He declared himself loyal to the Turner party and policy, and observed that he would ever be found supporting those who had labored for years in the interest of British Columbia, and had staked their all in the province, in preference to coming under the hypnotic spell of a new arrival who came with his possessions in a carpet bag, and could easily leave them. Meeting Mr. Ellison in the lobby Mr. Martin asked him if he had been correctly reported. Mr. Ellison replied affirmatively, and was then informed that he was a liar and several other things. "I can pay my debts," continued the head of the Department of Justice, "and that's more than you do." This Mr. Ellison denied. "I expected every moment he would strike," said the member for Okanagan, "and if he had I intended to give him the worst thrashing a man ever had. He kept his hands to himself, however, and I kept my temper." The Premier and Finance Minister finally got Mr. Martin away. It is everywhere looked upon as more than a personal matter, and the intention is to report to the Speaker in the House, and also prosecute the Attorney-General before Police Magistrate Hall under the criminal code.

ARBITRATION RESUMED.

The Grand Trunk and Its Telegraphers in the Final Stages.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—The arbitration between the telegraphers and the Grand Trunk Railway, which was opened in Montreal, was resumed in this city yesterday. The conference chamber was the office of Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., and here Chief Justice Sir W. R. Meredith sat to hear the arguments. The telegraphers were represented by Mr. F. P. Sargent and Grand Chief Powell of the Order of Railway Telegraphers. The company's side was supported by Mr. Osler, Q.C., General Manager Hays and General Superintendent McGuigan.

The question in debate all day was that of wages, the telegraphers wanting a minimum salary of $40 a month, working day of 12 hours and payment of 15c for each hour thereafter.

Grand Chief Powell spoke all the morning and Mr. Hays replied during the afternoon.

No decision is likely to be reached before Wednesday, and in the meantime the profoundest secrecy prevails.

RELICS OF THE EARLY ROMANS.

Archeologists Are Excited Over the Recent Finds at Baden.

Strasburg, Jan. 24.—German archaeologists are excited by the news of daily finds in various parts of the country, but notably at Baden-Baden. Excavations in that city have resulted in the disclosing, only seven feet below the surface of Roemerplatz, of a Roman votive altar hewn from sandstone. The altar bears the inscription, "Devoted to the divine honor of the Imperial Roman house." Another find at Baden-Baden, with the qualities of whose waters the Romans are known to have been well acquainted, which greatly delights the German antiquaries, is an extended series of Roman baths, each bath connected with a canal, through which the water might be discharged.

Explosion in Stratford.

Stratford, Ont., Jan. 24.—The residents in the vicinity of the gas works were startled by an explosion which took place between 4 and 5 o'clock Sunday morning. The brick annex to the generating building was completely demolished, the walls being levelled to the ground. Fortunately, no one was hurt, though the men in charge had a narrow escape. The cause of the explosion is not definitely known, but is supposed to be connected in some way with a new process for the production of ammonia, which is being tried. The damage is between $1,000 and $2,000.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The charges and specifications upon which Commissary-General Eagan is to be tried this week have been given to the press. They are as follows:

Charge 1—Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

Charge 2—Conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.

The precise nature of General Eagan's plea to these charges and specifications has not yet been determined upon.

Commissioners Had a Day Off.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The high joint Anglo-American commission did not meet yesterday, but different sub-committees held sessions in the forenoon. The commission will hold a session today.

Weak and Run Down, With Heart and Kidneys in Bad Condition—Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was very much run down, having been sick for several months. I had been trying different remedies which did me no good. I would have severe spells of coughing that would leave me prostrate. I was told that my lungs were affected, and my heart and kidneys were in a bad condition. In fact, it seemed as though every organ was out of order. I felt that something must be done and my brother advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before it was half gone I felt that it was helping me. I continued its use and it has made me a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly." MRS. SUMMERVILLE, 217 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ontario. Get only Hood's, because

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Information upon the requirements of the British market is always in order, and, when reliable, cannot be too thoroughly disseminated throughout the country. An English dealer writing to the Toronto Globe, says with reference to the market for canned fruits, that there is a good demand, "if they are put up in a way to suit the trade. It is useless to put them up the same way for this market as for the home market. If you want our trade you must put your goods up to suit us. One fault the trade finds with Canadian canned fruits is that they are put up in too small tins. No tin should contain less than three pounds, and then must weigh what they are labelled. One firm sent over some canned tongue marked a pound and a half, but they only weighed a pound net. The quicker the Canadian exporter makes up his mind that he cannot fool the British importer the better for himself and all Canadian trade here. I often have my attention called to the dishonest packing of apples. There are apple exporters in Canada whose apples always fetch the highest price in the market, because they are known to be honest packers."

A MARKET WORTH CATERING FOR.

The writer further states that an immense preserved fruit trade might be secured if Canada had free sugar, a trade, indeed, that would employ more capital and labour in Canada in five years than the sugar refineries in fifty. Of the market for manufactured articles he says, "There are a large number of manufactured articles selling here and the number would be very largely increased if the manufacturers would send over a practical man to see what is used and what the people want, and not try to sell them something they don't want. There are large firms here who make a business of handling American specialties and know just what the trade requires. A Toronto manufacturer has just placed a patent table in the hands of such a firm here, and they have already got orders for over forty thousand of them. The same firm gave another Canadian an order for one thousand churns this week. I was in the cellar of a large importer of Canadian and Australian butter this morning, and he pointed out to me how much cleaner and nicer, the latter do their packing than you do."

SUPPIES FOR IMPERIAL FORCES.

In the same connection it is satisfactory to learn that the efforts of the Canadian High Commissioner in London to secure a share of the business with Imperial army and navy authorities for Canadian traders promises to be successful. The Lords Commissioners having intimated that they would be pleased to invite any Canadian firm of packers who might apply, and who could show their ability to carry out their contract, to tender. Among the goods that would probably be required are: salt beef in casks, dried and evaporated fruits and vegetables, preserved fruits, preserved meats in tins, tobacco, etc. The Department of Trade and Commerce is in active communication with the London office on the subject, and will furnish all the information in their possession to parties interested.

A WORD TO CATTLE BREEDERS.

In the course of an address before the Farmers' Institute of Simcoe last week, Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, made some practical and valuable observations upon our agricultural industries, the success of which means so much to the country at large. He pointed out that stock-raising was yearly becoming more the staple agricultural industry of the Eastern Provinces, as wheat-raising is the staple of the west. It was important therefore that the farmer should know how to produce these animals cheapest and best. The first essential was cleanliness, and so well had this detail been attended to, that the flocks and herds of Canada were exceptionally free from disease; out of 10,000 animals that had been tested for tuberculosis, only 8 per cent. had been effected.

While the trade in cattle was increasing, continued the Minister, the export of sheep had decreased, and it looked as if less attention was being paid this branch of the industry than heretofore. This was much to be regretted. He alluded to the large shipment of Canadian cattle to the United States since the removal of the quarantine. For the four years this was in force, shipments totalled 3 763 animals. In the twenty-one months following its removal, a total of 1,146,462 animals had been reached. Two things were proved by this fact. One was that a natural trade between the United States and Canada existed, which had been cut off by the quarantine. The other was that the abrogation of the embargo removed from our market in Canada a glut of young animals and poor animals, which otherwise could not be disposed of.

A RECORD IN MANITOBA.

The final returns of the Manitoba crops for last season, showing as they do a total grain harvest of 47,345,664 bushels as against 32,402,789 bushels last year, indicate not only an increase of 14,942,875 bushels, but also the largest crop ever gathered in Manitoba. The potato and root crops were also very large, the former being 1,216,702 bushels in excess of that of 1897, and the latter 1,249,930 bushels larger The acreage devoted to the production of wheat, oats and barley was 18 ,000 ahead of the previous year. In live stock an increase is reported in horses and cattle, the former of 1,562 on a total of 101,838, and in cattle an increase of 5,225 on a total of 227,000. Sheep and pigs, however, have both decreased in quantity.

Taken as a whole the year has been the most prosperous one Manitoba has ever had, and one result has been that new farm buildings to the value of $1,450,000 have been erected since last spring. The preparation of land for wheat-sowing next spring has been on a very extensive scale, and it is expected that the area sown in 1899 to this cereal will be at least 100,000 acres larger than it was last season.

THEY UNDERSTAND IT NOW.

The recent legislation of the Ontario Provincial Legislature restricting and regulating the immigration of pauper children, and the subsequent criticisms made thereon by some of the corporations engaged in the work in the old country, has created wide-spread interest in Great Britain, and led to some misunderstanding as to the true intention of the authorities here. The Lieutenant Governor however has removed the misapprehension by officially notifying the Colonial office that the statute in question was never intended to prohibit the work but simply to establish proper regulations and control, so as to prevent the careless and indiscriminate immigration of vicious and defective children. While at first there was an apparent disposition to resent the action of the Canadian authorities as unnecessarily harsh, this explanation has entirely removed that impression, the prevailing sentiment now being the one expressed in the Liverpool Mercury, "We have no moral right to saddle physically or mentally defective children upon our Transatlantic kinsmen." Another leading North Country paper remarks, "These are reasonable conditions and should not interfere with the usefulness of philanthropic organizations or the legitimate activity of boards of guardians."

Deadly Narcotics

Drag a Lady to the Depths of Despair.

Death Longed for as a Release from Suffering.

Paine's Celery Compound Rescues the Victim and Builds Her Up Physically and Mentally.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,

Gentlemen:—I am happy to tell you that I have completely recovered my health through the use of Paine's Celery Compound. For some years past my nerves and system were almost wrecked by narcotics used to alleviate pain. The doctors could not help me, and I thought I would forever have to remain a slave to deadly drugs. I often longed for death as a release from my sufferings. After enduring pains and agonies that were terrible, I determined to try Paine's Celery Compound, without any full hope, however, that it would cure me. When I had used a part of the second bottle I thought it was doing me good; I could sleep well and did not faint so often, and I decided to continue the use of the medicine. After the use of fifteen bottles I am completely cured. I feel so strong and well now, and have such perfect health that I sometimes think it is too good to be true. For the benefit of thousands of poor souls suffering from the effects of deadly narcotics I give my statement as an encouragement to them—an assurance that Paine's Celery Compound will cure them.

Sincerely and gratefully,
MRS. LOUISA WARNER,
Montgomery, N.W.T.

HUXLEY AND THE PORTER.

A Story Showing That Professors Can Sometimes Be Stupid.

Old Alexander, the porter of the institution and quite a distinguished character among the members of the society, was assisting the professor to hang the diagrams. The screen on which the diagrams were hung was not very large, and Huxley, do as he would, could not succeed without the blank corner of one diagram overlapping the illustration of another one on which he placed great importance. What was to be done? The professor asked Alexander to bring a pair of scissors. The scissors were brought, but as the joint was somewhat loose the professor was not able to cut the paper, and he threw the scissors down in disgust, adding that they were useless. "Vera guid shears, professor," said Alexander. "I tell you they won't cut," said Huxley. "Try again," said Alexander. "They will cut."

The professor tried again, and not succeeding said somewhat angrily, "Bring me another pair of scissors." Lord (then Sir William) Armstrong stepped forward and ordered Alexander to go and buy a new pair. "Vera guid shears, Sir William," persisted Alexander, and picking up the scissors from the table and placing his thumb and forefinger into the handles he stepped forward and asked Huxley how he wanted the paper cut. "Cut it there," said Huxley somewhat tartly, at the same time indicating the place with his forefinger.

Alexander took hold of the paper, and, inserting the scissors, pressed the blades together and cut off the required portion as neatly as if he had used a straight edge, then turning to the professor with a rather significant leer and twinkle of the eye said, "Seeance an airt dinna aye gang thegither, professor." Huxley and all present collapsed. Huxley put his hand into his pocket and, taking out a sovereign, gave it to Alexander, adding at the same time, "You have done me." The same evening Alexander related the story with great gusto to a friend. When asked how he dared make so free with such a distinguished man, he replied with great emphasis, "Lord, mon, they bits o' professor bodies ken naething at a' except their bulks."—Cornhill Magazine.

WASHINGTON AS A SENTINEL.

Walked on Guard at Valley Forge to Relieve a Starving Soldier.

William Perrine gives a graphic picture of Washington's memorable winter of suffering at Valley Forge in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Sentinels pacing in the snow on the outposts took off their caps and stood in them to save their feet from freezing," he writes. "Here and there could be found even officers in a sort of dressing gown made of old woolen bedcovers. The stout hearted women of New Jersey sent their quilted clothes as Christmas presents, with the patriotic jest that as women were said sometimes to wear the trousers, so now there would be an excuse for men who might wear the petticoats.

"Washington, who never exaggerated, said that few men had more than one shirt, many only half a one, and some none at all. Nearly 3,000 men were barefooted, and occasionally might be seen a soldier who was all but naked. Sometimes there was nothing to eat in the camp but rotten salted herrings. Men were known to snatch at the dough of half baked cakes in the kitchens of the farmers' wives. The contractors and the commissary agents and the continental congress had brought 12,000 men to the verge of starvation, and the blood of General Wayne ran hot with rage as he looked on his poor fellows, weak with hunger. Indeed there was but one horn tumbler and also but one wooden dish for every mess.

"Washington himself dined one day on potatoes and hickory nuts. 'My good man,' he said to the sentinel in front of his headquarters, pacing up and down in the bitterness of a cold morning, 'have you had anything to eat?' 'No, sir,' was the reply. 'Give me your musket, then, and go inside and get some breakfast.' And the tall commander gravely walked up and down as guard over his own house."

2,000 DOUKHOBORS

Land in St. John, N.B., and Then Embark on the Trains for the West—A Peculiar People.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 24.—The steamer Huron, with the Doukhobors on board, arrived here yesterday at 4 p.m., and, although it was dead low water, the steamer came right up to her wharf. The C.P.R. train crews for five trains, with locomotives, coaches, were at Sand Point and vicinity from early morning, and the passenger train which was to leave first for the west was placed on the wharf tracks, while the box cars, to carry the Doukhobors' effects, were placed on the track in the rear of the warehouse. The colonist cars contained sleeping apartments, plenty of fresh water, etc., and were very comfortable, while the tourist cars, besides having all the above conveniences, are fitted out with a neat and serviceable cooking stove. In the centre of each train of eight passenger coaches is a large baggage car, which is used for the provisions.

In the provision cars, which are very clean, were rows of cans for coffee and tea, piles of new tin plates, knives, forks, spoons, cups, etc., for the Doukhobors, while there was fresh water in abundance This car also contains brooms, pails, soap, etc., while in the provision line there is cheese, tea, sugar, milk, salt, vegetables and a large amount of fresh bread. Nothing has been left undone by the Government and the C.P.R. officials for the comfort of the new settlers, who are en route for the great Canadian Northwest.

The upper deck of the steamship was alive with the Doukhobors, who, in their sheepskin costumes, presented a sight never seen in this city. When the large steamship was slowly moving towards the pier, about two dozen citizens, each armed with a camera, were busily engaged in taking snapshots of the vessel and her passengers, and some very fine pictures were secured.

The Doukhobors were received with cheers, which they duly acknowledged in their peculiar fashion, and, after singing a song of thanksgiving and praise, the landing commenced.

As they passed through the sheds to the train, the ladies of the Women's Council presented each child with a bag containing candy, oranges, etc., which were gratefully received.

The trains were filled up rapidly and despatched promptly. Five in all were made up and went out. The appearance and manners of the Russians impressed the people of St. John most favorably.

IN BROCKVILLE

Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Done Wonderful Work.

They Have Saved Hundreds of Persons From Death—Among Others Mr. Ed. N. Stowell, Who, His Doctor Said, Must Die of Bright's Disease.

Brockville, Jan. 23.—Hamilton undoubtedly has good cause to boast of the large number of lives saved by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills in that city. But Brockville is not a whit behind the Ambitious City, in this respect.

There are hundreds of persons in Brockville who would, undoubtedly, have died of Kidney Disease had it not been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Take the case of Mr. Ed. N. Stowell, for instance.

Mr. Stowell is a commercial traveller, and lives at 213 Main street. For several years he was a constant sufferer from Kidney Disease—as most members of his profession are.

One of the most eminent physicians in Canada pronounced his trouble to be Bright's Disease, and said he could never get better. Mr. Stowell began to arrange his earthly affairs, having given up hope of recovery.

One night he read an advertisement telling how Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured many cases of Bright's Disease, even after the doctors had said they were incurable.

He took heart again, and next day began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. To his intense surprise and delight he began to feel better, almost immediately.

Soon the change became so marked that his friends noted it, and wondered what caused the improvement.

To cut a long story short SEVEN BOXES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MR STOWELL OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE AFTER ONE OF THE BEST DOCTORS IN CANADA HAD SAID HE COULD NOT RECOVER.

This is merely an example of the wonderful work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing in Brockville. They are the greatest lifesavers of the age, and their cheapness (fifty cents a box at all drug stores) puts them within easy reach of everyone.

SANTIAGO MORPHY MAY GO FREE.

Exciting Race Between Uncle Sam's Mails and International Law.

Washington, Jan. 24.—There will be a notable race against time in the effort of the Mexican authorities to secure the person of Santiago Morphy, the Mexican National Bank employe who is wanted on a charge of forgery, amounting to $70,000. Morphy is now held under arrest in New Orleans, and as the extradition treaty expires to-day, there must be some lively work on the part of the Mexican authorities to get their man across the boundary line before then. Saturday last the State Department delivered to Senor Godoy, the Mexican charge here, the papers necessary to secure the delivery of Morphy to the Mexican police agents, but as these papers were entrusted to the mails it is doubtful whether or not they will arrive in time to secure the man.

A Ridiculous and False Claim,

As a rule, modern newspaper advertisers endeavour to make their statements clear and truthful; they know that an intelligent public—especially the women portion—quickly condemn untruths and deceptions.

Some advertisers, intending to soar high, suddenly fall from the sublime to the ridiculous in their statements. Such errors are promptly detected by the class of people the advertisers would influence.

Imagine an advertiser of dyes for home dyeing, after giving a long list of the virtues possessed by his products, remarking, "They cleanse and dye at the same time." This statement made to tens of thousands of intelligent women is so contrary to truth and common sense, that the advertiser is, without loss of time condemned as a simpleton or deceiver.

Diamond Dyes, the standard home dyes of the world dare not make any such claim. In their valuable book on Home Dyeing (sent free to all who send for it) they specially mention that "all goods should be cleaned before they are dyed." A Solon, however, arises in the land and formulates a new doctrine by asserting that —— —— Dyes "cleanse and dye at the same time." Soon we will hear of some new starch manufacturer making a claim that his starch will cleanse and stiffen at the same time!

No wonder that many of our women show temper and suffer disappointment when they make use of dyes that pretend to take out dirt and re-colour at the one operation. No wonder that deceived women complain of muddy and dismal colours after using adulterated dyestuffs.

Let it be distinctly understood that the inventive genius of man has not yet devised a dye that will take out grease spots, stains and dirt and at the same time give a decent colour. The Diamond Dyes, the world's popular home dyes—gives the fullest and richest colours on all materials when the goods are clean. They are the only warranted dyes on the market and always do what is claimed for them. Do not allow the false claims of any manufacturer of common dyes to lead you into trouble and financial loss.

Another Vacher at Large.

Paris, Jan. 24.—The police believe that a second Vacher is at large, who, without motive, stabs young girls on lonely roads on their way home from work.

During the last week two cases have been reported of girls being suddenly met by the assassin, who sprang from behind some tree and stabbed them. Neither of these was fatally injured, but yesterday a 14-year-old girl named Ernestine Lombardini, on her way home near the Place Saint Louis, was stabbed and killed. There were ten wounds in her body.

Her purse, which contained a few francs, had not been taken.

Although the health of King Oscar of Sweden continues to improve, his physicians have ordered him to take a complete rest. Therefore, His Majesty has entrusted the Government, provisionally, to Crown Prince Gustaf, and has gone to Saltsoja-Baden.

The dealings in the New York Stock Exchange on Monday showed the enormous figure of 1,630,610 shares, and the total sales of bonds $9,046,000. The sales of stocks were the largest in the history of the exchange, not excepting the great record made in 1892, during the excitement over the Reading issues.

The Philippine Junta in London has received advices that it Agoncillo, Aguinaldo's agent at Washington, is not received by the United States Government soon, he will be recalled to Manila and relations suspended. The Junta also reports that a large number of American troops are engaged to Philippine girls.

The colonial commission to undertake the administration of matters of detail in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, is composed of General Robert P. Kennedy of Belfontaine, O., Curtis Guild of Massachusetts, and George W. Watkins of Grand Rapids, Mich. They will be charged with settling all the minor troubles that are vexing the islanders.

The commissioners sent by the Cuban Assembly to Washington to learn what the United States Government will do about paying the Cuban army, sail on Wednesday for Havana. General Gomez's secretary, Capt. Kohly, said that the Cubans were all willing and ready to help the United States authorities; that no difficulties would arise between the two interests which could not be settled in a peaceable way.

RUSSIANS NOT HOPEFUL.

Military Not Overjoyed at the Proposal to Check Armaments.

London, Jan. 24.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says: "Few people in Russia are very hopeful of the results of the Czar's conference for the limitation of armaments. Certainly the military element is not overjoyed, although better pay might be the result of retrenchment in war expenditure.

"It is now said that it was a request by Gen. Kuropatkin for more money to increase the pay of officers and to acquire a new gun that first caused Emperor Nicholas and M. de Witte (the Finance Minister) to ask themselves where the demands of the War Department would stop. A secret commission of the Ministers of War, Marine, Finance and Foreign Affairs then sat to advise the Czar on the subject."

WHERE TO WATCH THE STARS.

British Government to Establish an Observatory Outside of Cairo.

Cairo, Jan. 24.—The Government has decided to erect an observatory on the Mokattam Hills.

Freaks of the Camera.

Paris, Jan. 24.—The Siecle yesterday, in order to show the unreliability of photographic evidence, published a supplement with a series of photographs representing public men in incongruous company. One picture represented M. Arthur Meyer, editor of The Gaulois, with his hand on the shoulder of the Duchesse d'Uzes. The Duchesse has begun an action against The Siecle, claiming 22,000 damages.

Possibilities of the Soudan.

Cairo, Jan. 24.—The possibilities of cultivation of the banks of the Blue and White Nile are enormous. Mr. J. L. Gorst, financial adviser of the Egyptian Government, says there is no scope yet for the investment of capital, and any scheme for developing the Soudan by private enterprise would be premature. When Khartoum is rebuilt it will be a fine city.

A Suicide at 103.

Rome, Jan. 24.—A despatch from Campo-Basso reports the suicide of the widow Maria Cherchitelli, who was 103 years old. She used sublimate of potash as a means of self-destruction.

The deceased had been married six times and had had 16 children, of whom only two survive her. She married for the sixth time when she was 70 years old.

WOODSTOCK WONDER.

A Crippled Rheumatic is Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 16.—Never, in the social history of this town since the Birchall trial, has such great interest been shown as the "Cutmore Case" has caused.

Mr. C. J. Cutmore, 90 Main street, was crippled by Rheumatism and Lumbago during five years. He couldn't stand straight and had to be helped from his room.

To-day he is straight and strong; sound in every limb, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Other remedies were used, but did no good, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Practical Wives.

The wives of men of sentiment often possess a vein of strong common sense and a matter of fact nature which may at times serve to bring their poetical husbands down from their flights of fancy rather rudely.

Jean Paul represents Siebenkas as reading one of his beautiful fancies to his wife, who listened with eyes cast down, apparently absorbed in his words. As he finished and waited for her appreciation to express itself she said quickly:

"Don't put on those stockings tomorrow, dear. I must mend that hole in the left one."

One day, when Sir Walter and Lady Scott were roaming about their estate, they saw some playful lambs in a meadow.

"Ah," said Sir Walter, "'tis no wonder that poets from the earliest ages have made the lamb the emblem of peace and innocence!"

"They are indeed delightful animals," said Lady Scott, "particularly with mint sauce!"—Youth's Companion.

She Caught the Doctor.

"That little Mrs. Percy is altogether too facetious," growled the doctor when he reached home.

"What has she done?" asked his wife.

"Why, I told her today that her husband was at last on the road to recovery, but that she must be particularly careful to see that he suffered no mental or nervous shock until he has fully regained his health and strength, and she instantly suggested that it probably would be wise for me to withhold my bill for six months or so under those circumstances."—Chicago Post.

STRONG ADVANCE.

Chicago Futures in Wheat Went Up a Cent and Liverpool Also Advanced —The Latest Prices.

Monday Evening, Jan. 23.

Liverpool wheat futures to-day advanced ¾d to 1d per cental over Saturday's close, corn declined 5 to 10 centimes and Antwerp wheat 15 centimes.

Chicago wheat fuures were strong to-day. The arguments used by the bulls were last week's small increase in the visible supply, and the good export demand. May wheat advanced nearly a cent and a quarter and July wheat one cent a bushel. The close was at the top prices for the day.

Visible and Afloat.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 336,000 bushels; that of corn has increased 2,660,000 bushels, and that of oats has increased 1,250,000 bushels.

To recapitulate, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 54,013,000 bushels, against 54,735,000 bushels a week ago, and 69,303,000 bushels a year ago.

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Receipts of live stock at the East End Abattoir this morning were: 500 head of cattle, 30 calves, 50 sheep and 200 lambs.

The attendance was large and the prices firmly held.

Good cattle sold at from 4¼c to 4¾c per lb.; lower grades from 2c to 3c per lb.

Calves were sold from $2 to $9, according to size.

Sheep brought from 3c to 3½c per lb. for choice, and culls from 2c to 2½c per lb.

Lambs sold from 4c to 4½c per lb.

Hogs were sold at from $4.30 to $4.50.

Buffalo Live Stock.

Buffalo, Jan. 23.—Cattle—The offerings were 135 loads, including 19 loads of Canada stockers. The demand for butcher cattle opened fairly active and higher, and at the start extra grades were slow, but sold strong and a little higher later. The quality of the offerings was generally better, and while sales were at higher prices, it was due principally to the quality of the export and the handy butcher grades. The stocker trade was so irregular as to leave a wide difference in prices from the opening to the close, the general bunch being lower with a few early sales above quotations. Good to best smooth, fat export cattle, $5.75 to $6; good to best, $5.50 to $5.75; export bulls, $3.75 to $4.50; good to choice butchers' steers, $4.65 to $5.10; common to good fat bulls, $3.75 to $4; feeder bulls, $3.50 to $3.85; good to best fat heifers, $4 to $4.25; fair to good heifers, $3.75 to $4; mixed fat cows and heifers, good to choice, $3.75 to $4; fat cows, good to best, $3.50 to $4; stockers, choice to extra quality, $3.75 to $4.20; common to good, do, $3.60 to $3.85; Jersey stockers, $2.75 to $3; stock heifers, $3 to $3.10; feeders, good to extra, $4 to $4.30; common to good, $3.75 to $4; fresh cows, choice to extra good bags, $3.50 to $5.50; good to choice, $42 to $46; springers, good to extra, $35 to $45; calves, choice to extra, $7.75 to $8; good to choice, $7 to $7.50; heavy fed steer calves, good color, $4 to $4.50; common, $3 to $3.75.

Sheep and lambs—The offerings were more than sufficient for the demand, the total being 105 loads. There was a fair trade for lambs on the basis of five cents, which was the general price for good ones, but the first choice of the morning was at $5.10, but not many were sold at that price. The quality to-day was generally good. Lambs, choice to extra were quotable, $4.90 to $5; good to choice, $4.75 to $4.90; fair to good, $4.50 to $4.75; feeding lambs, $4.50 to $4.75. Sheep, choice to extra, $4.25 to $4.40; good to choice, $4 to $4.25. The tone of the sheep trade was easy. At the close there were about 30 loads left over. There were only three loads of Canada lambs, which sold on the basis of $4.90.

Hogs—The market was generally active and higher under moderate offerings, and light invoices reported for the week. Heavy were quotable, $4 to $.05; medium, $3.95 to $4; pigs, $3.85; Yorkers, $3.90 to $4; roughs, $3.20 to $4; stags, $2.50 to $3. The offerings were well cleaned up at the close, with prospects firm for the week.

The wedding took place at the Pinwood Avenue Methodist church, the bride being assisted by Miss Hattie Holmes, formerly of town, and the groom by Mr. W. O. Holmes, of Buffalo.

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to their future residence, 209 Glenwood avenue, where a reception was held.

ANNUAL INSPECTION NECESSARY.

A Change in the Weights and Measure Act.

Attention is drawn to a change in the Weights and Measures Act. Under the old act persons were called upon to have their scales inspected once in two years and four months. Under the new clause all scales in grain elevators, railroads, collieries, flouring mills, cheese factories, grain warehouses, public markets and scales used for weighing coal must be inspected annually. All these affected should govern themselves accordingly.

A SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION.

The Sunday School Association of Harvey Held its Annual Meeting.

The District Sunday School Association of Harvey and North Smith held a very successful convention in the Wesley Methodist church on the 17th instant.

The Rev. Macknight, B.A., at the morning session, gave address on "Creations of Sunday School;" and, at the evening session, to to make up, as far as possible, for the unavoidable absence of other expected participants in the programme, he gave an address on "Sunday School, Church, Home." The clerical gentlemen from Peterborough, who so kindly came to help, arrived at the close of the morning session and thenceforward did all that able men could to meet the expectations of the large audiences assembled to greet them. The Rev. J. G Potter, M. A., at the afternoon session, gave an address on "The Gospel of St. John," and answered half of "The Question Drawer," and at the evening session he gave an address on "Our work, our aim, our hope." The Rev. H. Symonds, M.A., at the afternoon session gave an address on "The Unity of the Bible," and answered the remaining half of "The Question Drawer," and at the evening session he gave an address on "How to study the Bible." These addresses were all excellent and eminently calculated to further the work of the Sunday schools within the district. The The officers elect are: President, Mr. S. Northey; secretary-treasurer, Mr. D. Weir. The collections taken up were sufficient almost to extinguish last year's deficit and meet the expenses of this convention. After a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, to the Rev. Mr. Dove, minister, and the officers and members of the North Smith Methodist congregation, to the Indian choir, to the Rev. Messrs. Potter and Symonds, and all who contributed to the success of the convention. This very enjoyable and profitable series of meetings was closed with the singing of the hymn, "God be with you, etc.," and the giving of the benediction.

THE LATE MRS. CLIFFORD.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I notice in the last WEEKLY EXAMINER in your report of Mrs. Clifford's death, a little error that I would like to call your attention to. You speak of her as Mrs. John Clifford. It should have been Mrs. William Clifford. Mrs John Clifford is living with her son in Otonabee and is in good health and comfortable circumstances. I draw your attention to this to prevent unpleasantness for Mrs. Clifford.

Yours respectfully,
W. B. T.

HOCKEY.

The greatest hockey match of the season takes place in the rink to-night between the Peterborough seniors and the famous Waterloo team. The rival sevens will line up as follows:

Peterborough.		Waterloo
Wasson	goal	Koehler
Reynolds	point	Rouson
Hollingshead	cover point	Forrester
Bellegham	forwards	Hendry
Crowley	forwards	Liffiton
Davidson	forwards	Westwick
King	forwards	Seagram

The personnel of the Peterborough team has been changed since the last game. Crowley, a new man, will take the place of Crossley, who has been laid up with the grip for the last few days. Crowley will be the tallest man on the Peterborough team and as he is a fast strong skater and accurate shooter, he may be depended upon to do good work to-night.

The visitors are playing Westwick of the Ottawa Capitals, who is said to be the best forward in Canada. The Peterboroughs, however, are in the best of shape, and if the Waterloos played the whole Capital team they couldn't win to-night.

The game starts at 8.30 sharp, and a Toronto man will referee.

The Waterloos left home at nine o'clock this morning and arrive in Peterborough at 5.30 p.m.

A SERMON ON CHRISTIAN UNITY

DELIVERED BY REV. J. C. DAVIDSON ON SUNDAY LAST.

He Deals Comprehensively with the Various Questions Affecting the Point at Issue.

In St. John's, on Sunday morning Rev. J. C. Davidson said that in view of the public discussion on Christian Unity during the week he deemed it his duty to draw attention to a few great facts on which such discussion must turn.

The Rector first spoke of the pressing need for unity, which all must feel. Religion was intended to be a holy bond uniting us all to God and to one another. Instead of this it was to-day dividing the community and separating Christians who should be in fellowship. But, while unity was worthy of a high price, if it could be purchased, it was not worthy of one price that was sometimes suggested—to gain it (or anything else) we could never sacrifice fundamental truth nor surrender any integral part of the heritage entrusted to us, not for ourselves only, but for all who would share its blessings. This would explain the attitude of the Church of England up to the present. She had not been actuated by any feelings of pride or superiority. If so no excuse could be offered. A certain exclusiveness was forced upon us, if we would speak and act consistently with the truth. This had debarred us from ministerial exchanges, &c, but this enforced attitude was no reflection on others, because our historic position and heritage were peculiar. However, we were desirous of all possible fellowship, and perhaps would find that further advances could be made without wrongful compromise.

"THE LAMBETH QUADULATERAL."

Now look at the steps which the Church of England has taken in the direction of unity. She has, in Her highest conclaves considered the extremest length to which she could go in treating with others without betraying Her own trust. As a result of such deliberations She in 1888 threw out to the Christian world a kindly challenge to treat with any Christian body with a view to inter-communion, on the basis of the truth of four great propositions:—

(1) "The Holy Scriptures as * * * the rule and ultimate standard of faith."

(2) "The Apostles' Creed as the Baptismal Symbol and the Nicene Creed as the sufficient statement of Christian Faith."

3 The two sacraments, Ministered with unfailing use of Christ's word of institution and the elements ordained by Him.'

4. "The Historic Episcopate locally adapted in the methods of its administration to the varying needs of the nations and people called of God into the unity of His Church."

Note in the above, said the Rector, how many precious possessions of the Church are passed over as non-essential to a position as a true branch of the Church Catholic, e. g. Confirmation and the whole of our Liturgical service. Not that there was, we may believe, any intention of giving these things up, but it was deemed possible to hold inter communion with a branch of the Church not possessing them.

Indeed, in these four propositions everything of a distinctively Anglican or local character is eliminated, and only the great main essentials of the Church Catholic are retained. Surely, by taking this stand, the Church of England has shown in the most practical form her genuine desire for unity and her willingness to go to the utmost bounds of truthful liberality in attaining it.

BARRED BY BISHOPS.

The bar which up to the present has prevented the acceptance of these famous proposals by any body of Christians lies in the 4th proposition dealing with the Historic Episcopate. Now what is implied here? The Church does not assert that any particular form of government is necessary. Government by one man or by many does not affect the position. No, it is a matter of continuity of life with the Church from the beginning. The Church of the living God is a living body. Now life can have no breaks, no chasms—five minutes break in life simply means death. We have carefully examined our history, and are firmly convinced that without any break our branch of the Church has descended from the Day of Pentecost. Thus, when the Protestant section of Christianity shall be ready for unity the Church of England will be ready to offer as her contribution a full, unimpaired and unimpeded connection with the historic Church of Christ. While, however, we shall ever guard this integral part of our heritage as well for others as ourselves, and do nothing which may endanger it, at the same time we refrain gladly from judging others. We should be delighted, for instance, to be assured (and it may be the case) that the tremendous change introduced in certain sections of the church in the troublesome times of the sixteenth century, whereby the second order of the ministry (Presbyters) was substituted for the first order (Bishops)—we should gladly that this great change has not impaired the full transmission of the Church's Divine life. Meanwhile we hold consistently to a position which has been endangered by no change in transmission.

THE CHURCH—HUMAN AND DIVINE.

But certain sections of Protestantism tells us that they do not understand the Church to be what she is to the great body of churchmen, and this point requires to be faced and dealt with before we can understand or reconstruct our relations to one another. If we may judge by the utterances of these brethren it would seem that the Churches are to them societies of Christians who hold similar beliefs or like a particular form of Government. They seem to say "Believe in Christ and then join any Church in which you think you can serve Him." This view is worthy of respectful consideration and is held by some within our Church, but if adopted it authorizes the creation of the multitude of rival Churches, which mars and maims modern Christianity. In their support it is urged that the evidence of Divine blessing proves them all to be true branches of the Church. In the interest of truth let us consider whether this be a sound argument. To take an entirely different and remote example:—If the heathen man were to receive nothing more than the Sermon on the Mount, and were to faithfully carry out its precepts, he would visibly receive the Divine blessings in his life, but would he be proved thereby to be a member of the Church? We cheerfully acknowledge the discipleship of all members of separated Churches, for they are baptised Christians and we would desire to be associated with them as fellow members of one Church and that the Church of the Bible. For this end could we not sacrifice any barriers distinctively Anglican or Presbyterian or Methodist if truth be not also sacrificed?

Now, the Church of the Bible is one, not many, Divine not human. She is the Body of Christ, (Eph. v. 23) indwelt by the Holy Spirit, and in which we are united to Christ the Head. The Church is the visible "Pillar and ground (or pedestal) of the truth," (I Tim iii, 15) embedded in "that Rock, which is Christ," and upholding and maintaining the truth through all ages.

If it be objected that we think too much of the Church, we reply that no words of ours can equal the glowing intensity of St. Paul's, "Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it.... that he might present it to Himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing."—Eph. v, 26.

THE LOGICAL CONCLUSION.

What great result flows from the above view of the Church? That something more than a mere federation of our different bodies is to be aimed at. If that were only done the result would be simply to give one more sect to a sect-ridden world. It is not a question of a common platform. Men will always hold different opinions and beliefs, and may hold them in one church. Neither is it a question of a common form of service. Different types of service will probably always be found useful for different classes of people, and for different times and emergencies. Extempore prayer has its advantages and occasions for use as well as Liturgical prayer. Special services for the conversion of sinners are needed as well as the regular dignified and glorious offerings of praise to God. And it is no mechanical, human organization, however comprehensive and up-to-date, that is needed by souls athirst for God and Divine things. We need a National Branch of the Divine Body from God and to God. Yes, this Church of Canada (if we ever see it) will be a National Church in full and unimpaired connection with the Church of the ages, divested of all foreign and unscriptural accretions, enriched with the spiritual treasures of Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Anglicans and all other contributors; with a liberal constitution allowing necessary diversities, and generally adapted to carry out the mission of her Head, the Lord Jesus Christ, in this country and in this age.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

ANOTHER SHERLOCK HOLMES.

How He Told Who Had Last Used the Telephone.

"The last man who used this phone," said a New Orleans Sherlock Holmes, preparing to wrestle with the instrument in an up town public station, "was a short, little fellow in a deuce of a hurry, smoking a cigarette. He asked for the Illinois Central freight office, was told they were busy, and repeated his request five times, getting madder at each call. Meanwhile, his cigarette went out, and after vainly searching for a match"—

"Hold on there!" exclaimed a friend who had accompanied him to the booth. "What kind of a fairy story are you giving me, anyhow?"

"No fairy story at all," replied the amateur sleuth blandly. "I was merely stating a few facts."

"But how the dickens did you ascertain them?"

"Plain as A B C, my boy. To begin with, the adjustable mouthpiece of the instrument is pulled down, as you see, to its fullest extent, indicating clearly that the last user was very much undersized. Isn't that evident?"

"Ye-e-e-es, I guess so; but how about the rest?"

"Well, look at that ledge and you will observe five charred spots and an equal number of small piles of tobacco ash. What do you infer? Why, obviously, that the gentleman was smoking and laid down his cigarette each time he called. The piles of ash are still undisturbed, showing they were recently deposited, and they are small, proving plainly that the intervals of calling were brief. My logical conclusion was that the phone he wanted happened to be busy, and I looked instinctively for a memorandum of its number, which most men make under such circumstances. I found it, as I anticipated, on top of the box, scrawled in pencil, and recognized the number of the freight office. Such memoranda are almost always rubbed out by the sleeve of the next customer, and as this one is still fresh and bright it is fair to presume it was made by the last man in the booth—otherwise the short chap with the cigarette. Moreover, a freight office phone is usually busy at this hour, so the clews interlock and sustain one another. Not so, my dear boy?

"But the matches?"

"Oh, I deduce the match incident from those fresh toothpicks on the floor. Where a man in a hurry searches for a match he invariably finds quantities of toothpicks. I would"—

"Are you through with that phone?" asked a short, stout stranger appearing suddenly at the door and vigorously puffing a cigarette, "because if you are I"—

"Certainly, sir," said the analyst, smiling. "I think you will find the freight office disengaged at present."

"Well, I'll be hanged!" said the friend. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

WONDROUS REMEDY.

Is what a London Doctor Calls Dodd's Kidney Pills.

London, Jan. 9.—A large decrease in the number of cases of Kidney Disease has been noted in this city during the past year.

"There's only one thing to be said about it," said a prominent physician speaking on the subject the other day.

"This falling off is due solely to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills by the people. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most wondrous kidney remedy ever known. They are used in nearly every household, which accounts for the great decrease of Kidney Complaint."

A Clever Scheme.

Mrs. Holmes—What has changed George Golightly so? He used to neglect his wife scandalously, but now he's devoted to her.

Mr. Holmes—Yes; she had her portrait placed on the dial of his watch, and his friends, who think he's single, have been asking to be introduced to her.—Jewelers' Weekly.

Andrew Lang has discovered in his researches into the Jacobite risings in Scotland, in the '15 and the '45, that the bailie's speech in "Rob Roy" is practically a transcript from a highland manuscript.

In China the detection of false coins is a skilled, prosperous profession, known as "shroffing," and is taught in special schools.

A PRAIRIE TRAGEDY.

BATTLE TO THE DEATH BETWEEN BUFFALO AND WOLVES.

How the Monarch of the Plains Is Surrounded by His Wary Enemies—A Spectacle as Exciting as the Sports of the Old Roman Arena.

Take your stand here on this bluff, and you can look down upon a spectacle as exciting as anything offered in the days of bloodthirsty Roman sports. Stretching away to the north are dip and hollow and broken ground for a mile. Then comes the grand prairie, sweeping clear to the south fork of the Platte before it surrenders to the hills. Ten miles away are a dozen moving black specks. They are buffaloes. Nothing else with life in it is nearer. The king's domains are rich in food and drink, and the early morning sunshine tells of peace and harmony. He stands with head elevated, and as he slowly turns in his tracks he sniffs the air for scent of danger. Who is our king? A buffalo bull, nature's monarch of the grand prairie.

Ah! High above him, with every foot of ground under your eyes, you could see no danger. His keen scent warns him of peril, and a wolf breaks cover not 100 feet away in a manner to startle you. He seems to rise from the very earth, not with a bound and a yell, but with a quiet coolness that bodes evil.

The bull lowers his head, and his eyes flash at the sight of the enemy who has come to disturb his reveries. Compare their size and strength, and you laugh at the idea of a wolf bringing harm to a buffalo. One blow from a hoof, one toss from the horns, and the wolf would lie crushed and dead.

Poob, 'tis an enemy not worth a second glance! The wolf may look with longing eyes and lick his chops for taste of blood, but he is wasting time. In that grove to the left a bunch of cattle is grazing. He had best shamble across the broken ground, give chase and hamstring one or more of them.

What! Another? As the chickens rise from cover so that second wolf suddenly shows himself above the grass. You cannot say that the beasts even suspect each other's presence. They are 50 feet apart, and both sit and stare straight at the monarch of the plains. The bull gives his head a toss as he sights the second arrival. Wolves hunt in pairs. Here is the pair. Nothing strange in that.

Yes, rub your eyes to see if they are clear, and you will find they haven't deceived you. Up pops a third, fourth, fifth and sixth wolfish head, followed by a body which is ever gaunt and lean, ever the synonym of hunger. One wolf created nothing beyond momentary surprise; the pair bred a feeling of contempt; the six of them may bring peril.

What! Have the six multiplied so fast! Just a moment ago we saw only the half dozen; now there are 10, 12, 16. They are rising from the earth all around him! The bull turns as if on a pivot. Wolves to the north, the east, the south, the west! The circle is complete. Watch him! See the head go up? Hear the roar of defiance?

The wolves have been sitting as quiet as so many blocks of stone placed on the grass. That roar of defiance puts life into them, and they move nearer.

Curious pantomime—a grand old buffalo turning slowly round and round in his tracks to eye each wolf and watch every motion; a score and a half of gaunt, grim, waiting beasts, every eye fixed upon a common center, every fang sharpened for a feast!

Swish—swirl—rush!

The circle closes in at the signal, and for 15 seconds the eye is confused. It appears as if some one hidden in the grass was tossing and waving strips of gray and white cloth. The roars of the bull are almost drowned in the yelps and growls and howls of the assailants.

Good! There is game there! The monarch has used his horns and hoofs to such good purpose that the circle has opened away from him. Legs and flanks and shoulders have been bitten and teeth have drawn blood where a bullet would hardly penetrate, but he is not disarmed. Under his feet are two dead wolves; two more limp around outside the circle.

There are the rush, the swirl, the strange spectacle of gray white bundles jumping over each other, and the circle falls back to breathe.

There are long tufts of hair on the grass, more dead wolves and spots of blood. The bull shakes his head and seems weak on his legs. Blood is trickling down from a score of savage bites, while he barely touches the grass with one hind foot. There is a low bellow, and something in it smacks of fear. Pah! If you must die, why not prove brave?

That's good! That is a roar of defiance, grandly loud and deep, and the monarch gathers himself and makes a rush. He has turned assailant. With lowered head and blazing eyes he rushes at one spot in the circle, and a gray white body rises high in the air to come down without life.

There is such a circling and swirling now that you can see nothing but the mass, now and then breaking away for a second to reveal the bull fighting for his life.

It is over! He is down, and his blood is smearing the grim jaws of the wolves as they tear at the hot flesh. Ah, well, but there were game, nerve and true grit, and his bones deserve burial at the hands of man!—Denver Post.

How to Read English Literature.

The first thing to do in the study of English literature, says Professor Mark H. Liddell in The Atlantic, is to read it intelligently, to hear the very voice of it speaking to us directly and without impediment, to make its thought pass through our minds as it passed through the minds of those who created it, to make its thought our thought. There must be no half knowledge, no vague concepts. The words of it should not convey hazy notions. If we are to know the full force of it, we must know that the words that the author chose were the only ones that he could have chosen. The turns of expression must be happy ones, fitting the thought like a glove. It is the perfection of form that makes it literature and gives it a claim to our attention.

Without a historical knowledge of our language such a full appreciation of much of our best literature is impossible. Critics with the best of intentions cannot make up by any æsthetic fervor for what it lacks of such knowledge.

So much depends on the purity of the blood that by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla many troublesome diseases are cured.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil, partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anæmic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child, wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

PASTIMES OF ROYALTY.

How Some Queens and Empresses Employ Their Leisure Moments.

The Belgian Queen and Austrian Empress in former days employed their leisure moments with "breaking in" pet ponies; but of late the Belgian Queen has preferred the study of literature, and the Austrian Empress of Greek. The Dowager-Empress of Russia and the Princess of Wales have tastes entirely in common; both are devoted to art embroidery, painting in water colors and are wonderful adepts at millinery.

The Queen of Servia, while indulging in all the luxuries due to her rank, eschews a soft bed and the tempting down pillow. She sleeps on a hard divan, with a hard and unyielding mattress, and without the vestige of a head rest. The consequence is that her figure is perfect, and the carriage of her head stately and natural. The royal family of Servia has never been permitted as children to indulge in a pillow, consequently the absence is no deprivation to the beautiful Queen.

Don't Give Up.

Sorrow came to you yesterday and emptied your home. Your first impulse now is to give up and sit down in despair amid the wrecks of your hopes. But you dare not do it. You are in the line of battle, and the crisis is at hand. To falter a moment would be to imperil some holy interest. Other lives would be harmed by your pausing. Holy interests would suffer, should your hands be folded. You must not linger even to indulge your grief. Sorrows are but incidents in life, and must not interrupt us. We must leave them behind, while we press on to the things that are before. Then God has so ordered, too, that in pressing on in duty we shall find the truest, richest comfort for ourselves. Sitting down to brood over our sorrows, the darkness deepens about us and creeps into our heart, and our strength changes to weakness. But if we turn away from the gloom, and take up the tasks and duties to which God calls us, the light will come again and we shall grow stronger.

"When all our hopes are gone,
'Tis well our hands must still keep toiling on
For others' sake;
For strength to bear is found in duty done;
And he is blessed, indeed, who learns to make
The joy of others cure his own heartache."

Joining the Church.

Joining the church is in one sense a very small affair. It makes no difference whatever in your life in one sense. It is simply the open confession of what you already believe in your soul. In another sense it is of the utmost importance. It means the open alliance of your life's powers with those whom you believe to be battling on the right side in this great moral conflict. It means that your influence with men shall be for the right.—Rev. J. P. Egbert.

TERRIBLE BACK PAIN

A HAMILTON LADY, FOUR YEARS A SUFFERER, FINDS RELIEF IN

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Sum up the ills to which women are subject, and the major part find expression in the backache—the bane of thousands of women's lives. But back of the backache are the disordered kidneys. They are often the true seat of ill health and misery. The mission of Doan's Kidney Pills is to make the kidneys perform their proper functions; then good health is sure to follow.

Mrs. Stevenson, 211 Mary Street, Hamilton, Ont., says that she was afflicted with pain in the back and kidneys for over four years. Sometimes it was so great that she could not attend to her household duties. She was sleepless, nervous, and at times troubled with a numbness of the hands and arms.

She started taking Doan's Kidney Pills. From the very first they relieved the pain in her back and made her feel better. Mrs. Stevenson is thankful she took Doan's Kidney Pills. They've wrought a wonderful change in her. She couldn't bear to stand on her feet on account of the dreadful pain in her back, but that's all gone now. Doan's Kidney Pills have effected a complete cure.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Coterie," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

Mrs. Harris, of course, had acquainted her with the interview that had transpired between herself and the "senor," but she had not stated that Mrs. O'Neil had gone out some time before; in fact, and to do her justice, she hardly thought of it. And Lenore was quite unaware that she was alone with "the Cuban," as she called Bradwardine. Not that this knowledge would have disturbed her particularly; she was, as we know, no coward, and she had no suspicion that "the Cuban" was other than he seemed.

She was sitting before a comfortable fire, holding a book in her hand, but letting her thoughts wander far from the pages, when a tap sounded on her door, and without turning her head, she bade the knocker enter; no one came to her room save Mrs. Harris, and sometimes the "senor's" sister; probably this was the sister.

The visitor entered promptly, closing and locking the door as he did so. At the sound of the key in the lock, the girl turned her head. It was Senor Castro who had entered, locking the door behind him; and he now seated himself opposite Lenore, and directly between her and the windows facing the street. There was no fear in the girl's heart, only indignation, as she arose, saying, sternly:—

"Senor Castro, you have locked that door and taken the key; be good enough to replace it immediately, and to leave my room."

The man laughed scornfully. "I am not Senor Castro," he said, "that is only a pleasant fiction. Don't trouble yourself to be dramatic, keep that for the stage of the Havana theatre—when you get there."

Lenore sat suddenly down in her chair. It was all over she thought; she had been trapped, and now she was to be arrested for Clarence Arteveldt's murder. Well, she would show no cowardly fear. She had done her best to escape and had failed; after all, what matter, since she must be either captured or hunted. She felt strong with the courage of desperation; she stared at her captor so calmly, so persistently, that he began to wonder at her coolness.

"Well," he said, finally; "you seem resigned."

No answer; she took up her book with perfect outward coolness. It was the man's turn to stare. "Miss Voss," he cried, "do you realize your situation?"

"Senor Castro," she retorted, scornfully, "I think that I do."

"What! You know that your life is in my hands."

"Not at all," replied she; "only my liberty."

"Your liberty! Ha! ha! So you think I intend to make you a prisoner. Undeceive yourself; I am no goaler."

"Then I suppose you are worse."

"Whatever I am, we must cease parleying. Do you know how long you have to live?"

Lenore began to suspect that she was in the presence of a maniac. What could his words mean else?

"No," she said, simply to gain time; "do you?"

"Yes. You are to give me some information, then—you may die in any way you choose."

"You are exceedingly kind," she said, still to gain time. "As a rule, murderers spring upon their victims in the dark, take them unprepared. Why do you deviate from this rule?"

"Because I want to prepare you; you have got to answer some questions first," he replied, grimly.

Lenore now felt sure that the man was insane; or else, he might be playing a part; perhaps, after all, he was seeking to draw from her a confession. She began to feel almost angry; this man had entrapped her, and now he was trifling with her, seeking to test her courage?

Lenore had courage; courage that would have done credit to a strong man. She now resolved to settle for herself the doubt, to know whether she was dealing with a detective or a lunatic.

"Have the goodness to drop histrionics, on your part," she said. "If you are an impostor, and not Senor Castro, what is your motive for assuming this part?"

"I have told you, my motive was—to get you in my power."

"Well! and what then?"

"And—then to put you out of my way."

"Out of your way?"—the lunatic theory began to gain ground again.

"Yes," rising impatiently. "Come, you have asked questions enough. Are you prepared to tell me what I want to know?"

How cold and bad and cruel he looked. But he did not look as she imagined a lunatic might. If he were not an officer of justice, and not insane, what, then, could he be? A sudden thought flashed upon her, and into her heart came the first throb of actual fear.

"Who are you?" she cried suddenly, "and what do you want to know?"

He approached a step nearer.

"No matter who I am," he said; "I want to know who has charge of your mother's papers and letters. I want you to write to that person, instructing him to put them all in my keeping."

Lenore Armyn drew a long, long, shuddering breath, and for a moment her face was corpse-like in its pallor. Step by step she recoiled from him, moving backward, until the wall stopped her further retreat; then she breathed almost in a whisper:—

"Ah!—I know you now."

"What! you know me? I hardly think it."

"Yes!" she cried, with sudden, unexpected fierceness; "I know you. Blind! blind, that I have been, not to recognize your evil face; again and again it has been pictured to me; again and again I have been warned, implored, to fear, to dread, to shun you. Oh! I know you," her voice rising, her form growing firm and erect, and her fierce wrath driving fear out of her heart once more. "You traitor! you liar! you poisoner of my mother's whole life! I know you, Jason Bradwardine, and I hate you! I hate you! I hate you!"

The villain stood astounded at her fierce energy, and before he could frame a reply, she went on:—

"It is you who have caged me like a rat in a trap, you, against whom I have been so often warned; and I have been so blindly self-reliant, so certain that you were the least among the things I had to fear. Man, do you know what you have done? You have murdered my mother, as surely as if you had used the knife or poisoned bowl, and now I wish I could kill you. Ah!"—lifting her face, and throwing up her arms, as if invoking a curse upon him—"for the first time I know what it is to feel like a murderess. If a wish could kill, you would lie dead at my feet."

With a low, blood-curdling laugh, he moved again toward her, and she now saw that he held in his hand a glittering pistol.

"You have not softened my heart toward you," he said, mockingly. "If you have done raving, tell me what I want to know."

No answer, her eyes were roving swiftly about the room.

"You need not try that," he went on; "I don't intend to shoot you, unless you make it necessary; but, if you make any noise, or try any tricks, I am ready for you. Who has your mother's papers?"

"Do you think I will tell you?" she retorted, with blazing eyes. "I am quite at your mercy, Jason Bradwardine; if you have made up your mind to kill me, you are wasting time."

"Will you give me an order to take charge of your mother's papers?"

"No! When I am dead, my mother's papers will be returned to her relatives, and then they will know what you are. English justice will set aside an entail that would enrich such a villain as you, Jason Bradwardine. My mother's papers are safe from your hands."

The man uttered a fearful oath. "Curse you!" he cried. "What do you know of these things? Your mother's papers can't hurt me. I have a different reason for wanting them."

"Well! you can take my life, but you can't have my mother's papers," she replied, scornfully.

"But if I spare your life?"

"Bah! As if I would trust you."

"Will you give me those papers?"

"Will you take my parole of honour, and suffer me to go from this place, and deliver to you the papers at a place I shall appoint?"

"No, by Satan, I will not!"

"I thought so. Well, you can't trust my honour, Mr. Bradwardine; I can't trust yours. That question is settled."

"And your last chance of life is settled with it."

"My life is not so very dear to me," she murmured; "but to die by such a hand; better the hangman."

The words were spoken half to herself, but he caught their meaning.

"You are ready to die?" he asked.

"Yes," without even glancing at him. "I am ready."

Jason Bradwardine hesitated. He had expected to frighten from Lenore what he so much desired to possess, certain papers that, if they came into the hands of Sir Hillary Massinger, would damage his cause materially. But he had commenced wrong. He had meant to kill her in the end, and had thought that the mere mention of possible death would draw from the girl the information he desired. He had not counted upon two things; first, the courage and shrewdness of the girl; and, second, her knowledge of him, and concerning the part he had played in her mother's life. He regretted now that he had not sprung upon the girl and buried a knife in her heart when she was unconscious of his presence. But he must kill her now, the necessity for her death had become doubled.

Lenore was still standing against the wall, and he, with pistol cocked, and held in readiness in one hand, came still nearer her, and with the other hand, slowly drew from his breast a glittering knife. Involuntarily she shrank back, and then forcing her voice to calmness, she extended her hand toward the knife.

"Give it to me," she said. "I would rather die by my own hand than by yours."

How the black eyes glittered as he drew back his hand.

"I told you I would let you choose," he said, with a sardonic smile. "You may die by your own hand, but not by the knife. I can give you poison."

Even then, face to face with death, she could sneer at his cowardice. "Oh!" she said, "you are afraid to put a knife in the hands of a weak girl. You poor coward."

He muttered some fearful oaths once more, and then said, savagely:—"Once for all, will you have the poison or be stabbed?"

"Give me the poison," she said. "I will not die by the hand of a coward."

He took from his pocket a tiny phial, and tossed it toward her, saying:—

"There, then. It is prussic acid."

It fell to the carpet just at her feet. She stooped swiftly and picked it up, then turned to him triumphantly.

"Now, hear me," she cried; "all your life long your nights will be haunted by my dead face. All your life will become a burden because of this day's work. If ever yet a spirit came back to earth, I will come back to you, and make your life too horrible to be borne. I mean it! And you might have escaped all this, you might have delivered me up to justice, for know that I stand accused of murder; you might have placed me in the felon's cell—perhaps on the scaffold—and have consoled yourself with the thought that you had done your duty; but now—now, my blood is on your head, as is my mother's also."

The first words of this speech had caused Bradwardine to wince and shudder. He was superstitious, as all cowards are; but the last words brought to his lips a derisive smile.

"You mistake," he said. "If a man commits murder in this country he is proven insane. But a young and beautiful woman like you—bah! the judge would shed tears over you, you would be brought out as an actress, and all the world would run to admire. I would not deliver you up to American justice if your crimes were tenfold-murder, for—I want you to die!"

"My crime was only this," she said, lifting the phial at the same moment, "to have been wronged, and to have fled from the man that wronged me. See! This is my last moment on earth. I have said my last words to you. All the days of your life you shall remember this deed; and remember this, too, I have not once asked for mercy at your hands; I despise you too utterly. You can cause my death, not my humiliation."

She withdrew her eyes from his face and turned them skyward.

"And now, God in Heaven, and all the white-souled angels, hear me (with my last breath) swear, that no drop of Clarence Arteveldt's blood reddens my hands! that I am innocent! and may God forgive me for what I am about to do."

She bowed her head and lifted the phial to her lips.

RETURNING YOUTH.

"I am seventy years young," said Oliver Wendel Holmes when they asked his age. True enough. He was young because his heart was young; his step was firm; his eye was bright; his laugh was clear and merry; his appetite was good, and above all—so was his digestion.

No man should be old before his time because of a weak stomach, sluggish liver, shaky nerves and flabby muscles. There is no need of it. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures these things. It brings back youth to the feeble because it brings back keen appetite and good digestion. It tones up the liver, puts oxygen and life into the blood, and solid strength into the flesh and muscles. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create a morbid appetite or craving for stimulants.

"I have never felt better in my life than I do now," says Charles Hunwick, of Lenox, Macomb Co., Mich., in a remarkable letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery right along. I can now walk quite well with a cane and hope to throw even that away before long, and as I have had to use crutches for nearly two years, I think I am doing fine. I do not cough now and I can eat and sleep like a school boy. I think I will have to change my mind about 'Patent Medicines,' as I never had much faith in them; but you must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and by three doctors besides, and received no benefit; so I think your medicine is the only medicine for me."

There is nothing in the world for constipation like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They should be taken in conjunction with the "Discovery," whenever any disease is complicated with that dangerous condition. Nothing else that may be offered in their place will accomplish what they will. And their relief is permanent. Write to Dr. Pierce for free advice.

How it Hurts

Rheumatism, with its sharp twinges, aches and pains. Do you know the cause? Acid in the blood has accumulated in your joints. The cure is found in Hood's Sarsaparilla which neutralizes this acid. Thousands write that they have been completely cured of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache biliousness, indigestion. Price 25 cents.

Don Carlos Has Grip.

Venice, Jan. 21.—Don Carlos, Duke of Madrid, the Bourbon pretender, is seriously sick at his chateau Loredan, and his physicians are in constant attendance. He has succumbed to the epidemic influenza, which has settled on his lungs, and his doctors, though they hope to pull him through, are apprehensive of a serious turn of the disease.

Cheerful Girls.

Good and healthy girls are almost always cheerful. No novelist would consider his youthful heroine complete if a "ringing laugh" were omitted from the list of her charms; and in real life the girls who do not laugh now and then are seldom trusted or liked by their companions. Even beauty will not save them. A belle who fails to understand the jest of her admirers and smiles in amiable bewilderment while other people are laughing is soon left with no consolation save to wonder what anybody can see in her rival—a girl with "tip-tilted" nose, perhaps, and a large mouth and freckles, but the happy possessor of a pair of merry eyes and a cheerful mind. The gift of gayety is indeed of great value; but it must be gayety which originates in a kind and cheery heart, not that which is born of mere excitement of gratified vanity.

Sweethearts.

Mr. A. Ballard, B. A., LL. B., sends us the following from Oxford: "Your tale of the Italian prelate reminds me of the negro student who at one of our great missionary colleges was conducting family prayers, and in an outburst of enthusiasm prayed, 'Give us all pure hearts, give us all clean hearts, give us all sweet hearts,' to which all the congregation replied, 'Amen.'"—London Chronicle.

English farthings are no longer likely to be mistaken for half crowns, for now they are minted not only of a different size and design, but even of a different color, being a dull bronze.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Olive of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle, every bottle guaranteed, at any Drug Store.

The Retort Courteous.

Father O'Leary, a well known Roman Catholic priest and wit, was on very friendly terms with his neighbor, the Church of England vicar. They met on the road one day, when the vicar said excitedly, "Oh, Father O'Leary, have you heard the awful news?"

"No," says the priest, "what is it, at all?"

"Something awful," says the vicar. "The bottom has fallen out of purgatory, and all the Catholics have tumbled into hell!"

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," says Father O'Leary, "what a crushing the poor Protestants must have got!"—London Chronicle.

Qualified to Do It.

"Did you know," said the tooth carpenter, looking up from his paper, "that the Indians practiced dentistry in the earliest times?"

"I didn't know it," replied the man who had once sat in a dentist's chair, "but I am not at all surprised. The Indians have always been a brutal and cruel race."

Then he laughed gleefully, forgetful of the fact that there was still time for the dentist to add $15 or $20 to his bill. —Chicago Post.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 98
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	186 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low-ering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

ONE OF NELSON'S CAPTAINS.

A New Yorker Commanded a British Ship in the Battle of the Nile.

The fifth ship was the Theseus, Captain Ralph Willett Miller. This gentleman, whom after his premature death Nelson styled "the only truly virtuous man I ever knew," was by birth a New Yorker, whose family had been loyalists during the American Revolution. A letter from him to his wife gives an account of the fight which is at once among the most vivid, and, from the professional standpoint, the most satisfactory, of those which have been transmitted to us. Of the Theseus's entrance into the battle he says:

"In running along the enemy's line in the wake of the Zealous and Goliath, I observed their shot sweep just over us; and, knowing well that at such a moment Frenchmen would not have coolness enough to change their elevation, I closed them suddenly, and, running under the arch of their shot, reserved my fire, every gun being loaded with two and some with three round-shot, until I had the Guerrier's masts in a line and her jibboom about six feet clear of our rigging; we then opened with such effect that a second breath could not be drawn before her main and mizzenmasts were also gone. This was precisely at sunset, or forty-four minutes past six; then, passing between her and the Zealous, and as close as possible round the off side of the Goliath, we anchored by the stern exactly in a line with her, and abreast the Spartiate. We had not been many minutes in action with the Spartiate when we observed one of our ships (and soon after knew her to be the Vanguard, place herself so directly opposite to us on the outside of her that I desisted firing on her, that I might not do mischief to our friends, and directed every gun before the mainmast, on the Aquilon (fourth French), and all abaft it on the Conquerant, giving up my proper bird to the admiral."—["Nelson in the Battle of the Nile," by Captain Mahan, in the January Century.

EARL POULETT IS DEAD.

Some Sensational Litigation May Now Be Looked For.

London, Jan. 24.—William Henry, Earl Poulett, died in this city yesterday in his 72nd year. It is probable that the succession to the title and estates will be disputed.

The deceased Earl was thrice married. According to gossip, when a harum-scarum youth and travelling about, he made a wager that he would marry the first woman he met on landing in England.

Accordingly at Port Sea, in 1849, he married Miss Elizabeth Virginia Newman, daughter of a land port pilot. Within a few months she gave birth to a son, whose paternity her husband denied. The couple from that time lived apart, the wife dying in August, 1871. The child, who now calls himself Viscount Hinton, and claims the succession, has long been living on the streets of London as an organ grinder, and his pretensions were always sternly repudiated by the deceased Earl.

About six weeks after the death of his first wife, Lord Poulett married Miss Emma Sophia Johnson, who died in 1876 without issue surviving. In 1879 he married Miss Rosa de Melville, daughter of Mr. Alfred Hugh de Melville, and their son is generally recognized as the rightful heir.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—From Aug. 28 to Sept. 9 has been decided on by the board of directors as the date of the Toronto Industrial Fair for this year. The question of extending the time to three weeks was mooted, but the board decided not to make any change at present.

King Is to Be Extradited.

Walkerton, Ont., Jan. 24.—In the King, alias White, forgery case, judgment was given yesterday committing the prisoner for extradition. He now remains in jail here for 15 days further, during which he may appeal. The evidence in the meantime is reviewed by the Minister of Justice at Ottawa, who holds the prisoner as long as may be necessary to dispose of the appeal proceedings. Prisoner's counsel has gone to Toronto to see what further steps can be taken in his behalf.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Representative Clark of Iowa yesterday introduced a bill, "providing that no polygamist shall be a Senator or Representative." It provides that "no person living in or practising polygamy shall be eligible to be a member of either House of Congress of the United States, nor shall such person be permitted to hold a seat therein."

It is further provided that the evidence of polygamy shall be "of whatever nature that establishes the fact."

Miss Whiteway Dead.

Montreal, Jan. 24.—News has reached the city of the death of Miss Whiteway, eldest daughter of Right Hon. Sir William Whiteway, K.C.M.G., at Middleburg, South Africa, on Saturday last. As a consequence of the delicate state of Miss Whiteway's health, the family were spending the winter in England in obedience to medical advice, which prescribed a long sea voyage. The invalid, with Sir William and Lady Whiteway, took passage last November for Cape Town.

JOSEPH'S 2:37 HORSE.

AN EQUINE GOLD BRICK THAT MADE A GREAT RECORD.

The Interesting History of a Slight Mistake That Caused the Price Asked For the Ancient Nag to Take an Awful and Sudden Tumble.

"I never could miss a horse deal," said one of the former proprietors of the Guttenberg race track with a chuckle of satisfaction, "but my last venture was a jim dandy. I was driving along the pike about five miles from my country home in New Jersey when an old farmer I know poked his whiskers over his fence and asked if I didn't want to buy an ancient plug which he held by a halter to keep from falling down. I stopped, of course, and examined the steed. There were about $3 worth of meat on him, $5 worth of vitality and 2 cents' worth of speed. I didn't exactly see what I could do with such a monumental wreck, but the horse trading passion grew strong within me, and I said:

"'How much for the equine gold brick?'

"'Thirty dollars,' returned the farmer.

"'For how many?' I asked politely.

"'This is selected stock; comes one in a box,' was his retort.

"'I'll give you $10,' said I, 'and no questions asked.'

"'Let's divide the pot,' he said. 'Call it $20, and this beautiful Hambletonian is yourn.'

"Well, I liked the farmer, and I liked his sporty talk, and as I had spent some previous time in dalliance at the roadhouse money had ceased to look as lovely as usual. So I gave him the $20 and led the four legged graveyard home. I kept him on grass for a week or two and noticed that he began to pick up a little form. This also attracted the attention of a coal black gentleman whom I employ on my place as valet to the cows and lesser stock. One bright, dewy morning he shuffled up and said:

"'Boss, what yo' task fo' de new hoss?'

"'Does some benevolent association want to buy him?' I asked. The black gentleman grinned till his teeth looked like a monument builder's exhibit at a world's fair.

"'No, sah,' said he. 'Ah's lookin fo' hossflesh fo' m'self.'

"'But this is a very valuable animal, Joseph,' said I reflectively, 'and his possibilities in speed are unlimited. The only thing that worries me is his impossibilities. I should think $100'—

"'Ah'll give yo' $50, boss,' broke in Joseph. 'Cawn't spare no more'n dat.'

"A kind heart and a generous, noble nature have always been against me in matters of commerce, so I sold the nag to the black gentleman for his half century and dismissed the transaction from my mind as unworthy of regret. But a few days after he came around to discuss his purchase.

"'Boss,' said he, 'Ah's pow'ful sorry fo' yo'.'

"'What's the matter with me?' I asked. 'Am I sick again?'

"'Yo' done will be w'en yo' heahs de news,' he answered. 'Boss, dat $50 hoss yo' done sole me goes in 2:37!'

"'Don't, Joseph,' said I, pained beyond expression at this evidence of decadence. 'Remember Ananias and what one puny little effort did for him.'

"'Fact, boss; 'deed hit is,' he insisted. Then he called a runt of an African who had recently appeared in the neighborhood to come and back up his assertion.

"'Two-thuty-seven's his time, sah, said the runt, pulling out a handsome stop watch, which he explained in some confusion had been presented to him by a lady friend for being good. 'Me an Joe done had him down to the track an trotted him round in yo' ole sulky in dat time, sub, 'cordin to de watch.'

"'If that is the case, Joseph,' said I, 'I am willing to buy the animal back at a comfortable advance. Looking at the horse now in a charitable light, I perceive that his days are numbered and will soon be tabulated on a cold, cold stone. You may touch me for $60 and I'll take the animal off your hands.'

"But the low down African grinned.

"'Bid him up, boss,' said he. 'Ah's used to auctions.'

"'Joseph,' said I, 'you grieve me deeply. Would you for the mere greed of filthy gold restrain the hand of benevolence? I'll give you $65.'

"'Money'll have t' talk louder'n dat, boss,' said the perverse one. 'Once mo', ef yo' please.'

"'Seventy dollars, then, if you're good.'

"'Dat's A B C, boss. Sling some good old diction'ry langwidge wid free flgahs in hit.'

"Well, before I got through with Joseph he ran me up to $125. Then I started over to the track with him, his runt friend with the stop watch, and the bony old glue pot filler of a horse to witness a performance before paying my cash. The track in question is an abandoned bicycle course which I overhauled as a sprinting place for my own horses and the horses of my friends. When we arrived, the two black gentlemen hustled the nag into an old sulky. Joseph mounted, and the funeral procession moved up the course. The runt pulled his stop watch and I consulted mine. Joseph plied the whip and let his record breaker out for all he was worth, which appeared to be about as much as a goat hitched to a canalboat.

"By and by, as the sun went down and the moon came up, Joseph and his horse came under the wire.

"'What's de time?' he asked his sable friend expectantly. A smile of triumph split the runt's face in half.

"'He done hit in two-thurty-six an er half,' he answered, and I laid my weary head between my hands and laughed till it hurt me.

"'Wha' fo' yo' laugh, boss?" asked Joseph, coming up to receive the expected $125. 'Am yo' glad t' git him so cheap?'

"'Joseph,' I said when I caught my breath, 'I'll not deprive you of your thoroughbred unless you insist, and in that event I must alter my figures. Instead of $125 I have not the heart to offer you more than $1.25.'

"'Fo' de Lawd's sake, boss! What's de mattah wid yo?' gasped Joseph, pop eyed with astonishment. 'Didn't he go round de track in two-thuty-six an er half?'

"'He did for a fact, Joseph; he did,' said I.

"'Den what's wrong?' he demanded.

"'Nothing, Joseph, absolutely nothing,' I answered; 'only this happens to be a half mile track.'

SILVER WEDDING FETES.

Festivities in Honor of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh.

Gotha, Jan. 24.—The fetes in celebration of the silver wedding of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, to which the reigning families sent representatives, opened yesterday morning with a grand reception in the throne room of the Castle Freidenstein by the guests, diplomats, duchy officials and a number of public bodies, who offered the Duke and Duchess their congratulations.

The Duke replied to the addresses, declaring that he had known no higher law than the welfare of the duchy.

The ceremony concluded with cheers for the ducal couple. There was a taste banquet and a gala performance last night. To-day there will be a state ball.

CZAR MAY EXPEL HIM.

Tolstoi, the Russian Novelist, Has Made a Host of Enemies.

CRIME: HE HELPED DOUKHOBORS

The Action of Count Tolstoi's Eldest Son, in Personally Assisting the Russian Quakers to Move to Canada, Has Roused the Ire of the Autocratic Ruler of All the Russias.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—The report of the expulsion of Count Tolstoi in the near future will not down, despite the extremely cordial meeting which the great Russian idealist had with the Czar recently.

The report is founded principally on the fact that the Count has made a host of enemies by the aid he has given to the emigrating Doukhobors, or Russian Quakers, who are founding settlements in the Canadian Northwest.

The Czar is highly displeased at the action of Count Tolstoi's eldest son, who is making preparations to accompany a large number of emigrants to Canada, where he will help them to acquire homes, after which he will return under the parental roof.

The Doukhobors say they receive inspiration directly from heaven, without sacredotal or Biblical intervention. They disregard the priesthood and the sacraments, reject the doctrine of the Trinity and refuse to take the oath or to enlist in military service.

This sect dates from the days of Peter the Great, when small communities were started all over the Russian Empire. They suffered great persecution under Katharine II. and Paul I. Alexander I. tolerated them, confining them, however, to the Province of Taurieu. In 1891 they were removed to the district of Anbalkalakl, in Trans-Caucasia. They are industrious, and are excellent farmers and cattle raisers.

JAMAICA IS IN BAD SHAPE.

Something Radical Must Be Done Else There Will Be Bankruptcy.

London, Jan. 25.—An official circular has been issued containing the report of the West Indian commission from Jamaica to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain. It estimates that the deficit at the end of March will be £172,000. The commission regards the situation as extremely critical, and expresses the opinion that unless the revenue is greatly increased, and the expenditures largely reduced, the colony will shortly be unable to meet its liabilities.

The circular adds that Mr. Chamberlain informed the commission that negotiations for the conclusion of a reciprocity treaty between the British West Indies and the United States were in progress, but he could express no opinion as to the prospects of their success.

Peaceful Solution Expected.

London, Jan. 25.—In well-informed quarters a representative of the Associated Press was informed yesterday that a peaceful solution of the Newfoundland question between France and Great Britain is expected very shortly. It means compensation to the French fishermen, and the surrender of their rights under the treaty of Utrecht.

A solution simultaneously of the French shore question and the matter of the occupation of St. Pierre Miquelon is hoped for. The officials here regard those islands as being little better than a big smuggling centre, detrimental alike to Newfoundland, Canada and the United States, and will insist upon the re-establishment there of the conditions contemplated when they were ceded to France.

It was rumored last evening that the Government intends to propose to Great Britain to submit the Newfoundland dispute to arbitration.

French Rights Incontestible.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday resumed the debate of foreign affairs. Referring to Newfoundland, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Delcasse, said the French rights there were incontestible, that no one questioned them and that there was no reason to suppose that they would not be respected. The debate was then closed.

Dreyfus to Be Questioned.

London, Jan. 25.—The Daily Telegraph publishes the following despatch from Cayenne, French Guiana:

"Fresh instructions to interrogate Dreyfus respecting the depositions of Count Esterhazy have been received here, in consequence of which the procurator has started for the Isle du Diable. The procurator says he has urged and is still urging that Dreyfus be allowed to return to France in consequence of the difficulty of replying by cable."

The Earthquakes in Greece.

Athens, Jan. 25.—The seismic disturbances which began on Sunday in the provinces of Peloponnesus still continue, but are much lighter. The latest reports from the earthquake district show that the town of Nisi, in the Department of Messenia, seven miles west of Kalamata, has been greatly damaged. In the Province of Kyparissia five villages have been completely destroyed.

Antarctic Expedition.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—The Minister of the Interior, Count Posadowski-Wehner, during the course of the debate on the Home Office estimates in the Reichstag yesterday, said Prince Hohenlohe, the Imperial Chancellor, was prepared to support the proposed Antarctic exploration. He expressed the belief that Germany, the United States and Great Britain should act conjointly in the matter.

No Animosity Against America.

Munich, Jan. 25.—At a meeting of the American residents here yesterday it was decided to send to the Government at Washington a protest against the anti-German expressions used in the House of Representatives, accompanied by a declaration that no animosity against America exists in Germany.

Hinton House Barricaded.

London, Jan. 25.—The remains of the late Earl Poulett will be interred in the family vault at Hinton, St. George Church, Crowkorne. The "noble organ-grinder" says he will not act until after the funeral, but Hinton House is barricaded, and the entrance gates are locked as if it were apprehended that he might attempt to take forcible possession.

STEPS DOWN AND OUT.

Oscar, King of Sweden, Abdicates in Favor of His Iron-Willed Son—

Some of His Reasons.

Stockholm, Jan. 25.—King Oscar, who reached his 70th year last Saturday, has provisionally placed the reigns of government in the hands of his eldest son, the Crown Prince Gustaf.

While it is generally reported that the abdication of the King, who has been in feeble health for more than two years, is only temporary, those nearest at court who are in a position to know the state of affairs, declare that he will never again return to the throne.

The step was taken by order of the court physicians, who claim that, though some improvements have been manifested since the last serious illness in December, further participation in public affairs would prove fatal.

King Oscar's condition has been made worse by the rebellious spirit which his Norwegian subjects have exhibited of late. For years His Majesty has tried to pacify Norway, and has acceded to most of the demands of the Liberal party, which are regarded as unpatriotic and unreasonable by the Swedes.

Most bitter to the King was the action of the Norwegian Storthing before the close of last year in adopting a Norwegian flag without the union emblem, though His Majesty had refused to the last to sign the law.

The regime of King Oscar has been characterized by a spirit of peace and kindness. His subjects love to refer to him as one of nature's noblemen, a Swede to the core, intensely patriotic and ambitious to ameliorate the condition of the poorer classes within his domain.

Crown Prince Gustaf, who has assumed the government, is in many respects the very antithesis of his illustrious father. He is a man with an iron will, and it is believed that what, on account of innate goodness, King Oscar could not accomplish, namely, the quelling of the seditious spirit in Norway, Prince Gustaf will accomplish by force, if necessary.

Crown Prine Gustaf was born in June, 1858. His wife is the Princess Victoria of Baden, a lady of remarkable linguistic accomplishments, and a leader in all charitable movements.

King Oscar has already left Stockholm and will spend the balance of the winter in Saltoja, Baden.

Stabbed in a Bar Room.

Rat Portage, Jan. 18.—In a bar room row at the Queen's last night at 11 o'clock between Italians, one was stabbed, having a wound three inches deep in the breast. The bartender's life was attempted. The assassin was arrested. The wounded man is in a very precarious condition.

The reports in the American press about Samoan affairs are causing amazement at Berlin. Herr Rafael, the German consul at Apia, has been recalled, and Dr. Solf succeeds him.

The Premier and Minister of Industry and Labor of Belgium have resigned, owing to differences with King Leopold on the question of the one-name electoral system, which the King favors.

About 30 members of the crew of the United States cruiser Philadelphia deserted while the ship was at San Diego, Cal. Eighteen have been recaptured. They are bitter against the officers, saying that they were not allowed shore leave, as had been promised.

It is rumored in Hamilton that Mr. Ramsay, manager of the Canada Life, will shortly retire with an allowance of $12,000 a year, and in Toronto that the management will be given to Mr. Fred. Cox, son of Senator Cox, and that the headquarters will be removed to the Queen City.

The high commissioners at Washington had a joint session on Tuesday, and then adjourned till Thursday to give the subcommittee on reciprocity a chance to confer. The rights of American miners in the Klondike country is found to be a troublesome matter, which will have to be grappled with.

Walter Watts, aged 17, and Mary Sinclair, 18, were drowned in the Hudson River, near New Windsor, N.Y., on Monday night. They skated into the water, supposing it to be black ice, and their companions could not rescue them, though every effort was made. Watts could have saved himself, but would not abandon the girl. Both were highly respected.

Detective Weber of the New York Central Railway shot and killed a burglar in the Central yards at Buffalo on Tuesday morning, and captured his companion. The dead man was known as Babelak, and has served time for burglary. He had shot at the detective, and was about to shoot again, when Weber shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

It is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How—Some of the Conditions Necessary to Perfect Health.

The importance of maintaining good health is easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food, and thus prepares nourishment. The blood is employed to carry this nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. Now it is certainly a fact that no medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is literally true that there are hundreds of people alive and well today who would have been in their graves had they not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is depended upon as a family medicine and general regulator of the system by tens of thousands of people. This is because Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure. This is the secret of its great success. Keep your system in good health by keeping your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which absolutely cures when other medicines fail to do any good whatever.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HOMEWORK AND HIGH PRESSURE.

There is in the minds of a large proportion of parents a feeling that serious injury is done to young and growing children by the amount of home work required of the pupils by Public School teachers. Medical experts are of the same opinion, and they have given it frequent utterance individually and collectively. Last year a circular was issued by the Education Department discouraging the practice of working for examinations merely, and advising the public to apply to teachers other criteria of efficiency than the percentage of successful candidates at any public examination. In the same spirit the Minister of Education recurred to the subject in recent speeches, and pointed out that the department is heartily in accord with the movement for the reduction of homework. There is no departmental examination in the Public School course except that for entrance into the High School, and the department does not expect or encourage any High School pupils to go up to it unless they desire or intend to become High School pupils. The Minister added that after a pupil passed the entrance he may, so far as the law interferes, attend High School all his life without ever being required to pass another test of any sort. If he is subjected to additional examinations the responsibility must rest on himself, his parents or his teachers. Neither the Minister nor the education Department has anything to do with testing him any more than either of them has to do with training him.

The central fact of the situation is that no power or authority from the Legislature down through the Education Department to the Minister can of itself suppress the growing evil of over-pressure. The department must prescribe tests for those who intend to teach on departmental certificates, but it cannot single out those who should not. The universities require a test for admission to each of their courses of study, but thousands try these tests each year who have not the slightest idea of ever going to a university if they pass. Their success brings pleasure to a parent, reputation to a teacher, prestige to a school; what matter if some of the helpless weaklings are crushed by the way? Until this too popular view of the matter is all changed there can be no abatement of the evil, and all the Minister can do to promote reform is to bring before teachers and parents frequently and persistently the policy that the department is directly opposed to excessive homework, high pressure and the multiplication of examinations, and that the local authorities can get rid of these evils whenever they choose. If, on the other hand, anyone thinks that the laws or regulations of the department could be amended so as to mitigate the evil let him propose his remedy.—Globe.

HE THANKS HEAVEN.

That he Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, Which Saved His Life.

Bowmanville, Jan. 23—Marvellous indeed is the case of Mr. A. W. Gibbons, miller, of this town.

Here is his story, as he himself tells it: 'I couldn't eat, nor sleep; had terrible pains in my back and stomach.

"Doctors said I had Bright's Disease. But they couldn't cure me.

"Thank Heaven, whether it was Bright's Disease, or anyone else's Dodd's Kidney Pills soon cured it.

"I hope the news of my cure will spread over the whole country, so that all sufferers will hear of the greatest kidney remedy in the world—Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the ONLY medicine that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

EX-MAYOR MAGOWAN AGAIN.

This Time He Claims That He Was Robbed of $2,600 in New York.

New York, Jan. 25.—The case of Simon Buttner, proprietor of the old Broadway Garden, who was arrested Monday night accused of securing $2,500 and diamonds at the point of a pistol from a strange man, came up in Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday. It then developed that the "strange man," whose name has so far been withheld by the police, was ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan of Trenton, N.J. Magowan came to this city from Toronto, Canada, on Saturday last. He claims that on Sunday he entered the Broadway Garden and asked for a cigar. He was told to step behind a screen, and alleged that there Buttner put a revolver in front of his face, rifled his clothes of jewelry and $2,500 in cash, and ordered him out of the place, telling him he would be killed if he ever came back. Buttner's counsel denies the story, and adds that when Magowan came to the garden he flourished thousand dollar bills, gave considerable money away, and paid liberally for food and drink.

QUESTIONS AS TO VOTERS.

Enfranchised Citizens Not Disqualified by Temporary Absence.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—At the Court of Appeal yesterday an important decision was given in the stated case suggested by the junior judge of Northumberland and Durham. Last fall four or five voters from Northumberland went to Manitoba for the harvest. They were gone three months or more. The revising judge brought the matter to the Court of Appeal for decision. Chief Justice Burton delivered judgment to the effect that voters need not observe the exact letter of the law in regard to continuous residence in a constituency in order to keep the franchise. Enfranchised citizens might leave home temporarily.

In the stated case from Elgin County, the question was whether freeholders or tenants of real estate, whose ownership or tenancy began after the final revision of the roll for '97, had the right to be placed on the voters' list for St. Thomas for '98. The court said yes, in the case of freeholders, but no in the case of tenants.

LOWEST GETS IT.

Probable Disposition of Tenders for the Ontario Government Printing.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—It appears that there was a great variation in the amount of the tenders for the Government printing and binding contract, which is awarded each five years. So great was this variation that one firm asked fully twice as much as another. The lowest tenderers were Warwick, Wilson & Co., and they are lower by a considerable sum than the next lowest tenderer. It seems likely that this firm will be awarded the contract, provided they satisfy the Government of their financial ability to carry on the work, but the contract will only be awarded to them after they have shown that they are possessed of plant and equipment of sufficient capacity. They will, it is understood, if the contract goes to them, be required to furnish the most ample security, and there will be other conditions imposed which will guarantee to the public the faithful observance of all the terms of the contract.

DR. MARCIL DEAD.

Mrs. Poirier Informed That There Is No Hope for Commutation.

Montreal, Jan 25.—There died yesterday at St. Eustache a very prominent French-Canadian in the person of Hon. Dr. Marcil, M.P.P. Deceased, although a Catholic, might almost be called Radical, as he had for 40 years fought Conservatism as if it were a pest. He was likewise a defender of the principles of 1838, and in Dr. Marcil's house were to be seen in a little glass urn the ashes of Dr. Chenier, who fell at St. Eustache, pierced with British bullets. Up to the present the church authorities have forbidden the remains being buried in consecrated ground.

It is announced that Cordelia Viau's lawyers have informed their client that she need not hope for a commutation of sentence, and should prepare to meet her fate on the scaffold, with her accomplice, Sam Paralow.

What She Believes.

THE CASE OF SYDNEY O. SLOCUM.

All the Evidence in and Counsel's Addresses Finished.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The trial of Sydney O. Slocum on a charge of criminally assaulting Mrs. Sadie Cullerton at the Lucas House on Sept. 27 last was continued yesterday before Mr. Justice Robertson in the Criminal Assize Court.

Mr. Victor Collyer and Miss Goodfellow, who live at the Lucas House, testified that they heard screams emanating from room 59 on the night in question, and saw Mr Lucas, proprietor of the house, come upstairs to quell the disturbance.

Thomas Donlon, one of the men who found Mrs. Cullerton in the room with the prisoner, told of his meeting Cullerton, W. F. Young and A. Munshaw, and their visit to the Lucas House.

O. N. Pirie, a reporter, related the story of the affair as told to him by Slocum, and in many respects it corroborated Mrs Cullerton's testimony

The defence was commenced in the afternoon after Mr. Robinette argued that there was no evidence to go to a jury.

The testimony of Miss Lucas, Alfred Hodgins, James McGarry and William Bailey, proprietor of the Norway House, went to show that there was nothing in the woman's appearance to suggest that she had been drugged.

Mr. Robinette here conferred with his client whether or not he would enter the box in his own behalf, but Slocum declined, and counsel addressed the jury.

Mr. Justice Robertson will deliver his charge this morning.

The Art of Silence.

We must check the angry word before it rises to our lips. St. Alphonsus Liguori says that the infallible rule for preventing angry speech is to keep absolutely silent until our anger has quite subsided. Babbling, tattling talk does even more mischief than the speech of hasty temper, and we must especially guard ourselves from this ugly, foolish habit of thoughtless chatter. All of the wiseheads seem to have given some time and thought to the correction of the tongue. Here is another old maxim:—

If wisdom's ways you'd truly seek,
Five things observe with care—
Of whom you speak, to whom you speak,
And how, and when, and where.

But there are many who will tell us how and when and where to speak; what we learn for ourselves is the art of silence—the most inoffensive of all arts. Silence induces thought, speech scatters it. Gay preserved a wise motto in easily remembered rhyme:

My tongue within my lips I rein,
For who talks much must talk in vain.

I trust this may be of benefit to others."

HOUSE ETIQUET.

HATS PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART IN PARLIAMENT.

A New Member Must Be Escorted to the Table of the House—Old Customs That Are Still Adhered To—Nearly 700 Members, With Seats For Only 350.

When a new member makes his first appearance in the house of commons, he has to be escorted to the table to take the oath by two other members of parliament. This is one of the immemorial usages of the house of commons. It originated in a far remote past when it was really necessary in order to prevent personation that two members of the house should identify the claimant of a seat after a by-election as the person named in the writ of the returning officer.

The precaution has been unnecessary for many a year. But such is the reluctance of the house of commons to part with any of its quaint and antique ceremonies that it is still retained, and though a representative may come to the bar of the house as the unanimous choice of a constituency of 10,000 electors and produce his credentials he will not be permitted to take his seat unless he can get two members to act as his sponsors.

Dr. Kenealy, the famous counsel for "the claimant," presented himself at the bar unattended after his election for Spoke-upon-Trent in February, 1875. The Speaker informed him of the usage of the house, and as he could not get two members to accompany him to the table he was obliged to leave.

It was only by a special resolution of the house, moved by Mr. Disraeli, its leader at the time, that Dr. Kenealy was allowed to take his seat without complying with the usual practice.

When men assemble together in social life, as in a theater or at a meeting, the ordinary custom is to uncover while they are seated and to don their hats as they enter or leave the place.

In parliamentary life that rule is reversed. Members can wear their hats only when they are seated on the benches. As they walk to the seats or rise to leave the chamber they must be uncovered. This custom is the source of much confusion and embarrassment to new members.

The house never fails to show its resentment of a breach of its etiquet, however slight. It will, without distinction of party, unanimously roar with indignation at a new member who, ignorant or unmindful of the parliamentary custom, wears his hat as he walks down the floor of the chamber.

An offending member, startled by the shout which greeted him as he was leaving the chamber with his hat on his head instead of in his hand, paused in the middle of the floor and looked around with a mingled expression of fright and perplexity, "Hat, hat!" shouted the house.

This only embarrassed him the more. He felt his trousers pockets and his coat tails for the offending article of attire. He even looked at his feet to see if he were wearing it at that extremity of his person. It is impossible to conjecture what might have happened further had not Dr. Tanner walked up to the offending member, and amid the loud laughter of the house politely took off his hat and then handed it to him with a courtly bow.

The hat plays many important parts in parliamentary customs. It also contributes occasionally to the gayety of life in the house of commons. No incident is greeted with more hearty laughter than the spectacle of a member, after a magnificent peroration, plumping down on his silk hat on the bench behind him.

The bashful and awkward member generally figures in those accidents, but the misfortune has befallen even old and cool parliamentary hands like Mr. Chamberlain and Sir William Harcourt and has completely spoiled the effect of a few of their most eloquent speeches.

A few years ago Mr. R. G. Webster, member for East St. Pancras sat down after his maiden speech on a new silk hat, which he had provided in honor of the auspicious occasion, and as he was ruefully surveying his battered headgear, to the amusement of the unfeeling spectators, Mr. Edward Harrington, an Irish representative, rose and gravely said, "Mr. Speaker, permit me to congratulate the honorable member on the happy circumstance that when he sat on his hat his head was not in it." The strident call of "Order, order!" from the Speaker was drowned in roars of laughter.

In probably every other legislative chamber in the world each member has a special seat allotted to him. But though there are 670 members in the commons the chamber, strangely enough, was built to accommodate only about half that number, and the only members who are certain of seats are ministers and ex-ministers, the occupants respectively of the treasury bench and the first opposition bench.

The consequence is that on occasions of great interest there is always a scramble for places. A large crowd of members gathered at Westminster in the early morning of the evening on which Mr. Gladstone introduced the home rule bill of 1892, and when, after hours of waiting, the door giving immediate entrance to the chamber was opened at 7 a. m., so mad was the rush for seats that several members were crushed, knocked down and trampled upon.—Chambers' Journal.

A FILIPINO REPUBLIC

Proclaimed at Malolos by Insurgent General Aguinaldo.

THE AMERICAN LACK OF TACT.

Arrests of the Filipinos by Gen. Otis, and the Fact That a Number of Them Have Fled, Are Looked Upon as Most Serious Occurrences—A Commission a Ruse—30,000 Filipinos Under Arms.

New York, Jan. 25.—A despatch to The Herald from Manila says Aguinaldo proclaimed the Philippine Republic at Malolos on Monday. There was no public demonstration in Manila.

The Spanish civil prisoners will be set free by the insurgents.

Aguinaldo's Government cannot maintain order in the interior of Luzon, and the native authorities are often murdered.

Filipinos Are Angry.

Hongkong, Jan. 25.—The members of the Filipino Junta here have issued the following statement:

"The purchase by the American authorities at Hongkong of a number of steam launches for river work in the Philippines is high-handed, unnecessary and vexatious.

"Domiciliary visits throughout Manila are exasperating the Filipinos. Their suspicions are aroused by such actions. Thousands of reinforcements is incompatible with peace, and the appointment of a commission is only a pretext to gain time. The American secret police is acting offensively toward the Filipinos at Hongkong, who are British subjects.

"The Filipino Congress at Malolos has unanimously voted annexation."

Some Serious Incidents.

London, Jan. 25.—The Filipino Junta here yesterday received a cable message from Agoncillo, Aguinaldo's representative at Washington, declaring that the prospects were improving, though the work was difficult. The absence of direct news from Manila and the receipt of secret intelligence from Washington is causing the gravest anxiety among the Filipinos here. The arrests of Filipinos by Major-General Otis and the news that numbers of Filipinos have fled, are regarded as most serious occurrances. It is pointed out by the Filipinos that "this is exactly what happened in 1896, under General Blanco, when the Filipinos, on the following day, attacked the Spaniards and the revolution broke out."

The members of the Filipino Junta in the city say they are so anxious to avert war that they cabled to Manila yesterday, urging the Filipinos "not to start hostilities, if there is the remotest possibility of avoiding trouble."

They Suspect Duplicity.

Manila, Jan. 20, via Hongkong, Jan. 25.—The Independencia to-day issued a supplement containing a despatch purporting to come from Malolos, the seat of rebel government. It commends upon the appointment of the commission, and says: "The Filipinos naturally suspect this is a new attempt to humbug. Both Dewey and Spencer Pratt promised us independence if the Filipino Republic was stable. The Filipinos are disillusioned. They believe the commission is a ruse to gain time till they have accumulated formidable forces, when America, abusing her strength, will begin a war to ratify her sovereignty."

Reports from the interior indicate that Aguinaldo's authority is now generally recognized. Every available male is being recruited, and arms depots are being established at large towns. The surrounding country is being levied on for supplies, and the Filipino troops are living on the fat of the land, while the native villagers are compelled to subsist on rice.

It is estimated that there are fully 30,000 Filipinos under arms, and it is said that there are nearly 50 Maxim guns at Malolos, some of them having been recently acquired.

The Filipino military authorities are convinced, they say, that the Americans will be unable to work effectively outside of Manila in the event of hostilities, hence they feel confidence in the future. Many of the Filipino officers complain of alleged discourteous treatment upon the part of Americans at Manila.

CRITICAL STAGE REACHED.

Communication Asking Recognition Deposited With Washington Officials.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senor Lopez, secretary to Agoncillo, the Washington representative of Aguinaldo, called at the State Department at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and lodged with the chief clerk a communication which, according to the common expectation, marked the critical stage in the Philippine question. This is the third attempt made by the Filipino representatives to secure official recognition from the United States Government. Secretary Hay was at the time attending a meeting of the Cabinet.

The advices from Manila which have reached the War Department are far from reassuring. It is understood that General Otis reports that he expects the insurgents are about to force an issue, and, if this should be so, the result cannot be foreseen. Manila itself is regarded as the danger point just now. While the instructions to General Otis have been to avoid any hostile clash with the natives, so far as that plan is consistent with the maintenance of his position, it is realized here that it is within the power of any excited or intoxicated person to precipitate a battle between the two opposing forces. General Otis is so sure of his ground that officials here feel no doubt as to the outcome of a hostile collision between the Americans and insurgent forces under Aguinaldo, but it is particularly desirable that even a battle ending in victory be avoided just now, for the President has by no means surrendered his conviction that the misguided Filipinos can be brought to an understanding of the real objects of the United States, and peacefully accept the conditions sought to be imposed.

Sick and Wounded Released.

Madrid, Jan. 25.—The Minister of War, General Correa, received a cable despatch yesterday from General Rios, the Spanish commander in the Philippines, announcing that all the sick and maimed civil and military prisoners were released by the Filipinos yesterday.

The Sale of the Carolines.

London, Jan. 25.—The Madrid correspondent of The Standard, telegraphing with reference to the bill to authorize the sale of the Carolines and other islands, says:

"The Government, it is understood, will give the Cortes an assurance that the islands will not be ceded to the United States, Great Britain or Japan. It is expected that other nations, besides Germany, will bid for naval stations in the Marianne Islands, and perhaps also in the Carolines."

NATIVES READY FOR MISCHIEF.

The Troubles on the Island of Labuan Are Serious.

Labuan, Island of Labuan, British Borneo, Jan. 25.—The steamer Labuan, Capt. Pfoot, which has arrived here, came from the Island of Balabac, 40 miles south of Palawan, Philippine Islands, and not from Palawan, as previously cabled. The murder of the Spanish officers, which she reported, occurred at Balabac. The Labuan brought 65 women and children here. They had been robbed of everything, but otherwise had not been ill-treated. The Sulus assisted the Balabacs in killing the Spanish officers. The Spaniards have left Palawan, where the natives were fearful of the Sulus. Stores had been looted, business was at a standstill, and the natives were armed and ready for mischief.

WOODSTOCK WONDER.

A Crippled Rheumatic is Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 16.—Never, in the social history of this town since the Birchall trial, has such great interest been shown as the "Cutmore Case" has caused.

Mr. C. J. Cutmore, 90 Main street, was crippled by Rheumatism and Lumbago during five years. He couldn't stand straight and had to be helped from his room.

To-day he is straight and strong; sound in every limb, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Other remedies were used, but did no good. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

THE MIGHTY KAISER.

Kaiser Wilhelm is provoking. After doing the most amusing things in the world he refuses to allow people to laugh at him. —Philadelphia Times.

Emperor William is to write a book giving his impressions of the east. Fortunately, the east is not in a position to retaliate by giving its impressions of Emperor William.—Baltimore American.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Means.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are

A Boy We May Hear More Of.

Whitby, Jan. 25.—The Collegiate Institute of this town held its annual commencement exercises last night in the Town Hall. The event of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Roy Stephenson, son of Edmund Stephenson, ticket agent, of a bronze medal, which he won at the recent art examinations held by the Ontario Educational Department. This medal was competed for by students from all the collegiates in the province, and reflects credit alike upon the winner and his teacher, Captain A. G. Henderson. Roy is a clever lad with his pencil, and intends to make drawing his profession. John Ferguson, chairman of the board, made the presentation.

ROSE A CENT AND A QUARTER.

The Wheat Market Was So Lively That It Looked Forced—Liverpool as Well as Chicago Stronger.

Tuesday Evening, Jan. 24.

Liverpool wheat futures to-day advanced a net ½d to ⅝d per cental over yesterday's close. Paris wheat closed unchanged to 5 centimes higher for the day, with flour up 10 to 20 centimes.

Chicago's wheat market was an active one to-day. The professionals are evidently attempting to extend the boom from Wall-street to the Chicago pit, and are using all sorts of arguments to advance prices. For instance, talk of damage to crops by frost is rumored, but there is no substantiation of these reports. Meantime receipts continue fairly good. At one time to-day May wheat rose 1⅝c above the previous final figures, but the close showed a net gain for the session of about 1¼c per bushel. Other American markets advanced in sympathy.

PETERBOROUGH WINS FROM WATERLOO.

The Score Last Night Was Six to Three.

THE RETURN MATCH NEXT WEEK.

A Big Excursion Will be Run to Scarramville, and Many Will Accompany the Boys West to See the Return Match.

Over a thousand people gathered at the rink last night to witness the senior Peterboroughs defeat the famous Waterloo team by six goals to three. It is no exaggeration to state that the match was the fastest ever played in the Peterborough rink, and from the face off of the puck until the clang of the bell announced the end of the game, every moment was replete with interest. It would be hard to name the star of the evening. Every man was at his best and not a member on either team shirked his duty. There was no rough play, and the excitement was fierce, never flagging while the game was in progress. Peterborough's defence never showed up to better advantage in their lines. Hollingshead's great lifts were something wonderful to witness and surpassed anything in this line ever seen here before. Reynolds also cleared in magnificent style and by the timely use of his body broke up many a rush. Wasson covered himself with glory. He had his work cut out for him, but accomplished wonders in the way of stopping shots and relieving the goal. Crowley, who was given his first trial on the team, played like a veteran. He was told off to play cover-centre, which entails following up the forward line closely in a rush and yet being ready to break up of the opposing team if the puck is lost. Crowley's interference was certainly good and he also made some capital rushes. Lionel King's work was of the gilt edge variety. On two occasions he so far outstripped his mates on the forward line that he had no one with him to whom to pass the puck. He was able, however, to carry it right through the defense and score. Such playing though should not be encouraged, as it is liable to cause the spectators to wreck the rink in their enthusiasm. Bellegham and Roger Davidson both played a dashing brilliant game which won them golden opinions from the crowd. The former played at centre and took the puck from the face-off almost every time. Davidson's shots from the wing were something terrific.

For the visitors Clemes, Lifficon, Westwick and Hendrie were the forwards. All have made names for themselves in the different towns where they have played the game in former years and upheld their reputation last night. Forrester, Robson and Koehler on the defence also put up star games, giving Peterborough the most stubborn defense they have ever tried to go through.

The style of play of the two teams was a good deal alike, but the Peterboroughs followed up a good deal the better, if anything. The visitors missed many good chances by remaining over the puck and inaccurate passing, but they did some grand stick handling, and individually played very fast. Clemes had a little trick of carrying the puck along for some distance and then dropping it for Westwick to pick up from behind. This was at first but the home boys soon got on to the trick.

Mr. Gauthier of Osgoode Hall, refereed the match, and though Peterborough got the worst of it in the way of the local players being sent to the fence undeservedly, yet on the whole general satisfaction was given.

The puck was faced off at 8:58 and was passed back to Hollingshead, who lifted on the Waterloo goal. Crowley went right through after it and the Waterloo defense was unable to clear for some time. When the puck finally did come up the rink Hollingshead sent it back into the crowd again and Roger Davidson scored from a scrimmage in front of the goal. Time, 2 minutes.

The play was a little more even in the next game and the visitors pressed Peterborough. King, however, came out of the crowd with the puck and carrying it the length of the rink, scored on a swift side shot. Time, 3 minutes. Score, 2-0.

A minute later Bellegham did the trick and three minutes afterwards was able to tally again in a pass from Crowley. Score, 4—0.

Peterborough stock was now away up, but the visitors were not going to let the home team have things all their own way, and proceeded to make things very warm for Wasson. He stopped half a dozen shots but Clemes was at last able to score for Waterloo from a hot scrimmage in front of the flags. Time 2 minutes. Score, 4—1.

The two teams seemed to be playing faster hockey every minute, and the play was up and down the ice as fast as

THE EYE COULD WATCH IT.

After seven minutes play Reynolds made a great run up the ice and passed to Bellegham, who tallied. Score, 5—1.

No more games were scored before the bell rang for half time, but some very exciting play was seen.

Just after play was resumed Hollingshead stopped the puck with his hand just in front of his own goal, which necessitated a face off only about three feet out, but the Peterborough men were able to push puck, players and all out to a safer distance. Wasson stopped two hot ones a moment later and Peterborough was pressed hard for a time before the goal was cleared. King, however, once more did his great rush act and fairly flying down the rink, dodged the cover point and point players and scored. Time, 17 min. Score, 6—1.

The next game went to Waterloo in 3 minutes, Lifficon and Hendry going down the rink together and the latter scoring. Score, 6—2.

King and Bellegham worked out a nice combination by which they carried the puck right in on the goal keeper, but he gathered it in and relieved when a goal looked to be a certainty. Hendry and Clemes were able to out manoeuvre the Peterborough defence, and the latter tallied. Score, 6—3.

No more games were scored before time was called.

After the match the visitors were given a swell banquet at the Oriental.

A big crowd will go from here to Waterloo on Monday next to see the return match. The Peterboroughs have adopted John Bull's motto, "What we have we'll hold," and announce their intention of not letting Waterloo cut down their lead of three.

FRONTENACS VS COLTS.

Another bumper crowd will be at the rink to-morrow night to cheer the Colts on to victory in their first match on the third round for the O.H.A. junior championship. The Frontenacs of Kingston will meet a great little team in the Colts, and one of the best games ever seen in Peterborough may be expected. The Colts' team will be: Goal, Parker Crossley; point, Eddie Graham; cover point, Harold Armstrong (capt); forwards, Harry King, Stanley Bradd (centre), H. McBain (cover-centre), and Fred Whitcroft. Game will commence sharp at 8 o'clock.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT.

Peterborough is determined to hold its lead in the return game with Waterloo. A full practice is called for 7 o'clock to-night and also after the match to-morrow night. All intermediate players are asked to turn out and give the seniors good hard work.

A. H. STRATTON & Co.

MR. WARDEN HAWTHORNE.

Mr. Hawthorne, one of the representatives of the Lakefield division, is to be heartily congratulated on being selected as Warden yesterday on the first ballot, an honour which is not usual. In 1893, the first year when the election took place by ballot, there were twenty-six ballots cast before a selection was made, and usually, except in the case of Mr Shaw in 1894, there have been found necessary from twelve to fourteen ballots. Mr. Hawthorne is probably one of the youngest members of the council ever elected Warden of the county. He was born in Dummer on the farm upon which he now resides, 38 years ago. In his early life he had a leaning towards commercial pursuits, and was for several years from '75 to '78 connected with the general store of Robert Hall, Lakefield. He was also from '78 to '80 with Messrs. Peter Connal & Co., town. He then returned to the paternal acres and became a successful farmer with advanced ideas and has since been active in promoting the interests of agriculture. He is President of the Warsaw Cheese and Butter Company; and was a director of the Douro and Dummer Agricultural Society during its existence, and is Vice-President of the East Riding Farmers' Institute. Mr. Hawthorne has had a large municipal experience that fits him for the responsible position in which he has been placed. He represented Dummer in the county council from '91 to '97—as reeve and deputy, having been deputy-reeve for two terms. He was elected as one of the county councillors for Lakefield Division—being elected for Mr. Moloney's uncompleted term on the death of the latter. Mr. Hawthorne is quiet in demeanor and thinks more than he speaks. He enjoys the high esteem of the members of the council, with most of whom he has long been associated. He is a type of a good citizen for his sympathies with progress are wide and his activities touch many points. In addition to his relations to the promotion of the interests of agriculture, his solicitude for moral progress is shown by his having been elected President of the Peterborough County Sunday School Association. He is a Liberal in politics and with the natural qualifications he possesses and the experience he has had, should and will doubtless be a worthy and serviceable occupant of the Warden's chair for 1899.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY, 25, 1899.

AN OPEN MEETING OF THE C. M. B. A.

IT WAS LARGELY ATTENDED BY THOSE INTERESTED.

An Eloquent Address Delivered by Grand Organizer Killackey of Windsor.

A largely-attended open meeting of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association was held last evening when a large number of ladies and gentlemen heard a most practical and interesting address delivered by Grand Organizer Killackey, of Windsor, on the aims and objects of the Society.

The chair was occupied by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, who introduced the speaker of the evening at the conclusion of a short musical programme.

Speaking in reference to the Association the speaker said :

"Knowing the disadvantages which we ourselves meet with and the obstacles we have to overcome, far be it from me," said the speaker, "to say anything in opposition to sister societies. But the membership of this society is limited, and for that reason deserves favour at your hands. None but Catholics are enrolled as members, Any from the age of 18 to 50 years are eligible and unlike other societies which seek your favour, the C.M.B.A. has for its corner stone the faith in which we all believe. Its constitutions are approved by our spiritual leaders and large numbers of our priests are on the rolls. The C.M.B.A. does not exist as a menace to the liberties of any who are not Catholics. It is willing that all should enjoy the same liberties and labours to that end. The object of the society is to unite the Catholics from one end of Canada to the other, for the purpose of mutual improvement, for uplifting and benefitting each other. Life insurance is not the be all and end all of the Association. Its aim is higher. To encourage by all honourable means a unity among our friends and those dependent on them and I appeal to the members of this society to leave petty thoughts behind them and labour for the improvement of the society. I appeal to you who are not members to join the Association and by earnest work forward its best interests. You have the best society to work for according to government reports of assessment societies and that is the only guarantee the public have of a society's standing."

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was moved to Mr. Killackey in a few well chosen words by A. J. Gough, President of the Local Branch ably seconded by Mr. L. M. Hays.

Mr. Killackey made a neat reply.

The members of the Association and the friends then entertained Mr. Killackey at a supper in the National Hotel. The president occupied the chair and short speeches were made by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, Mr. Killackey, Thomas Cahill and Provincial Treasurer Seguin of the Catholic Order of Foresters. The proceedings were brought to a happy termination by all rising and singing the National Anthem.

COUNTY COUNCIL JANUARY SESSION.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES FOR THE YEAR SELECTED.

Resolutions Respecting the House of Refuge for the Town and County—The County Reaffirms its Position in the Matter.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The council went into session at a quarter to eleven this morning.

After routine the Warden read returns of money paid by several municipalities under the statute of 1898 :—Town of Peterborough, $2,386 20 ; Otonabee, $4 404.-90 ; Northumberland and Durham, $427.23.

The Warden also referred to the matter of a writ issued by one Smith for compensation for services in attending the swing of the Benafort bridge, against the County of Peterborough, the County of Northumberland, Durham and the Township of South Monaghan. Mr. Stratton had been instructed to defend the action by Mr. Pearce, the late Warden, who took this ground from the fact that this county in contributing to the cost of this bridge disclaimed all responsibility to maintenance.

A letter was also read from Mr. J. R. Stratton, President of the Trent Valley Canal Association, inviting the council to attend a public meeting in the Canal's interests on Thursday night. The invitation was accepted.

J. B. PEARCE, Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, January 25th.

Report adopted.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.

Mr. Eastland moved, seconded by Mr. Shaw, that the council memorialise the manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway to build a branch road from Norwood north through Dummer, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos. The motion was adopted.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

A motion by Mr. Peck was adopted requesting the town council to confer with the county in the council chamber to-morrow afternoon respecting the Mud Lake bridge.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Peck, That whereas this council did, on the 15th day of June, 1894, unanimously adopt the following resolution :

Moved by Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Pearce,—That this council having considered the presentment of the Grand Jury at the present session of the Peace, urging the establishment of a House of Industry and Refuge, and the presentment of former Grand Juries in reference to the same matter, hereby express their willingness to erect and maintain such an institution, if the town of Peterborough will join with them in such erection and maintenance, the proportion of the town's expenditure, if it cannot be mutually agreed upon, to be decided by arbitration ; and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the County Judge, and that copies thereof at the opening of each court be laid before the presiding judge, so that in future the strictures passed in reference to the want of proper provision for indigent persons by Judges and Grand Juries may be directed, not as now to the County, but to the Town if they decline this proposition. Also that a copy thereof be forwarded to the Town Council.

And whereas this council have had a special committee to deal with the matter at any time during the past four years, and this committee having met with a committee of the Town Council of Peterborough on several occasions without any practical results ; that the Town Council were not prepared to meet the proposal of this council with reference to a House of Refuge and Industry until recently when the Town Council passed the following resolution on Dec. 5th, 1898 :

That this council having received and heard the presentments of the different grand jurors in reference to the establishment of a House of Refuge for old and indigent persons, is willing to unite with the County of Peterborough in the erection of such refuge and in its maintenance, the proportion of expenditure to be paid by the town and county, if it cannot be mutually agreed upon to be decided by arbitration, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the county judge in order that in future in the event of grand jurors making reference to the want of provision for indigent persons, the judge may be aware of the town's position in the matter.

Therefore be it resolved that this council at the earliest opportunity afforded at its first meeting hereby ratify and re-affirm its unanimous resolution of Jan. 15th, 1894, by appointing a special committee, of the warden, and Messrs. Pearce, Peck, Anderson, Fitzgerald and Forster, with full power to act in the matter of selecting a suitable location and purchasing the requisite quantity of lands and erecting a house of refuge and industry (in conformity with the statute) for the county and town of Peterborough, and that action be not deferred, but immediately taken, to consummate this desireable purpose, so repeatedly urged upon the county council by many judges and grand juries and residents of the county.

And we would respectfully desire and recommend to the Joint Committee that, in addition to the $4,000 provided by statute and payable from the Provincial treasury towards the house of refuge, that an earnest effort be made to induce the executors of the estate of that estimable lady, the late Almira Grover Foley, formerly of Norwood, who, by her will, bequeathed a sum of money exceeding $40,-000 to be invested so that the income will be eventually available for the worthy and destitute resident poor, widows and orphas of the county, to induce the said executors to join with the county and town of Peterborough in formulating some scheme whereby they might co-operate in providing for these poor unfortunates whose only offence is old age and poverty, and provide them with a home—rather than force them int jail and compel them to associate with criminals the remainder of their lives.

Council adjourned.

IN THE NAME OF SWEET CHARITY.

Synopsis of Rev Father Fitzpatrick's Eloquent Charity Sermon in St. Peter's.

The following is a brief synopsis of the sermon on charity delivered by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, last Sunday evening in St. Peter's Cathedral :

The speaker took for his text, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so you shall fulfil the law of Christ."—Gal. vi, 2.

After enumerating the many examples of charity in the Old Law under Moses and the ancient patriarchs, their many efforts to provide for the wants and necessities of the poor, the preacher drew the attention of his hearers to the fact that from these noble yet isolated examples of charity it must not be inferred that the people of those days were charitable. On the contrary, they were very uncharitable. They had no organized system by which to relieve the sufferings which poverty always brings in its train. It was a common saying in those days, "What is the use of giving anything to a beggar? One loses what one gives away, and only prolongs the miserable existence of the receiver." How different the Christian maxim! "What I give to the poor I keep, and what I keep from them I lose.' Now how much soever Christians may unhappily differ on questions of religious faith, no matter how much they may war among themselves on questions of doctrine, morals, or modes of worshipping Almighty God, no matter how much hatred and enemity, bigotry and prejudice may call forth, one thing was certain, that on the common platform of Christian charity all were united—and justly so, because all were children of the same common Father, and all had been redeemed by the same precious blood of Jesus Christ. The preacher here gave a lengthy account of the tender compassion of Jesus for the poor, quoting Holy Scripture as proof of the truth that Christ loved the poor, and laboured for their sake.

Christ chose a life of poverty and humility, that he might, first of all, sanctify for ever the condition of the lowly and obscure, that he might place his seal of condemnation on that spirit of the world that would estimate a man's worth and dignity by his wealth, and his degredation by his poverty.

Riches were not a sign of greatness, only the veils that hide our numerous infirmities, the visible signs of our invisible greatness. By pride and luxury the world had been wounded, and nothing could heal that would save humility and mortification. The poverty, humility and suffering of Christ had sanctified these in man, so that we could no more contemplate the one than the other, without feelings of pity and compassion. Christ gave as proof of His divine mission, that He had been sent to preach the Gospel to the poor, to heal the broken-hearted, and in answer to the disciples of St. John who had come to enquire if He were the Messiah, after enumerating all His miracles He concludes by saying, "that the poor have the Gospel preached to them." This fact the preacher drove home to his hearers by an eloquent tribute to the faith and devotion of God's poor. The church recognized this, and it animated her at all times and in all plane to provide for their temporal as well as their spiritual wants. She recognised, too, the great law of inequality among the human family, that this law was only in accordance with the decree of an all-wise God, in accordance with that decree indelibly stamped on the human heart which says : "Let the strong help the weak, let the learned instruct the ignorant, let the rich aid the poor."

But though it pleased God to leave some poor still he had made provision for their protection by laying on the rich the obligation of assisting them, even under the awful penalty of their own condemnation. The sentence which Christ would pronounce on the last day against the uncharitable was here pointed out, as proof of His love and sympathy for the poor. Their cause was His cause, their troubles and trials were His, for religion pure and undefiled with God is this—"To visit the fatherless and widows in their tribulation."

After paying a tribute to the good women, who had taken upon themselves the noble work of charity and mercy, of clothing the naked, of cheering desolate hearts, and brightening dreary homes, the preacher concluded by an eloquent appeal to the congregation to strengthen the hands of these noble women by their generous contributions, and God would make their reward exceeding great.

THE NIGHT CLERK'S STORY.

A FACE LIKE CHALK.

A very bad attack of the Grippe one year ago last winter left my system in a very weak state and my nervous system completely unstrung. After getting over the dangerous stage of the disease I naturally expected to gain strength, but, unfortunately, did not do so. On the contrary, my blood became weaker. I daily lost strength and vitality, and my nervous system became so weak that it was a constant source of suffering both day and night. I lost appetite, the sight of food nauseated me, the weak state of my system caused shortness of breath and unnatural action of the heart, such as fluttering and violent palpitation, and my face was like chalk. I was in this condition and constantly getting weaker when I began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I had read the books they distributed and their advertisements in the papers, and thought, "Well, I have taken so much medicine without benefit it is useless to spend any more money. However, I finally made up my mind. It is a forlorn hope; I can but try. If I am not benefited I will not be hurt. So I bought one box and received great benefit therefrom, so continued their use, and to-day am a well man in consequence; my blood is strong, my face has the ruddy hue of health, my appetite has returned, I sleep well, I have not the slightest indications of nervousness or heart trouble, and from a sick, weak, nervous man Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have transformed me in six weeks to full health and strength." I am yours very truly,

AN AUTUMN EVENING.

Gray is the sky and gray the fading land,
And a thin rim of starved gray fainting light
On the bleak ridges flickers, that ring round
This pastoral hollow with its long green lanes
Its sehen shadows and mute slumbering farms
Slow through the meadows steals the leaden stream,
From the plowed upland to the rectory elms
Dumb floats the rooky host dejectedly,
As though in the surprised and stricken air
A hand invisible for silence waved.
About the lonesome grange upon the hill
The rising wind of twilight roams and sighs,
Searching for something lost or some one gone,
And on a low branch of the nearest pine
Plains autumn's trembling bird disconsolate.

This saddened vale was once a shrine of light,
A radiant figure ranged its solitude
And filled the quiet with intensity.
Here the most heavenly of the mornings dawned,
Through placid splendors, in the heights of eve,
The chanting dusky aboirs sailed stately home,
And all the bushes brimmed with bubbling song.

Still—life's eclipse cannot mean endless night.
The love, the tenderness, the lofty trust,
The fair imaginations that all made
The secret of joy of the wide simple world
Fall not to moldered ruin like the woods,
Nor perish as a drifted cloud that melts
Upon the blanched horizon's outmost verge,
But breathe and soar and brighten, strong and free,
Untroubled, pure, immortal, near or far,
There where we know that the Redeemer liveth,
And the lost angels of our heart see God.

—Joseph Truman in Spectator.

HER CONFESSION.

Long after the speaker's words had died away the listening people waited in hushed expectancy, unwilling to believe that he had finished and unable to descend all at once from the heights to which they had been raised.

John Ordway and his wife came from the chapel among the last. Both had been strongly moved by the evening's sermon, but in different ways, indicative perhaps of their widely differing temperaments.

Ordway helped his wife into the wagon, the horses struck into a swift trot, and the driver leaned forward to draw the rug more closely about his companion, peering up into her face solicitously.

They moved swiftly past the scattered houses of the village and out into a stretch of open country. Three or four times the woman raised her head as though about to speak, but checked herself with an effort.

"I have something to tell you, John," she said at last. "I—I am afraid I ought to have told you long ago."

"Are ye sure ye ought?" he asked gently. "Maybe there ain't any need."

"There is a need," she answered. "I have known all along that it would be better to speak out, but somehow I never felt that I could until tonight." She paused as though to gather courage. "It's about myself and Willis," she said. "You remember"—

Ordway bent forward suddenly with a warning shout to the horses, and the wagon jolted heavily in a deep rut.

"That's me all over," he said, with a chuckle. "I took special notice of that hole so as to skip it on the way home, and here I am drivin right into it again, like an old fool. That's what comes of listenin to sermons ye can't quite understand."

"Won't you listen to me, John?" his wife asked pleadingly.

"Of course I will," he answered, "only my nerves bein so wrought up I'm sort of afraid to have any big shock come on me sudden, ye know."

Ordway put his arm around her and drew her closer to him protectingly, as a mother soothes a nervous, sleepy child.

"I wasn't jokin," he said. "I'm always glad to listen to ye, only I think ye'd best wait till we get home. We're most there now."

"Go in by the fire," said John Ordway, when at length they rattled into the farmyard. "It'll take me some time to fix things up."

But when he came from the stable, he found her waiting, leaning against one of the square posts of the porch and looking out across the darkness of the valley.

"I wanted to wait until we could go in together," she said.

The long, low kitchen was full of changing shadows, which danced across the time polished floor and lost themselves in the corners of the irregular ceiling, when Ordway crossed to the huge fireplace and piled some sticks of soft wood on the glowing ashes. At length she spoke slowly and with evident effort at calmness.

"You must try to be patient with me," she said. "You'll be astonished, I know, and I am afraid you'll be angry—and I couldn't blame you—but I want you to wait till—till I've finished."

She hesitated as if to gain strength, and he marked how the slender figure quivered with the effort of her hurried breathing.

"I had promised to marry Willis before I knew you," she said unsteadily. "We quarreled about some little thing, and each was too proud to speak first. Finally he went away without seeing me. You know how we heard that he died in Africa. I believed it—we all did—and I cried myself to sleep night after night because I hadn't acted differently.

"As time went on I began to forget little by little, and after awhile it all seemed like a sort of dream. Then you came into my life and taught me to trust you and turn to you for help in everything. And, in truth, I loved you more than you could ever understand." Her voice trembled. "You believe me, John?" she asked. "Say that you do believe me."

"I ain't never doubted it," he answered softly.

"I was happy and contented for two long years. It was like heaven, and you were happy, too, John?"

"Happy!" he said. "Ah, yes! Nobody'll ever know how much."

"And then little Dora was born," she went on, "and somehow all our trouble began right there, for it seemed as though her baby hands took hold of our hearts and pushed them apart, a little at first and then more and more. Well, things got worse and worse, and when she died I almost believed you were to blame in some way—I don't know how. Oh, it's awful to think about, but I couldn't help feeling that way! Will you ever forgive me for it?"

"I never laid it up against ye," he answered. "I reckoned it was natural, and I knew ye wasn't well, so I tried to forget all about that part of our life, and I done it—almost."

"The rest of my story is harder to tell and harder to listen to. You remember that Willis came back and hunted us up. He came at the worst time for all of us. I was set against you and half wild about baby's death and reckless to everything. He found that out and kept pleading with me and urging me to go away with him. I ought to have sent him away, but I—didn't. It was as though some evil spirit put the words into his mouth, and I listened—God help me, I listened."

She started to her feet and stood facing her husband, her arms raised to her head in a wild gesture.

"It was no fault of mine that I did not sin against you in deed as I did in thought!" she cried. "If it had not been for some accident—I don't even know what it was—I should not have been here now. I went to meet him here one night. We were to drive to Oakley and take the train for some place. I waited, I don't know how many hours, but he didn't come. At last I crept home and found you asleep. In the morning when you were away a letter came saying that an unforeseen accident had happened, and he would let me know about it soon. I never heard from him again."

She paused and looked at him fearfully, as though expecting a violent outburst of anger, but he said nothing, and at last she spoke again.

"Won't you speak to me?" she cried tremulously. "Haven't you been listening? Have I done wrong to tell you? Speak to me, for God's sake! I can't bear it."

The words were lost in a storm of sobbing, and she threw herself down on her knees beside him, hiding her face with her hands on the arm of the old fashioned chair.

"Don't take on so, Eunie," he said gently. "Ye'll be glad all the rest of yer life, I think, on account of jest what ye're cryin about now. Look up, my girl, an maybe I can finish the story for ye. Ye say ye never knowed why he didn't come that night," he said. "I could a-told ye why."

"You!" she cried.

"Yes," he answered. "Jest me. He staid away because I told him he'd better, and he knowed I meant what I said.

"Did ye think I was so blind all them months that I didn't see what was happenin? I'd a-knowed it if I had been miles away, for there ain't never any trouble in yer heart but what I don't feel it. I jest stepped in an talked to Willis. He understood, an that settled it."

"Then you've known?" she interrupted breathlessly. "You've known all this time?"

He nodded cheerfully. "All this time," he answered.

"But you never said a word to me—you never acted as though"—

"It's always harder for me to talk than to keep still," he said slowly. "Surely ye've found that out long ago. I couldn't a-said a word without makin things worse, most likely, so I thought the best thing to do was to jest wait—an I've been waitin."

"Waiting!" she repeated. "Waiting for what?"

"For what's happened, Eunie," he said softly.

The woman was clinging to his arm and weeping convulsively.

"'Tweren't yer fault, little girl," he said. "It's jest happened that way. There ain't no need to cry about it now. The time for cryin's all gone past, an I don't think it'll ever come again."—London Mail.

A Danish Hunting Supper.

The tables are creaking with solid sections of brown, juicy, steaming roasts and piles of mealy potatoes enveloped in hot fog, and long white platters of whole salmon through whose tender torn skin the pink flakes and streaks of white fat look all ready for the limpid golden butter sauce which stands in the brimming full dishes near by. Tall, handsome Danish girls are running hither and thither with chicken soup for this man and hare soup for that man and extricating order from chaos on the table with a marvelous degree of skill. Good nature is rampant, and the fast delivered hearty speeches are followed by rousing, echoing cheers. Cries of "Skol! Skol!" follow every toast in which the Yankee is mentioned, with a vigor which shows how deep and real their feelings of hospitality are, and men come from distant tables to express friendly sentiments toward America and Americans in general.—"Hopkins' Pond," by Robert T. Morris.

A Turkish Cemetery.

Mrs. Max Muller, in her "Letters From Constantinople," gives this record of a visit paid to a cemetery and the curious superstition in regard to burial:

"The Turkish women are fond of spending whole days sitting on their carpet in the cemeteries, not from any deep affection for the dead, for the Turks care little for the body when once buried. The soul, the true being they loved, is safe in paradise, though only from the moment that the body is laid in the ground. For this reason the funerals take place as soon as possible after death, and if you meet a Turkish funeral the procession is hurrying along in what appears to us the most indecorous haste, so that the soul may more quickly attain to its final bliss. A devout Turk passing a coffin will give his aid to the bearers, exhausted by the speed at which they go. This aid, if only given for 40 paces, secures the pardon of a heavy crime."

DR. CHASE MAKES A WONDERFUL CURE

Mrs. Knight, 17 Hanover Place, Toronto, makes the following statement:—

MY mother, Mrs. Wright, who lives at Norval, near Doncaster, suffered a summer and winter with Eczema in her feet. She could not walk, and very seldom got any sleep. It became so bad that she was perfectly raw from the toes to the knees. After trying every available remedy without receiving any benefit, and almost hopeless of relief, she was advised to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. She has altogether used 8 boxes since commencing, but with the happiest results, for she is now completely cured. There is but one scar on one of her feet, a memento of her fearful suffering condition. Any person desiring further testimony in this case is at liberty to communicate with Mrs. Wright at her address, Norval P.O.

Mrs. Knight says after such a grand success, is it any wonder we recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment?

STEEL WAISTCOATS.

Armor Ordered from England by American Millionaires.

The London managers of a great Sheffield (England) manufacturing firm are authority for the statement that four well-known American millionaires have recently ordered coats and waistcoats made of steel. This armor is of light chain mail, allowing perfectly free movements, does not interfere with perspiration and weighs very little indeed. When a man has worn a mail coat for a week or two, the manufacturer says, he gets quite used to it and suffers no inconvenience whatever, says the St. Louis Post-Despatch.

While these coats will not turn a bullet, nor prevent the penetration of a dagger or sword at short range, they are sufficiently strong to turn either a sword or a dagger driven at long range. A spent bullet will not affect them in the slightest degree. The same manufacturer says that in the last five years his firm has received more than 900 orders for light armor.

A number of Englishmen statesmen protect themselves by using this armor. In the days when Fenianism was rampant there was hardly an English politician of note who did not adopt this means of securing partial safety. It is declared that four members of the present English Government have these coats of mail, and that one of these four men either wears his steel coat whenever he goes out or else is guarded by detectives.

Quite a number of millionaires are credited with the possession of these garments of safety, and it is alleged that while few people imagine it they are worn very generally by prominent men.

Another Permanent Cure of Scrofula.

Not long ago we published the case of Mrs. Bennet, of Crewson's Corners, Ont., whom Burdock Blood Bitters cured of one of the severest cases of Scrofula met with in Ontario.

So thorough and permanent has the cure been that in nearly 5 years the disease has shown no signs of returning.

This time we give the case of Mr. Norman D. Murray, of Brook Village, N.S., who was permanently cured by B. B. B. of scrofulous sores that defied the skill of two prominent physicians. Mr. Murray writes as follows:

"It is with pleasure I write in praise of Burdock Blood Bitters, which completely cured me of Scrofula. I consulted two of our most skilful doctors, who gave me some acid to apply to the sores, but I regret to say that the application only made them worse. My face was all one running sore and I could get no ease. At last I purchased one bottle of B. B. B., and before I had used it all I was completely cured. Words cannot express my feelings toward your God-sent medicine. I will praise it wherever I go, because it has made a permanent cure in my case, after I had practically given up hope.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

BAFFLED.

A crash, a blow, a bound, and the sound of shivering glass. Then everything was changed.

Lenore Armyn stood, with startled eyes, gazing down at the deadly phial, that lay crushed to atoms at her feet, while the sickening, pungent perfume of its spilled contents pervaded the room.

Jason Bradwardine, still grasping the glittering knife, lay measuring his length in the furthest corner and midway between the two, with flashing eyes, and her right hand coolly aiming a pistol at the breast of the prostrate villain, stood—the widow O'Neil. The door stood wide open, and one glance showed the lock hanging broken and loose. It had been filed through, so skilfully that one push would force it from its fastening, and yet no eye could have detected the work.

"Lie there, you dog!" said the widow O'Neil, in a voice that made the villain stare, and that caused Lenore to utter an exclamation of astonishment. "Don't attempt to move, or, by Heavens, I'll put a ball through you"; then, without once taking her eye from the prostrate man, she said to Lenore, "Madame, yonder lies the pistol that I caused this cur to drop. Can you pick it up and put it out of his reach?"

Mechanically Lenore obeyed. She could not yet fully realize the change that had come about; a moment before face to face with death; now—was she not to die after all? She moved as far away from the prostrate would-be assassin as she could, holding the pistol in her hand.

Jason Bradwardine raised himself on an elbow, and glared like a basilisk at this unexpected and unwelcome apparition.

"Who the foul fiend are you?" he fairly gasped, when the truth forced itself to be recognized, and he felt that this was the person he had believed to be a bona fide widow and his ally.

"I am one who has been on your track longer than you can guess, Jason Bradwardine. I know you better than you know yourself. You will find I am not the sort of woman you can trifle with," said the widow, in a very manly voice. "So this lady is in your way, is she? Well, I will take her out of your way, and to give you a chance for reflection, I will make sure that you don't leave these premises. No, don't move; I have not much patience—and just drop that knife from your hand. What, you won't? Come here, Miss Armyn."

Lenore came forward. She had quite recovered her presence of mind by this time.

"Can you shoot?" asked this strange woman, with the man's voice.

"Yes," replied Lenore, promptly. "And my hand is steady, see." She held out a firm little hand, on which the widow cast an admiring glance.

"Step over to that table, please; there! Now cock Mr. Bradwardine's pistol—it's a nice little weapon—now then, aim it straight at his temple. I am going to take that knife from him, and bind him hand and foot. If he offers to resist, shoot him instantly."

"I will," said Lenore, firmly; then, as a mocking light came to her eyes, "Mr. Bradwardine, don't tempt me. I want to shoot you."

Jason Bradwardine groaned and cursed; he dared not struggle, he feared that shining weapon, now that it was in Lenore Armyn's hands, more far more, than he had feared the one aimed at his heart by the false widow. He fully believed that she wanted but a hint at resistance to speed a ball to his brain.

The widow threw off her shawl, drew a coil of stout cord from her pocket, and bent over the prostrate man.

"Nice knife, too!" said she, cheerfully. "Cut well, I should think. Don't roll your eyes so, my man. You didn't think this of the widow O'Neil, did you? There now, just give us that other hand. I must tie them behind you. There, that's done; that's better than any true love knot, sir. Now for the feet. There, now, Mr. Bradwardine, you are tied fine and fast. If Mrs. Harris should not come back, I don't know what would become of you. You can call, of course, but you know this is rather a dull locality; you didn't want to be where help could be easily summoned, and you must be satisfied with your own arrangements."

With these consoling remarks sounding in his ears, and with Lenore Armyn's eye and weapon turned upon him relentlessly, Mr. Bradwardine submitted to be bound hand and foot, the widow emphasizing every knot she tied with one of her cheerful comments.

"Now then, Miss Armyn," said this individual, "you and I will not intrude upon Mr. Bradwardine any longer; I have just a word for his ears, meanwhile you had better get you hat, and be ready for departure"; then turning again to the bound and baffled man, "I suppose you wonder why I don't arrest you? Well, I will explain; there are others more interested in you than I am, and I leave you to them; you are sure to come to grief, and if you want to hasten proceedings against you, just try the lodge you did two days ago on B—— street. You need not trouble that woman about your wallet. If you really feel the need of it, ask me where it is. As for this lady, approach her again at your peril. And now, if you have no other business to transact with the aid of 'dear Mrs. O'Neil' she will bid you good-day."

For answer Jason Bradwardine gnashed his teeth, and growled out a curse; and Lenore's rescuer turned toward her, never once looking toward the bound villain again.

"Miss Armyn," said the champion, "have you been at all injured by this brute?"

"No, sir," replied Lenore, ignoring the attire of her new friend; "I think, after all, the man was half afraid of me."

"Quite likely, he is certainly a pitiful coward; and yet—you had the poison at your lips, Miss Armyn."

She turned suddenly. "How do you know my name?" she asked.

"Just as I know his name—you do not wish to have me call you Mrs.——"

She put up her hands suddenly. "No! No one shall call me that," she said, and then became silent.

"We will take these," picking up Bradwardine's knife and the pistol which Lenore had laid down. "Are you ready now, Miss Armyn?"

"Yes, quite ready."

They went out and down the stairs in silence. At the door Lenore paused, and turned toward her companion.

"Sir," she said, "you have saved my life to-day, and, I thank you—words are feeble to express what I would say. To have died thus in the presence of that man would have been inexpressibly terrible, although I do not think I fear death. Will you answer me just one question?"

"If I can, Miss Armyn."

"You are disguised as a woman, and I have thought you a woman—of course I know better now. Are you not Mr. Bathurst, the detective?"

"Yes, Miss Armyn, I am Bathurst the detective, but I am anxious to serve you, nevertheless," replied the disguised Neil.

"Thank you, and I must believe you," she replied; then she stood still, apparently thinking. "Am I to go with you?" she asked suddenly.

"Yes, Miss Armyn, it will be best. I have something to say to you. I have a carriage two blocks away. You see, I was prepared for the emergency," with a short laugh. "Do you feel like walking to the carriage. Has this—excitement unnerved you?"

"I feel—a little unnerved—yes," replied Lenore, with a sudden droop of the eyelids. "The reaction I suppose—however, I can walk—to the carriage."

"Take my arm, Miss Armyn," said Bathurst, with genuine solicitude; "it has been a trying time for you."

"Yes," replied Lenore, quite feebly, and leaning heavily upon the proffered arm; "it is over now."

They reached the carriage, and Bathurst gave an order Lenore could not understand, then they took their seats and were driven rapidly away.

Lenore leaned back wearily. "I feel—strangely," she said, in a low tone.

"I will get you a glass of wine, Miss Armyn," and he was about to stop the carriage.

"No! Please don't, Mr. Bathurst—I shall feel better presently."

"I will let in some cool air, then," said Neil, at the same time lowering the window nearest her.

"Thank you."

They whirled on, across a bridge, and from street to street, turning occasionally; they were now in the heart of the city, and were compelled, by the press of vehicles, to move slowly. As Lenore leaned back, glancing from time to time, listlessly, out of the carriage window, they crossed a street which she recognized with a shudder. Then a sudden light came to her eyes. Again she lowered her lashes, and leaned wearily back. A moment after she caught, through the half-closed lids, the glow of green, and red, and yellow, and then she turned toward Neil Bathurst.

"I feel—ill!" she gasped—"water." And then she fell heavily forward.

In an instant he raised the drooping form and laid it gently back upon the cushions. Then he called to the driver, almost forgetting to assume his feminine accents.

"Stop at that drug store opposite. Drive up close."

This was done, and before the driver could descend from his perch, Neil was out on the pavement.

"You need not get down," he said, not wishing to cause any unnecessary questioning. "I will be back in a moment." And, with a ladylike shake of his sable drapery he entered the drug store. Very soon he returned, bearing in his hand a glass of rich, red wine—and followed by a clerk, who carried sal volatile and other restoratives. He put his foot upon the carriage-step and glanced in; then started back, with an exclamation of amazement and sudden anger.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"I DON'T BELIEVE SHE DID IT."

Two hours later Francis Ferrars was sitting in the room that, by common consent, had become a rendezvous for the three detectives. He had left Rob Jocelyn two hours before, engaged in a losing game of poker with that limb of the newspaper fraternity, Mr. George Fordham, who seemed equally at home with the cards or the quill; and had betaken himself to these rooms, which Bathurst declared had now become common property, to reflect, and to take a second and more thorough review of the wallet of Jason Bradwardine, and all the memoranda collected by Jocelyn and Bathurst concerning this man and the hunted Lenore Armyn. They had all been placed in his possession by the two detectives, and they were now spread over the table before him.

"It certainly looks dark," he muttered, after perusing the last scrap of Bathurst's jottings, "and yet—the girl comes of a brave, high-souled race; I don't think that one sinister drop ever yet flowed in their veins; and if this girl has struck an enemy, in the dark, she must be, indeed, degenerate; I don't believe it, I can't; although the provocation was great. But guilty of this crime, or innocent, she has something which she wishes to conceal. Before this mockery of marriage, and this murder transpired, the girl had a mystery. In that I fully agree with Bathurst—but, in spite of this mass of evidence, I do not believe that she murdered her husband."

He arose, paced the room for a few moments, and then began slowly to gather up the papers. While he was thus engaged, a key turned in the door, and he lifted his head to see Neil Bathurst, in his feminine disguise, enter the room. Neil closed the door behind him with great deliberation, and then crossing the room, flung himself down in a big chair and began, slowly and with great apparent care, to remove his female habiliments. First of all, the tight-fitting morocco boots, with their excruciating high heels; next the widow's bonnet and cap; following this, cuffs, collar and accompanying adornments; and all the time dead silence between the two.

Francis Ferrars calmly continued his work of gathering up the papers, and scarcely glanced at this silent disrobing process.

Finally Neil looked up, with one hand clutching at the wig which Rob had denominated "sorrel," and said in a voice of deepest solemnity:

"Ferrars, I've been done!"

Ferrars looked at him inquiringly, but said nothing.

"I've been done," pursued Neil. "And by that wisp of a girl."

"What! Lenore Armyn?"

"Yes; Lenore Armyn," grabbing off the wig, and flinging it spitefully across the room.

Ferrars sat down and looked at him gravely.

"Do you mean that she has escaped?" he asked slowly.

"That's just what I mean! She played me the neatest trick; by Jove," his face breaking into a smile, "I can't help but admire the girl."

Ferrars smiled too, at this outburst. "And Bradwardine, what of him?" he asked.

"Oh, he's safe enough, but probably not very comfortable," with a short laugh. "I'll tell you about it in a jiffy."

At this moment there came a vigorous thump on the door, and then Rob Jocelyn's voice was heard outside.

"Let a fellow in," he said, with a second thump.

Ferrars arose and quietly drew back the bolts, and instantly Rob bounced into their presence.

"Hallo! widow," he exclaimed, "is your matinee out?"

"Yes, it's out," retorted Neil, grimly; "and now I am going to tell Ferrars all about it. You are just in time Sit down there and listen, and don't you put in your ear until I am done. If you do——" He finished his sentence, or left it unfinished, with a menacing gesture; and Rob dropped obediently into a chair near Ferrars, at the same time bestowing upon Neil a comical grimace.

"Blaze away, widow," he said, with absurd gravity. "I'm dumb."

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 98
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ling rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

The work of a farmer's wife is never ended. But it is wholesome, enjoyable, productive work that is pleasurable if the farmer's wife is a well woman.

The work becomes weary drudgery when the woman is sick. The work drags and the woman's pride is hurt. Her ambition is to do as much and better work than her neighbors. It is a distinct triumph if her butter is generally regarded as the finest in the county. But fine butter and bad health don't go together.

Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm, Enosburg, Vt., writes to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: "During the past year I found that I was to become a mother and that I was in rapidly failing health. I suffered dreadfully from bloating, and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I had to give up my work and I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. I followed your directions and took twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your hygenic instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. I had a short, easy confinement and have a healthy baby boy."

The one medicine that gives prompt and sure relief is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a tonic and purifier that works on one special set of organs and puts them in a perfectly vigorous, healthy condition. It quickly soothes inflammation and stops debilitating drains on the system. Taken regularly during the period of gestation it greatly lessens the pain and danger of childbirth.

Although sweet to the taste it contains no sugar which often disagrees with weak stomachs; nor does it contain any alcohol, or opium in any form, and therefore does not induce a craving for stimulants. Keeps perfectly in any climate.

FALLING HAIR RESTORED

Soon after I was taken ill my hair commenced to fall, so that each day more came out than I thought I had in my head. I was turning gray rapidly. Finally I became afraid to have it combed, but the nurse said that wouldn't do, and used vaseline to keep it in, then used beef's marrow, then quinine tonic, and finally (CUTICURA ointment), which helped it immediately. The nurse said she rubbed up a fine white dust from the scalp where she could see nothing before commencing, and the scalp looked healthier and more natural every day. Now I haven't as many gray hairs as when I commenced using CUTICURA, and I have a crop of fine brown hair all over my head about an inch and a half in length. I only lose a few hairs when combing every day, and always more gray than brown. My nurse is delighted because the new hairs are brown. I never had very luxuriant hair, even in my youth. It is as thick on my head today as it ever was, and CUTICURA did it. Mrs. J. M. LAWSON, March 5, 1898. 302 Hamilton St., Albany, N. Y.

THE LAKEHURST MEETING.

Of the Farmers' Institute Held on Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

On Saturday afternoon a supplementary meeting of the Farmers' Institute series was held at Lakehurst. The attendance was most encouraging.

On motion of Mr. Shaw and Mr. Stevenson, Rev. Mr. McKnight took the chair and presided. After thanking those present for the honour conferred, he called upon Mr. A. C. Halman for an address on "Practical Hints on the Swine Industry—The Bacon Hog." The address was followed with the closest interest and at its conclusion quite a discussion ensued, in which a number of those present took part.

Mr. J. E. Orr then spoke on "The Spraying of Apple Orchards," pointing out what outfit was necessary and putting the cost at from anywhere from one to forty dollars. One perfectly suitable for all conditions of an orchard could be procured for about $12 or $15. A very fine nozzle was necessary so that the spray would take the form of a mist or dew. The wash should not be put on in such a manner that it would drip off the leaves. The Bordeaux mixture was the best to use. The pump should be of bronze or brass with no iron about it and there should be an agitator in the barrel.

The paper was well discussed at its close.

Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald then gave a few practical hints on the handling of milk.

EVENING MEETING.

In the evening the attendance was very large. Mr. Wm. Stevenson, 1st Vice-President, took the chair. The first address of the evening was that of Mr. A. C. Halman on "Farming as an occupation." He treated the subject of farming in the past and present in a most able manner, showing that brain instead of muscle was now the order of the day, pointing out how present day methods differed from those of a few years ago. As profits are now small it is necessary to produce cheaply by adopting scientific principles. The former should keep himself well posted by reading the papers and books as well, in order to keep abreast of the times. Accounts should be kept in order that the producer might know exactly the cost of everything raised on the farm, as well as the profit realized. System was needed in the business of the farmer, as well as in that of the merchant. Instead of selling grain by the bushel at a small profit, the farmer should convert it into pork, beef, cheese, butter eggs and poultry, as for these articles there is a guaranteed market in Great Britain, if first-class produce is sent over. There is no reason why Canadians should not excel in all other farm products as well as in cheese.

Mr. Orr followed in an address on "Fungi, and Insects that Attack Fruit and Fruit Trees." He also described the San Jose scale and its danger to the fruit grower.

The evening's programme was closed by a most comical Irish monologue by Mr. Robert Leary, of town.

Cameron, on the forward line, put up the game of his life. Pearce and McGregor, the defense, also played star hockey. At half time the score stood 1—0 in favour of Lindsay. IN MEMORIAM.

In Loving Remembrance of Harry Burns, who Died January 19th, 1899.

(Contributed.)

Oh, what is beauty, what is youth?
More shadows of a day—
One touch of death's cold icy hand
Transfigures them to clay.
The dearest form that ever bound
Father's or mother's love,
One sharp blast of death's chilly breath
That loved one will remove.

Grief-stricken friends, I know my lines
No soothing balm imparts
To heal the wounds which cruel death
Inflicted on your hearts.
Your son was by you deeply loved,
Near idolized I know,
Alas! death came so premature,
And laid your Harry low.

True centre of your family joys,
Kind-hearted, cheerful, bright,
His pleasing smiles, his winning ways,
His mother's chief delight.
Likewise his father's truest joy,
From youth to manhood years,
Well might his death unlock and burst
The floodgates of your tears.

Yes, he has gone; his presence here
Seemed like a passing wave,
Like yesterday he walked about,
To-day he fills a grave.
Not Harry only, Harry's dust
In death's cold chamber lies,
We hope his youthful soul embasks
In bliss beyond the skies.

Grieved, weeping friends dry up your tears,
Your burden cast on God,
He but afflicts you for your good.
Now kiss the chastening rod.
His greatest trials are sent through love,
With meek submission say:
"Not ours, O Lord, Thy will be done,
Our Harry take away"

DOURO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

We regret to announce the death of John Gilroy, which occurred at his home in Douro, on Monday, Jan. 16th. The deceased was a young man of excellent character and held in high esteem by all who knew him. For the past month he had been prostrated by a painful and lingering affliction, which terminated very suddenly in an acute attack of la grippe. The funeral took place on Wednesday, Jan. 18th, when the remains were interred in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1 00

AN INGENIOUS PLAN.

Mr. A. J. Balfour's Proposition for an Irish University.

A MOMENTOUS PROPOSITION.

A Courageous Proposal for a Roman Catholic Institution—This Will Be the Dublin End, While at Belfast a Protestant Board of Governors Will Rule — Patti's Marriage.

London, Jan. 26.—The Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, Government leader in the House of Commons, and member for East Lothian and Rossbire, in a letter to a constituent, forecasts the character of the coming Irish University bill.

The measure will propose to raise Queen's College at Belfast to the status of a teaching university and to create another university at Dublin. Both will be on identical lines, except that the first governing body at Belfast will be Protestant, while the governors at Dublin will be Roman Catholic. Both institutions will be rigidly subject to the test acts. All scholarships and the fellowships from the public funds will be open to persons of all creeds, and no public endowment will be given for chairs of philosophy, theology or modern history. The number of clerical governors will be strictly limited.

Mr. Balfour cautions Roman Catholics that unless satisfied with this it will be useless to agitate further.

PATTI WEDS AGAIN.

Baron Cederstrom the Third Happy Man —A Short Service and an Ovation by the Villagers.

London, Jan. 26.—Adelina Patti, the singer, was married yesterday morning, at Brecon, Wales, to Baron Cederstrom, director of the Health Gymnastic Institute here. Madame Patti took a train from Craig-y-Nos, her residence, to Brecon, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The band of the South Wales Borderers met the party at the station, and, with the fire brigade and the police, headed by the town banner and the mace bearers, escorted the wedding party, in five landaus, to the Roman Catholic Church, which had been specially decorated. Sir George Faudel Phillips, former Lord Mayor of London, gave Patti away. The service was very short.

Baron and Baroness Cederstrom emerged from the church at 11 o'clock, entered a carriage, the procession was reformed and the bride and bridegroom proceeded to the railroad station and started for London. They received an ovation.

The wedding breakfast was served on board the train, which was composed of the special corridor-cars built for the Prince of Wales.

Madame Patti was married in a travelling dress of dove-colored satin, embroidered with steel, with a bodice of pale grey, and a bonnet trimmed with mauve orchids. Her travelling cap, which matched her dress, was ornamented with a design of true lovers' knots.

The procession to the church and returning to the station, passed under several triumphal arches, bearing inscriptions in honor of the bride. The streets were thronged with people, and the church was crowded with invited guests. The wedding party reached London late yesterday afternoon. The bride and bridegroom will start to-day for the south of France, where they will spend the honeymoon.

Adelina Patti, the widow of Nicolini, the singer, who died at Cannes, France, on Jan. 18, 1898, was born in Madrid on Feb. 19, 1843. She was first married in 1868 to the Marquis de Caux, and was married to Nicolini in 1886. She is the daughter of Salvatori Patti, studied under Ettore Barili, made her debut in New York in November, 1859, and as the Italian Opera House, Covent Garden, London, in "La Sonnambula," in May, 1861.

Baron Olaf Rudolf Cederstrom was born in 1870. He is the eldest son of Baron Claes Edrad Cederstrom, deceased, who was a lieutenant in the Swedish Light Guards. Baron Cederstrom was until recently an instructor in a health gymnasium, and was director of his own health gymnastic institute in London.

COLD-BLOODED PHYSICIANS

Inject Poison Into a Number of Women and Young Children.

London, Jan. 26.—The Vienna correspondent of The Morning Leader says:

"It has been discovered that the physicians in the free hospitals of Vienna systematically experiment upon their patients, especially new-born children, women who are enciente and persons who are dying. In one case a doctor injected the bacilli of an infectious disease from a decomposing corpse into 35 women and three new-born children. In another case a youth who was on the high road to recovery was inoculated and died within 24 hours. Many dying patients have been tortured with poisonous germs and many men have been inoculated with contagious diseases. One doctor, who had received an unlimited number of healthy children from a foundling hospital for experimental purposes, excused himself on the ground that they were cheaper than animals."

Beresford at Yokohama.

Yokohama, Jan. 26.—Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who has been visiting Chinese ports, sailed for America yesterday on his way to England. In an interview previous to his departure the Admiral laid emphasis upon the necessity of an understanding between Japan, Germany, the United States and Great Britain in order to prevent war in the far east.

A C.P.R. RIVAL.

Rumors in London of a New Canadian Transcontinental Railway Line—Pacific Cable Project.

London, Jan. 26.—(Toronto Globe Special).—It is rumored here that a working agreement has been reached between both lines of the Intercolonial and the Grand Trunk with a view towards the eventual formation of a new Canadian transcontinental route.

There is good authority for believing that, while no formal negotiations have as yet been begun regarding the case of Newfoundland, the prospects are none the less bright for a reasonable settlement.

The Government has the Pacific cable project under its immediate consideration.

ANGLO-AMERICAN FIGHT.

English Firm Got £5,300 and Then Failed to Deliver Goods.

London, Jan. 26.—In the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice yesterday the trial began of the suit of the United States against Pelley Bros., ship brokers, for the recovery of £5,800 paid them on April 21, 1898, on two 600-ton colliers, by Lieutenant Sims, then acting naval attache of the United States embassy here. Lieut. Sims testified that the ship brokers signed a contract, at midnight on April 21, to deliver the colliers for £5,800. He added that the contract stipulated that they were to be delivered as soon as possible, and said the ship brokers promised verbally that one of them was to be ready to sail in 24 hours and the other in 48 hours. The lieutenant gave the brokers a cheque for £5,300 at midnight, but they failed to deliver the ships before the neutrality proclamation of April 26, and claimed they were unable to get the colliers ready in that time. Continuing, Lieut. Sims said the cheque beat the records in going through the clearing house, as the brokers secured the money at noon on the morrow, intimating that they cashed the cheque expecting war, and that they did not intend to deliver the colliers. Sims further testified that the colliers were to have joined the United States fleet at Key West.

Expert shipmen testified that the colliers could have been ready to sail in the promised time. The defence, to-day, will be that the brokers were unable to fit out the ships before war was declared.

The Girl May Die.

Tilsonburg, Ont., Jan. 26.—Maud Knievil, a girl employed in the house of E. C. Jackson, was badly burned yesterday morning. The family were awakened by screams and, hurrying downstairs, they found the girl enveloped in flames. The fire was extinguished and a doctor sent for, who has little hope of her recovery. She is still unconscious and not able to give any account of how the accident happened.

SIGNS OF RETURNING SENSE.

Among the signs of returning wisdom in the United States, the expensiveness of imperialism begins to receive serious consideration. Senator Caffery of Louisiana calculates the probable expense of the annexation of the Philippines. Footing up the cost of a garrison of 50,000 soldiers, 7,500 extra men for the navy, 3,000 extra men for the marine corps, building of new warships, additional pension list, machinery of civil government, provision for the education and civilization of the natives, he arrives at a total of $221,350,000. There would be a loss of $90,000,000 of revenue hitherto collected in duties on sugar and tobacco, which will now come in free. The larges revenue drawn by Spain from the islands was $13,000,000. At the lowest possible estimate there will remain over $200,000,000 to be raised in additional taxation of the American people. This capitalized at 3 per cent. will be equivalent to a debt three times as large as the Civil War debt of the United States. The total trade of the Philippines is about $30,000,000 a year. The management of American finance has been not only extravagant, but profligate, owing in no small measure to the selfish interest of the Protectionist party, which has encouraged expenditure in order to prevent a reduction of duties. A point has now been reached at which, if Americans have any sense, they will call a halt. Happily the farmers and the people in the rural districts generally, have a great deal of sense and are comparatively free from the maddening influence of yellow journalism. They are slow, too slow, in interposing, but they usually interpose before it is too late.—Bystander, in Weekly Sun.

It is stated that he was watering his horse on one side of the river and was mistaken for a deer and shot by a hunter from the opposite shore. He was buried on the 18th inst.

His successor, Sir Henry Edwards McCallum, Governor and commander-in-chief of the British colony of Lagos, West Africa, will leave England for Newfoundland about Feb. 1.

AN AWFUL WASTE OF LIFE SAVED.

Science has Enabled us to do This Easily and Surely.

The Secret Lies in Preventing and Curing Disease—Biliousness Wastes Life—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cure Biliousness and Therefore Save Lives.

"I was laid up with a bilious attack yesterday."

How often we hear this expression used. And what an amount of misery is hidden under it.

All the time that is wasted—worse than wasted—lost from work and useful pleasure—could be redeemed, and divided among healthy persons, each one would have about five years added to his term of life.

When we look at the matter in this light, its vital importance becomes apparent, and "Biliousness" becomes a hideous destroyer, instead of a comparatively harmless complaint, as it is now considered.

We cannot call back the hours, months and years, that have been wasted in suffering from Biliousness. They are gone for ever.

BUT WE CAN PREVENT ANY FURTHER WASTE.

"How can we do so?" intelligent persons will ask.

Simply by curing and preventing Biliousness, is the answer.

But how can we cure or prevent Biliousness?

Quite easily. All we need to do is to take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

That is the way we can banish Biliousness from our midst. It is an unfailing way. It is, moreover, the only way.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Biliousness by removing the cause—the only way it can be cured.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets stimulate and invigorate the liver, giving it strength and tone. By doing this they enable it to do its duty properly, and dispose of the bile as nature intended, instead of allowing it to flow through the system, taint the blood and cause Biliousness.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets act on the liver immediately. That means that the cure begins as soon as you begin to take them.

FURIOUS FIGHTING IN BOLIVIA.

Insurgents Said to Have Defeated the Government Troops.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 25.—According to advices received here from the Desaguerdero District, or Inter-Alpine Valley, in Bolivia and Peru, under date of Jan. 22, a fierce battle took place on Jan. 17 at Curi Bay, 18 leagues from La Paz, the nominal capital of Bolivia, between the vanguard of the federalist troops, or insurgents, who now occupy La Paz, and the vanguard of the forces commanded by President Alonzo, with the result that the latter were defeated with the loss of a colonel and 43 men killed. The insurgents also captured 60 prisoners. It is added that desertions from the President's troops are occurring daily.

NORTH WATERLOO ELECTION.

Appeal and Cross-Appeal Being Argued at Osgoode Hall.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The North Waterloo election case was argued yesterday before the Court of Appeal. Messrs. Aylesworth and W. D. McPherson appeared for Dr. Lackner, the defendant in the original petition, and Messrs. E. F. B. Johnston and J. C. Haight for Dr. Clemens, the original petitioner. The Conservatives claim that the former trial was illegal, having been held without their consent, and while the Legislature was in session. To this the Liberals reply that as this was not raised at the trial, there was tacit consent. The case continues to-day.

A BILL FOR "GOOD ROADS"

To Be Introduced at the Coming Session of the Assembly.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—It is said that one of the bills to be presented at the coming session of the Ontario House will be a "Good Roads" bill to provide a grant towards the maintenance of the main roads, providing Government supervision, leaving the townships to look after their own. With this will be coupled the suggestion that the Government advance money on debentures to the counties in order that the work may be entered on simultaneously. This would be right in line with the bicyclists also.

In May last three meetings were held in the County of Dufferin, under the auspices of the County Council, and in December a petition was framed, making representations to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council that the municipalities wasted a great deal of money owing to inexperience in road-making, or rather the employment of statute labor, and other complaints. Word was sent to all the other county councils and co-operation was asked. As a consequence the Lieutenant-Governor has received numerous petitions, and the coming bill will be in answer to this.

Press Association Excursion.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—A deputation from the Canadian Press Association, consisting of Mr. McDonald of The Alexandria News, Mr. I. Tarte of La Patrie, Montreal, and Mr. Ireland of The Parry Sound Star, waited on the Minister of the Interior yesterday and requested consideration of their proposed trip to the Pacific coast. They received the assurance that the matter would be dealt with and furthered in every possible way.

Burglars in Brantford.

Brantford, Jan. 26.—The safe in the office of the Brantford Soap Works was blown open last night with gunpowder and $200 in cash and securities stolen. The safe door, a couple of inches thick, was blown off its hinges and the iron sheets were shattered and curled up. The bulk of the money belonged to the Brantford Young Ladies' College, of which Mr. Henry, manager of the Soap Company, is treasurer.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Cartain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

Variety and Long Life.

I see every little while men break down who are 10, 20 or 30 years younger than myself because of concentration and anxiety, because of work and worry upon one line, in one way, on one thing. Work is health; worry is death. Life is an enjoyment of the work by which you live, and then a larger enjoyment of the work by which you contribute, as best you may, no matter under what discouragements or what criticisms, to the living, the enjoyment and the health of others.

"Variety is the spice of life" is an old adage. Variety is generous living and longevity.—Chauncey M. Depew.

The Sunniest Spot in England.

According to the lists prepared by registrars of mean annual sunshine, Pembroke occupies the enviable position of being the sunniest spot in all England. It is, however, closely followed in this respect by Jersey, Valentia, Falmouth, Isle of Man, Hastings, Eastbourne, Plymouth and Blackpool, in the order given. The dullest spots in Britain appear to be Glasgow, London and Glencatron.

A REMARKABLE FEVER CASE.

James O'Connor's Temperature at 107 3-5 Degrees for Several Hours.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—James O'Connor was taken to St. Michael's Hospital last evening in the ambulance from his boarding-house at 25 Birch avenue, suffering from a serious attack of typhoid fever. O'Connor's condition is almost hopeless, and the doctors say he cannot recover.

On his admittance to the hospital his temperature was 107 3-5 degrees, and up to 2 o'clock this morning it remained the same, and the unfortunate was rapidly sinking.

Never in the history of the hospital has there ever been a patient with such a high temperature, and taking into consideration that he is ill with typhoid fever, his case is the more remarkable.

Mr. O'Connor is 26 years of age and is employed as a salesman for the firm of H. T. Breen. His home is in Dundalk, but he has lived here for some time.

BURGLARS AT CORNWALL.

Clever Capture of a Notorious Man by Two Boys.

Cornwall, Ont., Jan. 26.—Burglars were busy in Cornwall Tuesday night. About 10.30 o'clock Mrs. Colquhoun telephoned to the neighboring residence of James Leitch that some parties were trying to break into her house. Jack Leitch, aged 16, got two chums, Ernest and Charlie McNoun, about his own age, and they found two men, one in Mrs. Colquhoun's cellar, and the other on the outside. The latter escaped, but the boys bravely tackled the other fellow, who proved to be the notorious "Dublin" Carney, and after a desperate fight made him a prisoner. The description given by the boys of the fellow who escaped led to the arrest yesterday afternoon of another local tough, Jack Digman. They will come up for examination to-day. William Mack's flour mill was entered last night and the door was blown off the safe. The burglars got about $12. Local parties are suspected.

Street Cars Are Personalty.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The city of London's appeal in their action against the London Street Railway Company was yesterday dismissed by the Court of Appeal. The city sought to establish that the company's cars were realty, but the court held that they must be considered as personalty, and therefore exempt from taxation as real property.

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. EARTHQUAKE IN MEXICO.

The Great Remnant in America of the Old Continent of Atlantis Gets a Severe Warning.

City of Mexico, Jan. 26.—In point of duration the earthquake on Tuesday evening was the severest ever known in the history of Mexico, at exactly nine minutes past 5 o'clock. The oscillations were from northeast to southwest, and lasted one minute and 56 seconds. Three minutes later came a companion shock, which lasted five seconds, also oscillating northeast and southwest. The movement made a perfect cross.

The earthquake was universally felt over the entire republic, and it had a general movement from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It reached Colima at seven minutes past 5 o'clock, oscillating from east to west. It lasted one minute and 20 seconds. It reached Vera Cruz 18 minutes past 5 o'clock and the oscillations were from south to north, lasting ten seconds. Many houses were cracked in this city. Some were entirely ruined. Fully a dozen walls were crushed and broken in the national palace.

A two-foot pipe, carrying water from Chapultepec to the city, was broken in seven places. Intense cold and other phenomena followed.

FRANK A. MAGOWAN AGAIN.

The Husband of a Former Toronto Woman Said to Have Spent $150 for Champagne.

New York, Jan. 26.—Frank A. Magowan, ex-Mayor of Trenton, appeared again yesterday in Police Court as complainant against Simon Buttner, proprietor of the Hotel Winslow, who is charged with robbing Magowan of $3,200 in money and jewelry.

Magowan's testimony took up the entire afternoon, including his cross-examination. Little new was revealed in the case, Magowan telling the same story as the day before, that he had gone to sleep in the Winslow and awakened to find Buttner taking his money and valuables.

On cross-examination Magowan admitted that on the day in question, Sunday last, he spent $150 or $200 in the Winslow for champagne. He also admitted drinking with women, but said they were Buttner's friends.

Counsel for Buttner tried to bring out that Magowan had lighted his cigar with dollar bills, but Magowan denied this.

Magistrate Mott adjourned the case till this afternoon.

THE TRADE OF CANADA

The Country Prospering Exceedingly Under Liberal Rule.

ROYAL CITY YOUNG LIBERALS.

Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Solicitor-General of Canada, Delivers an Inspiriting Speech at Guelph—Canada's Preference to Great Britain Discussed—Opposition Complaints Answered—Other Speakers.

Guelph, Jan. 26.—The banquet of the Young Liberal Club of Guelph invariably brings together a set of young Liberals, and old Liberals, too, who are a credit to the City of Guelph, the County of Wellington and to Canada. Last night the dining-room of the Royal Hotel was crowded with Liberals, anxious to hear Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Solicitor-General for Canada; Mr. Geo. H. Bertram, M.P., and Mr. James McMullen, M.P., who were the principal speakers of the evening. These gentlemen and a number of the other speakers gave magnificent addresses. Capital songs were sung by Mr. C. N. Daly, Mr. Kelly and others, and that the club and its guests appreciated the program to the full was shown by their remaining in their seats until long past midnight.

The chair was occupied by Mr. G. A. Fowke, president of the Young Liberal Club.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's Speech.

The Solicitor-General, when he rose to respond to the toast of "Canada and the Empire," ably proposed by Dr. Lindsay, was given a reception of extraordinary enthusiasm. After thanking the club for the invitation to be present, he spoke of the vast extent of Canada's territory. No subject in recent days had been more universally discussed than that of the relations of Canada to the Empire. Publicists and statesmen of every shade of opinion have their attention directed towards the consideration of this matter, and in consequence Canada, her resources and possibilities have engaged the attention not only of England and the Empire, but of all European nations. How was this brought about? By the action of the Liberal Government. The first thing they did to attract attention was to give to the United Kingdom and certain of the colonies preference in our markets. When some 18 or 20 years ago the National Policy was inaugurated and attention drawn to the result that might ensue for British trade, the answer of the men with the instinct of government then was, "So much the worse for British trade." On the other hand, the Liberal party, in acknowledgment of the bond which binds us to our kinsmen at home, give preferential treatment to British goods. This caused John Bull to think, because he was not accustomed to such treatment. Immediately afterwards Sir Wilfrid Laurier went to represent Canada at the Queen's jubilee, where he was a central figure. It was then realized that Canada was a land of broad and independent spirit, because, notwithstanding the Protestant and English-speaking majority, a French Roman Catholic was selected to occupy the first position of the state. Then difficulties occurred under the preferential tariff, because of the existence of the Belgian and German treaties, and England would not violate her treaty obligations. These treaties were denounced, and for the first time in the long story of Great Britain a foreign treaty was got rid of at the request of a colony. Germany, Belgium and other European nations then realized for the first time the important position occupied by Canada in the counsels of the Empire. If this does not make an epoch, it certainly marks one step forward in the binding together of these different communities which go to make up this vast and magnificent British Empire. What had been the result of the preferential tariff? It had cheapened many of the conveniences of life for all Canadians. A general era of prosperity opened up for the country, the wail of distress had ceased to be heard in the land, and the dismal prophecies of ruin and disaster have come to naught.

After dealing with the statistics of Canada's trade, which in the aggregate showed an increase of $84,500,000 in 1898 over that of 1896, he cleared away the Opposition grievances and resumed his seat amid long-continued applause.

The toast of "The House of Commons and Legislative Assembly" was proposed by Mr. Fred. Kilgour and responded to by Messrs. James Innes, ex-M.P., Major Mutrie, M.P.P., James McMullen, M.P., and Andrew Semple, M.P. Mr. McMullen ably defended the Liberal Government against the criticisms levelled against it by the Opposition.

The toast of "The Growing Time" was proposed by Mr. J. Innes McIntosh, and responded to by Messrs. Geo. H. Bertram, M.P., James Laidlaw and John Mitchell. Mr. Bertram advocated the abolition of the Senate, or its reform so as to do away with its irresponsible character.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how much a slave was made free. THE WAGES ARBITRATION.

It Will Be Two Days More Before the G.T.R. Telegraphers' Decision Will Be Arrived At.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—It was an anxious day yesterday for the telegraphers quartered at the Palmer House. The decision of the arbitrators was expected and when the afternoon arrived little groups of men walked the hotel corridors with the feverish look of a man who has staked his all on the tables at Monte Carlo. The afternoon passed, but the evening found the groups still walking and exclaiming with each ring of the telephone, "Here she comes!"

All this doubt and uncertainty was due to the fact that the arbitrators held a private session yesterday, not even Chief Powell being allowed in for more than five minutes.

Arbitrator Sargent last night said: "There will be no decision for a day or two yet. We are wading through some 400 closely printed pages of evidence. It takes time to discuss the different phases of the situation and draw up any plan for the wages of nearly 900 men."

This is all Mr. Sargent would say, but it was gathered about the lobbies that Mr. Osler's speech for the Grand Trunk was very fair to the telegraphers, that he made very little use of legal points in his argument and that a compromise in the matter of salaries is the way things are shaping at present. Sir William Meredith, it is said, is particularly interested in the controversy, it having introduced a phase of human thought almost new to him.

SERIOUS FIRE IN KINGSTON.

The Oddfellows' Building and Most of Its Contents Destroyed.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 26.—Last night the Oddfellows' building, Princess street, was destroyed by fire. A lamp exploded in the business college department about 6.40 o'clock and at 9 o'clock the building was a mass of ruins. The building was owned by the Kingston Lodge of Oddfellows, was valued at $35,000 and insurged for $20,000. The building was occupied thus: First flat was occupied as a china store and grocery and owned by Oakley Bros. They carried a stock of $20,000 and were well insured. Nothing was saved. A store on the corner was vacant.

Second flat: Oddfellows' Relief Association, R. Meek, secretary. The loss of stock, furniture, papers, etc., is large, but partially insured. The valuable books, documents, etc., are in a vault. Their condition cannot yet be ascertained. The Kingston Business College was on this flat. Nothing was saved, not even the books of J. B. McKay, the proprietor. He had a small insurance.

Third flat—This was occupied by a large lodge room and ante-rooms. The Kingston Lodge was the owner. It was handsomely equipped. There were ten or 12 sub-tenants, other fraternal societies. The lodge had about $1,000 worth of furniture and fittings, partially insured. The other societies lose considerable. The fire made great headway and an inefficient water supply and brigade could not cope with it. No adjoining property was destroyed.

Soon Left Her.

"I was taken with swelling in my feet and limbs. I was not able to walk for four months. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and procured a bottle. Before I had taken it all the swelling left me. I took three bottles of Hood's and have not been troubled with swelling since." Rebecca Seevers, Chatham, Ont.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The king of Greece is an accomplished farmer.

The czar has had his special den in the St. Petersburg palace papered with cartoons relating to himself, including a great many caricatures of the most ridiculous sort.

Princess Alice, mother of the present empress of Russia, used to cut her children's clothes and trim their hats in the far back days when she was grand duchess of Hesse and was surrounded by the little ones.

In the gentle art of changing clothes the Prince of Wales is probably without a peer. Among other things his royal highness is two princes, two dukes, two field marshals, an earl, a baron, eight knights, a great steward, a grand master, a colonel of guards, of horse, of foot and of artillery, an admiral, a highlander, a Trinity brother, a barrister, a bencher and an English gentleman. And he wears the costumes and the orders of them all.

Want To Keep Your Neuralgia?

Of course you don't; so you should take Scott's Emulsion. It is a fact this remedy cures it; and it cures nervousness, nerve debility and insomnia also.

LIVERPOOL SAGGED.

While Wheat Went Up 2 Cents in Chicago Liverpool Failed to Respond—Latest Prices.

Chicago's wheat market was again active and strong to-day. There was heavy speculative buying and covering by shorts. These incidents accompanied by higher values in the west for cash wheat caused an advance of 2c per bushel in May wheat and 1¼c in the July option. The close was at the top.

Chicago Live Stock.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—There was a fairly active demand for cattle to-day and prices as a rule showed no particular change. Fancy cattle brought $6 to $6.50; choice steers, $5.65 to $5.95; medium, $5 to $5.25; beef steers, $3.90 to $4.90; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.25; bulls, $2.70 to $4.25; western fed steers, $4.10 to $5.85; Texas steers, $3.75 to $5.25; calves, $3.50 to $7. Trade in hogs started off in an active manner at previous prices, but after a limited number had changed hands the market ruled slow and weak, to 2½c to 5c lower. The supply of sheep was quickly taken at strong prices, while prime lambs ruled 5c to 10c higher. Poor to prime sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; ewes, $3.60 to $3.75; western sheep, $3.80 to $4.25; yearlings, $4 to $4.55; choice lambs, $5. Receipts cattle 13,000, hogs 39,000, sheep 16,000.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

East Buffalo, Jan. 25.—Cattle—There were no sales cattle, and a fair inquiry, with steady feeling. The calve trade was steady on the basis of $7 to $7.50, with fancy quotable $7.75.

Sheep and Lambs—The offerings were again excessive, 40 loads, including 10 loads left over. Only a moderate proportion of the offerings were sold, but the basis remains five cents on the native lambs of right quality and weight. Native lambs, choice to extra, were quotable $4.85 to $5; good to choice, $4.60 to $4.85; common to good, $4.50 to $4.60. Sheep, choice to extra, $4.15 to $4.25; good to choice, $4 to $4.15. The prospects for a few days are not particularly encouraging.

Hogs—The market opened fairly active, with 25 loads total sale and with heavy quotable $4 to $4.05; Yorkers, $4 to $4.05; pigs, $3.85 to $3.90; roughs, $3.55; stags, $2.50 to $3. Later the market eased up, with Yorkers $4 to $4.02½, medium $4, for best heavy $4.05 and pigs $3.85.

Hospital for Sick Children.

The mortgage indebtedness on the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, entails an interest expense of $4,250 each year, a heavy drain on the resources of this great charity. It will be remembered that in a recent issue of this paper the wonderful work of the hospital was described, together with an appeal from the trustees, asking that the people of Ontario pay off $10,000 of the mortgage this year. They had agreed to retire that portion of the mortgage. A generous response has been made, but there is still $6,000 needed to make up the fund asked for. Over $12,000 has been paid in. Some of it came from the readers of this paper. The charity is provincial and not local. Sick children from every town and corner of the province are cared for. The chairman of the committee, Hon. J. Ross Robertson, M.P., Toronto, writes: "Is there another man in your town who will help the helpless children with a dollar?" Mr. Robertson says that every gift to a worthy charity bears interest for the donor. Three thousand people to-day will do the work. Will you give one?

PUBLIC MEETING TO-NIGHT.

Interesting Trent Valley Canal Information to be Brought Before the Public.

The citizens are reminded of the public meeting which takes place this evening in the Opera House, being the first of a series of educational meetings to be held under the auspices of the Trent Valley Canal Association.

The energetic efforts being put forth towards placing the balance of the work under contract ought to receive the hearty co-operation of all our citizens. The meeting this evening will afford an excellent opportunity of hearing a lot of valuable and interesting information of the steps being taken to further the completion of this important undertaking, and what is being done to interest the people along the line of the canal, as well as the Dominion Government.

Mr. John Carnegie and others will address the meeting on canal transportation, and the addresses will be illustrated by lime light views of the canal by Mr. R. M. Roy.

The chair will be taken at 7.30 by Mr. J. B. Stratton, M. P. P., President of the Association. Mayor Davis and Warden Hawthorne and the members of the County Council will be present at the meeting, and a large and influential attendance is expected.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pleasant event took place last night at 263 McDonell street, the residence of Mr. William Batten, it being the occasion of the marriage of his sister-in-law, Miss Mildred E Thexton to Mr. James V. Sisson, of Mount Pleasant, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Jas. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's church.

She was assisted by Miss Annie Sisson, sister of the groom, who was also dressed in blue and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and little Hazel Batten neice of the bride, looked pretty dressed in pink and and carrying a basket of pink and white flowers.

The groom was assisted by Mr. S. Touchborn, of Mount Pleasant.

The presents were numerous and pretty. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch, to the bridesmaid a gold ring and to the maid of honour a lovely gold bracelet.

JANUARY SESSION OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THREE DEPUTATIONS APPEAR BEFORE THE COUNCIL.

Representatives from the Townships of North Monaghan and Ennismore, and the Town of Peterborough Heard on the Question of Roads and Bridges.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY.

The members of the county council were engaged in committee work all forenoon.

In the afternoon the council assembled again at 2 o'clock, the warden in the chair and all the members present.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that the reading of the minutes be dispensed with, so as to permit of the hearing of the deputations from the townships of North Monaghan and Ennismore and a committee of aldermen from the town council.—Carried.

NORTH MONAGHAN ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Messrs. Hunter, Madill, W. J. Hall, Thos. Brown, M. J. Johnston and J. J. Bennett appeared on benalf of the municipality of North Monaghan in reference to a grant on behalf of their roads and bridges.

Mr. Hunter said he appeared before the council to ask for a grant towards the roads and bridges of the township of North Monaghan. In presenting the claims for a liberal grant, he said the township had to pay a heavy county rate—the assessment being the highest in the county—and the township had received little or no assistance in return. Now that a portion of their township felt the need of assistance he felt the council could afford to act generously. The southen portion of North Monaghan was low and flat and it was a difficult matter to keep the roads and bridges in good condition. There were two streams running through the township and the bridges were constantly getting out of repair and it was not possible for the municipality to do this alone. During the past nineteen years North Monaghan had paid $25 000 into the county and had only received $700 back in grants altogether for municipal purposes. He hoped the council would consider their case fairly, and make a liberal grant, under the circumstances.

Mr. Madill thought it was only necessary to understand their case and he believed the council would be liberal. The usual necessary expenses of the township was all the ratepayers could bear. They had about twenty bridges and were not able to keep all these up themselves. One third of the township was as good as any in the county, but there was another third they would be better without altogether. This township had secured assistance from the county two years ago, but it was principally expended on the boundary, where there was a great traffic, and it did not help the township much.

W. J. Hall exhibited a sketch of the unsatisfactory condition of one of the bridges, which was in danger of going down altogether. He said the township had about a mile of bridges, and they had to have assistance from the county to keep them up. They averaged from 25 to 50 feet. The grant was wanted to spread over the township, not on the boundary. The county was getting more money out of the ratepayers than the township.

Mr. Thos. Brown described the action of the water in destroying the bridges and hoped the council would deal liberally with the township.

Mr. M. J. Johnston spoke of the heavy rate paid the county, and said the burden of their roads and bridges were more than they could bear. People couldn't be got to settle in the township on account of the bad condition of travel. North Monaghan had contributed to build iron bridges and floating bridges for the county and had received little help themselves. He thought that if the county gave them one year's grant back that it would only be a small portion of their rights.

Mr. J. J. Bennett thought his township was entitled to a substantial grant. The last grant was really of no benefit to the township, as the boundary roads got it all.

Moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Eastland, that the matter of the North Monaghan roads and bridges be referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.—Carried.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE AGAIN.

Mr. Crough, of Ennismore, said he was sent to appeal to the council for a filled in bridge or a good floating bridge. Over six hundred feet of the present bridge was not fit for travel. He was not in a position to say what was the best thing to do, but hoped the council would do what was just. Ennismore had paid out $55 000 for county rate and had a right to be considered. "Peterborough was our market town and we had to get there with our produce," said Mr. Crough. "We must have some kind of a bridge at once, as the one we now had was worn out and dangerous."

Mr. C. Conners, reeve, said it was time that something be done to fix this bridge. He read the engineer's report of 1890 showing the ship wrecked condition it was then in, and asked them to consider what it must be like in 1899.

Mr. Shaw moved, seconded by Mr. Crowe, that the matter of the Mud Lake Bridge be referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges—Carried.

TOWN DEPUTATION.

Mayor Davis, accompanied by Aldermen Hall and Langford, appeared before the council, by invitation, to talk over Mud Lake Bridge matters, and on motion of Mr. Peck, seconded by Mr. Anderson, the council went into Committee of the Whole to discuss the question.

WEDDING IN SOUTH MONAGHAN.

Mr. Wm. Robinson's residence, South Monaghan, was the scene of a happy event on Wednesday, Jan. 25th, when his second daughter, Miss Ida, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. S. Johnson of Belmont.

The house was tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. P. Steele of Frazerville.

The bride was attired in an elegant travelling suit of blue cloth trimmed with white satin velvet and ribbons. The bridesmaid, Miss M. Howson, of Norwood, was also prettily attired in a blue suit trimmed with braid, ribbons and white silk. Both were bouquets of carnation and maidenhair fern. Mr. S. Robinson, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

After the ceremony and the usual congratulations the wedding party sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast, after which the happy couple took the 4.40 train to Toronto, and thence to Dundalk and other points in the west.

The bride received many beautiful presents—tokens of the high esteem in which she was held.

We extend our heartiest congratulations and wish them a happy and prosperous future.

The Annual Meeting of The Trusts and Guarantee Company.

The second annual meeting of the shareholders of The Trusts and Guarantee Company (Limited) took place on Wednesday afternoon at the company's handsome offices, 14 King street west, Toronto.

The statement presented by the General Manager, being unanimously adopted by the shareholders, was highly satisfactory, the volume of business being much larger than expected.

The premises and safe deposit vaults were examined with much interest by the shareholders, and the substantial and safe character of the latter came in for earnest commendation, as was inevitable, for it is safe to say that in the respect mentioned they are not surpassed by any in the Dominion.

The former Board of Directors and officers of the company, with the addition of the Hon. Senator McMillan and G. P. Magann, of the firm of G. P. Magann & Co., were re-elected. The company possessing all the elements that conduce to public confidence expect to enjoy a largely increased practical appreciation of the advantages it presents.

CURLIANA.

Two rinks of Thistles left for Toronto last night to curl in the preliminary round of the Tankard series to-day. They were composed as follows :

J S Knapman,	C N Brown,
C Rutherford,	T Ferguson,
T Rutherford,	D Davidson,
S Ray, skip	J Connal, skip

Mr. R. M. Hamilton makes a proposition which should meet with favour in both clubs. His idea is to offer a trophy of some kind to be played for amongst the leads and seconds of the Granites and Thistles. Three rinks could be made up in this way from each club and a series of interesting matches would result. Besides encouraging the younger players, Mr. Hamilton points out that it fits them to take the positions of skip or vice in after years and they can enter upon these latter duties with some knowledge of what is required. If some generous citizen will donate a suitable trophy such a series as is referred to can easily be arranged.

Queen City curlers, the Toronto Mail says, plays the Peterborough Thistles at Lindsay in a group seven match of the Tankard series.

The first primary of the Tankard series between Queen City and the Granite began this afternoon at the rink.

HOCKEY.

The hockey match to-night between the Colts and the II. Frontenacs, of Kingston, in the third round for the O.H.A. junior championship series, promises to draw a bumper house. The Frontenacs will arrive in town on the 4 o'clock C.P.R. train, and the game will start at 8 o'clock—the hour advertised. The Colts' team will be the same as published yesterday, the exception that, owing to the illness of Stanley Bradd, Parker Crossley will likely play on the forward line and Harry Morgan take Crossley's position in goal.

Mr. Walter Phelan, who came down to witness Tuesday night's game, went west with Mr. Seagram yesterday afternoon.

It has been decided to play the return match in Waterloo on Monday evening next. Quite a number will accompany the Peterboroughs to Seagramville. Three names have been mentioned for referee—Messrs. Creelman, Darling and Gauthier. Secretary Beaton will be asked to send one of these.

Lionel King is remaining in Peterborough this week in order to get plenty of practice with the team before the Waterloo game.

Will Crowley broke his skate in the second half of Monday night's game, which was responsible for the tumbles he received during the game.

THE GENSING ROOT TRADE.

A THRIVING INDUSTRY IN THIS COUNTRY.

The Root Exported to China, Where it is Largely Used for Medicinal Purposes—The Prices Paid for the Root—Enormous Profits Accrue From its Sale.

There is an active, though little known, industry that all summer long has been giving profitable employment throughout the United States and Canada. This has been the gathering of wild gensing root for export to China.

The year's crop which is now harvesting is worth about $1,000,000, and the "sang diggers," as they are called, the country storekeepers and the commission men will divide the sum. Just what the Chinese merchants will make when they sell the crop in China it is impossible to say. They have no information to give on that score, but they will probably double their money or better in the transaction.

New York is the headquarters for the trade. There are about eight firms that handle the root as a side line, and oddly enough, every one of these firms deal in furs and skins as the main issue. One will look in vain for gingseng at the wholesale druggists. They know of it, but that is about all.

The class that furnishes the "pot hunter," however, supplies most of the "sang diggers," though in certain sections the farmers turn their season of idleness after the summer's work is over, to profitable account in this way.

The Indians who still linger on the reservations of New York State, as well as those of the North-West, are also indefatigable in their quest for the root. Indeed the search is prosecuted with such vigour that sang digging promises to shortly become a thing of the past to undergo a temporary eclipse, as it did in Canada in the last century.

If one wishes to form an idea of the value of ginseng, I know of no better way than to go to one of the commission houses where it is handled. At one of these houses the dealer showed me a little heap of hard, yellowish roots, that could easily have been covered up by the upturned bushel measure upon which I sat while I examined them. The lot was valued at between $400 and $500. He also displayed a cheque, that he was about to send to a country buyer, from whom he had sold three barrels of the roots, or 483 pounds. The cheque was for $2 655.50. It is only fair to say, however, that the root was of an unusually fine quality, and the price it brought had been a shade above the average.

I saw another lot of these barrels valued at $1 500.

The southern root, of which there was a quantity in barrels or in heaps upon the floor, was held at $3 50 a pound. Even a novice could have detected the difference between the two grades. That from the south was very small and mixed with fibrous matter.

The prices quoted are by no means fancy. The dealer told me he had recently sold a small lot of cultivated root—for its culture has been attempted with fair success by at least three men—at $6 a pound, and a single pound of carefully selected roots for $8, the latter transaction having been with the Chinese consul of New York city. This same firm has handled since September about $35,000 worth of ginseng.

At one time every large exporter in the Chinese trade dealt in the root, but now the thrifty Celestial has secured entire control of the business, which is said to yield enormous profits. There are five of these Oriental trading houses with opera bouffe names that exercise a practical monopoly, but they have no information to bestow concerning ginseng—what they do with it, or what they get for it. These are matters they do not divulge even to the commission men, but they are always on hand when the season opens to buy up the root as fast as it comes in, and they always have the wherewithal to pay for it.

Though American ginseng is far from being the most valuable, it ranks as third in China. It brings from $6 to $14 per pound there, while selected lots fetch a much higher figure.

The virtues of this plant—a perennial herb of slow growth, producing a forked or single root from one to four inches in length—are of a supernatural rather than therapeutical character. In America it is seldom prescribed by any physicians ; in China, however, it enters largely into every medicine used. Being mildly stimulating in its effects and pleasantly aromatic to the taste, one may acquire a fondness for it. The roots are frequently forked, and it is said to be owing to this fact that medical properties were first attributed to it ; its likeness to the body of a man having been supposed to indicate that it would restore virile strength to the aged and infirm. Further than this, it is believed to be inhabited by a life-giving spirit, and to possess the power of movement which enables it to run away when sought for. The Chinese sang digger also believes that now and then he may be permitted to see at night the spiritual essence, which shines above the plant in the form of a halo of light indicating the spot where he may dig when day dawns. Curiously enough, the southern sang digger, who is always uneducated and generally superstitious, has a belief concerning ginseng very like that of the Chinese digger. He is convinced that should he discover the plant at night he must not mark the spot in any way. If he does, it will be gone when morning comes.

A PATRIOTIC ENTERPRISE.

To the Editor of The Examiner :

SIR,—This morning the members of the County Council enjoyed a visit to our Museum, through which they were conducted by the President and Secretary.

It is indeed a matter of great importance to have so many objects of interest brought together and preserved under one roof, showing how wide a variety of animals, birds, minerals, etc., exist in our country, and also valuable relics, keeping alive our past history.

I consider this a good opportunity to draw public attention to the fact that by the officers of the Historical Society our county is without fee or reward being most efficiently served, and all residents should appreciate the fact.

It would be hard to find men more suited for this important work or with better opportunities for forwarding it, and to these is added a whole-hearted enthusiasm and painstaking perseverance which have already accomplished much.

I know well enough that Lt.-Col. Rogers, Mr. T. A. S. Hay and their associates neither expect nor desire praise in this matter. What will please them best would be to have the general co-operation of residents of the county in securing further specimens and relics, and also the historical statements of old settlers ; and this help will surely be given. Let all who can, bear a hand.

Yours, etc.,

IN THE SHADOW.

I and she alone together,
Only we two in the red lamp's glow.
Drear on the pane sobs the weary weather—
Somehow it strains my throat cords so.

There are some toys in a wicker basket,
High on a shelf that is all their own.
Deep as I look in the dark and ask, it
Never will tell why we sit alone.

I and she, but our hands are colder—
Paler her face in the red lamp's glow.
Maybe we just are growing older,
Only—somehow—I remember so!

HE LED THE MOB.

"Wanted.—Twenty-five tall and well built men. Apply at the stage door of the Adelphi theater at 1 o'clock today."

This advertisement in the "want column" attracted the attention of Jim Eccles, upon whom, like many another good fellow, the general depression of the country had brought enforced idleness.

His attachment for Miss Polly Bodman made him all the more anxious to be at work, that his castle in the air might materialize into a neat little cottage where Mrs. Eccles should administer to him all the comforts of a home.

Surely he met the requirements, measuring, as he did, 6 feet 2, of fine physique and erect bearing. Jim at once decided to respond to the advertisement, and 1 o'clock found him standing, with a large crowd of applicants, outside of the stage door of the Adelphi theater.

Jim, by dint of skillful elbowing, made his way within close proximity of the stage door and set about his investigations.

"What's the job?" he inquired of a tall, cadaverous looking individual who stood next to him.

"There's going to be a big show of 'Julius Cæsar.' All stars in the cast and a big gang of supers for the Roman mob," replied the man.

Jim, not being well versed in Shakespeare, obtained very little information from this reply.

"A mob!" said Jim. "What's the pay? A black eye?"

The man addressed glanced at Jim with something akin to pity in his look and replied: "I guess you've never trod the boards, have you? Don't you know that 'Julius Cæsar' is a tragedy, and that there's a big mob at his funeral? We're wanted as chief mourners."

"Not a particularly cheerful occupation," replied Jim.

He would have continued his inquiries, but was cut short by the opening of the stage door to admit the first 25 in line, among the first of whom was Jim.

As Jim had seen very little of a theater, even as a spectator, the scene now presented to him was most bewildering. He was admiring the decoration of a drawing room scene, when he was rudely interrupted by a poke in the back from a tree which the stage hands were shifting.

The appearance of the stage manager just then put an end to any further investigation on Jim's part. The applicants were assembled in line, while the manager ran his experienced eye over them. Something in Jim Eccles' figure and bearing seemed to attract him and, calling his assistant to his side, he said:

"Put this man in for First Citizen. Holbrook's sick and won't be able to go on, and there's no time to hunt around. This man's about his size, so the costume will go all right."

So saying, he thrust a book into the hands of the much astonished Jim, telling him to get the lines marked "First Citizen" and to be on hand the following morning for the rehearsal.

Jim, overcome by this sudden greatness thrust upon him, endeavored to express his ignorance of the duties of the First Citizen, but the manager rushed away, leaving the selection of the other citizens to his assistant. Jim was about to follow him, but felt himself pulled by the sleeve and, turning, found it was the man whom he had questioned outside the theater, who also had a playbook in his possession.

"Here! This is all Greek to me. What shall I do?" said Jim.

"Sh! Don't give it away that you're no actor," said the man cautiously. "I'll put you through all right. You're in luck to get a speaking job."

The novelty of his situation moved Jim to make the most of what chance had thrown in his way, and he decided that he would essay the part of First Citizen and endeavor to prove himself equal to this greatness thrust upon him.

Accordingly the two aspirants for stage honors withdrew to the home of the Second Citizen, and the rehearsal was soon under way. There must have been some histrionic ability latent in Jim, for he soon caught the spirit of the tragedy and, under the guiding hand of his instructor, made rapid progress. After two hours of hard work the First Citizen took his departure, fully convinced that he was a born actor.

Jim, highly elated with this new found talent, lost no time in bearing the news to his sweetheart, Polly. As he rushed into the house he exclaimed:

"Come! Away! Away! We'll burn his body in the holy place and with the brands fire the traitors' houses."

Polly was too overcome to speak for a moment, but when at last words came to her she said: "For heaven's sake, Jim, where did you get it? You promised me you would never touch another drop."

"Behold in me the First Citizen. Tomorrow evening I lead the mob at Rome." With this explanation Jim lifted Polly upon the table, insisting that she should hear him go over his part.

"May I go to the show?" asked Polly when Jim had finished.

"You shall have a front seat in the balcony," Jim answered, and promising to call in the morning to leave her a ticket he departed, after assuring her that her fortune would speedily be made should he make a hit in this new venture.

A half hour before the rise of the curtain found Jim clad in the costume of a citizen of Rome. Senators, triumvir, citizens and conspirators were mingling together, telling stories and cracking jokes, while Julius Cæsar walked arm in arm with his most deadly enemy, the lean and hungry Cassius.

Jim managed to get at the peephole in the curtain, through which he caught a glimpse of his sweetheart, whose face wore a look of expectancy and pride in anticipation of the First Citizen's debut.

Almost before Jim realized it the performance had begun. It was a magnificent cast, and every effort on the part of the manager or performers was received with enthusiasm.

As First Citizen Jim had little opportunity of displaying his histrionic power until the great forum scene was reached. Special effort had been made on the part of the management to have the scenic effects most elaborate, and the scene of the Roman forum was especially well reproduced.

At the back of the stage a long flight of steps led up to the tribunal, and here Mark Antony had aroused the populace to seek revenge for the blood of the murdered Cæsar. The actor who portrayed the part of Antony had stirred the audience to a high pitch of excitement with his powerful and magnetic delivery of the lines over the dead body. Jim also found himself under the spell of this eloquent appeal for justice, and his thirst for revenge was becoming most real.

He could scarcely wait for his cue, but it came at last. Antony had told of Cæsar's will, his bequests to the city, his love for the people, finishing with the words:

"Here was a Cæsar! When comes there such another?"

Jim, wild with excitement, caught the cue, and, jumping upon the steps above the crowd, cried:

"Never! Never! Come! Away! We'll burn this body in the holy place and with the brands fire"—

The word "fire" had no sooner passed his lips than it was echoed by a cry from the audience. "Fire! Fire!"

For a moment the stillness of death reigned over the petrified spectators, only to be followed by a wild pandemonium. It had not been a cry of "wolf." Already a dense smoke was filling the theater, and it was evident to all the house was on fire.

Luckily those occupying seats in the orchestra escaped without difficulty, but not so fortunate were those who had occupied seats in the balcony. There every exit was cut off. The stair could not be reached, owing to the dense, suffocating smoke.

Jim, hearing the cries of "Fire!" that had followed his appeal to the mob, realized at once the danger. He could see Polly, her face blanched with terror, appealing to him to come to her rescue.

Rushing from the stage, he sought the side entrance to the balcony, but was driven back by the flames, which were making rapid progress. He returned to the stage in time to find the Roman mob, that a few moments before was mad with frenzy, now wild with fear. He would appeal to them once more.

"For God's sake, men, don't leave these people in the balconies to die. Here, quick! Lend a hand, some of you!" And Jim rushed for the steps leading to the tribunal. In a second they were torn from their fastenings and borne by the men to a place beneath the balcony, where they might afford a means of descent to the terror stricken spectators.

The men had scarcely time to brace the steps before the people began to clamber down in their mad rush to escape.

In vain did Jim look for Polly in the crowd. Could she have been overcome by the heat and smoke? With the energy of despair he clambered up the steps, fighting his way against the struggling stream of humanity that poured down against him and almost overbore him.

Nearly suffocated with smoke, he groped his way to the place where he had last seen his sweetheart. There he found her, lying in the aisle, insensible.

Snatching the lifeless form of the girl in his arms, he struggled back to the steps, only to find they had collapsed under the weight of the crowd. He leaned over the balcony, but so dense was the smoke he could see nothing.

"Jump for the net!" he heard some one call to him, and, looking closer, he could discern men standing beneath the balcony with something stretched between them.

"God help you, Polly. It's our only chance." And as he spoke he raised her insensible form over the balcony. His hold loosened and his burden fell from his arms. He tried to follow, but sank back, overcome by the smoke.

* * * * * * *

At the Lafayette hospital the next morning there were many inquiries for the First Citizen, and Jim answered them as best he could, though the effort cost him many a twinge of pain.

Over his head hung the torn and scorched remnants of the tunic in which he had led the mob to save many a life. At his side sat Polly, reading to him a proposition from the manager of the Adelphi theater for a permanent engagement as First Citizen.—Boston Globe.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills
CURE RHEUMATISM AND SCIATICA.

A VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM.

A Young Farmer Tells of the Agony He Endured From this Painful Malady.

Mr. Samuel Francis, a young farmer living on the farm of his brother, near Northcote, in Renfrew county says:—"About three years ago the cows got into a grain field at night, and I was called up to put them out. In doing so I got thoroughly wet, and when I arose the next morning my limbs were so stiff that I could scarcely move them. I was thoroughly rubbed with liniment, but without any effect. Mustard plasters were then tried with equally poor results. By this time I was suffering great pain, and a doctor was called in. He said the trouble was rheumatism, and off and on for nearly two years he doctored me with no material improvement. Then I decided to discontinue the doctor and give Dr Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These I took, two after each meal for nearly six months, at the expiration of which time every symptom of the trouble had left me. It is now nearly two years since I was cured, and I have in that interval done farm work of all kinds of weather, without feeling a twinge of the trouble, so that there can be no doubt the cure is permanent. Anyone who is suffering from this complaint will save money and hours of suffering by at once beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

HAD TO USE CRUTCHES

Mr. E.J. Dall, Hecla, Man., writes:—"I take pleasure in making known the good results that have followed the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my case. Three years ago while working in the bush I was so severely attacked with rheumatism that I was hardly able to reach my home. I suffered terribly, and for three months was unable to walk about without crutches. I consulted several doctors, used an electric belt and tried a number of remedies, but found no benefit. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and had not used them long before I was fully convinced they were the remedy I needed. My health steadily improved, and my recovery is complete. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who suffer from rheumatism, and would urge that such sufferers should not waste time with other remedies, when they have a sure cure in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Rheumatism.

There is a popular idea that Rhematism is caused by exposure to cold and dampness and that some localities are more infested with it than others. Such conditions frequently promote the development of the disease, but from the fact that this ailment runs in certain families, it is shown to be hereditary, and consequently a disease of the blood.

External applications may afford temporary relief, but to cure the disease it is necessary to treat it through the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

go direct to the seat of the disorder, purifying and enriching the blood by eliminating poisonous elements and renewing health giving forces, thus curing every type of Rheumatism.

Do not accept anything that does not have that name printed on it in red ink, in this shape.

Take care that there shall be no missing words.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE PANGS OF SCIATICA.

Mrs. Palmer, of Fenelon Falls, Confined to Her Bed for weeks—Her Limb Became so Numb That a Red Hot Iron Could be Placed Upon it Without Her Knowledge.

Only those who have felt the agonizing pains of sciatica can form any conception of the torture which the victim undergoes. The case of Mrs. Job Palmer, of Fenelon Falls, was one of unusual obstinacy and severity, and she makes the following affidavit in reference to her cure, for the good of humanity. "I am 29 years of of age and I had always enjoyed the best of health until November, 1897, when I took a stinging pain in my right hip which seemed to be in by very marrow, as it affected every muscle and joint.

I kept up for several weeks, although suffering the most intense pain, freely using liniments and many other internal and external preparations that sympathizing friends would suggest. I was then compelled to stay in bed as I got so weak and run down that I could sit up no longer. I received several courses of medical treatment, such as electric batteries, poulticing, etc., but got no ease from the excruciating pains which would shoot down through my leg into my very heel where it caused a bursting feeling. The limb at last became so numb that a red hot iron could be placed upon it without my having any knowledge of it. The closing or opening of a door or anyone entering or moving about in my room, seemed to increase the pain. For weeks I could not move any part of my body and had to lie in one position all the time. My brother was cured of rheumatism after other remedies had failed by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so I thought as a last resort I would try them. As the directions said that in severe cases three pills could be safely taken at a dose, I took this number three times a day for about a week when I began to get the relief I had prayed for. Then I kept on taking the pills two at a dose. In another week I was able to get out of bed and dress myself and a few weeks later when I had gained strength enough, I was able to attend to all my household duties and I have ever since enjoyed the best of health. Friends and neighbors who were conversant with my case can also tell you of my terrible suffering and the remarkable cure effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

MRS. SUSIE PALMER,

Taken and declared before me, at Fenelon Falls, in the County of Victoria, this 11th day of May, A. D., 1898.

THE GIRLS ARE IN THE WAY

Of a Stronger, More Forceful Literature; So Some Authors Insist.

In the October Ladies' Home Journal Edward W. Bok editorially discusses the plaint of certain authors, that young girls stand in our way of having a strong, forceful literature. They argue that these offending young girls constitute the majority of book-buyers and readers, and that they insist upon having "smooth, pretty and conventional reading matter." Mr. Bok is evidently disposed to treat this protest in a facetious spirit, pointing out to the writers how they can pursue literature in accord with their own desires and aims, without disturbing the young girls, or publishers either.

"It is very strange," Mr. Bok well says, "that certain of our authors should so constantly complain of being circumscribed in this matter of writing about 'the great truths of life' and 'the problems of humankind.' There is no reason why they should feel so. The world is large, and all ways are open to those who wish to travel them. If authors want to go into the darkest and vilest sewers of human life why should they not? Every man is his own master. And after any author with such a 'mission' has thoroughly saturated himself with the atmosphere of the places he has sought, then let him write of them. He will not offend any one. No one will disturb him—least of all, the publishers. Certainly the young girl will not. Refined and well-bred women will not annoy him. Decent men will not obtrude themselves upon him; they are busier with weightier affairs. So, why should not the author anxious to solve 'the problems of life' go ahead and solve them? There is no reason on earth why he should feel any sort of thraldom. His facts are to be had for the experience; ink and paper for a few cents. Beyond that, he need feel no anxiety. He need not worry about tyranny; there will be none. He need only satisfy himself; no one else. Not a human being will obstruct his going. And if, here and there, a stray specimen of the dreaded 'young girl' happens across his path, he need give himself no uneasiness of mind. She will get out of his way. So, why this complaining?"

Malagasy Cookery.

Cooking being an art, every race has a style of its own. The Malagasy, like the gentle Hindoo, knows how to prepare his mess of rice. It is not boiled to a mash as in England, or as our potatoes are sometimes pulped, but, covered with a proper sufficiency of water, is carefully treated until the grains are swollen fit to burst and yet remain full, intact, soft and rather mealy. The manioc root is an easier dish to prepare. It is sometimes served boiled, as yams and sweet potatoes, and again as a sort of cold porridge. Native coffee they understand how to make, and the aroma is excellent, but tea, alas! You have to look to the brewing of that from start to finish if you desire a drinkable cup. Poultry and game are eaten fresh, and the cooks have a clever and withal cleanly trick of dipping the dead animals in boiling water, which enables them to pluck them easily and quickly. The preparation for trussing comes later.

There is no lack of variety at a Malagasy table, but, all the same, you miss the wheaten flour bread, sugar and condiments when cloyed with rice, fowls, manioc and eggs. The staple fuel is bunch grass, which when dried burns fiercely and settles into a glowing ember that gives off a deal of heat. All the cooking is done on earthen hearths and the roasting, boiling and baking in big iron pots. The grass being slightly aromatic, the odor is as agreeable as that of a hard wood fire. —London Telegraph.

Silence Followed.

A preacher was disturbed by the talking and giggling of some of the junior members of his congregation, says the Evening Wisconsin. Being a man of tact, he paused and said:—

"Some years ago there happened to sit right in front of the pulpit a young man who was perpetually laughing and talking, and making silly faces. I stopped short, and took him severely to task. At the close of the service, a gentleman stepped up to me and said:—

"'Sir, you made a great mistake; that young man is an idiot.'

"Since that time I have not ventured to reprimand any persons who behave themselves indecorously in church, lest I should repeat the same mistake, and inflict censure upon an idiot."

There was exemplary silence during the rest of the service.

Raised . . . From a Bed of Sickness . . .

SIMCOE, Jan. 18th, 1897.

Messrs. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Gentlemen:—For over five months I was confined to my bed, not being able to move. The best medical skill was called in, all treating me for catarrh of the stomach, but to no avail. I could not eat the most simple food without being in dreadful misery, and found no relief until same was vomited up. After spending a large sum in medical advice, I was advised to try a box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I purchased a box from J. Austin and Company, Simcoe, and to my surprise found great relief. Not being able to eat I tried a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills; the pains left me the third day. My appetite has been fully restored. I consider myself perfectly cured, and feel as well as when a young woman, although I am 65 years old at present. I was almost a shadow, now I am as fleshy as before my sickness. Have used only three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and two boxes of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I can do my house work as usual. I am positive that my marvellous cure (which I think it is) is due purely to Dr. Chase's remedies, which I have used. I can honestly recommend the same to any persons suffering from symptoms similar to mine. Wishing you every success,

Yours truly,

MRS. ANN CHURCHILL, Sr.

Helpful Calisthenics.

Here is a very simple routine which is considered most beneficial by Delsarte teachers in imparting a good carriage to the body, and which has the further advantage of requiring little of one's time to carry it out.

Every morning, before you leave your bedroom, stand as close to the wall, facing it, as you can approach. Try touching the nose, the forehead and the chest to the wall while the rest of the body is quite away from it. Then preserve the very same attitude in walking about the room for a few moments. This will inevitably, if persevered in, give one a fine, upright bearing, and the right position of the body's members.

HE THANKS HEAVEN.

That he Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, Which Saved His Life.

Bowmanville, Jan. 26—Marvellous indeed is the case of Mr. A. W. Gibbons, miller, of this town.

Here is his story, as he himself tells it: 'I couldn't eat, nor sleep; had terrible pains in my back and stomach.

"Doctors said I had Bright's Disease; But they couldn't cure me.

"Thank Heaven, whether it was Bright's Disease, or anyone else's Dodd's Kidney Pills soon cured it.

"I hope the news of my cure will spread over the whole country, so that all sufferers will hear of the greatest kidney remedy in the world—Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the ONLY medicine that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arther's Ward," "The Diamond Colonie," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

Neil threw himself back in his chair, elevated his feet, and began.

"Well, I have already told you all that I know concerning the roping in of the girl through the agency of that avaricious old ballet mistress. She was duly installed in that rookery that can scarcely ever find a tenant, because of its beastly reputation, and things went on swimmingly. While he, Bradwardine, went to fetch the girl, I of course remained in the house to receive them. Well, I put in the time while I was left alone, and by the time they arrived had filed through half a dozen locks and bolts so that they would not hold against a stiff pressure. So far, good. Of course, Mr. B. was supposed to confide in me; he wanted us out of the way, myself and the Harris. He devised a nice little plan for both of us; sending me to look after the woman Ellen Richards, down near the street where we rescued her from his clutches, Ferrars; and then he sent Harris on a fool's errand after some ballet girls, who were supposed to live away out in the suburbs. Well, when I had seen Harris safely out of the way, for she left the house last, I came quietly back. As I had expected, the street door was double locked; I forced this open easily, and crept upstairs and into my own room. Presently I heard my man come along the hall and knock at Miss Armyn's door; then he entered the room, and I opened my door in time to hear him turn the key in the lock, thus, as he supposed, locking himself in with the girl. Well, I was not slow in getting near that door, and I could hear every word. I might have interfered sooner than I did, but, upon my soul, I almost forgot myself in listening to that girl. She is braver than a young lioness."

He paused for a moment, and then went on with his recital; giving the strange interview between Lenore and the villain Bradwardine, almost word for word, while his listeners became more eager and excited as the recital approached the climax.

"I shall never forget my first sight of Lenore Armyn," Neil said, when he had reached the point where he had burst in the door. "Standing, as she supposed, on the brink of eternity, with the poison at her very lips, her face was as fearless, as calm, and earnest, as the face of the bravest man that ever confronted death; and it looked as pure and truthful as the face of the Madonna. Just how I struck that phial from her hand and felled Bradwardine, I can never tell you; I don't know myself. I was bursting with wrath against the one and admiration for the other. Well, I didn't allow Mr. Bradwardine to get up any more. After the first start and tremor the girl seemed perfectly self-possessed, and when I raised her to keep Mr. B. quiet with his own pistol, she held out her little hand to show me how steady it was, and then told him, with such a dangerous look in her eyes, that he had better not tempt her by any movement; and he did not. By my soul! I believe he was more afraid of her than of me! Well, I made him fast, and then we started out. As we went down she seemed to begin to feel a reaction from the excitement that had kept her so strong. I was not surprised at this, any other woman would have fainted a dozen times. We drove away, however, in a carriage I had stationed near the house when I started out in the morning, and she seemed to be all done out. I began to feel terribly sorry for her. We crossed the river, and came down on the South Side, then we turned and came into Randolph street; well, here we had to move slowly. Pretty soon the girl raised her head from the cushions, and tried to say something, and then fell over in a faint. Now, I did not want to raise a fuss, and I did not want every one to see her, so I stopped the carriage just in front of a drug store that we were passing. I got out, telling the driver not to get down, and went in for restoratives—

Well—when I came out with my smelling salts and wine, my lady was gone."

"Gone!"

"Gone!"

"Yes. Gone! vanished! skipped! dodged me as skilfully as an old cracksman. By the powers, gentlemen, I could not comprehend it."

"And had no one seen her go?" asked Ferrars.

"Not a soul; the streets were thronged, and nobody observes anybody in such a crowd. The driver sat like a dummy, looking straight before him, he had not heard her get out. He was worse than a wooden man. Everything was against me; my disguise most of all. I dismissed the carriage, and beat about as well as I could; I went to the hack-stand, but no one had taken a carriage for the last half hour. Well, it's no use telling you how I tried to find some trace of her; I did not find it," and Neil arose, and began to remove the paint and false eyebrows from his face.

Rob Jocelyn sat staring with owl-like solemnity for a few moments, and then he broke out into a perfect shout of laughter. Even Francis Ferrars could scarcely repress a smile.

"Didn't I tell you women were the devil?" gasped Rob, between his bursts of merriment. "I say, Neil, you have seen Miss Armyn, anyhow; now then for our theory; what did her face tell you?"

"Several things," replied Bathurst, his sunny nature beginning to assert itself; "but it did not tell me she was going to run away again, Rob."

"Seriously, Bathurst," said Francis Ferrars, "I fear that it was solely on my account that you treated this girl too much like a guest, and too little like a prisoner. And you let that man Bradwardine escape, too."

Bathurst sat down opposite Ferrars, and leaned toward him.

"Look here, Ferrars," he said, slowly, "if any one save you and Rob were told that I let this supposed murderess escape me, because I was too soft-hearted to put her under arrest, as it would seem I should have done, they would set me down for a fool. But I tell you, in spite of the fact of her escape from me—I don't believe she killed Clarence Arteveldt. She must be found, but she shall not be arrested, until I have a reason for reversing my present opinion. I believe that I know why she deceived me, and thus made her escape, but never mind that. As for Jason Bradwardine, you must remember that the girl had told him of the accusation against her. Now, if I sent him to the lock-up, he would have justified, or tried to justify himself, by saying that the girl was a murderess; then the hue and cry would have been raised in earnest. I have left him free, or within the reach of freedom, and now he will hardly dare approach the authorities on the subject. However, it's perilous to the girl either way; if he can find her, he will kill her if he can; if we put him in limbo, he might make trouble for her that would be almost as bad as death itself."

"And you don't believe that she committed the deed?" asked Rob, in surprise.

"No. Nor would you if you had heard her declare, as I did, in what she believed to be her death hour, that she was innocent. But I have other reasons for my belief, reasons that I shall not mention now."

"And—what will be your next step?" asked Ferrars, who had been watching Neil's face closely.

"Nothing—concerning Miss Armyn, except turn her over to you."

"To me?"

"Yes—if you can find her."

"Thank you—I will find her," replied Ferrars, resolutely.

"Well! I must turn my thoughts to other things. No use for me to look for her, she would vanish from before my very eyes."

"Heavens!" ejaculated Rob Jocelyn, "it takes the women to outwit us. Now there's my murderess, and there's the young lady with the opal set—well! it's a queer world."

"Yes, it's a queer world," assented Neil Bathurst. "And, now, Ferrars, consider the finding of Lenore Armyn your affair. But when you find her, in Heaven's name, keep her. Is this my packet of papers?" laying his hand upon the bundle just collected by Ferrars.

"Yes," replied the English detective, "but—if you don't object, I will keep them for a little while longer."

"Oh, certainly. Ferrars, I wish I could help you in this matter, but to tell the truth my head is full of another thing, and it is something that requires instant attention. We shall be divided in work for a little time."

"True," responded Ferrars; "why, man, I don't need your help to find a girl who must be in the city. I should be able to find her and then be ready to help you."

"You had better be ready to help me, and that soon," broke in Rob Jocelyn; "I shall need a 'pal.' I'm going into the burglary business."

His two hearers laughed, and then, having prepared himself for a fashionable call, Bathurst said:—"Well, I am compelled to leave you now; wish me good luck, gentlemen."

"Where now, Neil?" asked Rob.

"To pay my addresses to Miss Aura Durand," replied Neil, and before Rob could utter a comment, he was gone.

In a few moments Rob, too, took his departure, and then Francis Ferrars seated himself at the table, reopened Neil's packet of memoranda, and for more than an hour sat studying, making pencil notes, and thinking. Suddenly he lifted his head and sat looking straight before him.

"I have found it," he said, aloud. "Improbable as it looks, I believe she is there. I believe I can find Lenore Armyn."

CHAPTER XXXIX.

AN HEIRESS DEPOSED.

A week had passed since the deliverance of Lenore Armyn from the hands of Jason Bradwardine, and her subsequent flight from Neil Bathurst. A week had elapsed since the conference of the three detectives: and since that day not one of them had seen or heard aught of the other two. It had been a week, too, since Mr. Durand, accompanied by his invalid wife, and a faithful servant, left the city. He had been suddenly called away on business, and he had insisted upon taking Mrs. Durand with him, arguing that the change of climate would benefit her, as he was going South. Mrs. Durand had been her own housekeeper, and she had taken their best servant with her, but fortunately Mr. Durand had been able to procure the services of a widow, who could not only act as housekeeper, but as chaperone and companion to Miss Aura, who was thus rendered free from all responsibility, while, virtually, mistress of the mansion.

It was a dreary, rainy morning, and Aura Durand sat in her dressing room, partaking of breakfast, and thinking upon some disagreeable subject, if one might judge from the expression of her countenance. Her revrier was interuppted, however, and the current of her thoughts turned into a new channel by the entrance of a servant, bearing upon a salver several letters and billets.

Miss Durand took them up, one after the other, and glanced at the superscriptions. Then she uttered a little triumphant coo, and hurriedly opened one of the letters. It read as follows, and speaks for itself:—

Miss Aura Durand:—

Kind Friend—How grateful I should be that I am permitted to call you thus. Your delicious little note—quite too brief—is at hand, and I thank you for thus remembering and fulfilling your promise to send me a sample of your late companion's handwriting. In response to your plea, that I will not use your hastily-spoken words, or this writing, to the injury of Miss A——, I will only say that your will is my law.

I am surprised to hear of your father's absence from the city; how much alone you must feel. I cannot tell you when I shall return to C——, but rest assured that before I visit any other friends, I shall come to you.

Yours sincerely,
N. A. BATHURST.

"Really," said Miss Durand, pursing her lips, "this is better than I expected. He will come to me first. Ah, Neil Bathurst, when I have won you, you shall aid me to crush mine enemy."

And, smiling triumphantly, she took a sip of chocolate, and then turned, still smiling, to peruse the other letters.

Sweet Friend—You are not neighbourly; you are changed. This must not be. I need your charming society. I shall go shopping to-morrow; will you make it convenient to call for me with your carriage, or shall I come around to the mansion?

I have a ticket for the Tip Top Club masquerade, thanks to my late intimacy with you. I wish to go; we will go together, I think. To-morrow we will consult as to costumes.

Yours till death,
NINA.

This was the next letter, and Miss Durand threw it upon the floor, and trampled it under her small feet.

"Insolent!" she hissed. "Fool, fool! she is going too far. What does she think I am made of? Oh, for the day when I shall se her ruined utterly."

With this unchristian aspiration upon her lips, she paced up and down the dining-room; and where, a short time before, a smile of triumph had rested, there now sat a look of fear and hatred.

Says Laxa-Liver Pills cured himself and a friend of Constipation and Allied Troubles.

Everybody who has used Laxa-Liver Pills says they are the finest thing in the world of medicine.

Mr. R. H. Orde, of Greystock, Ont., is of this opinion and this is how he expresses himself:

"Some time ago I got a sample packet of Laxa-Liver Pills, and after I had used them with great satisfaction I sent to Mr. Madill's drug store, in Peterboro, and bought two bottles, one of which I gave to a friend of mine. He assured me they did him a world of good. His trouble was constipation and fluttering of the heart.

"In my own case the trouble was very similar, i.e., constipation, fluttering and palpitation of the heart, and pains in my legs, like rheumatism, when I lay down at night. I have only taken the pills a short time, but every one of the unpleasant symptoms has disappeared. The pills did their work thoroughly, yet so mildly that a person would not think he was taking medicine at all. I am highly pleased with their effects, and recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all who suffer as I did."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, appraising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

A KIND NEIGHBOR.

The kindest and most neighborly thing one woman can do for another in case of sickness is to tell how she herself was brought out of trouble and distress; and urge her neighbor to seek the same remedy. Hundreds of thousands of mothers have cause to bless just this same kind, neighborly spirit which actuated Mrs. Wm. S. Vollmer, of Concord, Cabarrus Co., North Carolina.

"We moved here to Concord, N. C., over a month ago," she says, in her communication to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "A little girl here was in dreadful health. We told her folks about Dr. Pierce's medicines. I knew what they had done for us. Her parents bought a bottle of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Pellets.' The patient has improved wonderfully after taking these medicines. I wish everybody knew the great virtue of Dr. Pierce's medicines. I have been using them in my family for three years and always with success.

"I will be pleased to have my letter published. If persons wishing to know more about the great benefits we have received from using Dr. Pierce's medicines will write, enclosing stamp, I will gladly answer."

Every mother of children ought to possess Dr. Pierce's grand book, the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a magnificent thousand-page illustrated volume. It teaches mothers how to care for their children and themselves. It is the best doctor to have in the house in case of emergency. Over half a million copies were sold at $1.50 each, but one free copy in paper-covers will be sent on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only; or send 50 stamps if you prefer a heavier, handsome cloth-bound copy. SCHOOL BANKS.

A Sensible Proposition by a Former Windsor Banker—Children Will Bring Their Savings and Teachers Will be Bankers.

F. S. Jarvis, manager of the Merchants Bank at Brantford, and formerly manager of the branch in this city, has an apparently feasible project on hand for the establishment of a school savings bank, on lines similar to those that are said to have been adopted in some European countries and in the United States as well. The co-operation of some savings bank is secured, and the object in view is to encourage the children to put their pennies in a bank as the seed of future fortune and good habits, instead of in the candy shops with the accompanying acquirement of habits of extravagance. The teachers collect the savings of the children and give them their deposit receipts. When a child has deposited $1 he is given a bank book and becomes, through the book, a regular patron of the savings bank. When the deposit reaches $3 or $5 (as the bank may elect) it draws interest at 3 or more per cent.

INTRODUCED IN NEW YORK.

Information has been gathered concerning the value of these banks by educators, that leaves no room to doubt their value in the creation of habits of thrift among school children. School saving banks were introduced into the fourteen public schools of Long Island City, New York, March, 1885. Pupil depositors to the number of 1,987 have now to their credit $15,765.18. The collections in the eleven years have been $53,933 61, with withdrawals amounting to $37,167.43.

The gentleman who first attached the system to the routine of school work in the United States, says it has worked admirably in Long Island City. Only about ten minutes time is consumed in making the collections in each school. The pennies collected "grow to dollars, the dollars earn interest and encourage their owners to further self denial and thrift." Mr. Thiry, the gentleman in question, regards the system as a public blessing, and Wm. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education, declares that it tends to prevent crime, prodigality and various vices, and to make children thrifty, orderly, economical and discriminating each use of money. It has its influence upon all phases of economy and propogates virtue.

VERY SATISFACTORY RESULTS.

In three public schools of West Chester, Pa., 765 pupils have now to their credit $9 561 93, the accumulations of six years. The collections for this period amounted to $12,694 32, $3,062.46 having been withdrawn. The deposits to West Chester are constantly increasing and habits of economy among the children are being formed.

Equally satisfactory reports come from a dozen additional towns, where parents and teachers are in sympathy with the work.

The system inculcates a love for economy, and has been found most successful among the poorer classes.

KNIGHTS GIRT WITH SWORDS.

Class of Men Sent to the First Legislature of Upper Canada—First Bill Passed One to Permit Trials by Jury.

Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, has a typewritten copy of the proceedings of the first Legislature for the Province of Upper Canada, which met on 17th September, 1792. The summons issued by Governor Simcoe for the election of members was couched in rather quaint language. It commanded the returning officer for each county to send "one knight girt with a sword, the most fit and discreet to represent the said county." The clerk of the House was paid £91 5s, the sergeant-at-arms, £45 12s 6d., and the doorkeeper, £10. The first bill passed was one to establish trials by jury. The first meeting of the Legislature was held at Newark, now Niagara-on-the-Lake.

How Japanese Catarrh Cure Cures Nasal Catarrh.

Japanese Catarrh Cure is a penetrating, soothing and healing pomade, which is inserted up the nostrils by a small camel's hair pencil. The heat of the body melts this pomade and the patient breathes the soothing medication through the nostrils, and the nasal channels open up. The stuffed up feeling in the head leaves, and the person can breathe naturally through the nose. The dull pains across the head cease. Continual use for a short time soothes the mucous membrane until the soreness and inflammation are all gone. The bad odor of the breath passes away, and the lost sense of smell and hearing return. The dropping in the throat is permanently checked, and the cough does not creep up towards night. The discharge from the nose grows less and less, and finally ceases altogether. It does not drive the disease to the throat or lungs or into the ears, as to claim is done by washes, douches, and the unsavory nasal catarrh powders and snuffs which contain cocaine and other drugs which stimulate, relieve at the time, but give rise to a fearful habit. Japanese Catarrh Cure is a thorough alterative, it cleanses and heals in its action, and carries the minute germs of the disease entirely out of the system. We have such confidence in it that we guarantee it to cure any case of nasal catarrh, or money will be refunded. A free sample will be sent to any person writing from this paper. BEDFORD LIBERALS

Banquet at Waterloo, Que., the Minister of Agriculture.

LIBERALS AND AGRICULTURE.

What the Government Has Done to Advance the Interests of the Farmers of the Dominion—What Cold Storage Has Done—The Country Prospering—Hon. Mr. Fisher's Able Speech.

Waterloo, Que., Jan. 27.—Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, was tendered a splendid banquet last night in the Town Hall by the Liberals of the district of Bedford. Mr. Charles Parmalee, M.P.P., occupied the chair, and among those on the platform were Hon. Clifford Sifton, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Senator Dandurand, and Hon. H. T. Duffy. The hall was packed to its full capacity. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed, and every speaker was applauded to the echo. Mr. Fisher himself had a reception which shows what a hold he has on the people of the eastern townships.

The chairman rapidly sketched Mr. Fisher's career in Parliament, and declared he was the best Minister of Agriculture that Canada ever had. (Applause.) He concluded by saying he was sure that Mr. Fisher's proudest title to-day was that of a "farmer." (Applause.) He then proposed the toast of the evening, "Our Guest," which was received with great applause.

The Minister's Reply.

Hon. Sidney Fisher returned thanks for the honor done him, and, after preliminaries, and speaking as Minister of Agriculture, he said it had always been his aim to raise the status of farming and remove the impression that farmers were hewers of wood and drawers of water. He therefore endeavored to see that the department was carried on well, and for the special interest of those for whom it was created. Having ridiculed the idea offered by Conservatives that they had an inherent right to govern, and that the Liberals were incapable, he showed that in his department alone he had reduced the number of clerks by 30 and reduced the salaries from $75,000 to $62,000, a saving of $12,000 a year, and yet the department was better administered than ever before. At Grosse Isle quarantine four policemen were put on as special clerks four years ago, but though the emergency was soon over these policemen were continued on the pay lists—(laughter)—and yet the Conservatives monopolize the instinct of government. (Laughter.) He pointed out how he had organized mechanical cold storage on steamships, and a system of cold storage throughout the country, and secured the abrogation of the American quarantine against Canadian cattle. The filling up of the Northwest is the greatest problem now before the country, and it was necessary to show that mixed farming as well as wheat-growing could be successfully carried on. For that reason Prof. Robertson had established butter creameries in the Territories. He, however, did not establish cheese factories, because he thought there was enough now made in Canada. All the butter made there was consumed there and farther west, and did not come into competition with eastern butter. At the same time it showed intending immigrants what were the capabilities of that country. He further took means to prevent the spread of tuberculosis, and the investigation showed that Canadian cattle were remarkably free; only 8 per cent. being affected.

What Cold Storage Has Done.

In consequence of cold storage transportation Canadian butter has appreciated in the English market, as comparisons show, 10 shillings per cwt. Two years ago Canadian butter was 18 to 20 shillings per cwt. below Danish butter, whereas it now stands less than eight shillings below Danish butter. Last year 209,000 packages of butter were sent to England, and it was enhanced to the value of $312,000 in one season. Still the whole cost of the cold storage system was only $70,000. He further pointed out the advantages of cold storage for the export of beef and fruit. The opinion of one of the largest exporters of cattle, Mr. Ironside, was that through the abolition of the quarantine regulations of the United States young cattle sent there brought double the value to Canadian farmers. He thought these facts showed what the present Government is doing for the Canadian farmer. The limit of the cheese export trade is about reached, but there is an almost unbounded scope for the export of butter. There is also a great future for trade in bacon and poultry. In conclusion, he again thanked the electors for the opportunity they gave him of occupying a position in which he had so much pride. (Great applause.)

Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Clifford Sifton and others followed, the Ministers largely confining themselves to their respective departments and their administration.

TYPHOID FEVER AND SCURVY

Are Keeping the Hospitals at Dawson City Full of Patients.

Washington, Jan. 27.—J. C. McCook, United States consul at Dawson City, reports that there has been a continuance of typhoid fever at that place in the last few months, the hospitals, accommodating about 200 patients, being always full and many sick persons having to remain in their cabins. Some scurvy cases are being received in the hospitals.

Scurvy in this section, as a rule, is not brought on by the salted food eaten. It appears to come from the system being run down by typhoid. Very few persons here escape the fever. Many a strong young man, who carried with him over the trail the very best canned vegetables, fresh meats, etc., has brought on scurvy simply from overwork and exposure.

The stampede for claims has been ended in the Dawson section, as the country is all staked. The only question now is relocation.

The prices of provisions in this section are being advanced. The cost of living for a miner who has to buy food supplies averages $6 per day. There is no reason for the prices asked. There are more food supplies there than can possibly be used, and the supply companies are making immense fortunes. If some firm would send in a few thousand tons of supplies, and be satisfied with 200 or 300 per cent. profit, it would prove a blessing to the thousands of miners there.

Unless the cost of living becomes more reasonable, the poor man who owns a claim cannot afford to work it, unless it should prove to be very rich.

TICHBORNE CASE RECALLED.

Sydney Lee Says Sir Roger Was Murdered.

Vancouver, Jan. 27.—The mail steamer Aorangi, which arrived yesterday brings the following:

The Tichborne matter refuses to die. Sydney advices say an old man named Lee, a clerk, who died recently, is said to have been intimate with Sir Roger Tichborne, succession to whose estates led to the famous "claimant" trial in England, America and Australia. Documents have been discovered in which he states that Tichborne was murdered in an Australian bush, and that he identified the body, which had been decapitated. For certain reasons he kept the information to himself, but subsequently he confided in a friend. He also hinted to a Wesleyan minister before his death that valuable information on the subject would be found amongst his papers.

STABBED HIS BROTHER.

A Quarrel Near Woodstock Which May Result Seriously.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 27.—James Benedict, aged 19, was seriously stabbed by his younger brother Charles in a scuffle. The boys got into a quarrel, and, it is said, James "cuffed" his brother's ears. The latter, who is 10, grappled with James, and in the scuffle a jackknife was run into the elder boy's body, making a deep wound, which bled so freely that his life was in danger, but it is hoped the boy will recover. Charles feels his position keenly. No arrests have been made. The wounded boy says it was accidental.

Little Chaps in Jail.

Brantford, Jan. 27.—On Nov. 3, 1898, Sammie and Tommie Long, aged 8 and 12, respectively, were given 30 days in jail in default of $29.50, by Squires J. R. and A. W. Ellis of Mount Pleasant, for ill-treating Susannah Greeny's cow. On Monday a revision of the decision was asked, but refused by Judge Hardy. The scene in the court room was pitiful and sad, bringing tears to many eyes, as the mother of the lads parted with them. Citizens are subscribing the amount of the fine and the Attorney-General has telegraphed to release the lads at once.

Willis' Tuberculosis Bill.

Buffalo, Jan. 27.—At a meeting of the Live Stock Association yesterday a committee was appointed to attend the hearing at Albany on Senator Willis' bill, entitled "An Act to prevent the introduction of tuberculosis in the dairy and herds of cattle in the State of New York," and to oppose it, on the grounds that it is unnecessary and pernicious and very damaging in its effects to the live stock interests of this State.

The High Commission.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The high joint commission held a session yesterday and adjourned until Tuesday. The sub-committees on reciprocity and the Behring Sea held sessions.

LEE'S APPOINTMENT.

Former Kingston Professor's Reward for Good Service.

HE WILL GO TO WASHINGTON

As First Permanent Military Attache to the British Embassy in That City—His Work as Special Officer Who Accompanied the American Forces Is Thus Recognized.

London, Jan. 27.—The British Government has decided to make permanent the post of British Military Attache to its embassy at Washington.

Of course the United States Government will previously have been asked whether such a step will be agreeable to it and will have given an affirmative answer. Hitherto the British Government has no military attaches attached to embassies and legations at Berlin, Paris, St. Petersburg, Vienna, Rome, Constantinople, Teheran, Tokio and Peking.

The first British military attache at Washington will be Capt. Arthur H. Lee, Royal Artillery, who has been for nearly five years professor of military topography at the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ontario, who accompanied the American forces throughout the Cuban and Porto Rican campaigns as military attache, and whose article on American regulars in a recent issue of Scribner's Magazine attracted much attention. He will be raised to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in his new post.

Mr. Balfour's Letter.

On the whole, the reception of Mr. Balfour's letter concerning the Irish university scheme has been favorable. The Irish Catholic press receives the proposal warmly. The Times adopts a cautious attitude, and the Liberals are more enthusiastic than the Conservatives. There has been no time yet for opposition, either Nonconformist or Orange, to develop, as the letter took the public by surprise. To-day's papers will probably contain a mass of letters on the subject

GRAND ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER.

Election of Masonic Grand Officers—Next Year in London.

Stratford, Jan. 27.—At the meeting of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Canada yesterday all the officers elected were installed except the Grand Scribe E., Mr. W. J. Robertson of Port Hope. The reason for the non-installation in this case is that a protest was entered against the election on the ground that a gentleman who had to leave the meeting before the election for this office gave his ballot to another member to be cast. Reclining Chair in His Tomb.

Amesbury, Mass., Jan. 27.—Reuben J. Smith died yesterday morning, aged 71 years. He came here from Buffalo, N.Y., in 1867. He was eccentric, and one of his peculiarities was the dread of being buried beneath the ground. Last fall he caused a sarcophagus to be built on the summit of a hill in Prospect Cemetery. It is a houselike tomb of brick and cement, with walls one foot in thickness. The whole structure is incased in marble one foot thick. The door is of steel an inch thick. The inside is eight feet square and six feet high. The body, by Mr. Smith's directions, will be taken to the tomb in a reclining chair, and left there, facing the door. An opportunity will be given for all who wish to view the body, and then the entrance to the tomb will be bricked up and the door locked. Mr. Smith left no relatives here.

Three Were Drowned.

Margate, Eng., Jan. 27.—The British ship Hawkedale, Capt. Steele, from Hamburg for Melbourne, is ashore on the Long Sands. The Margate lifeboat saved seven of her crew and the Cleaton-on-the lifeboat saved 17 more. Three of those who were on board the Hawksdale, including the pilot, were drowned by the capsizing of one of the ship's boats. The Hawkedale was a steel ship, built at Londonderry in 1890. She registered 1,217 tons, hailed from Liverpool, and belonged to Iredale & Porter of that port.

Free Glasses for Pupils.

Syracuse, Jan. 27.—The Board of Education has adopted the plan of free spectacles for pupils, as well as books, and has purchased 275 pairs of spectacles, to be used in the public schools.

The People's Faith

Firmly Grounded Upon Real Merit —They Know Hood's Sarsaparilla Absolutely and Permanently Cures When All Others Fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not merely a simple preparation of Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and a little Iodide of Potassium.

Besides these excellent alteratives, it also contains those great anti-bilious and liver remedies, Mandrake and Dandelion. It also contains those great kidney remedies, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, and Pipsissewa.

Nor are these all. Other very valuable curative agents are harmoniously combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla and it is carefully prepared under the personal supervision of a regularly educated pharmacist.

Knowing these facts, is the abiding faith the people have in Hood's Sarsaparilla a matter of surprise? You can see why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, when other medicines totally, absolutely fail.

ACCREDITED AGUINALDO.

The Insurgent General of the Philippines Has Been Given Power to Make War Upon Americans.

Manila, Jan. 21, via Hongkong, Jan. 27.—The Republic, official organ of the Filipino Government, announces that the Congress at Malolos has adopted the Philippine constitution, passed a vote of confidence in Aguinaldo and empowered him to declare war on the Americans whenever he deems it advisable.

At a mass meeting of women at Cavite yesterday, the paper adds, it was enthusiastically resolved to petition Aguinaldo for permission to take men's places in defence of independence and to bear arms if necessary.

Paterno has asked for and, it appears, has been granted the privilege of "taking a prominent place in the line of battle against the Americans."

An American sentry yesterday evening killed a captain of Filipino artillery at the Tondo outpost. As a result, the native press is intensely excited and denounces it as a "cowardly assassination."

On Saturday evening, Jan. 21, five Filipinos determined to have revenge for their captain's death and attempted to enter the American lines. An American sentry killed one of them, who was armed with a revolver. After an exchange of shots the others were arrested. The incident has intensified the excitement here.

THEIR LIVES ARE IN DANGER.

U. S. Urged to Procure the Release of Filipino Spanish Prisoners.

New York, Jan. 27.—A despatch to The Herald from Washington says: Through the French embassy here, Spain has again urged the United States to procure the release of Spanish prisoners held by the Philippine insurgents.

Information officially received by the Madrid Government from the Philippines shows that the lives of Spanish women and children, as well as men, are in danger, and that the prisoners are not receiving proper treatment. The Spanish Government called attention to that provision of the treaty requiring this Government to use its good offices to procure the release of the prisoners, and urged the United States to do everything possible to do so.

Secretary Hay replied that General Otis had been instructed to give immediate attention to the matter, but this Government has made no promises to obtain the release of the prisoners. It is the growing belief that the United States will be able to obtain their release only by force.

Information has also been received here showing that 500 friars held as prisoners are compelled by the Filipinos to undergo all sorts of menial labors, such as attending to the horses of Filipino officers, paving the streets of towns, and so forth.

GEN. EAGAN IN TEARS.

His Feelings Overcame Him as He Gave Evidence.

Washington, Jan. 27.—When the Eagan court-martial reassembled yesterday Judge Advocate Davis stated that he wished to submit formally the testimony of General Miles, as read the day before, as an exhibit in this trial, and with this statement, he said, the prosecution rested its case.

General Eagan was called as a witness in the court-martial proceedings. He said he had first read General Miles' statement in the Washington papers. He had said to the Secretary of War that he desired to defend himself by bringing proceedings against General Miles, but was told that the immunity granted by the President would prevent any such action. Witness did not think that this immunity covered the newspaper interview in which General Miles had, by inference, declared him to be a murderer for gain. Witness said he became greatly excited. This statement of General Miles had taken away his (Eagan's) character. He could not proceed against General Miles in the courts, or otherwise, and he felt that he might better be dead in the gutter. During the recital General Eagan's eyes filled with tears, his voice trembled and he spoke very feelingly. His honor as a soldier, he continued, had been attacked, and a soldier's honor should be as sacred as the honor of a woman.

No trouble is more common or more mi-understood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are

How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. Appeal Against a New Election Dismissed —Argument and Judgment—The Seat Now Vacant.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—The argument in the appeal from the decision in the South Perth election case was resumed at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The trial took place at Stratford on Nov. 11.

Mr. Bristol supported the appeal for Mr. Monteith, the Conservative candidate, and Messrs. Aylesworth and Grant represented the Liberal interests. The case hinged on the admissability of 14 misprinted ballots. These the trial judges held to be ambiguous, and ordered a new election.

'TIS INSIDE OUR FENCE.

Hunter's Island, With a Million Dollars' Worth of Pine on It, Within Canada's Boundaries.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—A Washington special to The Evening News says: Lost, by Uncle Sam, one island of 800 square miles, containing one million dollars' worth of pine. This catastrophe has just occurred in the Canadian joint high commission. Hunter's Island, situated at that point on the Minnesota frontier where the boundary makes a jab into Canada, is the property referred to. Minnesota people always supposed that the island was theirs. Besides pine in profusion, it contains valuable minerals, and is well worth having. There was no distinct record of the boundary in the State Department, but the Minnesotians never entertained a doubt that the island was theirs. When the matter came up in the joint high commission, Mr. Kasson, for the United States side, claimed the island. The Canadians simply produced a map signed by those who negotiated the treaty of Ghent, which shows the national boundary is passed on the American side of the island and gave it to Canada.

There is no signed map in the State Department of the boundary in Lake Erie and this commission will endeavor to settle the location of a line there. The Canadians claim it is half-way from the top of Point Pelee to the American shore. The Americans claim it is midway between the two main shores. If the Canadians don't spring a signed map on this and the Americans win, it will make a difference in regard to some pending negotiations relative to American fishing boats seized for poaching in alleged Canadian waters. It will also have a bearing upon such cases as the seizure of the tug Grace Buelle near Amherstburg some years ago, for dumping garbage in waters claimed to be Canadian.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE.

Oh, many a vision I've cherished,
To brighten the days of my life,
Of a home amid roses embowered,
Of some one to greet me as wife,
But to have such a home as you offer,
To have such a lover as you,
With a heart so devoted and tender,
Seems almost too good to be true.

I remember the times in my girlhood
I felt it my pride and my joy
To have your attendance at parties,
For you were the favorite boy.
And though there were handsomer maidens,
And others much richer than I,
There was none of the group so heart-broken,
When you left without saying goodby.

I heard of you then in the city,
And knew you were making a name,
Each day by the efforts of genius
Securing a permanent fame.
And I fancied you must have forgotten
The poor little girl you once knew,
And to have you come back as a suitor
Seems almost too good to be true.

I hoped to have cards to your wedding,
To the church and reception beside,
Where I might with tearful emotion
Congratulate you—no, the bride,
But to stand by your side at the altar
To be solemnly married to you—
It seems, when I think it all over,
As if 'twere too good to be true.

—Josephine Pollard in New York Ledger.

AN AWKWARD FIX.

"Do you think two girls ought to be born so exactly alike?" said Charlie Dacre, ruefully twisting up a cigarette.

The other man laughed.

"Are you talking of those two Dennison girls? They're not exactly alike."

"It's all very well for you, but I haven't your long sight, and I declare to you if I see either of them at a little distance or in a bad light I can't tell which is which. I am going to a party tonight given by the respected parents of my Dennison, and I positively dread it."

"Perhaps they play tricks on you," said Ballantyne. "One of them is rather skittish."

Charlie got himself up that night with extraordinary care, and as he was a good looking fellow he presented a rather striking appearance as he entered Mrs. Dennison's drawing rooms. He had been detained, so that most of the guests had arrived when he came, and his inamorata was nowhere to be seen. But shortly after he had paid his respects to the host and hostess the daughter of the house, prettily dressed in white and blue, came up. Dacre begged for a dance—two dances.

"I'm so sorry," said she, "but I've nothing vacant till the lancers. You're a little late, Mr. Dacre, you see," with a slight accent of reproach as she gave him her card. Charlie apologised in the humblest terms, and the girl bestowed a smile on him as she was led away.

Dacre went to seek her in good time for his lancers. She sat on an ottoman in a distant part of the room, where the drooping folds of a curtain formed a shade from the glare of the lights. The blue and white of her filmy gown stood out against the dark background. Dacre hastened across the room to her.

"Miss Dennison—my dance," he said eagerly. "May I?"

She turned her pretty face and arched her eyebrows in surprise.

"Yes," said Charlie, "the lancers—you promised—oh, I beg your pardon. You're your cousin—I mean, the other Miss Dennison—and, of course, I haven't seen you before."

Then, recovering from his confusion before the young lady could speak, he added:

"I hope I'm not too late to get a dance, Miss Dennison?"

Having secured this, he sought the other Isabel.

"Why in the fiend's name do they dress alike?" he muttered in nervous fear of another mistake. He might be continually coming across the one he didn't want, like a recurring decimal. Several times he bore down on a fair girl in blue and white, but turned away, deciding that he had only come on an Isabel in another place. The lancers had begun. It was in full swing before he came suddenly on a sofa where sat the Isabel.

"Miss Dennison," he stammered, "I'm so sorry"—

"Pray don't apologise," said she coldly. "I assure you the delay is not of the slightest moment."

"Indeed, it was quite unintentional," said the unfortunate Charlie in despair. "I have been looking for you"—

"I have been sitting here the last ten minutes, and you passed me just now."

"I saw a blue and white dress," acknowledged Charlie, "but some people came between it and me. Won't you forgive me and dance this? It isn't too late."

"I think my mother wants me," said Isabel, rising with dignity.

"May I take you to her?"

"No, thank you."

Charlie only got pardoned when everybody was going. He was mad with himself, but could not bring himself to acknowledge the real reason of his apparent neglect. He was sensitive about these constant mistakes. They went on happening, of course, the one Isabel laughing at him, which he dreaded, the other turning haughty and offended. He offered some flowers to a Dennison girl one day and she said demurely, "Are you sure they were meant for me?"

"Whom else could they be meant for?" said Charlie sentimentally.

"My cousin, perhaps—she's over there," said the girl merrily. Dacre flushed in unutterable confusion and took back the flowers, scarcely knowing what he did. And when he turned away he met the scornful eyes of a girl who must be the Isabel he wanted because the girl he had left wasn't she. It was quite impossible to present the flowers, and he made a crestfallen escape as soon as he could.

"Hang it, I'll end all this!" he said angrily one day. "But I shall have to be careful. If I am happily successful, that I marry the right girl. It would be awfully awkward if I didn't."

His opportunity seemed thrown into his hands, for he was invited to spend a week at a country house where the Isabel was also going with her mother. He sat next her at dinner, and to his great delight saw no other Isabel.

"We shall be a larger party tomorrow," said the young lady. "My cousins are coming."

"The—the Dennisons?" Charlie almost gasped.

"Not all of them—only Isabel and Lucy."

This was comforting. And both Isabels had such an odious habit of dressing in the same colors! Why didn't they wear different colored ribbons, like French twins?

He got along fairly well, with great care and caution. One evening he saw Isabel Dennison entering the library. He knew it was his one because she had on a gray dress, whereas her cousin had worn a green one during the day. It was too dark to see her features. He followed her into the room.

"The nicest time for a chat," he said, and she made a movement as if to leave the room, flitting toward a farther door.

"Yes, but I'm afraid I can't stay," she said. "I only came to fetch something I left here."

"Well—but don't go—stay a minute," said Dacre entreatingly. He had no doubt at all about his accuracy as to identity. Her desire to escape from him was a sure proof, let alone others, for it was precisely the desire she had shown in the last few days, and which he took as a favorable sign. "Miss Dennison—Isabel—am I mistaken in thinking—in hoping—you know—you surely must know that I love you!"

The girl had stood still for a second, while Charlie rushed on with his declaration, but she interrupted him hastily:

"Indeed, Mr. Dacre, I'm afraid"—

"Don't say that," said Charlie, going nearer. "All those weeks in town—down here, when we have been thrown so much together—I surely have not misunderstood?"

A stifled sound came from the dim figure before him, whether laugh or what he could not tell, but he suddenly started back, and in so doing came face to face with another Isabel in a gray dress.

If the earth had opened and swallowed him, Charlie would have been thankful. This was the crowning disaster. Neither Isabel stirred. Which, in heaven's name, was which? To whom had he proposed? How should he ever know he had got the right Isabel?

He recognised after the first wild movement that he must save the situation. He approached the newcomer, who eyed him disdainfully.

"Miss Dennison—Isabel," he began.

"Which Miss Dennison do you intend to address, Mr. Dacre?" she demanded stiffly.

"How the deuce should I know? It is nearly dark, and you both evade me."

"You had better pursue your conversation with the lady you seem to recognise best, and I will retire."

The other Isabel sprang forward.

"Don't be a goose, cousin," said she, half laughing, "and you, Mr. Dacre, wait a minute. You know very well, Isabel, it's all a mistake, and I'd have interrupted Mr. Dacre before only he was so impetuous I had no time. He didn't mean me at all"—

"Mr. Dacre doesn't seem to know whom he means," said the offended Isabel.

"I know very well when I can see them," murmured Charlie, nearly crushed. "Here goes for a light."

But when a blaze of light illumined the room only one Isabel remained. Dacre took her hand.

"You are the one," he said.

"Are you quite sure?" she asked archly.

"Ah, that's cruel! Of course I am. What will you say to me, Isabel—forgive me and"—

"Love you," whispered Isabel.

How He Became a Cynic.

Some lovable traits of character in Prosper Merimee, the famous French novelist, who has left to posterity the reputation of a misanthrope and a cynic, are revealed in the pages of Augustus Filon's "Merimee and His Friends."

M. Filon tells us how this celebrated author devoted 100 louis of his salary as senator toward pensioning an old prefect of Louis Philippe who had been ruined by the revolution of 1848, and how for 20 years he assisted and protected a humble sculptor in whose he had become interested.

M. Filon relates an incident of Merimee's childhood that shows how susceptible his nature was to strong impressions, and how responsible older people, and particularly parents, are for the development of certain traits in children.

When the future novelist was 5 years of age, he was once punished by his mother for some naughtiness of which he was guilty. Mme. Merimee, who was an artist, and who was at the time engaged at her easel, put the culprit out of the room and closed the door upon him.

The little Prosper, already penitent, anxiously besought forgiveness through the closed door, expressing great contrition and promising good behavior, but the door remained inexorably shut. Finally, after much effort, he opened it and dragged himself upon his knees toward his mother. His piteous supplications and his pathetic attitude so amused Mme. Merimee that she began to laugh.

Instantly rising from his lowly posture he exclaimed indignantly, "Since you mock me I will never ask pardon again." He kept his word. Thus was sown the seed of a certain cynical philosophy that tainted his after life.

The Speculative Wheat Markets in Chicago and Liverpool Both Rise—

The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, Jan. 26.

Liverpool wheat futures to-day began to reflect recent advances at Chicago and closed 1¾d to 1¾d per cental higher than yesterday's final figures. Paris wheat closed 5 centimes higher to 5 lower for the day, with flour unchanged to 10 centimes lower.

Chicago wheat market was a wild one today. The May option opened a cent above the previous close, advanced to 79½c and reacted 77½c, a net gain of nearly 1c for the day. The July option opened up at an advance of 1½c over night, rose 2½c further and closed about 3 cents higher than the previous final figures. The market appears to be in the hands of the speculator, as legitimate conditions are generally recorded as bearish.

TRENT CANAL COMPLETION.

Large and Influential Public Meeting in the Opera House.

GREAT UNANIMITY PREVAILED.

From Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario Graphically Described and Illustrated.

The Engineering and Commercial Aspects Ably Presented by R. B. Rogers and John Carnegie—Effective Work of the Trent Valley Canal Association—A Strong Resolution in Favour of the Immediate Completion of the Canal Adopted.

The attendance was most encouraging last evening at the public meeting in the Opera House, held for the purpose of increasing the local interest in the Trent Valley Canal, by giving the citizens an opportunity of learning more of the commercial advantages to be derived from the completion of the route, as well as conveying to them information, as to the amount of work already completed and the portion which it is still necessary to place under contract.

The chair was taken by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M P P, who explained that last fall the Board of Trade realized that it was necessary to rouse the interest more thoroughly of the municipalities along the line of the proposed waterway, in order to secure its completion. To reawaken interest it was decided to revive the old Trent Valley Canal Association in order to bring the municipalities affected more into touch with each other. At a meeting held last fall of representatives from the municipalities between Trenton and the Georgian Bay he had been asked to take the presidency of the Association. Subsequent meetings were held, and it was felt that it was necessary to publish a pamphlet containing the fullest information bearing on the scheme. The Committee had asked Mr. Carnegie to prepare this information and he had kindly undertaken the task—spending some months in collecting the necessary material. This information would be given by Mr. Carnegie during the evening. Mr. R. B Rogers, Superintending Engineer, would take the audience on a trip with him over the canal, his remarks being illustrated by Mr. R. M. Roy showing a number of lime-light views of the route.

Mr. Carnegie expressed himself as much pleased with the presence of so large an audience and stated that he had condensed his facts as much as possible. He felt that to do full justice to his subject it would occupy the time elapsing between the opening of the meeting and daybreak, rather than an hour.

Mr. Carnegie's interesting information will be given in full in to-morrow's issue of the EXAMINER.

He was followed by Mr. R. B. Rogers, whose address is appended:

In this present day of doing things on such a large scale it almost calls for an apology to come before an audience with the solution of the problem of cheap transportation by such simple and comparatively inexpensive methods as those that are the subject of this paper. When the air is full of schemes for ship canals, deep waterways and big vessels, it is with a feeling of diffidence that one refers to competition with such by means of barge navigation. However I think it can be shown, and that without a doubt, that the natural features of this scheme are such that the Trent route, when completed, will more than hold its own with any existing or proposed lines of transportation for many years to come. Owing to the comparatively insignificant cost of the completed work compared with the other projected lines of transportation, and that it will successfully accomplish the object in view, viz., the cheapening of transportation, it might be suggested that it should at least be completed before any of the schemes requiring such vast expenditures of money be taken in hand.

The Trent Canal, as may be seen by the map, runs from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario at Trenton.

HISTORY.

The history of the Trent Canal means going back to what might almost be called ancient history. About the year 1820, or before, the Imperial Government undertook the task of opening up this country, and they decided upon doing it by improving and utilizing the natural waterways. In consequence, the Rideau Canal was built and a considerable amount of money was expended upon the Trent. On the Trent, navigable stretches of from 25 to 30 miles were created by the construction of locks, dams and other means. The money for the completion of the canal for the whole distance between Trenton and Balsam Lake was actually voted by the Imperial Government. But about this time the McKenzie rebellion broke out and the money voted for the completion of the route to Balsam lake was taken to subdue the outbreak. When peace was restored, new conditions were created. In the meantime strong political influence was brought to bear on the Canadian Government (which had now taken up the transportation question), from the Niagara District and as the Trent District at that time was very sparsely settled and had very little political influence, the Canadian government were induced to start the Welland Canal, and work on the Trent was abandoned for the time. The work on the Trent again started in the year 1830 and continued till about 1838, when the locks, canals and dams were built at Fenelon Falls, Buckhorn, Lovesick, Burleigh, Young's Point and Lakefield. No further contracts for new work were let till 1894, when the contract for Section No. 1, Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division was let and in 1895 the contract for Section No. 1, Peterborough-Lakefield Division, and in 1896 the contract for Section No. 2 Peterborough-Lakefield Division were awarded. The work on these contracts is about completed with the exception of that on Section No. 2, Peterborough-Lakefield Division. This briefly is the history of the Trent Canal.

To complete the Trent Canal from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario exclusive of the divisions at present under construction will take from three millions to three and a half millions of dollars. This is a comparatively small sum to provide another through and satisfactory water way between Lake Ontario and Lake Huron. When the divisions at present under construction are completed there will be an unbroken navigable stretch from Washago or Barrie to Healey's Falls, a distance of about 150 miles.

In the first place it is a misnomer to call the Trent route, a canal, as almost the whole distance from Lake Huron to Lake Ontario is through beautiful lakes and rivers or on flooded reaches. The length of the canal from Lake Ontario to Lake Huron is about 300 miles, when completed it is expected that only about 20 miles of this distance will be actual canal.

DIMENSIONS OF CANALS.

The prism of the Canal has a width of 50 feet on the bottom with side slopes in earth of 2 to 1, and in rock of ½ to 1. The slopes in the earth are protected by broken stone placed in a notch cut into the slope.

The standard size of the locks is 134 feet long 33 feet wide with 6 feet of water on the sills—though all the lands bought so far for canal purposes have been surveyed and laid out to allow of eight feet of water being on the sills of the locks. To make all the works so far constructed to allow of 8 feet of water would only mean holding the water two feet higher on the sills of the locks by means of extra stop logs placed in the dams, and a slight extra expenditure for the purpose of adapting the present works to the increased depth of water.

DESCRIPTION OF THE ROUTE.

A description of the route is as follows:—The southern outlet of the canal is at the town of Trenton, which stands at the head of the Bay of Quinte, and also at the eastern outlet of the Murray canal, which gives access to Lake Ontario to the west. There are two routes surveyed from Trenton to Frankford, a distance of about eight miles. One route is all in cutting on the west bank of the river, while by the other it is proposed to utilize the present course of the river for navigation purposes. If the latter route is adopted, it is proposed to canalize the river, as has been done between Nassau and Lakefield, by a system of locks and dams as far as Frankford, a distance of about eight miles. The river, which will form a beautiful channel, is between 300 and 400 feet wide between the banks and the banks are high. No more favourable opportunity to apply such a system could exist—with its rock bottom and high banks.

The rise in this section is 118 feet. Above Frankford a flooded reach of the river is entered for a distance of 5½ miles to Chisholm's Rapids. At Chisholm's there is a masonry lock and canal about half a mile in length, excavated out of the solid rock. These works are in as good a state of repair as when they were built, nearly 60 years ago by the Imperial Government. The route again enters a flooded reach of the river for a distance of 4½ miles to Hoard's Creek. From Hoard's Creek a cut across the country will be made for a distance of 11 miles to Crow Bay. There is a rise on this section of 166 feet. The route then enters Crow Bay as far as Healey's Falls, a distance of 3 miles. Here a rise of about 77 feet is to be overcome, where it is proposed to place a mechanical lift lock, the lay of the land being most favourable for such a structure From Healey's Falls to Hastings, a distance of about 11 miles, is at present navigable. The river on this reach is about 600 feet wide and forms a beautiful stretch of navigation. At Hastings there is a lock and dam, all in good repair and in daily use. From Hastings to Peterborough the route lies along the river for 6 miles, then enters Rice Lake for 12 miles, and again follows the river for 21 miles to the south end of the town of Peterborough. Here there is a dam and lock in good repair. From above the lock the route enters Little Lake for a distance of about a mile to the entrance of the town of Peterborough. From Peterborough to Hastings seven steamers regularly ply during the navigation season. From Little Lake the route cuts across country for about 4 miles to Nassau and has a rise of 78 feet. This is comprised in Section No. 2 Peterborough-Lakefield Division, and is under construction, Messrs. Corry & Laverdure being the contractors. A short description of this section is as follows:—

At the outlet at Little Lake a lock with 13 feet lift is being constructed. The ground in which this lock stands is fine sand with some layers of blue clay in it. There is a pile foundation on which stands the concrete lock. About 500 feet above this lock a highway crosses, and about 800 feet beyond this the Canadian Pacific Railway crosses the canal on swing bridges. At about 2000 feet north of the C.P.Ry. crossing it is proposed to transfer vessels from one reach to the other—a difference in level of 65 feet—by means of an hydraulic balance lock, the contract for the superstructure of which has been awarded to the Dominion Bridge Company, of Lachine.

HYDRAULIC LOCK.

A short description of this lock may be interesting. There are two water-tight steel boxes, or chambers, 33 feet in width by 140 feet in length, with 8 feet of water in the clear, and closed at the ends by means of gates hung on the lower edge. Similar gates also close the ends of the reaches. These chambers are carried by means of heavy trusses supported on top of two rams 7 ft. 6 in. in diameter which work in two steel water-tight presses, one under each chamber. The presses are connected with each other by a pipe 12 inches in diameter, in the centre of which a valve is placed for the purpose of regulating the motion of the chambers.

The weight of each chamber full of water is 1800 tons, and each ram 120 tons. The gauge pressure produced in the presses by this weight is about 600 lbs. per square inch. The estimated weight of metal in both chambers is 720 tons, and in the rams and presses 550 tons, and in sundry other parts 230 tons, making a total weight of metal in the whole structure of about 1,500 tons. The total load on the foundation of the presses is about six million pounds which is taken by a foundation of granite in large blocks. The granite will be subjected to a pressure of about 650 lbs. per square inch on top, which by the footings is reduced to 250 lbs. per square inch on the bottom resting on a limestone formation.

It was first proposed to make the presses of cast iron banded with steel hoops—the same as those used at LaLouviere in Belgium. However with the recent developments in the art of making steel castings it has now been decided that a more satisfactory, as well as cheaper press, can be made by using steel castings. An offer to do this was made in their original tender by the Dominion Bridge Co, and was accepted.

For the purpose of making up for the small quantity of water lost in the working of the main presses an accumulator is installed in one of the side towers. This accumulator has a ram 20 inches in diameter with a stroke of 30 feet 6 inches, working at a pressure slightly greater than that of the main presses. Its pressure is also utilized to operate the gates, capstans and small pumps.

The mode of operating the lock is as follows:—Supposing both chambers are at a standstill—one up and the other down, both gates towards the reach open ready for a vessel to enter—when the chambers are thus, the bottom of the upper chamber will be about 10 inches lower than the bottom of the canal above, and has, say, 8 feet 10 inches of water on the sill. The bottom of the lower chamber will be just level with the bottom of the canal below, and will have 8 feet of water on the sill. Thus the upper chamber has 10 inches more water in it than the lower chamber and consequently is so much heavier than the lower one (approximately 100 tons).

The valve in the connecting pipes between the two presses is closed. When it is desired to operate the lock the gates at the end of each chamber, and the gates at the ends of the reaches, are closed, and the operator who stands in his cabin on the top of the central tower opens the valve in the connecting pipe between the presses. The upper chamber then commences to descend and the lower chamber to ascend till both chambers reach their new positions, the upper chamber being now level with the lower reach, and the former lower chamber being opposite the upper reach. The operator now closes the main valve in the connecting pipe. When the chambers are in their new positions the surface of the water in the lower chamber is 10 inches above the surface of the water in the reach below, and the surface of the water in the upper chamber 10 inches below the surface of the water in the reach above. Communication between the water in the chambers and the reaches is now made by opening the valves in the gates nearest the reaches, and the water in each chamber is allowed to find its own level. When this is done the chambers are then in the condition they were on starting. Vessels are hauled in and out of the chambers by means of hydraulic capstans. The time required to lock and pass one vessel or two vessels in and out of the lock will be from 10 to 12 minutes. The time required to raise or lower the lock chambers will be about three minutes. Above the lock is placed a guard gate which is operated by hydraulic power and is closed when a vessel enters the lock.

The substructure of the hydraulic lock will be of concrete. Slides have been prepared from the general drawings and will more readily describe the general form of the work than can be done in words. The natural surface of the limestone is at such an elevation that very little expense is necessary for the finishing of the floors at the lower reach level. The main retaining wall, 126 feet long by 40 feet thick, rests upon the limestone formation. Its height will be about 33 feet.

Passing along the line the work consists of earth cutting and embankment in about equal proportions for about one mile. The Norwood Road is carried across the Canal on a high level bridge and the Warsaw Road by means of a swing. A small creek at the Warsaw Road is carried below the Canal by means of a cast iron pipe 5 feet in diameter. From about the Warsaw Road the Canal is formed by means of a flooded reach to almost the end of the Section at Nassau. At Nassau a light rock cutting was required to be made before entering the river. There are no structures from the Warsaw Road to Nassau except a waste weir for emptying the reach. A seven sluice-way timber dam is constructed at Nassau to raise the water in the river. At Nassau the highway and the G. T. R. are carried across the Canal on swing bridges. From Nassau to Lakefield, a distance of about 5½ miles, is under construction with Messrs. Brown, Love & Aylmer as contractors. On this Section the river has been canalized by means of dams and locks. There are five locks and four dams. All the structures rest on rock foundations. The dams are the ordinary timber dams with stop log openings. A wall of concrete runs along the upper face of the foundations of the dams for their length. The locks as before stated are entirely of concrete. The gates are of solid timber with the valves for filling and emptying the lock in them. The gates are opened and closed by means of a stiff, built-up girder which is fastened to the top of the gate. A wire cable is fastened to each end of this girder and passes around a corrugated drum which is attached to a capstan placed in a recess below the coping of the lock. The capstans, at present, are worked by hand power with bars which are attached to a vertical shaft on the coping and have a horizontal motion. It is proposed that they be worked by electricity when the canal is completed. The lifts of the locks on this section are 16, 14, two of 12 feet and one 10 feet. At Lakefield the highway is carried across the canal on a high level bridge. After leaving Section No. 1, there is a navigable stretch from Lakefield to Balsam, a distance of about 65 miles and on which there are about 24 steamers. From Lakefield the route is through Katchawennee Lake to Young's Point, a distance of 6 miles. At Young's Point is a lock and dam with a 7-foot lift. From Young's Point the route passes through Clear and Stony Lakes to Burleigh, a distance of about 10 miles. At Burleigh there is a double lift lock of about 25 feet rise and three dams. Passing through Lovesick Lake, a distance of about 1¼

CHRISTIAN UNITY A LIVE QUESTION.

PUBLIC MEETING IN THE Y. M. C. A. HALL.

Clergymen of Different Denominations Express Their Views—Interesting Addresses—A Local Society to be Formed.

The Christian Unity meeting, held last night, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall was well attended and the attendance would doubtless have been larger had it not been for the rough night. All present were evidently animated with a desire for a united Christianity, and the addresses of the different speakers, representing the four leading denominations were entirely in accord.

The chair was taken by Sheriff Hall, who explained the necessary absence of Rev. Messrs. Shorey and Potter and Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield. After the singing of an appropriate hyma, of the Charlotte street Methodist church, spoke on the "Spirit of Christian Unity." The spirit of Christian Unity, he said, is the spirit of Christ, in promoting one we promote the other, and all the good influences at work in the world must tend to promote unity. Where the spirit of God lives there is Christian life. There is a danger of reducing Christianity to the status of a mere fraternity without the animating power of the spirit of Christ. There was nothing to be gained by the building up of any particular form of Christianity if the spirit of Christ was lacking. Such a church or body would do nothing for the salvation of the world, however great its numbers may be. No real advantage was to be gained by proselytzing. For himself, the speaker did not believe that organic union was yet in sight; but if the churches could not agree in government let them make an immediate effort to agree on definite standards of morals and discipline, for it was unfortunate that any one church should grant greater freedom and liberty than others. All churches could now be animated by the spirit of unity, which might later express itself in more practical shape.

REV. D. O. CROSSLEY,

After the singing of a hymn

REV. DR. TORRANCE

spoke on "The desire for Christian Unity the sign of the Times." He said the present state of things in the ecclesiastical world is entirely anamalous. Think of the surprise of a visitor to the stars who, learning what the nature of Christianity was, found its exponents to be in active rivalry and discord. The outlook at present, however, was better than it had been in the past, when persecution was the order of the day. The Church of Rome had a terrible record in this matter, and Protestants had also transgressed to some extent, though when they did it was utterly in defiance of the free spirit of Protestantism. Church union was not only a thing of the future—it had begun. In 1875 the three Presbyterian churches in Canada were united into one church. The two great branches in the Northern States had likewise united. The separated Methodist churches in Canada had been successfully amalgamated, and Christians in Canada were looking forward to other steps in union. In Scotland, he regretted to say, little progress had be made in spite of repeated efforts. The Church of England had published to the world the well known Lambeth Basis of Unity, and had again and again expressed her desire for union. The Church of England in Canada had, through her Synods, offered to unite on the basis of the Lambeth Articles. Indeed, looking abroad they found the desire for unity expressed by the Pope of Rome, but his terms were such that the proposition had been kindly, but firmly, rejected by the Bishops of the Church of England, and it was inconceivable that Protestantism should ever make itself a party to the abuses of the Church of Rome. The speaker then spoke as to the desirability of union, and referred to some difficulties which might possibly be got over, and the power of united Church experienced.

REV. G. C. ELLIOTT

then gave an address on "The Advantages of Christian Unity." He said a spirit of unity had been to a large extent gained already; the object to aim at now was corporate unity. He spoke of the waste of money and of men necessitated by disunion, when at the same time 800,000,000 heathen are crying out for the bread of life, and need our wasted forces. If the culpably wasted men and money were not speedily set free, these heathen would go down to Christless, hopeless eternity. The second advantage to be gained by unity was increased spirituality. A higher standard of life could be insisted on, and the Church shake herself free from those who dragged the skirts of religion in the mire. Thirdly, a freer use could be made of church discipline, and men could be given the alternative of desisting from sin or retiring from church membership. At present denominational rivalry stood in the way of securing these boons, and its general effect was to lower the standard of religion.

REV. H. SYMONDS

was the last speaker, and explained the new society of Christian Unity. It had originated with four clergy of the Church of England, who felt their need of association with their separated brethren. They had made a public statement published in the different religious journals and the result was a meeting in Toronto on the 10th February, 1898, of leading clergymen of all denominations, at which organization was effected. Public addresses were delivered in the evening by four heads of theological colleges—Provost Welch, Chancellor Burwash, Principal Grant and Dr. Cavan. The society had no platform. Their intention was to begin with the inward spirit, which would gradually express itself in an outward form and order. This had been the divine plan in the constitution of nature. The society aims at rousing public opinion and emphasizing at public meetings what Christians have in common. Other meetings would be held for discussing controverted points in a devotional spirit. The speaker would be proud if a local centre of the society could be formed in town. Canada was the best field in the world for this effort, and people generally were taking kindly to it. The movement was now beyond the sentimental stage and had reached the practical, and its consummation must surely be reached, for, as every Bible student must confess, it was in accord with the will of God.

After a hymn and Benediction the meeting dispersed, and some signatures were obtained for membership in the society.

ANOTHER WIN FOR THE PETERBOROUGH "COLTS."

They Defeat the Lindsay City Hockey Juniors by a Score of 11 to 5.

The hockey match last night between Peterborough Colts and the H. Frontenacs of Kingston, in the third round for the O. H. A. junior championship, attracted a good crowd at the rink, and all had the pleasure of seeing the invincible Colts administer defeat to the Kingstonians to the tune of eleven goals to five.

Promptly at 8 o'clock Referee Ernie Wasson ordered the teams to line up, and before the puck was faced it was found necessary to enter a protest against two Kingston men for not having the proper age certificates. The two men under protest are certainly out of their limit.

The game started by Kingston scoring first goal and affairs presented a rather blue aspect, but it was not long before the Colts settled down to work and King, Crossley and Whitcroft soon scored five goals for the Colts. The score at half time stood Colts 5, Frontenacs 3.

In the second half Crossley replaced Morgan in goal and the latter went out on the forward line. Some excellent hockey was witnessed on both sides, but the Colts were determined to win and at the close of the game the score stood 11—5 in favour of the home team.

Mr. Ernie Wasson as referee showed that he knew his duty, and whenever a player disobeyed the rules he was promptly sent to the fence. The visitors, of course, objected to his rulings, because they were the principal offenders, but the referee did his duty in every detail. The following were the teams:

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE MEMBERS AT WORK IN COMMITTEE.

An Asphodel Deputation Heard in Reference to Road.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY.

This morning the work of the County Council was of a Committee nature and the result of their deliberations will appear in the reports of Committee.

ASPHODEL ROAD.

Mr. Andrew Cameron and Mr. Geo. Read waited upon the Council asking for a grant of $200 to repair or cut down the big hill on the side line between lots numbers 10 and 11, in the first concession of the township of Asphodel.

The deputation stated that the hill was in a dangerous and almost impassable condition. The road is extensively used in drawing milk and is principally used by farmers living near Westwood when coming to Peterborough.

It was moved by Mr. Buck and seconded by Mr. Pearce that a grant of $200 be appropriated for this work conditional upon township of Asphodel appropriating a like amount.

The motion was carried unanimously

Energy Easily Earned.

DR. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

Wasted energy must be made up or the body will weaken and perhaps perish.

For a long time prior to taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my nerve system was greatly deranged and I was terribly nervous, so much so that in my business (Lineman of the Kingston Electric Light Co.,) my extreme nervousness naturally made the following of my business extremely hazardous. Before taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my kidneys had been affected for some time. I had constant soreness and stiffness across my loins and the small of my back. My appetite was variable and very poor. I also suffered greatly with constant headaches. I am glad to be able to inform you that Dr. Ward's Pills completely cured me of all the above ailments and made me a well man. I have found no medicine like Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, although I have tried many different kinds. They acted quickly and effectually on my nerve system, making my nerves strong and removing all indications of nervousness. These valuable pills also removed all kidney and back trouble and restored to me a healthy vigorous appetite. I have had no headache since five months ago and feel justified in saying that they are a wonderful remedy. They not only removed nervousness, but gave me healthy kidneys, removed all soreness and stiffness from my back and loins, cured me of headache and gave me a good appetite, consequently I am highly pleased. I know of no medicine that equals Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills for nervousness, chronic headache, sore kidneys and back and loss of appetite. Yours truly, John McCutcheon, 522 Princess St., Kingston, Ont.

All good druggists sell them. If they won't, we will supply you by mail on receipt of price, 50c. per box, or 5 boxes for $2.00. The Doctor Ward Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A CANNON OF GOLD.

It is the Most Valuable Weapon on Earth.

A cannon plated with solid gold, mounted upon a carriage of rosewood, is the unique bauble of warfare that has just come into the possession of the Imperial Army of Berlin.

The outward appearance of this monster jewel is most delicate in workmanship, and is of a kind never before seen in an arm of its nature. The cylinder is ten feet long, with a circumference of 3 feet at the mouth, and the entire barrel is strangely beautiful in its massive coat of burnished gold, chased with a delicately designed frieze work.

This singular gun, which is the most valuable on earth, was presented to the Berlin Army by the managers of the Hamburg Museum, in whose keeping it has been for two centuries.

Wonderful Power.

The power of imagination is amusingly illustrated in the story of an old lady who had never heard the celebrated violinist, Paganini, play, and one day obtained permission to attend a rehearsal of one of his concerts.

It so happened that Paganini did not take his violin with him to the rehearsal that day, but borrowed one from a member of the orchestra, and instead of playing as usual, kept up a kind of pizzicato accompaniment.

After the rehearsal, the old lady went up to Mr. Cooke, the musical director, and said in a burst of enthusiasm, "Oh, dear! Mr. Cooke, what a wonderful man he is! I declare I never knew what music was capable of till this morning."

"Indeed, madam, he is truly a marvelous man," assented Mr. Cooke, with a smile; "but this morning you are indebted rather to your imagination than your ears for the delight you have had, for Paganini has not really played at all. He has not even touched a bow."

"Well," said the old lady, after a moment's astounded silence, recovering herself, "then all I can say is, he's even more remarkable than I thought he was! For if he can affect me in such a manner without playing, what should I do, how should I feel when he really did play?

All forms of scrofula, sores, boils, pimples and eruptions, are quickly and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HALLE'S ANCIENT CAKE DANCE.

A Ceremony That Has Been Performed by Salt Workers For Centuries.

Halle, the little German saltmaking city whose inhabitants are supposed to be descended from an early race of different blood from the modern Germans, has a curious fete of its own, which has been celebrated annually for many centuries. On that day the masters and the saltmakers, clad in red mantles, follow to church the cake of the feast, born aloft by a youth accompanied by his sweetheart. After the religious rites follow a banquet and a dance to the music of instruments specially devoted to the purpose.

The fete originated in an incident that took place so long ago that the very date has been lost. A mill belonging to the commune was burned, and the family of the miller was saved by the salt workers. When the mill was rebuilt, the commune voted to the salt boilers in perpetuity an annual cake of 100 pounds to be blessed, carried in procession and then eaten solemnly to the music of drums and fifes.

The ceremony had been going on thus for generations when in 1876 there was a new fire in the city which destroyed the city hall, but spared the salt works and the dwellings. Then the pious commune adopted a resolution thanking God for what he had spared and declaring that thereafter the cake bearer and the salt masters and their men should make the procession clad not in black as formerly, but in tunics of ardent red, with plumes of the same color in their caps. The date of the fete was also changed from St. Peter's and St. Paul's day to St. John's day, the longest day in the year. Since 1876 this order has been faithfully observed. The cut of the tunic has varied somewhat with the fashion prevailing, but the style of Louis XV predominates. Thus appear the carrier of the cake and his sweetheart, and thus is clad the halberdier. After the banquet the men and maidens of honor, being those who in years before have carried the cake, decorate with red poppies the crowd that presses in the public square. Then, in the midst of a spot protected by barriers, the men and maids of honor execute not a cake walk, but a cake dance, a grave function in which one must neither speak nor smile. The dance is not complicated, but the music is of a special character, and this gives the whole a peculiar distinction. In the evening there is a dance of a gayer character at an inn. The waltz here begins really at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and is continued until dawn. The red habits are put away at the end of fete, not to be brought out again for a year. They descend from father to son and are preserved with the utmost care—New York Sun.

WOODSTOCK WONDER.

A Crippled Rheumatic is Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 18.—Never, in the social history of this town since the Birchall trial, has such great interest been shown as the "Catmore Case" has caused.

Mr. C. J. Catmore, 90 Main street, was crippled by Rheumatism and Lumbago during five years. He couldn't stand straight and had to be helped from his room.

To-day he is straight and strong; sound in every limb, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Other remedies were used, but did no good, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

A Highland Deer Forest.

A highland deer forest is not, of course, a vast, densely wooded park. As a highlander said to an Englishman who wondered that trees were wanting there, "Whoever heard of a forest with trees?" There may happen to be trees in the forest; natural birch woods may cling to the sides of a glen, or the lower slopes of the hills around the lodge may be clothed with modern plantations of fir and larch, but these are merely ornamental fringes of the forest. The forest itself is a great waste of mountainous moorland, treeless, brown with heather or gray with coarse grass—a wilderness sacred to the red deer, from which human dwellings are banished.

The many hundreds of square miles of bleak, high lying moors now devoted to deer forests never could have maintained a large population. There have been farms and crofts in the green patches in the glens, and in the old times the cattle were driven in the summer to the shellings high up among the hills. Now the only people who live in the forest throughout the year are the forester and his family at the lodge, with perhaps an underkeeper there and one or two other keepers at the opposite side of the forest, some dozen miles away.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Revolving Building.

Plans for a revolving sky scraper 400 feet high and built of steel have been submitted to the Paris Exhibition Commission. The twenty-four stories are to be let for restaurants, concert halls, theaters, and so forth. The building will turn slowly on its axis like a merry-go-round, and enable visitors to survey the whole country around Paris while they eat their dinners.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Cartain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1 00

A Question of Individuals.

"Of course," said one member of congress, "you are opposed to any man's holding two offices at the same time?"

"Well," answered the other, "all people ain't alike. There are some men I know of who are equal to holding three or four offices and doing the work well, and then again there are some who have a mighty hard time getting away with one. You can't lay down any general rule."—Washington Star.

KIDNEYS

They are the Great Feeders of our Bodies

The Purity of the Blood is Dependent on their Cleansing Powers

There's a time to all, old and young, man or woman, when poor health brings trouble, anxiety, and burdens hard to stand up under, and one's efforts to rid himself or herself seem only to be baffled at every turn, and we are prone to grow discouraged.

That is not the time to give up—but the time for action, the time to seek out the seat of the trouble, and act as your best judgment and the experience of others will help you, guarding against mistakes in the treatment adopted for your particular ailment.

ASK GOD FOR WHAT YOU WANT.

But do Not Pray Yourself Into a State of Religious Conceit.

"I do not advise you to attempt to say long prayers," writes Ruth Ashmore in October Ladies' Home Journal. "Ask God for what you want, believing that you will get it, and do not pray yourself, as is possible, into a state of religious conceit. Think sometimes before you go to bed of this verse: 'Stand in awe, and sin not; commune with your own heart in your chamber, and be still. I will lay me down in peace, and take my rest; for it is Thou, Lord, only, that makest me dwell in safety.' He does not want you to come to Him with loud wailing, but with a repentant spirit and in quietness. Be generous and ask that He give His patronage and comfort to all those who are in sorrow. Ask for the poor a competent support, a contented spirit and a hope for the treasures in the hereafter. For all that travel by sea or land freedom from perils of all kinds, and that they may reach the haven where they would be. For those who grieve for some who are asleep may there be given a knowledge of the goodness of God and a willingness to take up the burden of life and to carry it joyfully until the end is reached. For all those who are disconsolate ask for light from Heaven, timely deliverance and God's grace and comfort."

Thinks Bicycling Immodest.

Smith—Thank goodness I've got a wife who'll never wear either short skirts or bloomers."

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

DUNCAN & GREY

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Cutter," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

Finally she threw herself down in the dressing-chair, once more, looking calmer, but very determined, and took up the next letter. It was from Mr. Durand, the first she had received since their departure. And this is what it contained:—

St. Louis, —— ——.

Dear Child—We are here safe and very comfortable, and you will be very glad to know that your mother's health is improving wonderfully. We shall remain here some time longer, just how long I can't say. And now comes a matter which grieves me to write upon, yet it must be done.

Here Aura started and looked around involuntarily.

I had hoped and expected never to be under the necessity of saying what I am about to say. I have never told you much of my family history, only that I stood quite alone in the world, as also did my wife, except that we have each other. Now, however, I must tell you that I had a brother, who, many years ago, became alienated from his family and friends. One by one the rest passed away, and my father's large fortune came into my hands. But yesterday, among the letters forwarded to me, came one from this brother's only son. My brother is dead, and he has recommended his son to my care. He is a young man, just of age, he informs me, and is my next of kin, and lawful heir of my wealth, morally as well as legally. I am bound to promote the interests of this young man.

When I adopted you it was with the belief that I could one day make you my heiress. But this cannot be now. I shall make my will settling upon you a comfortable income; the rest must go to my brother's son. This, of course, will not affect you as it would have done were you a young man. Probably it will not be long before you make a good marriage, and then your income will become your marriage portion. While we live you will have every want supplied as heretofore, and—who knows—when you have seen this new nephew of mine, which will be soon, you may find in him what Miss Annin used to call poor, unfortunate Arteveldt, "a man to adore."

But my letter grows long, and there is more to say. My nephew writes that he will arrive in the city on Friday. His letter has been unaccountably delayed, and this letter will barely reach you before that day. Of course he will make my house his home in the future, and you will be his little entertainer until we return. Please see that Mrs. Richards prepares him the best room, and, as he is a stranger in the city, there will be much that you can show him.

I would hasten my return on his account, but that is quite impossible, so I leave my new-found heir in your hands. I write him a letter by this same mail, which Mrs. Richards will deliver to him when he comes. I trust when I return to find you two on the most cousinly terms, and now I will say no more. We send you the best we have to send, our united regard.

Yours,
JAMES L. DURAND.

P. S.—My nephew's name is Charles Durand.

This was the letter the perusal of which left Aura Durand sitting pale as a corpse, and motionless as a statue. A long, long time she sat thus, the letter fallen at her feet, her small hands clenched, her lips tightly compressed, and her eyes fixed in a glassy stare at vacancy. Minute after minute passed away, until a full half hour had gone by, and yet the girl never moved. What finally aroused her was the silver chime of a little bronze clock just opposite. She started, seeming to listen mechanically, and then she sprang up, and did what Nina Annin had once seen her do. She crossed over to a dressing-case, opened a drawer, took out a small phial, lifted it to her lips, and then, replacing it carefully, turned away, looking like her own calm self once more. She went back to the table then, picked up the letter, and reperused its contents.

"Friday," she said; "why, to-day is Friday, and Mr. Charles Durand is about to arrive. The genius of my fate is certainly growing fickle. Let me see. I am no longer a prospective heiress; and Charles Durand supplants me. So be it! But—the race is only begun."

And Miss Durand turned away from the table, and touched the bell. Then she gathered up her letters, and put them carefully away; all but the letter from Nina Annin. This she rolled into a ball, which she flung into the grate. It fell, not among the coals, however, but just short of the flame, finding lodgment among the ashes. In a moment her maid responded to her ring, and then Miss Durand said:—

"Laura, go and ask Mrs. Richards if she is at leisure to come up here just now. And as soon as she leaves me do you come up and dress me for the morning."

Laura vanished, and in a few moments a soft tap sounded upon the door.

"Come," said Miss Durand, in a silvery, childlike tone, and promptly the door opened, and Mrs. Richards, the new duenna and housekeeper, glided in. Mrs. Richards was a handsome woman, despite her somewhat careworn look, and, strange as the fact may seem, notwithstanding her weeds and widow's cap, she looked wonderfully like the Ellen Richards who had been stabbed in a certain disreputable house some five months since.

"Be seated, Mrs. Richards," said Aura, looking up, with a bright smile, as her visitor entered.

Mrs. Richards sank down in a low chair close beside the grate, shivering as she did so.

"It was so chilly this morning; is not the wind dreary? and yet," bending nearer the grate, "it hardly allows the fire to burn."

"I am not at all sensitive to the cold," replied Aura, pleasantly. "I asked you to come up at this early hour, Mrs. Richards, to tell you that we are to have a visitor. Did papa write you?"

"Only that his nephew was coming, Miss Durand; he referred me to you for orders."

"And you know I don't give orders," smiled Aura. "My cousin arrives today, and papa wishes him especially honoured in this house; you and I must entertain him royally, Mrs. Richards. By the way, did not papa send a letter for Cousin Charles?"

"Yes." Mrs. Richards drew still nearer the fire and held up her hands to catch the warmth. In so doing her handkerchief dropped from her fingers and fell inside the grate. She snatched it up with a quick exclamation, and when she put it in her pocket the roll of crumpled paper was no longer among the ashes.

"Papa said that he had sent such a letter, and that I had better deliver it. So if you will send it up by Laura——"

"I will bring it up," said Mrs. Richards, rising. "It is locked in my desk."

"And you will see that his rooms are in perfect order?"

"All the rooms here are that," replied Mrs. Richards, and then she took her departure.

"Dress me in my most becoming neglige," said Aura, when her maid reappeared. "Take especial pains, Laura. Did Mrs. Richards send up a letter by you?"

"No, miss," replied Laura, letting down the soft masses of blonde hair. "Mrs. Richards is in the guest chambers."

"Well, she will bring it presently," said Aura.

But Mrs. Richards entirely forgot to bring the letter.

CHAPTER XI.

GREEK MEETS GREEK.

In due time Mr. Charles Durand arrived at his uncle's mansion, and was received by Aura with the most charming cordiality. He was installed in the best and most commodious suite of rooms, and Mrs. Richards went about her duties with an air of dignity, and a new sense of importance, as if she were ministering to the wants of an angel, and was not aware of the fact.

As for Charles Durand, he took things very calmly and quietly—in fact, calm and quiet seemed the normal condition of this fortunate young man. In appearance, he was not, as Aura remarked confidentially, to herself, "much to speak of." He was a very pale young man, and a very languid young man. His hair was very light, worn rather long, and parted in the middle. He wore a pair of straggling, light, and long Dundreary whiskers, but his upper lip was smooth-shaven. He had the air of a student, and, as he informed Aura, was just out of college. His father, he said, had intended him for a lawyer—but he didn't know what he would do; should put the matter to a vote when "Uncle James" came home. And then Aura had smiled strangely. The young man's admiration for Aura was unbounded. He seemed quite ready to fall down and become her slave.

It was the afternoon following that on which he had arrived at his uncle's door, and Mr. Durand and his fair "Cousin Aw—ra," as he rendered the pretty name, were seated by the library fire, coolly chatting. Rather, the lady sat and chatted; Mr. Charles Durand, who seemed quite ignorant of some of the proprieties, lounged and listened, and occasionally yawned in the face of his fair entertainer. It was the afternoon mentioned by Miss Annin, in her note, as favourable for shopping, and from time to time Aura glanced at her watch, as if waiting the approach of some hour, or event. Presently the thing expected occurred; the footman entered the room and announced, "Miss Annin."

"Show her in," said Miss Durand, promptly. And in another moment Nina Annin, richly-dressed, and smiling blandly, entered the room.

Aura Durand arose to welcome her with well-feigned cordiality; and, after one sharp glance of enquiry, not unmixed with derision, Miss Annin responded in kind. And then, "my friend, Miss Annin," was introduced to "my Cousin Charles"; and cousin Charles arose to the occasion, and drawled out several original and interesting remarks about the weather, etc. After a little, Miss Annin turned to Aura.

"Ain't you going shopping with me, Aura, dear?" she asked, reproachfully; "I am sure your cousin will excuse you."

"Of course I will," responded Charles, good-naturedly; "I wouldn't much mind going shopping myself, either."

"Would you really like to go, cousin?" asked Aura, with a little malicious twinkle of her eye. "In that case, I will go, of course."

"Then that is settled," said Nina Annin, composedly. "Mr. Durand, we are going to talk about dresses now."

The young man looked up in some alarm.

"Are you?" he said. "Then, I will not be missed. Aura, I want to go and answer Uncle James' letter. You have made me forget all about it, and he said, answer immediately." And Mr. Charles Durand arose slowly, stifled another yawn, and lounged out of the room.

"Good heavens! what manners!" ejaculated Nina Annin, looking after him. "Where did you pick him up, Aura?"

"I have not picked him up," retorted Miss Aura, with a marked change of tone. "He is papa's own nephew, and very wealthy."

"Oh! he's wealthy, is he? Well, he certainly needs some such redeeming qualification. But you should not so suddenly change your manner, my dear; suppose some one were to hear, from the next room for instance."

"Nobody can hear from the next room; the next room is locked."

Nevertheless she went over and flung wide the silken-lined glass door between the two rooms, and then crossed to the outer door and tried it.

"Nobody ever goes in there," she said, coming back to the library.

"It's papa's especial sanctum, and is always locked when he is away. Now, then," turning impatiently upon her visitor, "what do you want now? I am getting tired of this sort of thing."

"That's a pity—under the circumstances," retorted Miss Annin, serenely.

"Under the circumstances, it is," said Aura Durand, coming closer to Miss Annin. "The circumstances are a little in my favour at present."

"Are they?" With mocking incredulity.

"They are, indeed. I think I shall convince you that you had better not presume too much upon our past relations."

"Really! Perhaps you will favour me with your first argument?" mocked Miss Annin.

Aura Durand leaned toward her and whispered something in her ear, something that made her start and turn pale. Only for a moment, however, then she rallied, and gazed at Aura with a strange fixed look.

"You see, Miss Annin, that you are a little, a very little, in my power," said Aura Durand, triumphantly.

"I see," retorted Nina Annin, slowly, "that you have put a halter about your own neck."

Then she put her hand into her pocket, took from it a little purse, drew from thence a piece of dark cloth, and held it before the eyes of Aura Durand.

SICK WOMEN

are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., by letter, without fee or charge of any kind. Dr. Pierce is a specialist in the diseases of women. He has treated over half-a-million women for diseases of the womanly organs and ninety-eight out of every hundred women he has treated have been absolutely and perfectly cured. Every letter received by Dr. Pierce, is treated as a purely personal and private communication and its contents guarded as a sacred confidence. All answers to these letters are sent in sealed envelopes bearing upon them no printing or advertising whatever.

Write to the doctor. It is no use for sick women to write to a man unless he is a doctor. It is no use to "write to a woman" unless the woman is a doctor. Write to a woman about cookery or any branch of housekeeping, because she is a woman and knows. But it is of no use to write to a woman about disease unless she has a doctor's training and diploma. A woman who isn't a doctor is just as dangerous as a man who isn't a doctor, when she undertakes to treat disease.

There is no qualified woman physician so far as is known connected with any proprietary medicine put up for women. Even the "bearded woman," the man who advertises "write to a woman" is not a qualified physician and stands too much in fear of the law to claim that he is.

There is no other physician, male or female, who, like Dr. Pierce has a record of over thirty years, as chief consulting physician of a well known institution, making a specialty of the private treatment of women's diseases.

Write to the doctor—Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Women realize Dr. Pierce's ability when they read his great work the Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008-pages; sent free on receipt of stamps to defray cost of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-bound edition, or 50 stamps for cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Wasted Jokes.

"Dear me, Jason," said Mrs. Calliper to her husband as they strolled along the street, "what a giant it must have been from whose mouth that tooth was drawn!" And as she spoke she indicated a mock tooth, a foot in height, that was hanging in front of a dental establishment.

"Why, Cynthia," said the matter of fact Colonel Calliper, "that isn't a real tooth; that's just a made up tooth—made out of zinc and gilded."

"Why, I thought that came out of some giant's head," said Mrs. Calliper.

"No," said the colonel; "it's just made up."

Across the street there was a hat store with an emblem sign on the roof in the form of a silk hat with a crown as big as a barrel, but Mrs. Calliper made no joke on that. What was the use, for the colonel always invariably took her little jokes seriously.—New York Sun.

He was wasting away with a terrible Cough. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cured the Cough and restored his health.

It takes the life out of a mother to see her child—the idol of her heart—slipping away, succumbing to a cruel Cough that all the remedies she has tried won't cure.

Mrs. Jasper Singer of Burgessville, Ont., went through a trying experience and gladly gives an account of it for the benefit of Canadian mothers. This is what she says: "My little boy of a year and four months old took down with a heavy cold last fall. I tried different medicines but they did no good. He got so thin he was nothing but bones and hardly ate anything.

"I thought quite a few times I would lose him, till I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The first bottle helped him wonderfully and the third bottle completed the cure.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, appraising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 4th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 00
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,500 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low lying rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

TRENT CANAL COMPLETION

miles, the lock at Lovesick, with a rise of 3 feet is reached. There are five small dams here to retain the water on the reach above. The route then passes through Deer Bay for a distance of six miles to Buckhorn. Here there is a lock with nine feet of a lift and one dam. The three last mentioned locks are comparatively new, being only built about 12 years ago. They are all of splendid stone masonry. From Buckhorn the line passes through Buckhorn and Pigeon Lakes for a distance of 17 miles to Bobcaygeon. At Bobcaygeon there is a lock with 7 feet of a lift and one dam. The route then passes through Sturgeon Lake to Fenelon Falls, a distance of 15 miles, where there is a double lift lock of 26 feet rise and one dam. This lock is of stone masonry of the finest quality, and was built about 12 years ago. Cameron Lake is the next lake passed through to Rosedale, a distance of 4 miles. At Rosedale there is a lock with 3 feet of a lift and one dam. The route then passes through Balsam Lake, which is the summit level. From this level the lockage is downwards in both directions. From Rosedale across Balsam Lake is 6 miles to the east end of Section No. 1, Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division, which is at present under construction, with Mr. Andrew Onderdonk as contractor. There are no locks on Section No. 1, Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division, which is about 5½ miles in length. About the first mile of this section is a light rock cutting For the next three miles the material is for the most part swamp bog. This swamp will be flooded when the water will be at its normal level. In passing it might be mentioned that a very strong company has just been formed, of which our worthy Mayor is the prime mover, to convert the bog or peat of this swamp, of which there is an unlimited supply, not only here but elsewhere along the route, into fuel by compression. This fuel has been proved to be almost equal to anthracite coal for heating purposes. It will be sold for about half the price, and is most suitable for iron smelting and domestic purposes. This industry promises to grow to very large proportions at no distant day, and will furnish a large item of freight over the canal. For the next mile and a half there is a rock cutting running up to 25 feet in height, and again running to nothing.

At the end of this section it is proposed to construct another hydraulic lock with a 20 foot lift. We then enter Section No. 2, Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division. The next mile is through a rock cutting for about three-quarters of a mile. We then have a flooded reach for about 7 miles on which very little work is required to be done. The valley of the Talbot Creek, which is 200 to 300 feet wide and about 25 feet deep, is then made use of. It is flooded by throwing two dams across the lower end and raising the water nearly to the top of the banks. The route then passes across the country for 2½ miles, when Lake Simcoe is reached. There are five locks on this last reach. The route then passes through Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching for some miles. From Lake Couchiching to Georgian Bay two routes have been surveyed, but it has not yet been decided whether to take the cross country route, which is 13 1-2 miles, or to canalize the Severn and utilize it. There is a fall of 131 feet from the level of Lake Couchiching to Georgian Bay. The Severn River is a beautiful river, about 600 to 800 feet in width and very deep. It would make a most desirable route, but will somewhat increase the total length of the canal. Opposite the outlet of the canal into the Georgian Bay is the Harbour of Midland—one of the finest harbours on Lake Huron, and into which any of the largest steamers can enter.

WATER SUPPLY.

One of the most important questions in connection with a canal is the question of water supply. With regard to the question of the sufficiency of the water supply for the Trent Canal there is no doubt. A glance at the map of the water supply will show this at once. In fact a great part of the country about the source of the Trent is water, or can be made so by the building of a few more cheaply constructed dams. A large part of the land in this northern section of the country is very rough and of little use for anything else than to form reservoirs. The reservoirs are at present controlled by 51 dams, and have a capacity of 68 000 acres which will store 12 billion cubic ft. of water. The quantity of water required for lockage, if the canal is working to its full capacity night and day, would be 12 million cubic feet, so that making allowance of 50 per cent. for evaporation, percolation, &c., we still have left enough water to supply 10 such canals as the Trent.

As most of you know all the structures on the recent contracts on the Trent Canal such as locks, piers, culverts, etc., are built of concrete. The concrete is composed of Portland cement, sand, gravel and broken stone. Though several foreign brands of cement have been used most of the cement employed has been of Canadian make, and none better could be desired. All cement used is furnished to the construction by the Government. There is abundance of sand and gravel of the finest quality in the immediate vicinity. The concrete is mixed either by hand or machine.

Every car load of cement is thoroughly tested, about every tenth barrel, and none but the very best goes into the work. If the different ingredients of concrete are fireclass, and the mixing and putting in place are faithfully performed, there need be no apprehensions that concrete will not satisfactorily do all that can be expected of it, but if anyone of these features is lacking, failure is sure to follow. For the same reason stone will go to pieces if there is one bad ingredient in its composition.

Of course a very noticeable feature of the scheme is the great amount of lockage. This at first sight appears a great detriment in the working of the route. However, with the assistance of mechanical lift locks, the high lifts at present made by the ordinary lock, and the many advantages of electricity and compressed air which can be developed by waterpower this feature is not so formidable as at its first appearance. When we realise that vessels are elevated or locked by these mechanical lifts for a height of 60 or 70 feet in the same time that it takes to lock through an ordinary lock of 6 or 7 feet the amount of lockage is not then so great a bugbear, and if not too extensive will become a very favourable feature of the project. For with the advances in the application of electricity and compressed air to motive power a fleet of barges will be taken at one end of the canal and towed to the other by means of the power developed on the canal itself. In consequence, what once appeared a great drawback to the success of the scheme has become, if not a most favourable one, certainly not one that militates to a very great extent against the success of the scheme.

There is on the Trent Canal about 350 feet of lockage—600 feet up from Lake Ontario to Balsam Lake, which is the summit level, and 250 feet down from Balsam Lake to Lake Huron on Georgian Bay. This lockage is distributed as is shown on the profile of the route.

COMMERCIAL ASPECT.

Looking at the scheme from a commercial point of view and from the local benefits to be derived from its construction :—

The Trent Canal runs through the heart of Central Ontario. Taking a section of country ten miles wide along the shore line of the canal as being benefited by the construction, we have a district with a large population, natural resources and in every other way equal to the Province of New Brunswick. There is raised in the Trent district fourteen million bushels of grain per year. It cost at present about 8 to 9 cents a bushel to send grain from a central point on the Trent Canal, say Peterborough to Montreal, while grain is carried from Buffalo to New York, a distance of 500 miles, and an additional 150 miles on the Hudson river, through the Erie Canal, which for nearly 350 miles is a continuous canal, and in barges, not half the size of those that will be used on the Trent, for about 2½c, for a distance nearly double of that between Peterborough and Montreal. Surely under more favourable conditions it would make a saving in the transportation of at least two cents on a bushel on the grain raised in the Trent district. That is, it would make the 14,000,000 bushels of grain raised in the district $280,000 per year more valuable to the farmer. Again there is raised 300,000 tons of hay, which for shipment costs at least 50 cents per ton more than it should. If this transportation rate were lowered by say 50 cents per ton it would make a saving of $150,000 per year. There is used annually on the Trent district 50,000 tons of coal, which costs $1 per ton more than it costs in those localities where there is water communication. And so on ; cheapening the freight rate on all the exports and imports in the district. So that if the Trent route were completed there would be saved to the people of this district yearly a sum of over half a million dollars, which saving for ten years would build the whole canal, to say nothing of inestimable benefit to be derived from the cheap power for manufacturing and other purposes derived from the development of the unlimited water power along the route. It will make this immense district one of the most prosperous in the county, which will affect not only the immediate neighbourhood but the whole Dominion at large.

BARGE NAVIGATION.

Though great improvements have been made in railroad transportation and also in big vessels on the upper lakes, very little time and attention have been given to the development of barge navigation. This may have been partly for want of a favourable route on which to operate. It is safe to say that if the same favourable facility for barge navigation existed on the Erie Canal as exists on the Trent Canal, one would have seen the highest state of perfection reached in barge navigation and very little would have been heard of the needs or requirements of additional navigation facilities to New York. It is no criterion to say that because barge navigation on the Erie Canal under the present conditions, or in fact any conditions, is not the great success that one could wish for, that therefore barge navigation under all circumstances will be a failure. Let us look at the conditions that exist on the Erie. In the first place there is a law on the Statute books of the State of New York that forbids any company operating boats on the Erie Canal that has a capital of over $50,000. Imagine such a law being in existence respecting railroads or canals in this country. What kind of a business would be done? Would such a law if applied to the C. P. R. or the G. T. R. have a tendency to reduce the transportation rate or to raise it? When we consider the number of extra officials, employees, and the many other requirements that such a law would entail, is there any one who will say that under such circumstances it would compete with a large capitalized railroad company under one management. Still, this is precisely the state of things that exist on the Erie Canal to-day. Is it any wonder then that with four of the best managed and equipped lines of railway paralleling the canal that the traffic on the Erie Canal has fallen away? The great proportion of the traffic on the Erie Canal is still carried by the same method as it was when the canal was first constructed, namely by a team of mules with one or two barges in tow. The Cleveland Steel Barge Company of Cleveland tried to improve the system of barge navigation. They went to the expense of building a fleet of steel barges and propellors to run from Cleveland across Lake Erie to Buffalo, and through the Erie Canal to New York without breaking bulk. The experiment proved a great success, but they were compelled to discontinue it on account of the law limiting the capital stock of companies to $50,000.

A RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

Warden Hawthorne was sure that if the Government could witness the present meeting they would more fully realise the importance of the work, and make a substantial grant for its completion. He then moved the following resolution :

"Whereas universal opinion concedes that one of the great wants of Canada in the direction of the development of her resources and her commercial prosperity is the improvement of her transportation facilities ; and whereas the Trent Canal if completed will afford a waterway capable of facilitating and shortening in a very complete and satisfactory degree the important work of the movement of the grain crops of the great Northwest to the seaboard ; and whereas there has been expended upon the construction of the already completed sections an amount equivalent to more than one-half of the cost required to complete the entire work, which amount would be to a large extent wasted if the canal is not completed ; and whereas both past and present Governments by Ministerial pledge, as well as work undertaken were and are committed to the completion of the canal, we therefore resolve that this large and representative meeting call upon the Government to proceed with the work of the canal completion by placing under contract during the coming year the remaining portions of this great work, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Premier of the Dominion, and to the Honorable Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals.

"Be it further resolved, that the Minister of Railways and Canals be requested to urge the contractors already engaged on the work to proceed more energetically in the prosecution of their contracts."

The resolution was seconded by Mr. D. W. Dumble, who in a few remarks stated his opinion that those who were present must necessarily be impressed with the feasibility of the canal. He discouraged remarks to the effect that the canal was a political scheme. Those who spoke in this manner were doing an injustice to the town. Neither was it a local scheme but one of which nature had completed two-thirds for the benefit of the country at large. The Trent Canal would do for Canada what the Erie Canal did for the United States, lowering freight rates appreciably.

Toronto might oppose the construction of the canal, but when it did so it was from a purely selfish standpoint. If the positions of Toronto and Peterborough were changed, Toronto would laugh to scorn any attempts made to frustrate such a gigantic scheme as the construction of this work.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Col. Sam Hughes, of North Victoria, who was present, was asked for a few remarks and stated that he had the assurance of both Hon. Mr. Blair and Hon. Mr. Tarte that the early completion of the work might be looked for. In regard to the opposition of Toronto, the representatives of that city who had opposed the canal scheme on the floor of the House of Commons had done so without knowing anything whatever of the possibilities or merits of the works. He had afterwards taken the time to personally point out the need for the construction of such a waterway and now felt convinced that these gentlemen would bend their energies to construction of a canal tapping the Trent Valley at Lake Simcoe, rather than offering their futile opposition.

County Councillor J. B. Pearce, of Norwood, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers of the evening and to Mr. R. M. Roy, which was seconded by Mr. J. W. Garvin.

The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen.

THE TRENT CANAL.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong, of Peterborough, Advocates the Work Before the Simcoe County Council.

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

Barrie, Jan. 26.—Mr. S. R. Armstrong, Town Clerk, Peterborough, Secretary of the Trent Canal Association, addressed the County Council this evening in support of the completion of the canal. He said it would require a million dollars to complete the canal from Trenton to Georgian Bay, and two hundred thousand dollars to construct the canal through the twelve mile link from Lake Simcoe to Kirkfield. Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, had urged that a deputation wait on the Montreal Chamber of Commerce, with a view to getting support. Mr. Armstrong said that this Montreal influence would offset a opposition that Toronto and its Board of Trade are putting in against the canal. It had also been decided to wait on the Government again in this matter, and also to hold public meetings at different points along the canal. To meet these objects $1,500 would be required to pay expenses. The association proposed to raise this sum as follows :—Peterborough, $400; Victoria County, $-50; Simcoe County $350; Trenton, $200; Ontario County, $200.

In supporting the Trent Valley Canal question from a competitive point of view for Central Ontario, Councillor Jupp said that Simcoe County has expended nearly one million dollars to get railway competition, and still there is none.

Mr. Armstrong said that there is nothing in railway competition, and substantiated his statements by saying that while Peterborough has both Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific connection with Montreal, it costs three cents per bushel more to send wheat from Peterborough to Montreal than from Chicago to Montreal.

HOCKEY.

The Toronto News says :—A number of the Waterloo players were in the city yesterday, en route home. Tuesday night's game at Peterborough was a live topic of conversation. All agreed that Peterborough has a very fast lot of forwards and a rattling good defence, though Peterborough will surely meet defeat in Waterloo. Peterborough had all the luck, two of King's shots scoring on the merest flukes. Peterborough's narrow rink bothered Westwick, Hendry and Lifflton. Davidson is a fast, hard player, and did an immense amount of work. King is evidently in great form this season, judging from reports emanating from the defeated Waterloo players. His stick handling and foot work along the side boards were unsurpassed. Hollingshead's lifting is every bit as good as the work of Frank Stephen, the ex-Berlin cover-point, in this respect. The Waterloo defence was badly disorganized. Forrester at cover-point was out of his element entirely. Robson at point was altogether too slow for Billeghem and Davidson. Referee Gauthier was quite satisfactory. The Waterloo men were one and all pleased with their visit, and pronounce Peterborough's hospitality unexcelled.

TREATY TO BE SIGNED

Whatever the Outcome of the Reciprocity Negotiations.

CANADIAN MEMBERS ARE WEARY

They Have a Just Cause of Complaint Against the Americans for the Dilly-Dallying Policy Pursued—A Guess at the Probable Treaty by Detroit News Correspondent.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—The Herald publishes the following special from Washington, dated Jan. 27:

"Canada's members of the joint high commission have become somewhat irritated at the delay in reaching a final conclusion of the pending negotiations. When they returned to Washington, after the recess over the holidays, they said that in their belief a treaty would be signed by the 25th inst., or it would have been demonstrated that a treaty was impossible, but yesterday has come and gone, and the treaty is yet in the future. One of the visiting commissioners said to-day that, whatever the end of things with respect to the treaty, on Feb. 10 he and his colleagues must leave Washington.

"As has been stated, the only remaining matter in dispute is that of reciprocity in trade, and an agreement in that largely, if not altogether, depends upon the lumber tariff. Whatever may be the outcome of the negotiations respecting reciprocity, it is said that a treaty would be signed, including points as to which the commissioners have agreed."

A GUESS AT THE TREATY.

A Detroit Paper's Prognostication of the Commissioners' Decision.

Detroit, Jan. 28.—A Washington special to The Detroit News says: "The general treaty between the United States and Canada will be drawn and signed in less than one week after an agreement is reached on the lumber tariff," said a distinguished officer of the Government to The News this morning. According to this authority the treaty will be divided into six sections as follows:

1. Pelagic sealing, favorable to the United States.
2. Mining rights, favorable to the United States.
3. Boundaries, give and take.
4. Building warships on great lakes, favorable to the United States.
5. Reciprocity in trade, favorable to the United States, if an agreement is reached on the lumber question.
6. Atlantic fisheries favorable to the United States.

An agreement has been reached on every section except No. 5, that of reciprocity, and this will be settled as soon as the lumber question is fixed up.

CASE WAS ADJOURNED.

Mme. Henry Brings Action Against M. Reinach for Calling Her Late Husband a Traitor.

Paris, Jan. 28.—The trial of the action brought by Madame Henry, widow of the late Col. Henry, who committed suicide in prison here after confessing to having forged one of the documents in the Dreyfus case, against M. Joseph Reinach, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, and editor of The Republique Francaise, for libelling the deceased in declaring him a traitor, opened in the Assize Court yesterday.

Madame Henry was present in deep mourning. M. Labori, counsel for M. Reinach, immediately asked the court to postpone the trial until the Dreyfus enquiry was terminated. He declared the suit was merely the work of a political party reduced to the last extremities, and that it was merely a desperate attempt to influence the verdict of the Court of Cassation in its revision of the Dreyfus trial. The suit was ostensibly instituted to obtain satisfaction and honor to a woman and child.

M. Staubin, counsel for Madame Henry, replied, violently attacking M. Reinach. He insisted that all the witnesses were present, and that M. Reinach should give the proofs of his assertions, as he had promised to do.

The court decided to adjourn proceedings until the Court of Cassation shall have passed upon M. Laburi's appeal.

After several anti-Semite mobs had been driven from the neighborhood of the court, they reformed on the Place du Chatelet, howling, "Spit on the Jews," and cheering for the army. A stick fight followed, during which several persons were injured, and the rioters were again scattered.

M. Marcel-Habart, member of the Chamber of Deputies for the Rambouillet District of the Department of Seine-et-Oise, a friend of the late General Boulangor, was prominent in the disturbance.

AGONCILLO WATCHED.

The Insurgent General's Filipino Envoy to Washington Irritates Uncle Sam's Officials Daily—There May Be War.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Senator Thomas Platt of New York made a speech in the Senate yesterday, favoring the ratification of the Spanish-American treaty.

What Agoncillo Is Doing.

The officials at the State Department are mute respecting the treatment to be accorded to Agoncillo, the representative here of Aguinaldo, although it is known that he has been under surveillance ever since his arrival in this city, and that he has been in correspondence over the cables with his chief, generally through one of the Philippine Juntas in Hongkong, London and Paris, but whether any telegram has been actually intercepted cannot be learned.

Agoncille issued a statement yesterday denying a published report that the Government had intercepted despatches from him to Aguinaldo, in which he advised that the Philippines would have to fight for their independence, and that now was the time to act. He said: "The Philippine people have no wish and no purpose to fight against the Americans unless they are driven to it."

Agoncillo expressed the positive opinion that the cable report that the Filipino Congress had authorized a declaration of war was not correct.

Situation Regarded as Critical.

The situation at Manila is regarded as critical, of course, but the officials see no reason why they cannot command it for a time at least. General Otis reported yesterday that he could hold out beyond a doubt until his reinforcements arrived, and added that, as the news had reached Manila that there was every prospect that the peace treaty would soon be ratified by the United States Senate, the effect upon the native elements had been salutary.

ENGLISH EXPECT WAR.

The British Press Opinions Upon the Situation in the Philippines.

London, Jan. 28.—The papers here are impressed by the gravity of the position in the Philippines. They fear that the defiant attitude of the Filipinos renders war probable, if not imminent.

The Times advises the United States to be prepared for a serious struggle.

The Standard says that the proclamation of a republic by the Malolos Government is a gage of battle which the United States can hardly refuse to take up. The situation justifies great anxiety, as General Otis' force would not be equal to the demands if operations began in earnest. The Standard believes the Americans will face the Philippine difficulties with something less than the first flush of enthusiasm, but with a determination to succeed.

The Daily News is convinced that whatever happens the task of pacification must be a long one.

The Chronicle ridicules the new republic, which, it says, if it is allowed to run, will endure for about a month. The paper blames the United States for allowing the movement to gain such headway. It ascribes the growth of the movement to politics in the United States, which it deplores.

MEETING OF FRUIT GROWERS.

The San Jose Scale Discussed and Government Measures Endorsed.

St. Catharines, Jan. 28.—The Niagara Peninsula United Fruit Growers' Association held a special meeting yesterday to discuss matters relating to fruit-growing. The discussion almost entirely centered upon the operation of the San Jose Scale Act, and after full consideration of the question in all its aspects the association unanimously adopted a resolution approving of the action of the Governments at Ottawa and Toronto, and suggesting that in order to more rapidly complete the work of extermination which has been so well carried out by the inspectors under the Ontario Government the staff of inspectors be increased. The deliberations of the association were materially assisted by Dr. J. E. Fletcher, professor of entomology at the Dominion Experimental Farm; Mr. W. M. Orr and Mr. Geo. E. Fisher, who has had charge of the work of inspection under the Ontario Government.

Probably All Will Be Convicted.

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—The three Galicians who have been tried at Winnipeg for the Stuartburn murders to get $60 will in all probability be found guilty. Two of them have made confessions in court, which corroborate each other and implicate the third man as deeply as either of them.

SMALLPOX ON BOARD

Lake Superior Arrives With Second Lot of Doukhobors.

ONE DEATH ON THE VOYAGE.

Arrangements to Quarantine the Immigrants at Lawlor's Island—The Voyage Was Made in Four Days Less Than Time Taken by the Lake Huron—The Precautions Taken.

Halifax, Jan. 28.—Misfortune befell the second lot of Doukhobors on their way from Russia to Canada. The steamer Lake Superior, which got into port yesterday afternoon from Batoum with 2,000 of the Russian emigrants on board, reported an outbreak of smallpox on the voyage, from which one death occurred four days ago. The victim was buried at sea.

Dr. Carleton Jones, one of the health officers of the port, shouted from the deck of the Lake Superior: "Keep off; there is smallpox on board." Those on the little steamers needed no further caution. The noses of the craft were quickly turned citywards and without venturing any nearer to the disease-stricken ship, they made their way back to their docks. The Government steamer Argus had reached the Lake Superior shortly before this and placed Dr. Jones on the immigrant-laden vessel. Dr. McKay, chief health officer, who was also on the Argus, on returning to the city later, confirmed the report of the outbreak of smallpox.

The Lake Superior made a fairly good run from Batoum. Having sailed on the 22nd ult., she reached Halifax four days quicker than the Lake Huron, which brought the first detachment of Doukhobors. She displayed no quarantine flag as she entered the harbor, and it was then supposed that her big crowd of passengers were free from disease. The presence of smallpox on board will necessitate the detention of the entire lot here for at least three weeks.

Efforts were made to land some of the people at Lawlor's Island last night, but it was rather late when the steamer got into the wharf and it was decided to wait until the morning. The accommodations on the the island are not sufficient for such a large crowd, but 1,100 can be taken care of there in comfort. The remainder will have to stay on the Lake Superior for the present. The quarantine laws provide for the detention of passengers from a disease-infected ship for a period of at least 21 days, but if any further cases of smallpox develop the time must be extended.

As soon as Dr. McKay returned to the city after his first trip out to the steamer he secured a large supply of vaccine and took it down to quarantine for the purpose of inoculating those who need vaccination.

Dr. Montizambert, chief of the quarantine staff, remained on the Lake Superior with Dr. Jones. The latter will quarter himself on Lawlor's Island with the immigrants until all danger from the disease has disappeared, then the Doukhobors will be brought to Halifax and despatched to the west by rail direct.

The persons infected with smallpox and their families will be immediately isolated. The Lake Superior will undergo a complete fumigation as soon as her passengers are landed. So far as could be learned the health of the rest of the Doukhobors had been good on the voyage, although those who were on deck did not wear the happy, joyful appearance which had characterised their kinsmen on the Lake Huron.

They gave none of their usual salutation and no sound of singing or chanting was heard as the big steamer rolled at anchor.

A son of Count Leo Tolstoi is in charge.

Scarlatina Among the "Douks."

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—The first contingent of Doukhobors arrived here at 12.30 yesterday. The Dominion health officer boarded the train at Rat Portage, and discovered three cases of scarlatina. One patient was removed to the hospital. The immigrants are now housed in the sheds and the old Dufferin school.

ENGLAND BUYING U. S. HORSES.

Why Cannot Canadian Breeders Get Into This Game?

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The Record says: Chicago will supply Europe with 10,000 coach and bus horses. They are to come from different parts of Illinois and Iowa, and will be shipped at the rate of 200 head a week. The first consignment will leave to-day for London and Liverpool. Already there are several horsemen in the city who have come across the ocean to buy and take home some of our horses. Among them are: Hector Vervoak of London, Joseph Johnson of Belfast, Ireland; Gaston Roy of Paris, W. H. Lee of London, Burt Spaulding of London, John Dainty, who represents Joseph Hoar of London and Remi de Jonk, who comes to purchase several hundred bus horses to be used in Antwerp.

At the stock yards the exporters are jubilant over the big order. The prices paid, too, are satisfactory, ranging from $150 to $500 for best coach horses and $100 to $250 for bus horses.

Hardships Up North.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 28.—A steamboatman who arrived on the Tacoma from Circle City says at least 20 vessels will be broken up on the Yukon when the ice moves.

The steamer Rosalie arrived yesterday afternoon with the crew of the steamer St. Lawrence of Seattle. The crew lived for ten days on an island in the Hecate Straits, where their ship struck, before being rescued, and the only food they were able to get was clams and mussels.

COMMERCIAL ADVANTAGES OF THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Information Founded on Facts Gathered by Mr. John Carnegie.

A REDUCTION IN FREIGHT RATES IS GUARANTEED.

Substance of the Matter Which is to be Published in Pamphlet Form for the Purpose of Educating the Public up to the Necessity for Demanding the Completion of the Work on the Great Waterway.

The following paper was read by Mr. John Carnegie on Thursday evening, at the public meeting called for the purpose of rearousing interest in the matter of pushing the Trent Valley Canal forward to completion.

I apprehend that it is unnecessary to an intelligent discussion of the merits of the Trent route as a portion of a water-route between the seaboard at Montreal and the Western ports of Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior, that it should be preceded by any extended reference to what either nature or man has already done in this direction. One has only to glance at a map of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river to realize how near nature came to making the Eastern outlet of these lakes take across country to the Bay of Quinte, instead of following the circuituous and tempestuous route by way of the St. Clair and Lakes Erie and Ontario, or to learn that nature has placed ready to the hand of man, in an almost direct line between Midland and Trenton, a chain of land-locked lakes and rivers, which, at a moderate cost can be, and largely have been, made navigable for a class of vessels in every respect superior to those which have built up and still maintain the trade of the State and City of New York, to be filled with wonderment that such a route has not long ago been made to play an important part in attracting the trade of the great West to the St. Lawrence route and, than they have done, in developing the resources of the Trent Valley and the Georgian Bay sections of Ontario.

Several reasons have, no doubt, contributed to so surprising a result. In the first place I am disposed to attribute it to the lack of interest which the people of the district have, and are still taking in the project, and to the persistence with which other, though inferior schemes for bringing about the same results have been pushed to and kept at the front in all discussions of transportation questions; secondly, to the prominence which opponents have been permitted to give to the extra lockage which has to be overcome between its termini as compared with that by way of the Welland; and thirdly, to the feeling which has been so earnestly cultivated by the railway interests, viz.: That the days of small or even moderate sized waterways are a thing of the past. Let us briefly examine these objections.

Taking the last first, I assert that, wherever available, waterways have proved themselves not only the most economical means of transport for the bulkier and heavier articles of commerce, but the best and only practical regulators of freights; and the only mode of transport which defies the machinations of combines.

This may be deemed a bold and too sweeping assertion, but I believe it can be proved by the statements of those having to do with such matters and whose opinions are based upon practical experience.

For instance, a Mr. Thompson, who was brought all the way from Duluth to give evidence before the Georgian Bay and Ottawa Canal committee of the Senate last session, and who is claimed to be "one of the greatest authorities upon the waterways of America," is reported, among other things, as having said: "I have here a table compiled from the reports of the Chicago Board of Trade, showing the charges for carrying wheat from Chicago to New York by three different methods for a series of years: By rail, lake and rail, i.e., lake to Buffalo and rail to New York, and by lake, Erie canal and Hudson river.

"We find that between 1868 and 1885 the all-rail route decreased from 42.6c. to 14c. a bush., while the all-water route decreased from 25.3c. to 4.55c. per bushel. In other words, while there had been a reduction of two-thirds in the rail rates, there had been a reduction of four-fifths in the all-water route. Since 1885 there have been no radical or marked changes.

"Let us now find the ultimate limit of competition in order to discover the cheapest known form of transportation.

"A careful series of experiments conducted on the G.T.R. here in Canada some years ago showed that the actual net cost of transportation, that is, exclusive of interest on bonds, etc., was half a cent per ton per mile. The average net cost in 1896 on the railroads of the United States was somewhat larger than that, being nearly six mills per mile.

"But we are not through with these interesting matters. I find on the other side of the line that there has been sometimes a question in the minds of some of us whether the people run the railroads or the railroads run the people. I do not know, of course, whether you have any such question here; I merely wish to point out the fact that we have found that water competition is the most powerful possible regulator of railway rates, which can be conceived, far exceeding in its power and operations any of the edicts of legislative bodies. For instance, Mr. Fink, who was Railway Commissioner, points out that a few sailing vessels at Chicago, in connection with a few canal boats on the Erie canal, have been able during the season of navigation to fix the rates for the transportation of grain from Chicago to New York. Does it stop there? No! Here are the Lake Shore and the New York Central, which practically form a continuous line which parallels the waterway from Chicago to New York. They are compelled to make their rates under stress of water competition. Competing roads could not impose higher rates than those which prevail on the Lake Shore and Michigan Central and New York Central. So you follow it on to lines further south, down to the Gulf of Mexico. There rates are fixed or materially modified during the season of navigation by the competition of a few boats on the great lakes and a few canal boats on the Erie canal."

Taken from the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, 1897-8: "She (N. Y.) has a powerful governor of rates of freight in her superb (!) system of canals to which the railroads admit themselves to be subject when the rates of freight are in question."

After giving a comparison of a number of reductions in rates of freight it is stated that: "These diminutions are forced on the railroads by the rates of the water transportation by lakes and Erie canal, and that the rates of the latter are even felt when the canals are closed—for many shippers will store and keep their produce for the more favorable rate sure to prevail when navigation is open."

On March 3rd, 1898, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Resolved, that this Chamber reiterates its expressed opinion of the very great value which the enlargement of the Erie canal will have to this port, this State and the entire Western States and prays that by wise and judicious action the same may be speedily, economically and honestly undertaken and carried out."

On March 24th last the Committee on Internal Trade and Improvement submitted a report recommending: "That the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York recommend and urge the passage by the Legislature of the State of New York of the concurrent resolution introduced by Senator Pavey, permitting the State of New York to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the canals or either of them to the United States upon such terms as may be mutually agreed upon, and upon the express condition that the United States shall improve, maintain and operate the same as a free public waterway. And in case of failure by the United States so to do, that the said canals or either of them, together with all improvements made thereon, shall revert to and again become the property of the State of New York."

This recommendation called forth two speeches, from which the following are taken:

Mr. McIntyre, who stated he had been in the forwarding business for 22 years, said: "In my opinion there is no question so important to the commerce of New York as this canal question. I personally would like to see the $7,000,000 appropriation passed this session, and the canal improved, as was intended when we voted for the appropriation of $9,000,000. I have been at Albany on the matter every week for the last month urging them to pass it, and doing everything that could be done to obtain legislation that would make it possible to complete what we call the 400-ton barge canal. Such a canal would be of enormous benefit to us, and would do almost what we want."

Mr. Hewitt in opposing the report said: "I have no controversy with the proposition of the gentlemen who urge that the canal should be enlarged and made a waterway adequate to the wants of the great West and the needs of the city of New York. There never has been an hour since the canal was undertaken when the people of the State of New York were not in favor of bringing up the canal to the largest limits of possibility with the water and the grades which can be applied on its present route. We understand that the canal is the key to the commerce of this country. We hold the key and we shall hold it to the end of time, and nothing that may be done in the way of the construction of new routes to the Gulf, or to the Atlantic, can by any possibility interfere with the ability of the State of New York to take care of itself by the enlargement of the canal. That is our privilege, that is our right, that is our duty. When you turn this right and privilege and duty over to Congress in what shape will it be found? The appropriation for the maintenance of the canal must be made in the River and Harbor Bill. If by any possibility the Bill should fail for a single year there would be no money to maintain the canal as a free highway. Where is your remedy? What are you going to do about it? And more than that, if the proposition is made for Congress to enlarge the canal, or for its annual maintenance, you ask the gentlemen who, by your own confession, are profiting by the present condition of the canal, and by its inefficiency to do the work, you ask them to vote the money of the United States to build up the port of New York, and to help the merchants and shipping of New York, and how much sympathy are you going to get from these rival cities on the Gulf or on the Atlantic shore?"

On motion the report was laid on the table and the following preamble and resolution was unanimously carried:

"Whereas the estimate has been made by the State engineer and surveyor that in order to complete the improvement of the State canals the sum of $7,000,000 is required, and whereas it has been recommended by the Governor of the State in his annual message that any further sum to be expended should first receive the people's sanction, and in accordance with such recommendations, a Bill has been introduced into both Senate and Assembly with this purpose in view, which if not immediately passed will cause an indefinite postponement of an improvement in the great waterway of the State, essential to the prosperity of New York; therefore, be it resolved: That the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York urges upon the Governor and Legislature the immediate passage of the Bill known as the Cantor-Hill Bill, which provides for the submission during the autumn of 1898 of the question whether the State shall or shall not be bonded for the sum of $7,000,000 in order to complete the improvements of the State canals." And thus bring up New York State's present expenditure on this waterway to $16,000,000.

From the annual report of Buffalo Merchants' Exchange for 1897:

"The transportation problem is ever with us, and is indeed the problem of the age, inasmuch as the margin of profits in all kinds of business is cut to the vanishing point. It is evident that a slight discrimination in freight rates makes or unmakes any business, and makes or unmakes any city, town or state. . . It is a matter of regret that the recent appropriation for the enlargement and improvement of the Erie canal has been found to be insufficient for the undertaking and that a delay in its final completion is imminent. Whatever sum is found necessary to complete the work and bring the canal up to its highest state of efficiency should, and no doubt will, be promptly voted by the people, as was the original sum, and this exchange will as ever be found the staunch advocate of such a measure."

Evidently the business men of the State of New York realize and are ready to back up their opinions with their cash, that waterways are not only not a thing of the past, as freight carriers, but that the trade of the great city and port of New York is largely if not altogether dependent upon such a pigmy route as that of the Erie canal. That such is the case is the best possible evidence that in pursuing the ignis fatuus of deep water navigation we have been grasping at the shadow, while New York has and is carrying off the bones. Instead of working against nature let us work with it.

My next assertion is: That when completed the Trent route will open up between the great lakes and tide-water at Montreal a 1,000-mile waterway which concentrates within either one of the two great divisions into which nature has divided it all the advantages of a deep water navigation or all of the advantages of a land-locked navigation without any of the disadvantages which are inherent to any combination of the two, and possessing at the junction of those two divisions a magnificently sheltered basin of about 20 miles in length, yet easy of access by the largest vessels in all weathers, viz., Midland harbor.

Between Midland and Western ports, as compared with Buffalo or Port Colborne, there is a saving of about 375 miles, and of two days in the time required to make a round trip to Chicago, and an entire avoidance of the STELLARTON, N.S.—James R. Murray, a well known violinist, of this place, who has traveled extensively throughout the Provinces, makes this statement:

"I was running down in health and my weight fell off from 175 to 150 pounds. Prescriptions did me but little good. My trouble was called nervous dyspepsia. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking five bottles I was greatly benefited. I feel as well now as ever in my life, and have increased in flesh so that I now weigh 177 pounds. I am well known in this part of the country, having followed my profession, that of a violin musician for the last 26 years. I gladly tell my friends what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Before I began taking the medicine I did not have any ambition, but now all is changed and my dyspeptic trouble perfectly cured." JAMES R. MURRAY.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. COMMERCIAL ADVANTAGES OF TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

dangers to be encountered between Lake Huron and the East end of Lake Erie, thus enabling vessel owners to deliver cargoes at Midland at or below the then prevailing rates to Buffalo, notwithstanding the substantial advantage which Buffalo offers over Midland in the shape of return freights.

As further evidence of the substantial advantage which Midland offers as a transhipping point, mention may be made of the fact that the G. T.R. has brought through that port during the past season nearly 6,000,000 bushels of grain, and that there has just been completed at the same point a million-bushel elevator, trebling the elevator capacity of the port, and that it was selected as a transhipping point for large shipments of iron from Chicago destined for distribution in Ontario and New Brunswick, but chiefly for Belfast, Ireland. During the season of 1898, too, the largest single tonnage ever carried on the lakes was delivered at Midland and exceeding by 500 tons the largest tonnage delivered at Buffalo during the same season.

Coming now to that portion of these three water routes, eastward from Midland, or Buffalo, or Port Colborne, as the case may be, we have Midland fifty miles nearer tide-water at Montreal than Buffalo is to New York. Of their general character suffice it to say that in the one case we have an almost continuous line of land-locked lake and river navigation capable of passing barges carrying up to 450 tons as freely between Midland and Montreal as can now be done between Kingston and Montreal, or on the Hudson river, at a speed only limited by the capabilities of the power propelling them. While, on the other route, between Buffalo and New York, there is 350 miles of artificial navigation upon which boats, at present, carrying not more than 240 tons can be passed at a speed not exceeding three and one-half miles per hour, and for a portion of the season surrounded by water at a temperature calculated to injure grain not in prime condition. On this last route, with all its drawbacks, wheat has been carried 500 miles for 1.9 cents per bushel, and the average of the two last seasons was but 2.8 cents, not quite 94 cents per ton, or 19-100 of a cent per ton per mile, as compared with the 50-100 per mile per ton, said to be a non-paying railway rate by Mr. Thompson, of Duluth. But this is not all. An estimate based on figures supplied by a Capt. Campbell, who was the owner and operator of a steam barge and three consorts on the Erie canal, goes to show conclusively that such a plant could, without a cent's revenue from return freights, carry wheat from Midland to Montreal at 1 3-4 cents per bushel and have a fair return for the capital invested, which would make it possible to carry wheat from Chicago or Fort William via Midland for three cents per bushel.

Turning now to the Welland route we find that for some reason or other the rates charged for transport eastward from Lake Erie is out of all proportion to those prevailing at the same time either either west of that point or eastward to New York—the distance being only 375 miles to Montreal as compared with 500 to New York.

Why is this? May it not be because the Canadian route between the points named is neither one thing or another from end to end, but is made up of a mixture of tempestuous lake navigagation and canalized river and canal navigation, rendering necessary the employment of a class of sea-going craft, where expensiveness is of no more earning power on portions of the route than an Erie canal barge would be as a wage earner on lakes Ontario or Erie. And, secondly, because the location and surroundings of the Welland route are such as to practically deprive it of the advantages of the return freights so largely enjoyed by the Erie route, and which it is believed would rapidly accrue to and be developed by the Trent route.

My next assertion is that in no other way can the Dominion for the same expenditure do so much to promote its own welfare as by the immediate completion of this work from end to end, whether its accomplishment be viewed as the opening up of another waterway to the eastward or as a means of developing the internal resources of Central Ontario. When it is remembered that this waterway is not limited to a direct line of navigation between Trenton and Midland but has, in addition, innumerable navigable branches extending out from it in all directions, and that the barges to be used upon it can proceed as far west along the eastern shore of the Georgian Bay as Sault Ste. Marie, it will easily be understood how a route of 200 miles in length has a navigable shore line of at least 1,000 miles, and will have within ten miles of its wharves an area of over 6,000,000 acres—an area greater than that of some of our provinces.

With regard to the resources and requirements of this large district Mr. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, estimated that from two to four million tons of forest products alone can be taken from each of some dozen of townships were this outlet provided for their transport, and the taking out and manufacture of which would call for the employment of an immense amount of labor for years to come.

While Mr. Rathbun, of Deseronto, expresses the opinion that if the work can be accomplished for an expenditure of $10,000,000 it would not be a bad investment for the general interests of the country; that it would be a cheap way of getting coal back through the district; that it would regulate to a certain extent the freight charges on all the grain raised through the section; that it would open up a large field for individual enterprise in a small way; and that it would attract great numbers of tourists from the other side, who would make use of it as a means of getting to the back lakes with yachts, pleasure boats, etc., who would, before many years, expend hundreds of thousands of dollars in the country every year; that there is a large section in that country that is not now and never will be accessible to railways, and that in his opinion the canal will bring more facilities for transportation to a larger area of country than would be the case if the same amount that would be required for the completion of the canal were expended in extending the railways, no matter where you might locate them. He also attaches great importance to the influence which the canal would exert as a Government work in regulating the freights—there being periods or occasions when all the means of transportation combined are insufficient to meet the demands. And to which Mr. Rathbun might have added that at such times non-competing points have always to stand aside until the competing points are served.

Here, too, in this district along the shores of this waterway we have the county towns of Peterborough, Lindsay and Barrie, the towns of Port Perry and Orillia, and the incorporated villages of Hastings, Ashburnham, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Beaverton and Holland Landing, and all of which will have water communication with each other as soon as the two divisions now under way are completed, a line of water communication of about 180 miles in length, which only requires the construction of about eleven miles of canal and the canalization of about eight miles of river to give it water connection with Montreal, and the construction of about another 18 1-2 miles of canal to complete it to the Georgian Bay. What such a connection with Montreal would mean to the people of the whole district and more especially to its mercantile and manufacturing interests may be imagined when it is stated that it now costs fifty per cent more to carry a bushel of wheat from any of our county towns to Montreal than it does from Chicago to the same point, and more than three times what it does from Buffalo to points on the canal or to New York; that in 1897 coarse freights were carried from New York to Buffalo and intermediate points at from 40c. to 70c. per ton, and general merchandise at from 50c. to $1 per ton, while it now costs $2 a ton to get pig iron from Montearl to Peterborough. Taking these facts in conjunction with the figures supplied by Capt. Campbell it is not too much to predict that the local effect of opening up water communication with Montreal would be to reduce present rates of freight to and from that point by from 50 to 75 per cent. The Hon. John Haggart, ex-Minister of Railways and Canals, stated in the House of Commons that the construction of the Tay canal—a canal only six miles long connecting the town of Perth with the Rideau navigation—had saved the merchants and manufacturers of that town $30,000 per annum in the way of freights. If such was the effect in a town already only six miles distant from a line of water-communication with Montreal, what may not be expected in our own case. Take a manufacturer using only a thousand tons of iron or other raw material during the year, a reduction of some $1 a ton on his freights would mean $1,000 a year and would be equivalent to a substantial bonus from the corporation.

Again, although this internal waterway is blockaded at both ends, so as to thus far effectually shut it off from outside connections, and place its whole trade under the control of a single railway corporation, yet the local trade was sufficiently developed in 1896 to give employment to thirty-five steamers, having an aggregate tonnage of 69,333, handling during the season 20,658 tons of forest products, and carrying 21,186 passengers—equal to 2-5 or 40 per cent. of the total tons of freight and nearly 1-5 or 18 per cent. of the total number of passengers carried by the Prince Edward Island Railway during the twelve months of 1896-7—a railway which has cost the country no less a sum than $3,750,000, and which cost the country in 1896-7, over and above the entire revenue, $87,046 for working expenses!

If under past conditions such progress has been made what may not be expected when both outlets are completed, and vessels plying both on these waters and on those with which connection can be had, are enabled to thus turn their attention to either the local or through traffic, just as one or the other may be most profitable to them for the time being.

It must be remembered that the requirements of the grain trade are fluctuating, both as between different seasons and between different periods of the same season, and that as a consequence vessels suited to and plying on the Midland route will have a decided advantage over those adapted to and catering only for the carriage of a single commodity. This advantage, combined with the back freights which must come to them in an ever increasing ratio as the country traversed by them develops, and its direct connection with the port of Montreal, cannot fail to afford them constant employment and thus enable their owners to quote lower rates for the carriage of all kinds of freight than would otherwise be possible to do.

I observe that both Toronto and Montreal aspire to becoming the Buffalo of the St. Lawrence route. Montreal may become so, but if she does it will only be by bringing the Trent water route up to such a state of perfection that the combined rates of freight between western points and her own harbor will not exceed those prevailing at the same time from the same points to Buffalo.

So far, however, as Toronto is concerned I cannot see how she can ever become the Buffalo of Canada. Buffalo is the eastern terminus of what may now be called the middle sized navigation, while Toronto is not and never can become the terminus of any line of water communication. If vessels from the west come through the Welland canal they are not going to stop midway down Lake Ontario to transfer their cargo to another lake vessel at Toronto, but will certainly carry it on to Kingston if not to Montreal. As for the Toronto-Georgian Bay scheme it is very nearly on a par with the one last mentioned. Granted, as I do freely grant, that the Georgian Bay ports, and especially Midland, are the proper calling places for the grain trade of the West, yet, if it at any of these points takes to the rails it will stay there until it reaches its destination, wherever that may be on this side of the Atlantic, whether it go by the longer route by way of Toronto or by the shorter, by way of Midland and Peterborough. Toronto has already made an attempt to make the trade stream run up hill, and if she persists in the present one she will meet with as signal a failure as she did with her narrow gauge railway some years ago, whereby she hoped to make Toronto the transhipping point of the whole of the Province of Ontario.

The sooner Toronto realizes that she is not the whole province, and that no cry of Ontario! Ontario! is going to hoodwink the people of the Midland district into supporting schemes which, as Mr. Rathbun points out, will prove inadequate for our purposes.

And particularly that the route from the great lakes to the seaboard is not by way of Toronto, but to Midland and thence by either rail or water, and in all probability very soon by both, to Montreal is the natural one the better it will be for all concerned.

If Toronto's citizens, instead of running away to James Bay for trade, would look nearer home and inform themselves as to the resources and character of the country through which a waterway of 180 miles may be said to be already completed and commencing almost at their own doors (Barrie) they would not be long in realizing that the trade of this district is of infinitely more value than the simple transhipping of several millions of bushels of grain, and that although they may as well make up their minds first as last to the loss of a considerable portion of its present and prospective trade, yet the increased population which will speedily find a home within its borders, combined with that of those already there, will so increase its trade as to leave a larger and more valuable portion than that which they now enjoy for them, i.e., if their city can serve the people of the Midland district as well as those of Montreal.

Moreover, it should be remembered that Midland is not to-day so much further from Toronto by rail than Collingwood, that the difference in mileage is not largely, if not altogether, counter-balanced by the more favorable grades of the longer line. While Midland has already proved itself the best distributing point for commodities coming from the west and destined for distribution throughout western as well as Eastern Ontario.

And, lastly, but by no means least, we have the recent reply of General Manager Hayes of the Grand Trunk to a Meaford delegation that the Grand Trunk had centered its energies on the development of the short route from Midland to Montreal by way of Peterborough, and would not enter upon any policy which would divert the North-West grain trade from this route. Taking this statement in conjunction with the recent erection of an up-to-date million-bushel elevator at Midland, to be followed by others here and in Glasgow, Scotland, proves that faith in the Trent valley as the natural route between the east and west is at last beginning to bear fruit.

As it was with the State of New York, so will it be with midland-Ontario, if our people will only have faith and stand shoulder to shoulder in demanding that this work shall be proceeded with without further delay.

HALE OLD AGE.

Greatest enemy to the enjoyment of a hearty, comfortable old age is—Backache.

Active bustling life of this present generation puts too heavy a strain on the kidneys. The delicate filters of the blood were never intended to do such hard work—can't do it very often without help.

Backache is simply the cry of overworked kidneys for help in throwing off the poisons of the system.

If they don't get it there's trouble—serious trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills strengthen weak kidneys—Help them to keep the blood pure and the system strong and vigorous.

Help people to grow old slowly and comfortably—Are doing it every day.

MR. THOS. ASH, an old gentleman, well-known in Renfrew, Ont., made the following statement: "I am 72 years of age, and have been troubled for a number of years with pains across my back. In fact I was racked in every joint.

When I would stoop over it seemed to give agonizing pain to straighten up. I was so bad that I could scarcely walk. I have taken many kinds of medicines, but got nothing to help me.

Being recommended to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at Clark's drug store and commenced their use. After taking three doses I noticed a great change for the better, which I am glad to say has since continued, and I can now get around as smart as a cricket.

I can split my own wood, and am, in fact, just like a new man altogether. My friends remark it, and I am glad to tell them that the credit for this remarkable change is all due to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont. Remember the name Doan's, and refuse all others.

Resolution of Condolence.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of St. Peter's Cathedral held yesterday afternoon, the following resolution was passed: "Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to call to his eternal reward Michael Herbert, son of Mrs. M. A Chance for the Workingmen.

The Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Savings Society, the annual meeting of which was held a short time ago, is in an excellent condition financially, and in its present prosperous state offers an excellent investment for all workingmen who can lay by three or four dollars a month by taking shares in the Association. Shares costs $1 per month and members have the privilege of securing loans from the Society's funds, thus enabling them to own their own home or improve the one that they now own. Many men of comparatively small incomes could be the owners of their homes by investing what they now pay out monthly for rents, in the Building and Savings Society. This is entirely a local organization with no big salaries or expensive offices to maintain, and therefore the very best results are secured. The Society has the money best results are secured. The Society has the money best handy on hand and is sure to continue its steady growth and satisfactory prosperity under the careful management of its present officers. The Society meets on the second Monday every month in the James Stevenson's office, Water street.

MANY MASQUERADERS WERE ON THE ICE.

THE FORESTERS CARNIVAL WAS A HUGE SUCCESS.

The Event Takes Precedence Over any of the Same Nature Held in Many Years—Costumes Evinced Great Taste.

The most successful carnival held for years past was that under the auspices of Court Peterborough, No. 28, Canadian Order of Foresters, Friday night. In point of attendance, the number and variety of handsome costumes, and the brilliancy and splendor of the scene, it surpassed its predecessors for many seasons back, and the committee in charge are to be congratulated on the successful termination of the event. No pains were spared to make the rink attractive. The galleries and their supports and the space overhead were gay with festoons, flags, bunting, mottoes, etc. There was a great variety of mottoes, and the effect of the decorations was charming and exceedingly pleasing to the eye.

The pageant on the ice was well worth seeing; there was such a variety of costumes, rich and plain, gorgeous and humble, fantastic and sombre, representing almost every character and nation on earth, and a great many not known, that the eye never tired of watching the kaleidoscopic scene.

The music by the 57th Battalion Band was one of the features of the evening, and lent added charm to the occasion.

The following is a list of those who appeared in costume:

NOTES.

The judges of the costumers were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Mr. and Mrs. John Crane, and they performed their duties in a very capable manner. Their decisions gave satisfaction in every particular.

Mr. R. M. Roy acted as judge in the races and was assisted by the Committee of Management.

In the mile championship race there were three entries, Messrs. H. Bell and E. Smith, town, and W. Andrews, of Keene. It was Bell's race from the start.

It was rumoured during the evening that young Pearce, Norwood's fast skater, and Mr. Dusty, of Cannington, who is out for the championship of Ontario, would enter the mile race, but they failed to show up.

The ice was in excellent condition last evening, and Mr. A. McIntosh was congratulated on all sides.

Considerable interest was manifested in the partner's race. Mr. Harry Bell's partner, Miss F. Scott, met with several mishaps on the ice and retired before the race was finished.

The order at the rink last evening was excellent.

In the curling competition for the brooms the result was as follows:

K. Hall,		J. Martin,
A. St. A. Smith,		Geo. Kerr,
H. R. H. Keener,		R. Kerr,
S. Ray, skip	10	J. H. Consal, skip	17

Mr. R M. Roy has secured a beautiful background for the group photo of the prize winners in costume as they appeared at the rink, which will be presented to the Historical Society. It is the interior of the rink with the decorations as they appeared last evening. The picture was taken from the north end of the building, and Mr. Roy has obtained an excellent view of the whole interior. Mr. Roy states that not only prize winners are requested to sit for this group photo, but also those who appeared in rich costumes.

CURLIANA.

Thursday, in the group 7 competition at the Victoria rink, Toronto, the Peterborough Thistles in the morning defeated the Prospect Parks, but they were in turn beaten by the Caledonians in the afternoon. During the morning the ice was soft, and the visitors pulled away from the Prospect Park men, winning the match by 35 shots.

When the Caledonians met the winners of the morning the ice was still softer, and towards evening it was pretty tough curling.

HOCKEY.

A team went down to Campbellford last evening and played a tie game with the seven of that place. The Peterborough team was composed as follows: Goal, Comstock; point, J. McCabe; cover point, F. O'Connor; forwards, W. Ackerman, V. McWilliams, W. Shepherd and Harry King. The score was 5-5.

Lindsay has won out the Intermediate round from Norwood.

Both the Senior and Junior teams play out of town games on Monday, and the boys are confident of winning both matches. The Seniors go to Waterloo, and in order to win the series the team of that place has to beat the Peterboroughs by four goals. This is an utter impossibility, and many assert their belief that the Peterboroughs will win on Waterloo ice. It is in the expectation of seeing them do this, that a crowd of supporters will go to Waterloo on Monday. The confidence in the Colts is supreme. They beat the Frontenacs here by six goals, and they will go to Kingston and beat them even worse.

The Colts skate to-night from 7 00 until 7 30, and the seniors from then until 8.00 p.m.

ECONOMY.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Please insert the following resolution passed by the Alvinston Village Council: "That A. J. Trolley be appointed chief constable, truant officer, caretaker of cemetery, overseer of highways, janitor, sanitary inspector, cleaning streets and crossings, cutting weeds, collector of poll tax and dog tax, ringing curfew bell and cleaning snow opposite fire hall, at a salary of $10."

This is a lesson in economy from which it is to be hoped our new Board of Aldermen will take example. If such a course were followed here there would be more funds to devote to the improvement of the streets and sidewalks, which would now disgrace Warsaw or Apsley.

ADDRESSES BY LAYMEN.

In St. John's and All Saint's Churches To-morrow Morning and Evening.

To-morrow will be an interesting Sunday at St. John's and All Saint's churches. Instead of sermons two prominent barristers of Toronto will give missionary addresses both morning and evening. Frank E. Hodgins, E-q, will speak at St. John's in the morning at 11, and in All Saint's at 7 p.m. D. W. Saunders, Esq., will speak at All Saint's in the morning, and at St. John's in the evening. Both gentlemen will drive to St. Mark's, Otonabee, in the afternoon, so Sunday will be an active day for them. This is an outcome of a laymen's aggressive movement in the diocese to spread information and take an active part in the work; and their enterprise has met with the most gratifying results in every parish visited.

Peterborough is particularly favoured in the delegates chosen to visit this important parish. They are two strong and successful men, to whom it will be a pleasure to listen. Mr. Hodgins is one of the most prominent and active representatives in the Synod and a well-known Toronto man. D. W. Saunders' name will be familiar to every cricketer, he being one of Canada's leading exponents of this manly sport, and a captain of the International eleven.

PERSONAL

Rev. W. L. Armitage has returned from Kingcardine, where he has been spending the last week.

Miss Sullivan, of Toronto, was in town for a few days, attending the funeral of her nephew, the late Herbie McFadden.

A slight improvement is noticeable this morning in Stanley Bradd's condition. His many friends will be pleased to know that he has regained consciousness.

Rev. Joseph Fennell, late Rector of Georgetown, Ont., and Mrs. Fennell, arrived in town to-day, and are the guests of Mr. Robert Fair, Dickson street.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, has returned home after interviewing the County Councils of Ontario, Victoria and Simcoe in the interests of the Trent Valley Canal.

The Toronto Globe says:—Miss Burns and Miss Lillian Burns were the hostesses at a cunningly designed and very enjoyable cotillion given on Wednesday evening at their home on Homewood avenue, in honour of their charming guest, Miss Kate Hall, of Peterborough. The usual conditions of a successful dance were present, together with an originality in the conception and an ingenuity in the development of a distinctly novel evening, which added greatly to the pleasure of the thirty gay young people who participated in it.

THE DEPUTY MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE

ADDRESSES A LARGE GATHERING OF THE FARMERS OF SMITH.

Under the Auspices of the Central Smith Dairy Company—The Gospel of Cheese and Butter Expounded—Successful Results of the Factory's Operations.

Perhaps no more striking proof of the thrifty, intelligent and business-like methods of the prosperous farmers of the township of Smith could be adduced than was in evidence at the overflow meeting held on Friday evening, in the Temperance Hall, 4th line, under the auspices of the Central Smith Dairy Company. The hearty unanimity and enthusiasm of the gathering over the highly successful results of their factory, was one of the most pleasant features of the gathering, as was also the sociability and good feeling which characterized the members of the different families of farmers present.

There were nearly three hundred persons present, composed of the farmers, farmers' wives, and farmers' sons and daughters, living within a radius of six miles of this growing cheese and butter factory. The severity of the weather had not been considered at all in the matter; for it was quite apparent—judging by the warmth and zeal of the people—that the hall would have been just as tightly packed had the thermometer registered twenty degrees below zero.

Lays and re-lays of tables—loaded with a bountiful supply of refreshments of a tempting and toothsome nature—were spread from six o'clock until nine. The ladies came in for much well-merited praise for the manner in which they had discharged that part of their duty; and when ample justice had been done the tables were removed and the hall re-seated for the practical business of the evening.

Mr. George Fitzgerald, one of the popular representatives in the county council for this division, was unanimously voted to the chair, and discharged his duties in his usual pleasing manner—and "above board."

The programme for the evening was a lengthy one. Much interest had been taken in the meeting by the young people of the neighbourhood, who had been preparing for the event by arranging an interesting number of musical and literary selections for the occasion—a list of which will be found below.

The chief interest, however, was centered in the address to be delivered by Prof. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who had been invited by Mr. J. R. Stratton, Esq., M.P.P., to be present at the meeting.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

The chairman, after an opening musical selection, thanked the meeting for the pleasure it afforded him in occupying the chair. He had had a good many dealings with the Central Smith Cheese Factory, and was very glad to say that his relations with the company were all of the most satisfactory character. He had enjoyed the pleasure of having shipped to Montreal all the butter they had made, and was glad to tell them that the reports from Montreal were all of the flattering kind. As they had a lengthy programme before them he would not take up their time with any further remarks. He would like to see them turn the meeting into an old-fashioned camp meeting and all tell their experience on the milk question. (Laughter.) He therefore would reserve the rest of his remarks until the "experience meeting. (Laughter and applause.)

PRESIDENT YOUNG'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Andrew Young, president of the company, said he was glad to welcome so many of his neighbours and friends. He referred to their dairy building and plant, and remarked that it had not been put there for fun. He had been one of the first to advocate these improvements, although some had thought he was going too far. But the result had exceeded their expectations. Since the middle of November up to date their factory had made 9,178 pounds of butter. The amount sold and what was now on hand amounted to the round sum of $1,773.43. Mr. Young referred to the progressiveness of the present age, and comparing it with some of the old ways of working in days gone by, showed the advancement that was being made. "If," said the speaker, "anyone had said ten years ago that they would have such a building, where such buttermaking was carried on, no one would believe it. Creameries, like cheese factories, had come to stay. We were yet not so high up as we could go;" and then Mr. Young pointed out that quality was what they must aim at. Cheese that could be sold years ago could not be sold now. And so it was with butter. We must make an article to suit the taste of the market, no matter what that taste may be. We must adopt the best means available, and the Central Smith factory must not be behind any in the country. He was one who was determined to put their factory in the best possible state of perfection. (Cheers.)

THE DEPUTY MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE.

The chairman then introduced the Deputy Minister of Agriculture. He said that their member, Mr. Stratton, had been instrumental in inducing Prof. James to be present at this meeting, and he was sure they would all appreciate the opportunity of listening to the practical words of advise and instruction he would give them.

The Deputy Minister expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present at their meeting. He said:—The invitation sent by your local member, Mr. Stratton, was too strong to resist. I had the pleasure of attending a similar meeting here about four years ago, and was anxious to come again and see what you had been doing since then. At that time it was cheese—now it is butter. I attended a meeting in your constituency nearly six years ago, and remember hearing your two parliamentary members, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Stevenson, encouraging you to make butter in the winter. You now have taken that step and I hope you will go on and prosper, as I believe you are already doing. There were of course many questions you would like to hear about, but as the hour was getting late I do not think it would be wise to touch on them all. One of these questions was not "To be or not to be?" but "Turnips or no turnips?" (Laughter.) For my part I would have no turnips in butter making. Some of you may think otherwise but you will all come to it sooner or later. It was said there was "nothing like leather," but he would improve on this and say there was nothing like milk. (Cheers.) The speaker then gave some interesting statistics of the cheese trade, pointing out the increase of factories and the enormous increase of milk delivered at these factories. He said:—I have not the figures for 1898, but in 1897 nearly $3 000,000 worth of cheese had been sold and the money had gone back into the pockets of the farmers of Canada. If you take that fact home with you, and use it intelligently, it will help to evolve new facts for future operations. Drought, of course, will at times cut off the supply of milk to the factories, but intelligence must be used to counteract this. Of the large amount of money realized in 1897 on cheese, $329,000 came into the county of Peterborough. Just imagine what that alone means in one year. Another point was that the development of the cheese and butter industry did not mean the sacrifice of live stock and other industries on the farm. These and other products of the farm were capable of the same development. I do not think it advisable to extend the cheese factories much more. We have just about reached the limit. We now supply Great Britain with between 70 and 75 per cent. of the cheese exported there and it would not be advisable to glut the markets. Our aim should be not to increase the quantity, but to improve the quality (hear, hear). Butter, however, was the live question here to-night. The exportation of dairy butter was certainly out of the question. If we want to increase our exports of butter it must be in the shape of creamery butter. Our creamery business must be extended. Instead of 200 creameries as at present, we want 1,400. (Cheers.) He approved of the system of allowing the patrons to get their supply for home consumption from the creameries, so as to save the women some of the hard labour at home. The speaker touched on the pork and bacon trade, and said it should be more encouraged. Better bacon was made from dairy bye products than from any other. Poultry, eggs, bees, apples and other fruits were articles he would like to see more attention given to, for export. In conclusion, the speaker said: Such meetings as these were very important. And while we have been speaking for the benefit of the head of the house, we must not forget other members of the family. Something must be done to interest the mothers and their sons and daughters. (Hear, hear.) He wanted to see a good strong Woman's Institute formed. What for? you ask. Well, the poultry, the bees, the kitchen and flower gardens are their's, and there was room for improvement in these. The cooking and preparation of our foods was also of interest to such as would like to see a Woman's Institute started. Boys on the farm get little or no instruction of a general character until after they are 21 years of age. What is to be done with them? We have been neglecting our boys, and he urged upon them to to take these suggestions home for future consideration. He hoped that when he had the pleasure of coming back again among them that even greater signs of progress and prosperity would be visible. (Cheers.)

At the conclusion of the Deputy Minister's address a hearty and unanimous vote of thanks was tendered him.

CLARKE'S KOLA COMPOUND CURES

A Child That Suffered From Asthma Almost Since his Birth.

Mr. James Patterson, 51 Princess ave., Victoria, B. C., Writes: "Our boy who is just nine years of age, has been troubled with asthma almost since his birth, which has been continually growing worse in spite of all the medical aid we could procure. Our doctor bills have been very large each year; neither myself nor my wife have had a full night's sleep during the last year of his trouble, having had to poultice and give him medicine to keep him from choking. We heard a neighbor who had been cured by Clarke's Kola Compound and resolved to try it, with the result that to-day our child is completely cured, not having had an attack since the second bottle, almost a year ago. He has grown very fast since and is now quite strong and healthy. We feel very grateful to Dr. Clarke for the discovery of this wonderful remedy, as it has saved our child's life." Certified correct by Messrs. Hall & Co., Victoria, B. C., from whom the medicine was purchased. THE CASE OF JOHN W. DRENNAN.

Magistrate Says He Is a Bigamist or Something Equally as Bad.

London, Jan. 26.—John W. Drennan must stand his trial by a jury on the charge of marrying Miss Georgina Griffiths of Westminster Township, while he already had a wife and family living in this city. The evidence in the preliminary examination was taken before Magistrate Parke several weeks ago, and since that time the Crown has been endeavoring to discover the Toronto clergyman who is alleged to have performed the ceremony on Christmas Day, 1897, but whose name Miss Griffiths could not remember. All efforts in that direction, however, have failed, and when the case was again called at the Police Court Deputy Crown Attorney McKillop said he had no further evidence to offer. He asked that Drennan should be committed for trial on the statements of Miss Griffiths alone. Mr. D. Stuart, counsel for Drennan, contended that the accused should not be sent for trial on the unsupported evidence of the young woman. There was no doubt Drennan said he was married to Miss Griffiths, but such a statement was only consistent with the defendant's story that he did so in order that their improper relations could be continued. The conduct of the couple in the presence of the girl's father may have been such that unless they told such a story they might have got into trouble. Magistrate Parke said Drennan was not entitled to the slightest sympathy, as the evidence of Miss Griffiths showed that he was either a bigamist or something equally as bad. His worship sent him for trial, accepting bail for his appearance.

Remarkable Rescue.

She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1 00

And now Mr. Klock wants to know what that information is, and is determined to ascertain, if possible. Mr. Loughrin will defend the action.

PRINCE ALFRED'S BREAKDOWN.

Crown Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha Afflicted With Melancholic Insanity—A Grandson of the Queen.

Vienna, Jan. 28.—Another scion of royalty has succumbed to the fast pace of Continental gayety. Wine, women and cards have caused the mental and physical breakdown of Prince Alfred, only son and heir of the reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and grandson of Queen Victoria.

Prince Alfred arrived at Meran yesterday from Berlin, on his way to Martinsbrun, where he will be placed in charge of Dr. Kaan, who conducts a private sanitarium, an institution patronized by the nobility and the wealthy of the Continent.

The young Prince was accompanied by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha's private physician, from whom it was learned that the condition of Prince Alfred is very grave; that, besides nervous prostration, the young man is suffering from spells of melancholic insanity.

The Crown Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was fleeced a short time ago by a gang of card sharpers in Berlin. During a gambling epidemic which struck the officers and soldiers of the First Infantry Regiment of the Guards, to which he belonged, he lost 60,000 marks, and for this and other reasons he was severely lectured by Kaiser Wilhelm and sent away on a furlough.

The Prince's boon companion, Lieut. von Goetze, son of the commander of the Seventh Army Corps, learned that some of the officers were nothing but common card cheats, and the result was that two of the officers were challenged to duels with their victims. The Kaiser learned of it in time and stopped the proposed duels before any blood was shed.

It is believed that the Prince's illness was hastened by the disgrace resulting from the gambling scandals in Berlin. His friend, Von Goetze, and Adjutant von der Planitz have been dismissed from the army.

Prince Alfred was transferred from his crack regiment in the German army to a line regiment stationed at Darmstadt, the capital of his brother-in-law's Grand Duchy of Hesse.

Prince Alfred, however, felt ill at ease in Darmstadt, and of late found it convenient to travel much in Russia, where he visited his cousin, the Czar. Last week he returned to Berlin, where his condition became alarming, so that it was decided to send him to Martinsbrun.

The young Prince was born 24 years ago in Buckingham Palace, London. His father is the second son of Queen Victoria, better known as the Duke of Edinburgh, who married the Archduchess Marie, aunt of the Czar of Russia.

CONFIRMATION

Of the Report of Mr. Ed. N. Stowell's Wonderful Escape

From the Clutches of Bright's Disease, After an Eminent Physician Had Said He Could Not Recover —Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 27.—There appeared in the public press last week an account of the recovery of Mr. Ed. N. Stowell, of this city, through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, after an eminent medical man had pronounced his case of Bright's Disease incurable.

So many reports of similar remarkable cures through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published at frequent intervals of late that it was thought advisable to interview Mr. Stowell, and ascertain whether or not the facts had been exaggerated in the press.

In answer to this question, Mr. Stowell said: 'No. The account published is exactly true.

"After suffering for several years I consulted one of the best doctors in Canada, who pronounced my case Bright's Disease, and told me I could not get cured.

"I began to prepare for my last, when one night I read an advertisement telling the wonderful success of Dodd's Kidney Pills in curing Bright's Disease. Though I had little faith, I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. After I had used the contents of that box I felt new life, my friends saw the change and wondered what caused it.

"I am now in perfect health and can thank Dodd's Kidney Pills alone for the wonderful cure that has built me up. I am quite willing to tell my story in detail to any one at any time."

This settles the case beyond dispute in favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They hold the position of the only unfailing Kidney Cure on earth, and nothing can deprive them of it.

CROSS-PETITION FILED.

Hon. Mr. Garrow Acts in the West Huron Election Case—Asks for Beck's Disqualification.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Hon. J. T. Garrow yesterday filed at Osgoode Hall a cross-petition in answer to the petition of Mr. Joseph Beck, the defeated candidate in West Huron. Mr. Beck in his petition claimed the seat.

Mr. Garrow asks for the disqualification of Mr. Beck on the charge that the latter was a party to the collection and distribution of a fund for bribery purposes. It is charged that Major Beatty, M.P. for London, contributed to this fund. It is further alleged that Mr. Beck, Barrister Dickenson of Wingham and Barrister Hayr of Goderich, "and other persons, agents of the respondent," furnished a fund of $500, which was deposited in a bank at Wingham, and later was used to buy votes in Goderich, Clinton, Wingham and other places. Certain hotelkeepers in Wingham are charged with selling liquor on polling day "with the knowledge, consent and authority of Joseph Beck," and that much of what they provided was at the latter's expense.

To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

DRIVEN OUT OF DETROIT.

The Iron Smelter, Now Stationed at Deseronto, Ont., by the Excessive Duties on Charcoal.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—Mr. J. M. Hurley, member for Hastings, arrived in Ottawa yesterday on business with the departments. He brought with him a sample of iron produced at the first smelting of the new works which have been established at Deseronto by the Rathbuns and the Gaylords of Detroit. The location of this industry at Deseronto is a striking object-lesson of the failure of protection to protect. The Gaylords were smelting iron ore at Detroit, and using charcoal from Deseronto in the process. The United States duty on charcoal was increased to such a point that it was no longer profitable to continue operations in Detroit and use Canadian charcoal. The Gaylords moved to Deseronto and established works that represent an investment of a million dollars, in which the Rathbuns are interested to the extent of a quarter of a million. For the present 60 men will be employed, but this number will be increased as time goes on. The works will be kept continuously in operation. Ore from northern Michigan is now being used, but this will be mixed with the ore which abounds in Hastings and Addington. The Rathbuns are under contract to furnish the smelting works 40,000 bushels of charcoal a month at the very low price of four cents a bushel. The wood alcohol which results from the conversion of wood into charcoal will be purchased by the Government for use in the manufacture of methylated spirits.

I used in all two boxes, and am now completely cured.

Every remedy given by Dr. Chase cost years of study and research, and with an eye single to its adaptation for the ailments for which it was intended. GOLD SEEKERS FIND DEATH.

American Prospectors Frozen in the Valdez Glacier.

Seattle, Wash. Jan. 28.—The steamer Cottage City, from Alaska, brings news that a number of Copper River prospectors perished in Valdez Glacier. The following are known to have been lost: Charles Khron, New York City; D. P. Smith, Chicago; Ole Evjens, Baldwin, Wis.; —. Henderson, Wisconsin; George Sweeney, New York. Among the many badly frozen miners are: George Poniowis, New York City; Sylvester Grog, St. Joseph, Mo.; Holden Evjens, Baldwin, Wis.

There are six men at Valdez suffering from frozen feet, hands and faces. A hospital has been established at Twelve-Mile Camp, on the other side of the Glacier, and 15 men are suffering there from the same cause. All were frozen trying to cross the Glacier, but managed to get back into camp.

The freezing of the Evjens, father and son, is particularly sad. They started for Valdez, but on getting well towards the summit of the Glacier found their feet frozen. Both started back. The son gave his father extra wrapping for his feet, and, as a result, both the son's legs were frozen in a few minutes, and he was unable to proceed. He bade his father good-bye, and compelled him to go on without him. Then the boy lay down in the snow to die. The body will probably never be recovered. The father reached the Twelve-Mile Camp, but is not expected to live.

PERMANENT CURE

OF A

SCALY, SKIN DISEASE.

Mr. Geo. Tribe, of Straffordville, Ont., cured by B.B.B. 6 years ago of an Itching, Scaly, Skin Disease.

HE HAS NEVER BEEN TROUBLED SINCE.

"FROM a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore," has been a common way of expressing the range of skin diseases that Burdock Blood Bitters will cure. All those facial eruptions and blotches which disfigure the features are promptly removed by its use, as well as the more severe forms which wreck the health and undermine the system. But B.B.B. works in its own peculiar way. There is nothing of the temporary or transient about the cures B.B.B. makes.

It always builds up the health and strength on the foundation of Pure, Rich Blood, and in consequence the cures it makes are of a permanent and lasting nature.

We again prove the permanency of the cures it makes by the case of Mr. George Tribe, Straffordville, Ont., who wrote the following letter respecting his case.

MR. GEORGE C. TRIBE.

It is Dated February 8th, 1894.

"I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for a severe form of skin disease from which I have been a sufferer for three years.

"I have taken in all six bottles and am now entirely cured.

"I tried various remedies, but none of them did me any good.

"I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it.

"It came on in red blotches and spread over my body. The skin became dry and formed hard, white scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B.B.B. I advise all sufferers to use it, as its equal cannot be found."

GEORGE TRIBE.

Here's what Mr. Tribe says:

July 16th, 1898.

"I have had no return of that terrible skin disease with which I was afflicted some four or five years ago. The cure made by Burdock Blood Bitters then has been permanent, and if you want it I could give you as good a testimonial as ever was published, as my cure was a remarkable one."

GEORGE E. TRIBE.

After reading such testimony as the above, who can doubt the efficacy of B.B.B. in all forms of skin disease.

There is no other remedy that can show cures of such obstinate and chronic diseases. No other medicine can offer so conclusive proofs of these cures being permanent.

Any one troubled with any itching, burning, irritating skin disease can place full reliance on B.B.B. to effect a cure, no matter what other remedies have failed.

B.B.B. is purely vegetable, contains no harsh or injurious drugs and can be taken by the most delicate.

If you would like to hear from Mr. Tribe personally, write him, enclosing stamp for reply, and we have no doubt he would be only too pleased to answer you, giving full details of his case.

The Catarrh Clutch

This Disgusting Malady is at the Throat of 900 of every 1,000 of our Country's Population.

This Is Not Hearsay. It is Borne Out by Carefully Compiled Statistics of Diseases Most Prevalent. Its Development is Watched Carefully Because it is so Sure a forerunner of Consumption if Neglected. Most Catarrh Cures Contain Cocaine, which is a Dangerous Narcotic, and Prof. Heys, of the Ontario School of Chemistry and Pharmacy, says:—

"After an examination made from samples procured on the open market, I declare that there is no COCAINE contained in the preparation of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure." Most astonishing results are daily coming into Dr. Chase's office of the cures made. Here are a few in condensed form. We ask you to call or write to the following parties if at all sceptical:

OSWALD BURKHARDT, 150 PORTLAND STREET, TORONTO, suffered from Catarrh for nine years, and was cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. J. PALMER, HAIR DRESSER, 673 QUEEN STREET WEST, TORONTO, could not sleep for hours on account of the mucus dropping into the throat; cured by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MR. WHITCOMBE, OF THE METHODIST BOOK ROOM, TORONTO, suffered for two years; cured by one box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

MRS. COWLE, 467 QUEEN STREET EAST, TORONTO, thirteen years ago was attacked with Hay Fever. Never knew what it was to have any relief until she used Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. If anyone troubled with Catarrh calls on Mrs. Cowle she will give her endorsation as to her cure.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Crucifix," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

"Do you see that?" she asked, sternly, "and do you know wher I found it, and what it means?"

Aura gazed at the piece of cloth as if fascinated, and a hunted, baffled look came into her eyes.

"Don't waste your breath in bravado," continued Miss Annin, replacing the scrap in her little purse, and the purse in her pocket. "I can bring other proofs to bear out this one. Don't let us have any more nonsense, and don't waste any more time; we are going shopping."

"I think you must be mad," said Aura Durand, turning away from her, and speaking in a low but a distinct tone. "You certainly don't know what you are doing."

"Bah!" retorted Nina Annin, sinking down upon a divan. "Now then, about the masquerade, before that precious cousin of yours returns. By the way, how comes it that papa and mamma are gone?"

"They are gone on business of papa's," replied Aura coldly. "I thought you were talking about the masquerade."

"So I will be, presently. How is your friend, the detective?"

Aura looked up in surprise. "It seems you keep thoroughly posted in regard to my movements," she said.

"Certainly. Why not? Have you any designs upon Mr. Bathurst?"

"Designs?"

"Yes, matrimonial of course, not deadly ones."

"Mr. Bathurst is my very good friend; don't trouble yourself about him."

"I won't. Do you intend to marry him—if you can?"

"If I can!"

"Well, you know some men are obtuse—suppose he, too, should see some new face that was just as pretty as yours: men are fickle!"

"You ought to know," dryly. "Why must you go to this masquerade?"

"I might say that was my affair, but I know you will sympathize with me when I tell you that I want to follow George Fordham," replied Miss Annin, coolly.

"I thought so," rising. "If we must go out together, I will ring for the carriage and go and dress. We can talk of costumes after."

"Quite a change in Miss Aura," murmured Miss Annin, when she was left alone. "I don't think we shall have so many airs in future."

At last Aura was equipped for her drive; Mr. Charles Durand came down, announcing that his letter was just finished; and the three drove away in the Durand carriage, looking as high bred and harmonious a party as one could wish to see.

A little later, Mrs. Richards tapped at the door of the room belonging to Miss Durand's maid, Laura. It was promptly opened and the housekeeper, with one hand wrapped in a handkerchief, and odours of arnica, smiled down upon the weak, little maid.

"Laura," she said, "I want you to do me a favour; I have got rheumatism in my hand to-day, I am subject to it, and I want to send a letter away by the evening mail; won't you just come down to my room, and write it for me? I know you must be a neat little penman. Come down, and then we will have a nice cosy tea together."

Laura hesitated a little, but she was not proof against the flattery of Mrs. Richards and the prospects of a cosy supper with her superior, and the result was a natural one—she went down to Mrs. Richards' pleasant private sitting-room and incited quite a long letter from that lady's dictation, addressed it to a far distant city, and left it in the hands of the friendly housekeeper.

"You must come down and sit with me oftener, Laura," said Mrs. Richards, when later they sat at tea together. "I didn't know you were such a delightful company; you are really too refined and dainty to be a mere lady's maid."

And Laura was immensely flattered, and mentally pronounced Mrs. Richards a very sensible woman.

Meantime Miss Annin and Aura drove from shop to shop, accompanied by the admiring and much impressed cousin Charles. As they were descending from the carriage, in front of one of the State street dry goods palaces, three gentlemen came down the street together. Aura Durand nodded to one of these, but Nina Annin made a signal for him to approach. He dropped the arm of the taller of his two companions and stepped to the side of the lady, while Aura Durand and her cousin stood a little apart, waiting.

"See, Ferrars," said the taller of the two gentlemen who now waited for the third, "that girl who beckoned Fordham is the young lady of the 'Opals,' Miss Annin, and that other one must be Miss Durand—by Jove!"

He broke off with a sudden exclamation, and stood staring at Aura Durand and her companion by turns. But Mr. Ferrars scarcely heeded him; he was gazing fixedly at Nina Annin.

"Jocelyn," he said at last, "who is that girl, and where does she live?"

"Which?" withdrawing his eyes from the unconscious face of Miss Durand.

"The dark one, Fordham's friend."

"Why, I told you it's the girl who owns those opals, and she is the one who lives at that house."

"Oh, is she?" said Ferrars, carelessly, and then he added, sotto voce, as Fordham turned toward them, "this grows complicated."

At last the shopping expedition was over, and the carriage rolled toward Mrs. Rogers' boarding-house, where Miss Annin, with her purchases, desired to be set down. Suddenly Nina Annin uttered a sharp exclamation, and then, as suddenly, she subsided into silence, looking fixedly the while at Aura Durand, who, on her part, looked with profound surprise at the lady opposite her, and seemed utterly unconscious of any cause for this unexpected ejaculation, or of its meaning.

Miss Annin had put her hand to her pocket to find that her purse was gone.

CHAPTER XLI.

FOUND AT GENTLEMAN JEFF'S'

Francis Ferrars and Rob Jocelyn had met, for the first time since the conference of the three detectives on the day of Lenore's second escape from Neil Bathurst, not half an hour previous to the encounter with Miss Annin, Aura, and "Cousin Charles" upon State street.

Their meeting was in this wise: Rob Jocelyn had been "roping" George Fordham for the past week, almost to the exclusion of everything else, and the English detective had been, for reasons best known to himself, haunting the genteel gambling-houses for the same length of time. So it chanced that, on this afternoon, the three had met at a popular billiard hall; and Rob Jocelyn, who had entered the place in company with Fordham, hastened to inform that gentleman that "yonder was a green English swell whom he (Rob) had dropped to some time before and won money from," and soon the three were on the most amicable terms. Fordham was beginning to believe in the gullibility and tendency to rascality that Rob professed, and they decided to "take the Englishman in."

The three had sallied out upon State street, where they had encountered the shopping party, and after this meeting they sauntered on, discussing their plans for the evening. It was finally decided that they should pass it together in some one of the many agreeable ways of killing time that are known to gentlemen of the sporting fraternity, and then Mr. Fordham said:—

"And now, gentlemen, I must leave you for a while; a reporter is not his own man. I must be at the office for the next three hours, after that I will join you at the place suggested; in the meantime," with a wink to Rob, "I leave you to take care of each other."

Rob returned the wink with interest, and shortly the two detectives found themselves alone.

"Well, this is rich," began Jocelyn, forthwith; "so you are sporting, Ferrars?"

"Doing a little in that line," responded the Englishman. "I say, Jocelyn, you will have to make my excuse to that fellow and arrange for another meeting; I can't be with you to-night."

"Can't you?" said Rob, somewhat ruefully. "I say, you have not had the luck to find that Aladdin's lamp girl, have you?"

"I will tell you that to-morrow at this time," said Ferrars; "as you say, she is rather too much on the presto change order to allow a man to speak positively. I am going to try for her, as you Americans say, to-night."

"No! Well, you are on slippery tack then. You must have a strong clue. How will you effect the capture?"

"By stratagem," said Ferrars, with a queer smile. "And now, like Mr. Fordham, I must leave you. I have hung on, only waiting to get a word with you. At what hour can you be at the rooms to-morrow?"

"Any time before dark."

"Say three o'clock."

"Done."

"Any news from Bathurst?"

"Have not heard from him," said Rob, with a peculiar smile.

"Ah!" said Ferrars, smiling in turn. "Well, adieu, my friend."

"Bye, bye." And so they separated.

Francis Ferrars had conceived a sudden liking for the promenade around the block, where was located the drug store from before which Lenore Arnyn had so mysteriously disappeared; at least he had been there every evening during the past week, and now, some three hours after he had separated from Jocelyn, he was there again, sauntering leisurely along, now on one side of the street, now on the other, and frequently his eyes were lifted, for a single instant, to a certain window. At about nine o'clock he entered the afore-mentioned drug store, purchased some "brandy-killers," and turned his face westward, crushing the seeds between his teeth as he went. Westward only so far as the corner, then north until he had reached the middle of the block; then he ascended some stone steps, pulled open a green leather covered door, up half the length of a broad flight of stairs, and then he paused before a second door; a strong door, battered and scarred, and having a little sliding panel that could only be moved from within. Here he rang a bell, and presently an eye peered through the small aperture, after which the door swung open and the English detective, bestowing a half tipsy nod upon the coloured gentleman who admitted him, passed on up the stairs.

"'S, the fat man here yet?" asked Ferrars, speaking with an evident effort to keep his tongue from tripping.

"No, sir; not yet," replied the coloured gentleman.

"Strange," commented the visitor. "Goin' to come soon—goin' to play wi' me."

"All right, sir," replied the servant, with a grin, and throwing open the door, the detective was ushered into the gaming saloon of Gentleman Jeff.

There were few players in the saloon at that early hour, and the proprietor himself had not yet appeared. Nearly every night of the past week the detective had been there, losing money, drinking freely, and playing the part of a "—— Englishman" to perfection; he had made the acquaintance of all the attaches of the place, and voted himself the fast friend of Gentleman Jeff.

He lounged about now, making remarks that were not particularly lucid, and finally he threw himself down upon a divan at the lower end of the room, muttering something about "waiting fer th' fat man," and here for some time he remained quiet, and to all appearance half asleep.

After a time Gentleman Jeff made his appearance, and some others dropped in. Whenever a new arrival entered the Englishman would rouse up, lift his head "to see if it were the fat man," and then subside again.

Near him was a door which opened into a sort of cloak or dressing-room, and from this a door led into the long hall. The door of entrance to the saloon was situated at the head of the stairs, and the second flight began almost where the first left off; that is to say, opposite the entrance door.

The servant who admitted visitors also officiated during the early hours of the evening, when the visitors came at rare intervals, as a drawer of corks. When not thus occupied, his station was in the hall without, not far from the cloak-room. Later, the servants, whose duty it was to serve wine and wait at supper, appeared; and then the usher confined his attentions to the constantly-clanging bell.

To be Continued.

If you have catarrh, don't daily with local remedies, but purify and enrich your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Grown-Up Ones Wanted.

A little fellow who lives near us went into a shop some weeks ago to buy a pair of gloves. The shopman stared at his juvenile customer, and asked him what size he took. The youngster promptly informed him. "Do you want kid gloves, my boy?" asked the shopman. "Kid gloves," ejaculated his customer. "I'm not a kid now." I want "grown-up" ones!"

"BURNING MONEY."

The most precious possession on earth is perfect health. It is the ground-work of all prosperity in life; and few people grudge any reasonable expenditure which will be the means of restoring it; but one of the most disheartening things in the world is for any one who works hard for his money to keep paying it out for doctors and medicines that do no earthly good. It is like throwing it into the fire.

"We had spent lots of money for docter bills and I had almost given up in despair," says Mrs. Ella Schall, of Moosehead, Luserne Co., Pa., in a sincere letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "Then I told my husband I was going to write to you. I am very glad I did so: You remember my case was abscess of the breast. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cured me in one month, sound and well."

"Your kindness to me I can never forget," writes Mrs. Josie E. Clark, of Enterprise, Shelby Co., Mo. "I cannot express half my feelings of gratefulness to you. I had despaired of ever getting well. I had been in bad health for twelve years. Had aches all through me, numb hands, cold feet, and everything I ate distressed me; my bowels were constipated. I was very nervous, depressed and despondent. When I first wrote to you I thought I could never be cured. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and my health is now good. You have my honest recommendation to all sufferers. I think there is no medicine in the world as good as Dr. Pierce's."

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to attempt to palm off upon you a substitute for this world-famed medicine. You know what you want. It's his business to meet that want. When he urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare. Shun all such dishonest dealers.

Every sick person in this land should possess Dr. Pierce's grand 1000-page Common Sense Medical Adviser, which will be sent free for the bare cost of customs and mailing, 21 one-cent stamps.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 6th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 00
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ring rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

ECZEMA FROM BIRTH

Baby's Arms Neck Hands and Face Broken out with Red Pimples. Terribly Inflamed.

Had to Wear Soft Mittens to Keep Her from Scratching. Suffering Was Terrible.

2 Leading Physicians Could Not Even Help Her. Tried CUTICURA. Immediate Cure.

Our little daughter, now fifteen months old, was troubled from her birth with Eczema. Her face, arms, hands, and neck would break out with red pimples, the parts afflicted would swell and become terribly inflamed, water would coze out like great beads of perspiration, finally this would dry up and the skin would crack and peel off. She suffered terribly. Had to wear soft mittens on her hands to keep her from scratching. We gave two of our leading physicians a good trial, but neither of them helped her in the least. I purchased CUTICURA SOAP, CUTICURA (ointment), and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and commenced using them as follows: After bathing I wiped her with a soft linen cloth, applied CUTICURA (ointment) freely, and gave her the RESOLVENT regularly. She improved at once and is now never troubled, although we have used less than one bottle of RESOLVENT, three boxes of SALVE, and of course CUTICURA SOAP. The statements I have made are absolutely true and not exaggerated in any way. Would also say you have my permission to publish this, should you wish.

On motion the report was adopted.

COUNTY PROPERTY.

Mr. Foster, Chairman of the Committee on County Property, submitted the following report:

The Committee on County Property beg leave to report as follows:

SCHOOLS.

Mr. Eastland, Chairman of the Committee on Schools, submitted the following report:

The Committee on Schools beg leave to report as follows:

1. Your committee recommend in reply to the communication from Mr. Sidney Switzer, as to School Section No. 7 of the Township of Galway that the Public School Inspector be recommended to withhold the Government grant to such school section until the matter complained of be remedied, and that the Public School Inspector be instructed to place the facts in this complaint before the Minister of Education, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the trustees of the above school section.
2. Your committee recommend in reply to the communication from Mr. J. M. Drummond, Clerk of the Township of Otonabee, that the latter be informed that the Public School Inspector has been instructed to conform to the regulations of the Education Department with respect to the teaching of spelling and reading, and that he has agreed in future to comply with the regulations in those respects.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
THOS. EASTLAND,
Chairman.

County Council Chambers, Peterborough, January 27, 1899.

Mr. Shaw, on behalf of Mr. Nicholls, of Harvey School Section, asked for information respecting the Government grant to poor schools. Mr. Nicholls had stated that he did know how much they were entitled to and wanted some information on the subject.

Mr. Eastland suggested that the County School Inspector be requested to send a circular to the different schools on the subject.

Mr. Pearce thought that if the School Inspector was asked to add a statement in his report showing how the Poor School grant was distributed, it would serve the purpose. This was agreed to and incorporated in the report, which was then adopted.

The council then adjourned until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, to allow the Finance Committee to meet.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how much a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderful improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

THE KINGSTON FIRE.

Insurance Companies Which Were Hit in the Oddfellows' Building.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 27.—In the fire last night the following lodges, which had their place of meeting in the third story, suffered: Kingston Lodge, I.O.O.F., Prentice Boys, Home Circle, Chosen Friends, A.O.U.W., No. 91, Maccabees, Daughters of Rebekkah, Companions of the Forest, Kingston Encampment, Kingston Canton and the Recreation Club. The paraphernalia of the different lodges was a total loss.

The block was insured as follows: Atlas, $4,000; National, $2,600; Manchester, $7,200; Northern, $4,000; the London Assurance, $2,000. Total, $19,800.

Vincent Ockley's grocery and crockery stores carried the following risks: Atlas $2,500, Phoenix $2,000, Royal $2,000, London Assurance $2,000. The upper story is almost a total loss, but the lower one appears to have suffered little damage, save by smoke and water. His loss will, however, be fully covered by insurance.

The vault of the Oddfellows' Relief Association in the burned building was opened last night. The books, securities and documents were intact and undamaged.

Danger From the Ice Bridge.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Jan. 28.—The high wind during last night caused the water in the river to rise 30 feet above the normal mark, and this, with the immense quantity of ice pouring over the Falls, created a more threatening condition of affairs than has been seen here in years. This morning there were three feet of water and ice on the waiting room floor of the Incline Railway, and the building was damaged considerably. A gang of men worked all last night blasting the ice away to reduce the great pressure on the stone abutments of the upper steel arch bridge. A house owned by James Leblonde on the Canadian side is in such danger of destruction that the occupants have vacated it.

No Cocaine in Dr. A. W. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Prof. Hayes, Ont. School of Chemistry and Pharmacy, says:—"I have made an examination of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure for Cocaine and in all its compounds, from samples purchased in the open market, and find none present." We offer a reward of $1,000, to be devoted to any charitable institution if any druggist or doctor can find the least trace of that deadly drug Cocaine contained in Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure." The Pacific Cable Scheme.

London, Jan. 28.—In official circles here they do not admit the truth of the statement that a deadlock has arisen between the Imperial and Canadian Governments respecting the Pacific cable scheme, but it is a fact that the Canadian Government intimated to the Imperial Government that Canada's trade interest in the project was so small that she cannot be expected to take the initiative, which rightly belongs to Great Britain or Australia.

NEW LIBERAL LEADER

Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman Already Taking Command.

SIGNIFICANT POLITICAL DINNER.

Sir Henry Will Mark His Assumption of the Leadership by Entertaining All the Liberal Privy Councillors in the Commons—Caucus Probable on Feb. 6—Signs of Schism Visible.

London, Jan. 30.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has practically assumed the leadership of the Liberal party in England, and is trying to get it in some sort of shape for the coming meeting of Parliament. He has had several conferences during the past few days with various leaders, including Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, the retiring leader; H. H. Asquith and Henry Fowler. Mr. Ellis, the energetic Liberal whip, arrives in town to-day from Cairo, and active work will be undertaken to get the factions together in a united front.

A private meeting of Liberal leaders will be held in a few days, which will be attended by Lord Rosebery and Lord Tweedmouth, and there are great expectations over it. Mr. Ellis will probably be authorized to issue a summons to all Liberal members of Parliament to assemble on Feb. 6 at the Reform Club, to consider the situation and plan for the future of the party.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman marks his assumption of party leadership by entertaining all Liberal Privy Councillors in the Commons at dinner at his house in Grosvenor Gardens on the eve of the opening of the session. In the meantime he has adopted a policy of silence, refusing to address even his constituents in Stirling, Scotland, on the ground of pressing business in London. His silence is a party necessity, as under present circumstances he could not discreetly map out a policy. Any speech he might make would be colorless and disappointing.

There is still considerable feeling among the radical members of the National Liberal Club against attending the meeting of the Reform Club, as the two clubs represent opposing elements in the party.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S LATEST.

The Mission of the Anglo-Saxon Race in the World.

London, Jan. 30.—Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, speaking in Birmingham at the annual dinner of the Jewellers' and Silversmiths' Association, said: "We now see our cousins across the Atlantic entering the lists and sharing in a task which might have proved too heavy for us alone. Under the circumstances, the first business of this, the 'worst Government of modern times,' is to draw closer the bonds which united us to the other members of the English-speaking race, and to promote their co-operation in the great work of civilization, which appears to be the mission of the Anglo-Saxon race."

Speaking of the Government's Imperial policy, Mr. Chamberlain said: "Providence shapes our ends and intends us to be a great governing power, conquering, in order to civilize, administer and develop, vast areas of the world's surface—primarily to our advantage, but their own advantage as well.

"As to the result of this mission hitherto, an impartial witness, Rear-Admiral George Dewey, has said that the greatest factor in the civilization of the world is the Imperial policy of England. But it will not be long the Imperial policy of England alone, for all the nations that have sprung from our loins will share in the task which has hitherto fallen upon our shoulders alone."

NEW THING IN RAILROADING.

A "Mono Railway" to Be Built Between Manchester and Liverpool.

Liverpool, Jan. 30.—The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce is favorably considering a proposition to build a "mono railway" between this city and Manchester, over which trains are to run at a speed of from 100 to 150 miles an hour. Mr. F. B. Beer, the advocate of the scheme, has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the members of the chamber that the new system will obviate the ordinary dangers of railroad travel. Derailments are an impossibility, and there will be fewer collisions than in the two-rail system. The cars intended for the line are to be fitted with wheels in the centre, and they will run on an elevated rail.

The position of the coach on the railway may be likened to the saddle-packs which hang on each side of the camel's back.

ALL DISPUTES TO BE SETTLED

Between France and Great Britain by a General Treaty.

London, Jan. 30.—France as the incendiary factor in European politics has suddenly subsided. The diplomats in London and Paris are conferring daily, which, in connection with the hints of the Home Secretary, Sir Matthew Ridley, in his speech at the Unionist demonstration at Blackpool, gives color to the story that a great treaty is being made by which all the disputes between Great Britain and France will be settled.

The French people appear almost worn out by the Dreyfus agitation, and there are signs that the majority of them have resigned themselves to accept a retrial, which seems to be the only possible outcome of the Court of Cassation's proceedings.

Sultan Was Afraid.

Constantinople, Jan. 30.—Before the Sultan made his annual visit to Stamboul, throughout the week the palace took extreme precautions to secure His Majesty's safety and many arrests were made. They visited all the drug stores and hermetically sealed all deposits of chlorate of possash. This was done to alleviate the Sultan's fear of being attacked by explosives.

The Tuberculosis Question.

London, Jan. 30.—A special committee of the British Medical Association, appointed to consider the tuberculosis question, reports that no local authority should permit a house to be built unless it has a dry site and dry foundation, and sufficient space to allow free access of air and light. It is suggested that local authorities should have power to appoint meat inspectors and erect public slaughter houses, and it is urged that no killing be allowed elsewhere. Municipal inspectors should have the right to visit cowsheds and take samples of milk, while the authorities should be able to exclude milk if the tuberculosis test be refused.

MORE MENACING THAN EVER.

The Dreyfus Agitation More Acute Than Ever in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 30.—The Government's decision to submit to the Chamber of Deputies to-day a bill providing that cases of trial revision shall be brought before the united sections of the Court of Cassation, has reopened the floodgates of the Dreyfus agitation. The situation appears more confusing and menacing than ever.

For days the anti-Dreyfusites have been clamoring to have the case referred to the united sections, because they have considered it certain that among more than 30 judges they could rely upon an anti-Dreyfusite majority.

M. Loew, president of the Criminal Chamber, who was asked his opinion regarding the Government's proposal, said: "I am glad to be relieved of the responsibility, but the Government's action is revolutionary."

The anti-revisionist papers are jubilant, but the most serious and impartial journals deprecate the Government's weakness. In all political centres to-day there has been unusual excitement and activity. It is thought in some quarters that the Senate will refuse to accept the bill, thus producing a constitutional crisis.

THE GAUNTLET TAKEN UP.

British Trades Unions Will Now Form a League of Protection.

London, Jan. 30.—The trades unions have replied to the challenge of the employers in forming a league for protection against strikes by a meeting at Manchester of the representatives of many branches of labor, who organized a central federation almost on the lines of the employers' league. If the plan proves successful and all the great unions enlist in it, Great Britain may yet witness a gigantic war of capital against labor, in which the organized employers will confront the organized workmen. There was strong opposition to the plan from the labor leaders, who believed in maintaining autonomy of the unions, but the centralization scheme mustered a large majority. It is estimated that this consolidated union starts with a membership of 500,000 and an annual revenue of £60,000

Many of the newspapers fear that the great power which such an organization will give the workmen may tempt them to strike more readily than ever, particularly since they will be assured of money backing. However, the speakers at the Manchester congress all deprecated strikes, and took the view that the control of them by a strong central committee would prove an effective brake on petty strikes, while giving the men the most powerful weapon for the protection of their real rights.

ARBITRATORS' AWARD

In the Matter of the Grand Trunk Telegraphers.

IT WAS HANDED OUT SATURDAY

Chief Justice Meredith and His Associates Were All Agreed—New Rules Laid Down—Question of Overtime Settled—Extra Pay for Extra Work—An Amicable Adjustment.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—The arbitrators in connection with the Grand Trunk Railway and their railroad telegraphers and agents concluded their labors at 5 p.m. Saturday, and handed out the following unanimous award:

Toronto, Jan. 28, 1899.

The arbitrators to whom have been submitted the matters in dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway Co. and their employes, who are agents and telegraphers, having heard the parties and considered all special cases presented and the list of salaries paid, do, having regard to conditions existing at the present time and the special features of the Grand Trunk Railway system:

Unanimously award and find as follows:

(1) That rules 20, 21, 22 and 26, as altered, changed and amended, and as hereto annexed, shall be and become rules of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, and that the changed rates of salary and allowance for overtime and all other provisions of the said rules, shall come into force and effect as of the first day of January, 1899.

(2) By consent of parties, the further rules hereto annexed, initialed by the chairman, are to become rules of the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

(3) The arbitrators decide that the subject matter of clause 10 of the agreement of reference is a proper matter for them to pass upon, but they have, by the agreement and settlement of the parties, been relieved from making an award with reference thereto.

(4) The arbitrators have considered the list of salaries paid at stations and have settled the same as per schedule hereto annexed.

Signed in three parts in the presence of Nelson R. Butcher, Secretary.

W. R. Meredith, chairman.
B. B. Osler.
F. P. Sargent.

Question of Overtime.

Telegraphers required to remain on duty outside of their regular hours will be given an official order as authority, and entered in the same manner.

Overtime will not be allowed unless overtime tickets are mailed to the proper official within 48 hours from time service is performed.

If overtime is not allowed telegraphers will be notified within ten days from the time such service is performed, setting forth the reasons why.

Rule 20.

At offices where only one telegrapher is employed, 12 consecutive hours, including meal hour, will constitute a day's work.

At offices where only two telegraphers are employed, 12 consecutive hours, including meal hour, will constitute a day's work.

At offices where more than two telegraphers are employed, 10 consecutive hours, including meal hour, will constitute a day's work.

If telegraphers are required to remain on duty to exceed the above named hours, they will receive overtime under rule 21, except as hereinafter provided by rule 22.

Rule 21.

Overtime will be computed pro rata on stated salary, but in no case less than 15 cents per hour. In computing overtime less than 30 minutes will not be counted. Thirty minutes and less than 60 minutes will be considered an hour.

"Emergency calls" and up to one hour's service connected therewith shall be paid at 35 cents per call.

Rule 22.

This rule, with its sub-sections, applies to branch lines only.

1. Where one telegrapher only is employed, and the time of the regular scheduled passenger, mixed or way-freight trains is so arranged as to require the telegrapher, in order to meet them, to be on duty beyond 12 consecutive hours, he will receive the following sums per month, to be added to his salary:

If required to meet such train after three and within four hours $1.50
If required to meet such train after 2 and within 3 hours $3.00
If required to meet such train after 1 hour and within 2 hours $2.00
If required to meet such train within 1 hour $1.00

Fractions of an hour to be computed as in rule 21.

(2) An employe, whose salary, including receipts from all sources during the preceding year, exceeds $50 per month will not be entitled to the additional allowance provided for by this rule.

(3) A employe will not be required, except for the purpose of an "emergency call" to be on duty so as not to leave him eight consecutive hours off duty in the 24.

(4) The extra pay provided for by this rule is to compensate operators for the inconvenience of their 12 hours' duty, not being consecutive, and is not otherwise to interfere with the allowances for overtime under rules 20 and 21.

Rule 26.

The minimum monthly salary will be as follows:

	Main Lines.	Branch Lines.
Agent and telegrapher, with dwelling, light and fuel	$ 45	$35
Agent and telegrapher, without dwelling, fuel and light..	45	40
Telegraphers	38	35
Relieving agents, who are on the permanent staff, and are telegraphers	50	50

(2) For the purposes of this rule, the following shall be deemed main lines:

Portland to Sarnia.
Suspension Bridge to Windsor.
Kenoka to Sarnia.
Hamilton to Toronto.
Fort Erie to Glencoe.

She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. DOUKHOBORS FOR ONTARIO.

A Movement on Foot to Induce 2,000 to Settle in This Province.

Port Arthur, Ont., Jan. 30.—Five trains of Doukhobers have passed through here. Their appearance was so pleasing that a deputation of citizens waited on Mr. Conmee, on the eve of his departure to attend his legislative duties, strongly urging increased interest on the part of the Ontario Government in getting 2,000 of them for this section from the next arrivals. Fort William and Port Arthur's committee arranged to send Mayor Marks with Mr. Conmee to see Prince Hilkoff and Minister Sifton to arrange for Prince Hilkoff to see and select lands, see the Ontario Government about three townships, and appoint a Government land guide and settlement agents. The Ontario Government have already promised free lands, leading roads and houses of shelter. Mr. Conmee also promised his best endeavors towards getting a subsidy for the Thunder Bay-Nepigon Railway this session. Plans of 90 miles of this railway are being made ready for work in the spring, and the ties are being gotten out.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Means.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are

How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tear when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1899 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. NO MORE SMALLPOX SO FAR.

The 1,975 Doukhobors at Halifax Have All Been Vaccinated.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 30.—No illness has appeared among the Doukhobors now at the quarantine station since their arrival. The health officers feel confident that there will be no reappearance of smallpox. The work of vaccination and disinfection has been in progress constantly since Saturday morning. It was reported yesterday that the entire 1,975 Doukhobors and all the crew of the Lake Superior had been vaccinated. One or two of the passengers felt slightly unwell yesterday, and the doctors watched them carefully, but nothing unusual developed. Three hundred of the immigrants are now quartered in the quarantine building on Lawlor's Island, while the remainder are on the steamer waiting for the immigrant accommodation to be made ready for them. It will be 10 days or more before the material and clothing brought out can be disinfected, so that at the very quickest it will be 21 days before the Doukhobors will be able to get away from Halifax. The quarantine extends to the steamer and her crew, but it is probable that the Lake Superior will not be delayed very long after fumigation at the island.

New Scheme in Navigation.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 30.—The Cleveland Steam Canal Boat Company, at its meeting on Saturday, decided to adopt a novel proposition in naval architecture. The company now sends canal boats down the lakes in tow and then hauls them through the Erie Canal. It has now been decided to construct a steel barge 360 feet long and 45 feet wide, with a double bottom and sides, which can be pumped out like a drydock. Into this barge will be loaded the smaller boats for transportation to the head of the Erie Canal, where they will be floated and sent on their way. By the use of this barge the small boats will be saved from the dangers attending a trip on the lake in rough weather. Naval architects who have been consulted say the plan is feasible.

New Westminster Relief Funds.

Vancouver, Jan. 30.—The City Council of New Westminster is still taking under advisement the best course to pursue in regard to the distribution of relief funds. If anyone is actually suffering from want the fault is his own. The Mayor has relief funds at his disposal, and is not the man to see anyone suffer. The Council will at once institute a systematic relief system, and, as its own officers will do the work, the fund will be relieved of the drain caused by rent of premises, salary of secretary, etc.

Secret Messages Barred.

New York, Jan. 30.—The Commercial Cable Company on Saturday issued the following notice: "We have been advised by the American authorities at Manila that private telegrams in secret language cannot be accepted from and to the Philippine Islands."

SHE SAVED HER COLT.

A PLUCKY MARE'S DEADLY BATTLE WITH A PANTHER.

The Cunning, Daring and Lightning-like Attacks of the Tiger Cat Were No Match For the Iron Shod Heels of the Brave Horse.

In the little Aroostook camp where I worked the winter I was 16 years old there arrived an unusual kind of visitor. It was nothing less than a fine colt. The mother of this unlooked for visitor was a bay mare called Vixen. She had fine intelligence and great working qualities, but she was bad tempered to all but her master, who thought the world of her. Just now she was in a worse temper than usual, for she thought her foal ought to be in more civilized quarters than those of the camp stables.

The mare and her baby, however, were cared for with a solicitude that should have softened her heart. It was spring weather, warm in the sun at midday, and besides the roomy corner of the stable which had been fitted up for my lady's accommodation the men had built her a wide pen in the yard, on the south side of the stable wall, where she could sun her offspring at all convenient seasons.

One day, in the early afternoon, when the men had gone far off to their chopping, the cook and I found ourselves alone in camp. A week or so before this I had had the misfortune to sink my ax deep into my left foot. The cut was a bad one, and since the accident I had not been able to walk a step.

I was sitting on a log where the cook had placed me when some slight sound attracted my attention. Glancing toward the noise, my eye caught a glimpse of a lank, tawny creature stealthily creeping between the trees on the outer edge of the clearing. His belly dragged the snow, so low did he crouch. He had not seen me, and he took the utmost pains to escape observation. He was eying Vixen and her foal over the low fence of their pen and was deciding on the tactics best calculated to give him colt for supper.

He crept slowly round the clearing unobserved, as he thought, till he had the stable between himself and the pen; then he left his cover. But he had underrated Vixen's keenness. Her eye had been upon him from the first, and the moment he disappeared from her view she set up an excited whinny, which was intended to summon help from the camp.

The cook heard her call. Without waiting for more than a glimpse of the panther the cook started on the run for the chopping where the men were at work. I knew he had gone for his gun, the only one in camp, which Jean Batiste had taken with him after dinner.

Seeing no help come from the camp, Vixen took her colt to the middle of the pen and stood with it right under her nose, while she kept a ceaseless watch on all sides. The colt seemed to realize from its mother's alarm that there was danger astir and huddled itself apprehensively together.

Presently round the corner of the stable crept the panther, a tawny shadow, flat on the snow. The moment he saw through the openings of the fence that the eye of the mare was upon him he bounded to the top of the fence and made one bold spring for his prey, but the mare was no less lightning swift than himself. At the first glimpse of him she had whirled so that her heels were toward the enemy and had waited in a crouching attitude that one might have taken to indicate the extreme of terror. As the panther sprang her iron heels met him with a thud that forced out of him an involuntary snarling gasp, and he fell against the pen fence. In an instant he flashed over the fence and lay down in the snow to recover his breath.

Instead of making another direct attack the panther next rose to the fence, and thence sprang to the roof of the stable, where he crouched down and snarled fiercely.

The colt was still the object of his heart's desire. The moment he mounted to the roof Vixen had withdrawn to the farther edge of the pen, and now she stood hunched together with her head turned backward, so as to let no movement of her foe escape her eye.

From his superior height the panther fancied that he could escape her heels and reach the mare's back. As he sprang from his vantage ground the impetus of his attack was tremendous and almost irresistible. Vixen almost stood on her head, and her heels met him fair in the stomach, so that he shrieked under the blow, but the mere momentum of his leap overcame the resistance of Vixen's hoofs to the extent that he reached her back and bore the brave mare to the ground with his decreasing force. She nimbly recovered herself, however, and shook him off, and by this time the cook came running toward the pen with his gun cocked, expecting to see the panther at her throat. But no; there was little fight left in him. He looked very sick as he tried to crawl out of the pen, and the cook was on the point of finishing him with a charge of buckshot, but Vixen intervened.

Leaving her colt, she darted forward and tore his neck fiercely with her powerful teeth. The beast rolled over on his back, screaming madly, and as Vixen trampled him down with her front hoofs he doubled and sank his claws into her neck and shoulders.

There for a moment he snarled and clawed, while the brave mare's neck streamed with blood, and the cook sought a chance for a shot. But Vixen's plungings gave him no opportunity. It was plain to the cook that the mare would kill her adversary in a minute or two more, but he dreaded lest meanwhile she should be seriously injured.

With some misgiving as to the reception he might have from Vixen himself, though he was going to her assistance, he dropped his gun, drew his long knife and jumped into the pen. As an opportunity showed itself he drove the knife with all his force straight through the beast's backbone, dividing the spine, and the lank carcass straightened out on the snow.

The brave mare stood over her fallen adversary and whinnied triumphantly, and she made it plain to the cook that she appreciated his assistance. Then the cook got water in his dishpan and washed her wounds. The dressing of them he left for her master to see to on his return, but ever afterward Vixen was as gentle to the cook as toward her owner, though with the rest of mankind she would have naught to do.—Youth's Companion.

CHARGES AGAINST THE YANKEES.

Charged With Pursuing Crooked Ways in the Philippines.

Barcelona, Jan. 30.—The Manila correspondent of The Diario says he has discovered that the relations between Major-General Otis and Rear-Admiral Dewey are most strained, owing to the profound rivalry which exists between the land and sea forces of the United States in the islands. "The administrative morality of the Americans," says the correspondent, "is below par. The gambling hells of Manila are taxed $1,000 each, and the police are highwaymen who make arbitrary arrests and then demand from $10 to $20 for the release of their prisoners."

The correspondent further declares that the Americans have monopolized all the trade and swamped the markets with their products, rendering European competition impossible. As an instance of this, he alleges that California wines are sold in Manila as genuine Bordeaux.

Japanese Catarrh Cure

Miss A. Knott, of Batchville, Ont., writes: "If we had only known of Japanese Catarrh Cure years ago, my father would have been saved from spending hundreds of dollars, and I would have been free from the constant pain and annoyance of this most disgusting disease. I have had catarrh for years. My head was stuffed up so I could not breathe through my nostrils. My breath was very impure. I had almost a constant pain in my head and over my eyes. Nothing I could get gave me any permanent relief, until using Japanese Catarrh Cure. From the very first it gave me relief and in a short time had removed the accumulation so that I could breathe freely through the nostrils. The pain left my head and eyes. Its effect upon my breath was truly wonderful, purifying and removing every vestige of the unpleasant odor and during the past year since using this remedy have not felt the least sign of my former trouble. I can highly recommend it and know of several others in our neighborhood whom it has cured."

Foresters' Entertainment at Bridgenorth.
Court Bridgenorth No. 315, C.O.F., held its annual supper and concert on Jan. 24th. It proved a success in every particular. The supper was held in the Court room upstairs and the entertainment was down stairs in Mr. Udy's hall, which was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mr. R. R. Hall, of Peterborough, occupied the chair. The first number on the programme was the chairman's address, an able discourse on Forestry. Instrumental music by Telford brothers and Jopling, Bro. and J. R. Galvin delighted the audience with his banjo and songs; Messrs. Ed. Archer, A. Archer, Geo. Gillespie and H. Scott with the violin and Miss Minnie Scott with the autoharp was much appreciated. Miss P. Udy gave a solo and Miss Lillie Udy played the accompaniment, which was well received. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Harrison, of Bridgenorth, Dr. Rose, of Peterborough, and Mr. Deach, of Lakefield. The entertainment was brought to a close by singing God Save the Queen.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Important Addresses in Smith on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 13th and 14th.

Mr. A. W. Campbell, C.E., and Provincial Road Commissioner, will deliver addresses under the auspices of the municipal council of Smith, at the Temperance Hall, Fourth Line, on Monday evening, February 13th, and at the Temperance Hall, Selwyn, on Tuesday evening, February 14th. These meetings will commence at 7.30 o'clock, and it is to be hoped that the ratepayers will turn out in large numbers to hear Mr. Campbell. The improvement of our roads is a matter that concerns everyone, and each ratepayer should set aside one of the above dates and hear Mr. Campbell. He comes to Smith at the request of the council, who are anxious to meet the people and discuss the subject, and to give one night in a year to so important a question is something all should do.

LOCAL LEGAL.

In the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall on Friday, Davidson vs. Cochrane—Clute, Q.C., and Poussette, Q.C., for Hugh D. Cochrane, an infant, appealed from an order of a Divisional Court (18 C. L. T., Occ. N 220) affirming an order of Boyd, C. (ib. 183), dismissing an appeal from an order of the local judge at Peterborough directing that garnishees shall pay the judgment creditor the moneys due from them to the judgment debtor, and barring the claim of the appellant to such moneys. The judgment creditor was the mother of the appellant; the moneys in question were in the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the credit of a savings bank account kept in the name of the mother; an entry of an assignment of the moneys to the infant was made in the savings bank book, but the account was still allowed to stand in the name of the mother. No notice of the assignment was given to the infant or to the bank. The mother intended the money to be her son's, and to be given or sent to him on his next birthday, when he would be of age. It was held below that there was no completed gift. R. R. Hall, (Peterborough,) and Madd, for the judgment creditor, opposed the appeal.

HOCKEY.

The Seniors left for Waterloo this morning, and the Juniors boarded the train for Kingston at almost the same hour. The senior team will be composed of exactly the same players as gave Waterloo such a good game here on Tuesday last, viz:—Goal, Wasson; point, Reynolds; cover-point, Hollingshead; forwards, King, Davidson, Belleghem and Crowley. The Colts will play the following team:—Goal, John Comstock; point, Eddie Graham; cover point, H. Armstrong; forwards, Harry King, Hubert McBain, Harry Morgan and Parker Crossley.

It is confidently expected by the local supporters of the club that both Peterborough teams will win out the round, although the score should be close.

The results of the games of hockey being played in Waterloo and Kingston by the Peterborough Seniors and Juniors respectively, will be received at the Palace Restaurant to-night.

ANOTHER CHENEAU COLT TO THE FRONT

We have just brought to our notice the sale of one of the celebrated Cheneau colts which was purchased some time ago from Patterson Bros., of Castle Blaney Farm. The animal was the champion hunter, "King Crow." He was purchased by Mr. George Pepper, of Toronto, who sold him recently to Mr. Hay, of New York, for the magnificent sum of $2,500. This colt was bred by Mr. John Buckham, of South Monaghan, and was sired by Patterson Bros'. Cheneau. The colt's early record is as follows:—At St. Louis, 6 firsts, beating all comers, winning $900. Cleveland, 3 firsts, winning $600. New York, 3 firsts, winning $600. Toronto Exhibition, 5 firsts and two silver medals, $300. Ottawa Exhibition, 3 firsts and two gold medals, $120. Besides making the champion jump of 6 feet 2 inches in heighth and clearing 22 feet of water. Who says it does not pay to raise good stock?

THE LATE MISS DUGAN.

Death Claims a Prominent Resident of the Town.

This morning at seven o'clock a well-known, highly respected and long-time resident of Peterborough passed away in the person of Miss Frances Dugan, who died at her residence, No. 239 Brock street, in the eighty-first year of her age. Her last illness, which was of three weeks' duration, was due to pneumonia. Her demise was, to a certain degree, unexpected; it was thought that her strong vitality that had resisted the disease so long might overcome it.

The deceased lady was a native of Ireland, from which place she went to the United States, in the early years of childhood, residing in turn in Ohio and Kentucky. She has been a resident of Peterborough for about thirty years—since she came to Peterborough to take charge of the household of the late Robert Nicholls during the absence of himself and wife, who was a cousin of Miss Dugan's, upon a continental tour. She has since remained in Peterborough, where she has lived a most highly esteemed and respected citizen. She was a member of the Church of England in her earlier years, but in later years became associated with St. Paul's congregation. Possessed always of abundant means, which were considerably increased on the death of her cousin, Mrs. Nicholls, her whole life demonstrated that she had been wisely entrusted with the means of doing good, for her abundant acts of kindness were done so unostentatiously that it was only through the grateful acknowledgments of her beneficiaries that her good deeds became known. She was genuine and thorough in character and greatly opposed to ostentation in any regard but especially in the distribution of the charities which were very largely the business of her life. Miss Dugan passes away taking with her the high respect of the entire community, and her memory will be gratefully cherished by hundreds to whom she had in life extended the helping hand. Miss Dugan's only near relative in Peterborough is her niece, Mrs. D. H. Burritt, though she has several nieces in different parts of the United States. The funeral takes place on Thursday, at 2 o'clock p.m.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

On Friday of last week a daughter of Mr. Wm. Moncrief, of South Monaghan, met with a painful injury. She was returning from school at Beesfort, when she slipped and fell on the hard road, breaking her leg. There was no companions with her at the time and no one within hearing, and fearing that night might might come on, she dragged herself for some distance along the road before a sleigh came along. She was picked up and taken home, where her injuries were attended to by a doctor. She is now progressing well.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 3710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

NEW PHOTO GALLERY

Just Opened on Hunter Street by J. W. Green & Son, Formerly of Arnprior.

Messrs. J. W. Green & Son have just opened a most luxuriously fitted up photograph gallery in the south side of Hunter street in the premises formerly occupied as a bank by Messrs. Mulholland and Roper. Everything in the establishment conveys the idea that no expense has been spared to equip the gallery in the most modern and and up to date manner. Plate glass mirrors abound and the rich carpetings and handsomely upholstered furnishings all have a most pleasing effect.

A portion of the ground floor has been leased to Mr. G. W. Mulligan for the purposes of a piano warerooom, but one of the windows as well as the west wall has been reserved for the purpose of displaying photographs. Already work of a high quality has been shown in the window and greatly admired. In the course of a few days the large 8x10 frame, which occupies the whole of the west wall, will be adorned with more samples of the firm's work. The frame is a very handsome fixture of cherry finished in gold. The walls of the ground floor are prettily tinted in a terra cotta shade with a rich border, the woodwork being of a hardwood finish. The flooring is of rubber tile. From the centre, in the rear, a handsome staircase of polished maple leads to the next floor. On the first landing stands a magnificent plate glass mirror, and one has also been placed at the top of the second landing. The second floor is handsomely finished—the reception room being particularly cosy. The lavatory and toilet room is fitted up with all modern conveniences.

All of the apartments are heated with hot water and hot air.

The office is partitioned off from the reception room by a counter, surmounted with glass frames and curtains.

The gallery itself is perfectly lighted—more could not be said about it.

The instruments are of the most recent inventions known amongst the profession and are fitted with the best procurable lenses, and nothing but the highest grade of material is kept in stock for the production of work.

The finishing rooms are located on the third floor, and the firm has engaged a most capable staff of assistants.

Mr. J. W. Green and his son have carried on a prosperous photographing business in Arnprior for years, but recently decided to move to a larger town in order that they might secure more scope for their abilities. They were hastened to this decision by reason of the fact that their lease of the premises occupied by them expired in March and they could not continue to occupy them unless arranging for a term of years, to which they were not agreeable. In casting around for a larger centre they considered Peterborough, amongst other towns, and as the Bank of Montreal offered to provide premises fitted up in the most modern manner, it was decided to accept the proposition.

That the firm is leaving Arnprior followed by the best wishes of the community is evidenced by the following clipping from an exchange of that place:—

"On Monday next Mr. J. Green leaves for Peterborough, Ont., where he has had fitted up one one of the best equipped studios to be found anywhere in the province. During Mr. Green's sojourn in Arnprior he proved himself a worthy citizen in every way, and it is with sincere regret that the citizens are now compelled to part with one who was alive to the interests and well being of the town. As an artist Mr. Green is a master whose work requires only to be seen to be admired. Until March his son, Melvin Green, will conduct the business in Arnprior, the negatives being sent to Peterborough, where the pictures will be finished under the supervision of one of the best finishers in Canada, one who was for three years a foreman in Notman's Studio, Montreal, and was demonstrator for the American Aristo Co., U. S. Any person, therefore, requiring work done can depend upon the very best, as the high order of the work executed in Arnprior will be more than maintained in Peterborough. Melvin will be taken in as a partner in Peterborough, and the firm will be then known as Green & Son. Mrs. Green will remain in town for a week or two longer. We wish the departing photographer every success in his his new field of labour, and in this we voice the sentiment of the community."

The studio will be formally opened to the public to-morrow, when a musical programme will be rendered both morning and evening. Amongst those who will contribute are Misses N. Lewis and M. Brown, Mr. G. W. Mulligan and others.

BULLS AND BEARS.

Letter Thi'd.

STOCK EXCHANGE, NEW YORK CITY.

CLUXTON.

SIR,—With your permission I will now take your readers to Wall Street, New York City. I shall be indebted for illustrations on this subject to Bulls and Bears.—Matthew Hall Smith, LL.D., 1874.

The style of business in this street enables a man with a small sum to do a large business. With $1,000 he can purchase $10,000 worth of stock. With $10,000 he can purchase $100,000. He leaves his order with the broker, puts up his "margin" and his stock is bought. The broker can afford to do this. He has the stock and margin as protection. The better class of brokers are not willing to have customers who cannot back up their sales. It is troublesome to have to watch the market and it is unpleasant to sell a customer out.

A merchant called upon a broker in Wall Street, handed him $50,000, and asked him to invest it in a stock named. The broker said I will do so if you wish, but I advise you to take a good look at your money, for you will never see it again. "I have been in business in Wall Street 38 years." During that time 98 out of every 100 who have put money in the street have lost it.

Men who "corner" stocks in Wall street, corner wheat, flour and pork; butter, produce and coal. They can produce a panic that will be felt like an earthquake. A Wall street panic comes suddenly like thunder from a clear sky. One class of brokers have stock to sell. They resort to every means to advance the price. They are called Bulls. Another class have stocks to buy. They resort to all sorts of schemes to send stocks down. These are Bears. Of the countless thousands who throng Wall street from year to year, the great mass of speculators are ruined. Every broker in Wall street has an entirely new set of customers once in three years.

SHORT IN STOCKS.

A man sells what he has not got. He sells a thousand shares New York Central, to be delivered in ten days. Within that time he must buy it at the best rate he can and deliver it. If he sells at 110 and buys at 100, he makes 10 per cent. If he sells at 90, and to deliver, pays 100, he loses 10 per cent.

HIGH 'CHANGE.

At 10 o'clock Wall street is an interesting spot. Men rush in from all directions. Muscular brokers are at a premium. Young men are dressed like express men, stunning jewelry and flaming rings. Old men are nowhere. Youngsters and clerks, with powers of attorney, represent their firms. Each house has a young member who is trained for the conflict. Millions pass through their hands in a minute. In ordinary times speculators remain in the offices of the brokers. Plain looking, common appearing men they are. Runners come in from time to time with reports. Immense sums of money are sent into the street from outsiders, who think they can turn $50,000 into $100,000. In nine cases out of ten all such investments are lost. A man in a successful dry goods trade sends in a cheque with an order to buy a hundred shares of a stock named. The stock begins to go down, more margin is called for and so on. If a man feels that he must deal in stocks or produce, the safe way is to pay cash for all he buys, and then lock it up, or carry until he can leisurely decide when he should sell.

How uncertain speculation is may be learned from an answer given by one of the oldest and most successful brokers to a friend in New York about thirty years ago. "I have fifty thousand dollars to invest," said the man to the dealer in stock; "what would you advise me to do?" The broker pointed his finger to a donkey cart going by, loaded with ashes. "Go and ask that man driving the ash cart," said the broker, "he knows as much about it as I do."

When the oldest, the shrewdest and the most successful operators lose from fifty thousand to half a million at a blow, what can small speculators expect? A man makes money in a business he understands and loses in one he knows nothing about. Fortunes made by tact, diligence and shrewdness are lost by an insane desire to make fifty or one hundred thousand dollars in a day.

The object of these letters is to deter people from speculating in stocks, or produce on margins. I will close this letter by repeating Mark Twain's witty but sound advice:

"There are two times in a man's life when he SHOULD NOT speculate—when he CAN'T AFFORD IT, and WHEN HE CAN."

CUT OF MANY THOUSANDS.

Reduction of Ontario Officials—Very Few Sessional Clerks—Three Officials Soon to be Retired From the Crown Lands Department.

(Toronto Evening Star.)

The Ontario Government is still cutting off officials, and reducing salaries, and before the end comes there will be a reduction of $15,000 a year. Already it is over $12,000.

The Crown Lands Department is under investigation now, and three men have been retired, or rather will be retired very soon. The salaries of these three men amount to $2,650.

A very old and faithful servant in the land sales and free grants department, is in receipt of a salary of $950 per annum. He will retire, but not for a month or so, and then will be in receipt of a gratuity.

A second man will also go in the land sale and free grants department. He is in receipt of $900 per annum.

A third man in this department to go, is one who has been acting for some time as clerk, and has been in receipt of $800 per year.

But the greatest cut of all will be in the sessional writers. Last year there were 80 of these besides 16 pages, and the combined salary amounted to $10 637.97. At the "special constables' session" there were only a few sessional writers, and there will be no more at the approaching session. The amount will be cut from $10 600 to $4,000. There has been a cut accordingly of $3,800 in Public Works; $2,650 in Crown Lands; and $6,000 in the sessional writers, or a total of $12,400 already.

HEART STARTS.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart—One Dose Helped in 30 Minutes—Two Bottles Cured.

Mrs. M. K. Calbyer, 29 Pacific Avenue, Toronto, was troubled with heart disease for years, could not stand on a chair without growing dizzy; going upstairs, or being suddenly startled, brought on palpitation, suffocation and intense pains under the shoulder blades. She tried many remedies—was treated by heart specialists without relief. She procured and used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. She got relief within 30 minutes after the first dose, and before she had taken two bottles every symptom of heart trouble had left her. Sold by H. S. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

CHURCH CHIMES.

"Where is heaven" was well sung as a solo by Miss Falconer in St. Andrew's church last evening.

The morning anthem in the George street Methodist church was entitled "Sing and Rejoice." It was nicely rendered.

The Young People's society of the Park street church hold their quarterly social at the residence of Miss Hunt, 213 Stewart street, this evening.

"O Lord most holy" was the title of the well rendered anthem in St. Paul's church last evening, Miss A. Hall took the solo parts in excellent voice.

The ten days' mission to be conducted in St. Luke's church by Rev. G. Osborne Troop of Montreal, will commence on Friday afternoon at 4 30 p. m. and at 8 p. m. All seats are free and unappropriated. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Special music was furnished by the male members of the George street church choir on Sunday night. The solo, "Never a Day so Dreary," was excellently given by Mr. G. W. Mulligan and a chorus, entitled "Walking in the Light," was also very pleasing.

Rev. Mr. Kilgour (superannuated) took the morning service in George street church yesterday, and in the evening spoke at Charlotte street. Rev. D. O. Crossley conducted services in his own church in the morning, and at night spoke from the George street pulpit. Rev. S. J. Shorey is still in Chicago.

Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, was in Hastings yesterday conducting anniversary services in the Presbyterian church of that village. Rev. D. A. Thompson took the morning service here in St. Andrew's, and appeared in St. Paul's church in the evening.

Rev. J. Lindsay Robertson, pastor of the Merriton Presbyterian church, conducted services in St. Paul's church yesterday morning and in St. Andrew's at night. The Merriton church, it will be remembered, was destroyed by a cyclone, and Mr. Robertson is asking funds to meet the expense of its re-erection. He made a very favourable impression on both congregations yesterday.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

Prof. J. H. Farmer occupied the pulpit at Murray street Baptist church yesterday at both services. The subject of his morning discourse was "Glorifying God," and it was made plain to all that man's duty as "the created, is to give glory in all things to his Creator. The duty of the church of Christ to-day is to conduct every branch of its work for the glory of the Master or otherwise the efforts were worse than useless. Business matters of the land should be conducted on the same principle if the nation is to become successful and truly great.

In the evening the rev. gentleman took for his text, "Thou art not far from the Kingdom," Mark 12:34, and his treatment of the subject was most able and impressive. In comparing the nations of Christendom and heathendom in this matter, he explained that the former are near to the Kingdom because of having the advantage of the Gospel and its work through many generations, while the heathen have to deal with the enormous obstacle of ignorance, superstition and degradation, which hinder them so much in their approach to the Kingdom. It is not enough for the missionaries to make hasty proclamation of plan of salvation. Their greatest task lies in helping those benighted to overcome the obstructions which hinder their approach to that condition when they can ever understand the message of salvation. Christians can and should try to lead their friends to the Kingdom, but it rests with the unsaved to accept and enter the Kingdom. A reasonable appeal was made to those still outside to enter the service of the King of Kings while they are so near to the kingdom.

Early Accidents

Cause Lifelong Suffering.

A Case that is Causing Talk.

When a lad about eight years of age I fell into a cellar a distance of ten feet, striking on my head, and causing concussion of the brain. I was taken to a London, Eng., Hospital, the first seven days not recovering consciousness. I am now 35 years old and from the time of my accident until I began taking Dr. Ward's Pills five months ago I had been subject to fainting spells, never being more than two weeks without an attack of fainting. As I grew older these spells became more frequent, lasted longer, and left me with less vitality. I was weak, had no strength or stamina, always very low-spirited and down-hearted; imagined that every thing and every person was going against me, and life only had a dark side for me. My appetite was poor most of the time, but I am now happy to say that, since taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, I have only had one fainting spell, shortly after I began taking them, so I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Ward's Pills cured me. Before taking these pills I always looked for a fainting spell not more than two weeks apart; now, I would be greatly surprised at a recurrence of these spells. Life is now bright—the constant, morbid, down-hearted feeling is gone, being replaced by a contented, hopeful feeling. I feel like working. My appetite is good, and in every respect I have experienced the health and strength restoring properties of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. They certainly have proved a great blessing to me. Yours truly, (Signed), Thomas Stanton, Brighton, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00 at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by The Doctor Ward Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE EAGAN COURT-MARTIAL.

His Daughter Testifies and the Case Was Closed With Counsel's Address.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Among the witnesses called in the Eagan court-martial proceedings yesterday was Mrs. Dr. Hopkins of New York, General Eagan's daughter.

She said her father came home one afternoon and, standing in the doorway with a paper in his hand, exclaimed:

"General Miles has crucified me." She could never forget that scene and said that since that time her father had been a greatly changed man. He could think of nothing else nor talk of anything else than that General Miles had ruined his life. He was from that time in an alarming condition. The witness spoke with much feeling in regard to her father's changed condition and was given the closest attention of the court.

Mr. Worthington at this point read General Eagan's military record from the army register, and also read an interview with General Miles, printed in a New York newspaper soon after he had made his statement before the war commission, at the conclusion of which the defence rested its case. At 11.10 o'clock a short recess was taken.

Mr. Worthington, for the accused, said that by the laws of this country, General Eagan could not be held accountable for what he had said before the commission. He quoted high authority to show the words spoken had been pertinent and material. Judge Advocate Davis said that if General Eagan had thought himself aggrieved he had a right to demand a court of inquiry, and also the undoubted remedy of resort to the civil and criminal law. He had ignored these remedies and deliberately prepared a statement, grossly insulting, and an undoubted infraction of the army regulations, as charged.

At 1.30 o'clock General Merritt declared the case closed and ordered the room to be vacated by all except members of the court.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1 00

The Importance of Leather.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Department of Trade and Commerce will shortly issue a circular to the leather trades of Canada, in connection with the Fifth International Shoe and Leather Fair, to be held in the Royal Agricultural Hall in London next April. The importance of this exhibition is enhanced by the action of the Shoe and Leather Association of Great Britain looking to a larger importation of leather.

New Military Department.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 28.—It has been decided by the Militia Department to create an army medical department, and, with this object in view, a stretcher-bearer section will be formed in each of the city battalions. The section will comprise two men per company, under the command of the medical officers of the regiment.

WOODSTOCK WONDER.

A Crippled Rheumatic is Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 16.—Never, in the social history of this town since the Birchall trial, has such great interest been shown as the "Cutmore Case" has caused.

Mr. C. J. Cutmore, 80 Main street, was crippled by Rheumatism and Lumbago during five years. He couldn't stand straight and had to be helped from his room.

To-day he is straight and strong; sound in every limb, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Other remedies were used, but did no good. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

The magistrate ruled that her evidence was inadmissable. The case has been postponed till the third proxime.

KIDNEYS

They are the Great Feeders of our Bodies

The Purity of the Blood is Dependent on their Cleansing Powers

There's a time to all, old and young, man or woman, when poor health brings trouble, anxiety, and burdens hard to stand up under, and one's efforts to rid himself or herself seem only to be baffled at every turn, and we are prone to grow discouraged.

That is not the time to give up—but the time for action, the time to seek out the seat of the trouble, and act as your best judgment and the experience of others will help you, guarding against mistakes in the treatment adopted for your particular ailment.

Raised . . . From a Bed of Sickness . . .

Simcoe, Jan. 18th, 1897.

Messrs. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Gentlemen —For over five months I was confined to my bed, not being able to move. The best medical skill was called in, all treating me for catarrh of the stomach, but to no avail. I could not eat the most simple food without being in dreadful misery, and found no relief until same was vomited up. After spending a large sum in medical advice, I was advised to try a box of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I purchased a box from J. Austin and Company, Simcoe, and to my surprise found great relief. Not being able to eat I tried a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills; the pains left me the third day. My appetite has been fully restored. I consider myself perfectly cured, and feel as well as when a young woman, although I am 65 years old at present. I was almost a shadow, now I am as fleshy as before my sickness. Have used only three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and two boxes of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure. I can do my house work as usual. I am positive that my marvellous cure (which I think it is) is due purely to Dr. Chase's remedies, which I have used. I can honestly recommend the same to any persons suffering from symptoms similar to mine. Wishing you every success,

Yours truly,

Mrs. Ann Churchill, Sr.

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Grindle," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

Presently a party of gentlemen came in. They were evidently persons of some importance in the gambling world, for the master of the establishment summoned the dark servant and ordered him to open wine for them.

This was the opportunity for which the detective had waited. He arose and, unperceived, slipped into the dressing-room. Then with perfect silence and burglarious rapidity he opened the door leading into the hall, stepped out, closed it behind him, stole like a cat along the hallway, swiftly and silently ascended the stairs, and then paused to look about him. A moment's survey seemed to suffice; then he moved up the hall, and paused before the door opening into Gentleman Jeff's private apartments. There he paused, listened intently for a moment, and then produced from his pocket a pair of nippers, and inserting them in the lock, he turned the key. In another moment he stood in the splendid private den of the refined gambler.

Seated near a blazing fire, that shone out through the great bulging windows of a polished stove, which looked like a miniature cathedral, were two women; one, an elderly woman, was busy with some needlework; the other, who was young and very beautiful, was reading.

Upon hearing the entrance of the intruder, both women looked up enquiringly, and for the first time Francis Ferrars saw the beautiful face of the girl who had so bewildered and baffled three keen detectives.

It was Lenore Armyn.

CHAPTER XLII.

FOUND ONCE MORE.

Quickly, but with a cool composure quite irresistible, the English detective closed the door, and advanced toward the two.

"Good evening, ladies," he said, with the air of one addressing some acquaintance in the drawing-room of a mutual friend. "May I have the pleasure of a few words with you, Miss Armyn?"

Lenore had risen to her feet, but the respectful attitude and address of the intruder disarmed her in a measure. His face, too, was so frank, and so earnest were the eyes gazing at her with the sad, wistful expression that was sometimes seen on the face of Francis Ferrars, she never once thought of denying her identity, and after a prolonged look, straight into the eyes of her visitor, she bowed silent assent, and then waited for him to explain himself.

"Miss Armyn," he began, still in the same earnest, almost pleading tone, "I have entered your presence by stratagem, because I knew I could gain a hearing in no other way; but I have come as your friend, as a friend who can and will serve you if you will let him. If you will let me speak, and will listen to what I shall say, I pledge you my word—the word of a man of honour, that I will let your wishes guide me when I am done. If you bid me go away and leave you I will obey, and no word of mine will ever betray you. May I go on?"

With her eyes still fixed upon his face, Lenore resumed her seat, and turning to the startled old lady, who was evidently gathering herself for some desperate effort, she said:—

"This—gentleman is here now, we may as well listen to him. It can make matters no worse; pray do not call your son until we hear what he has to say."

Then turning to the detective, she said, with a touch of scorn in her voice, "May I ask who does me this honour?"

He smiled that rare, half-sad smile of his, and then his eyes looked more grave and more wistful than before.

"You will know that when you have heard my story," he said. "May I sit, Miss Armyn?"

She bowed, and he drew forward a chair, and seated himself opposite her. Then he drew from his pocket a packet of letters, and opening it, selected two or three, which he extended to Lenore. "Do you know who penned these?" he asked, almost reverently.

Lenore took the letters, and, glancing at the first one, uttered a low cry. They were the letters found in the wallet of Jason Bradwardine.

"Where did you get these?" she asked.

"They were taken from that prince of villains, Jason Bradwardine," he replied.

"Do you know him?"

"Yes."

"And you speak as if you were no friend to him."

"You are right; I am his bitter enemy." Then he put in her hand two photographs.

"My mother's picture," said Lenore, gazing sorrowfully at the one. "Were these with her letters?"

"They were with the letters. Miss Armyn, do you know the other face?"

Lenore bent over the picture, and murmured, half to herself, "I have seen it—or dreamed of it, long ago," then she looked up quickly, "is it my"—she broke off abruptly, and flushed painfully.

"It is your mother's husband—your father. You have seen him, Miss Armyn; but you were a very young child."

Lenore bent over the picture again. Her father, the father she had never heard of, of whom she knew nothing; she had recognized her mother's face, her mother's handwriting, and it never once occurred to her now to doubt the sincerity of the man before her. Soon she looked up with a flash of her olden imperiousness.

"Did you know my father?" she asked. "Can you tell me about him?"

The detective glanced at the woman sitting on the other side of the fire. Lenore interpreted the glance.

"Is your story anything that others ought not to hear?" she asked. "Is it anything," shuddering, "that must be kept a secret?"

"I think that all your friends should know what I am about to tell you," he replied, gravely.

"Then speak," said Lenore, with a breath of relief. "This good lady is a friend indeed."

"I am aware of that," replied he, bowing toward the silent old lady. "Then I shall begin at once, only prefacing my story by saying that I shall make it as brief as possible. And," with a slight smile, "if I am not banished from your presence, I can enlarge upon it later."

At this moment there came a quick step along the hall, and then the door opened, and Gentleman Jeff appeared upon the threshold. His face became very dark, as his eyes fell upon the intruder, but Francis Ferrars arose to his feet with perfect composure, and said:—

"Come in, Jeff. And pray pardon the trick I have played you. Miss Armyn, is not this friend also entitled to your confidence?"

"He is, indeed!" said Lenore, warmly. "Come in, please, and hear what this gentleman is about to say."

Thus adjured, and much wondering, Gentleman Jeff closed the door and came toward the group.

"I can't understand this," he said. "Have you been shamming downstairs, sir?" to Ferrars.

"I have been shamming," replied Ferrars, quietly. "Listen, my friend, and you will know why."

The gambler seated himself, with the puzzled look still on his face, and without pausing for further explanation, the detective spoke as follows:—

"More than twenty years ago, the only son of a proud and arrogant English nobleman fell deeply in love with a young woman, who was the daughter of an Italian lady of high family, who had made a misalliance, marrying a handsome young Frenchman, a son of the people. The marriage had been a happy one, but the parents had died within the same week, of some malignant fever, leaving this daughter with a small but sufficient fortune, and otherwise at the mercy of the world. As I have before stated, she was loved by an Englishman of noble blood, and shortly after the death of her parents they were privately married; they lived in seclusion for more than a year, and were very happy, happier than ever when their child, a girl, was born. But presently there came a change. The father of the young husband knew nothing of this marriage; he believed his son to be travelling for pleasure, and had himself chosen a wife to bestow upon him when he should return. But one day there came an anonymous letter, telling him of his son's marriage, revealing the secluded home of the young pair, and bidding the father to go and see for himself. Now the young husband had trusted one person with the secret of his marriage, had even permitted this trusted one to visit his home and know his beautiful wife. This man betrayed his trust; step by step he wormed his way into the confidence of the young wife, and when one day the husband went from home for a two days' absence his plot was ripe for development. On that very day the father, blinded, mad with pride, anger, and disappointment, came to the home where the young wife was alone. A terrible scene ensued, and it ended in the father's declaring that he would give his son his choice between them; if he returned to her, then she might claim him, and keep him; if he did not come back, she must abide by the consequences, the law should free his son. Well, he did not come back; through the treachery and deceit of the friend he had trusted, he was kept away, and then the schemer came with a false tale to the half-distracted wife; her husband had abandoned her, and returned to his father, this and much more she was made to believe, and then her mother's fierce Italian blood asserted itself; she would take her child and go away; above all she would live. The fiery old nobleman had made one mistake, the Church would not annul the marriage, neither would the State. She knew this, and she knew, too, that her infant daughter was heiress, after her father, to one of the oldest names and finest estates in England. Still trusting the false friend, who had wrought all her misery, she left her home, and her friends lost all trace of her. A little more than a week after his departure from his happy home, the young husband, who had been decoyed away by a false report of his father's illness, returned; he found his home desolate, his wife and child gone. Then he returned to his father, accusing him as the author of all his misery, and the father, believing his visit to have been the sole cause of the flight of his son's wife, did not deny the charge; there were many angry words, and they separated without fully understanding the cause of the trouble. All that the wily false friend had done the son believed the father guilty of. The bereaved and forsaken husband left his father's house never to return. He became reckless, and still the destroyer was on his track, urging him on, keeping him alienated from his father, who now longed for reconciliation. After ten years he died, and the proud father was left childless. Then this old man married, married a young wife, who died within the year, and then—he was forced to see that his grand name and his ancestral halls must come into the hands of a distant relative, a man who came of a wicked and debased, as well as a very distant branch of the family, and who was hated by the old nobleman for many reasons. He had never dreamed of this man as a possible heir—but the man himself had schemed for years to this end. He was the same man who had played Judas to the old man's son; the man who had made the mother a wanderer, the child homeless and nameless, driven the father to an untimely grave, and rendered the proud old man childless and desolate. When this man presented himself and his pretensions, the old lord swore that he should never inherit his acres. Then he sent for me, and for years I have searched over Europe to find his son's wife and child. Miss Armyn, the proud old nobleman was your father's father; that wronged wife was your mother; the villain who wrought this evil was Jason Bradwardine; and the long-sought heiress is yourself."

The three listeners sat with faces turned toward him, silent and astonished, and the detective continued.

"Jason Bradwardine saw but one straw in the way of his happiness. You know what that was, Miss Armyn?"

Lenore started as if from a dream.

"Yes," she said, slowly. "It was my my life, and I had been warned against him." Then suddenly: "Sir, who are you? I thought when you came that you were a detective."

"I am a detective, my lady. I am Francis Ferrars, of Scotland Yard."

Lenore's face became suddenly grave. "You have come on a fruitless mission," she said, gloomily. "I must live and die an outcast like my poor mother."

"You are wrong, Lady Lenore; you have strong allies. I know to what you allude, and I know that a week ago you fled from your best friend. The man who rescued you from Jason Bradwardine does not believe you guilty of any crime. He would have done for you what Gentleman Jeff has done: provided you with a safe shelter until the storm is past and the true criminal brought to light. Neil Bathurst, the detective, is your friend, and not your enemy."

Lenore turned her eyes upon him and asked, almost breathlessly:

"Is that the truth? Do you believe in him?"

"With Neil Bathurst as a friend, Miss Armyn, you are safer than if protected by a standing army."

To be Continued.

If all young women could have the right sort of motherly advice much of the unhappiness of the world would be avoided.

There are two troubles in the way. The girls hesitate to consult the mothers and the mothers really know only a little more than the girls. Counsel of the best sort is at the command of every woman and if she will promptly avail herself of it she will soon be relieved of her troubles.

Thousands of women, every year, write to Dr. R. V. Pierce telling their symptoms and asking his advice, which is freely given without cost.

For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has been and is to-day chief consulting physician of the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. He is a specialist in the diseases of women and his "Favorite Prescription" has had the greatest sale of all medicines ever devised for the cure of the troubles peculiarly feminine.

Every letter addressed to Dr. Pierce is held sacredly confidential and has the most careful attention.

No testimonial letter is ever published until the written consent of its author has been given.

Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, of Tanner, Gilmer Co., W. Va., writes: "For fifteen years I suffered untold misery. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I could not lie down to sleep, and everything I ate would almost cramp me to death. Was very nervous and could hardly walk across the room. I only weighed ninety pounds and am having better health than ever before. I have taken the 'Favorite Prescription,' the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the 'Pellets.' I take great pleasure in recommending your medicines to the sick for I know that if it had not been for them I would not have been living to-day. I am very thankful to God, who put the great power in your medicines that cured me."

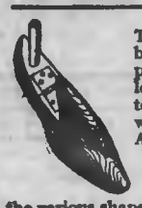
THE SLATER SHOE

"Slater Boot Trees."



The wear and shape retention of a shoe may be doubled if, when taken off the foot, it be put on a tree the exact shape of the shoe. The leather thus regains its elasticity and fiber tension and the shoe its form. Valuable to wearers with a tendency to run over on heels. A good idea is to have two pairs of shoes alternately "treed" and worn. Each pair will thus give double service if allowed a rest-day between wear-days. Trees to fit the various shapes of Slater Shoes, at $1.00 per pair.

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the result obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000 which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 00

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

AN ARCHITECTURAL GEM.

The New Offices of the Trusts and Guarantee Company.

A FITTING HOME OF AN IMPORTANT FINANCIAL CORPORATION

Some facts Concerning the Business, the Personnel and the Official Home of One of Toronto's Great Monetary Institutions—A Triumph of Architectural Skill and of Canadian Workmanship.

Toronto is rapidly becoming not only a great city, but a city of beautiful buildings. Handsome structures are everywhere taking the places of buildings, which, though suitable enough in their time, have become out of date and out of keeping with their surroundings. One of the greatest recent improvements of this kind has been effected at No. 14 King-street west, where the elegant new offices of The Trusts and Gaurantee Company (Limited), are now located.

THERE ARE TRUSTS AND TRUSTS.

Much is said and written, about trusts, these days, and the general idea which the word conveys to the average man is that a trust is the latest and most soulless form taken by the soulless corporation monster or octopus. But there are trusts and trusts, for, while the above idea may be more or less near the mark when some trusts are in mind, The Trusts and Guarantee Company is not one of these. While looking over and admiring the company's offices the other day, The World had, incidentally, a chat with Manager Coffee as to the company itself, and the nature of the business in which it is engaged. In the course of this conversation The World learned that it has nothing whatever to do with the "octopus" or "monster" variety of trusts; does not belong to the same family and has no connection or relationship with them. It does not aim at monopolizing and does not engage in the cornering business, as the other kind of trusts are popularly believed to do. The business in which this company is engaged is a perfectly natural and necessary outcome and result of present day social and business conditions. It is organized to accept trusts as a trustee, and is equipped for the faithful and satisfactory performance of the services it undertakes to render. The occasions and circumstances in which men need the service of a trustee are many. Sometimes men, and more often women, have business affairs to transact to which for some reason they cannot, and sometimes ought not, to give their personal attention. Illness, absence, or, it may be, lack of business experience or ability, make it necessary or desirable to supply an agent or trustee. Sometimes money or property is set aside for the benefit of a wife or child, and the services of a trustee are required to manage it. Trustees are sometimes needed to manage life insurance and marriage settlement moneys, indeed, it would be hard to enumerate all the various occasions when, under by existing conditions of society, it may become necessary or advisable to employ trustees. It is not always easy to find men willing to act as trustees, who are at the same time capable and responsible. Very often, so often that it may almost be said to be the rule, men of the ability and standing necessary to make an acceptable trustee, cannot spare the time from their own affairs without injustice to themselves. Even when the services of a person who is in every way suitable are secured, he may die before his duties are completed, or ill health, or removal may make it impossible for him to perform the duties of his trust. Here is where come in. Its existance is perpetual, and no matter how long a period the business involved may extend over, a trusts company can manage it. Its place of business is fixed and its efficiency is not dependent upon health. Books and papers entrusted to it can be kept in absolute security. In the nature of things it can undertake trusts upon terms as to compensation which would not remunerate a private individual for the time taken from his own business. It is very seldom, indeed, that the services of an individual trustee can be secured, who possesses all the requisite business knowledge, including ability to keep accounts and manage important papers, and it almost goes without saying that no one individual could be expected to have the ripe experience and sound judgment which a well chosen board of directors will bring to the management of a business.

THE ADVANTAGES OF A CORPORATION

AS TRUSTEE UNDER WILLS.

Those who are so fortunate as to be able to provide by will for the comfort of those they must leave behind them at death, find not infrequently their greatest difficulty in selecting a proper executor or trustee. Until the time fixed for the distribution of the estate, its proper management depends upon the executor, and if the one chosen should prove incapable or untrustworthy, the object of the maker of the will may be defeated. Ill health, unavoidable absence or other causes may prevent an executor from giving proper attention to his trust, or in the case of his death his successor may not be satisfactory. Were a reliable and financially sound trust company made the executor of a will, there would be absolute security that its provisions would be carried out.

Though the estate of a testator may be quite solvent, it may easily happen that there may be debts owing which can not be liquidated at once without serious embarrassment. While the testator was yet alive and able to manage the business, creditors, knowing him to be solvent, would be willing to consult his convenience as to payment, but at his death they would be apt to press their claims. Under such circumstances an individual executor might be unable either to advance the presently needed money out of his own funds, or to borrow it upon the security of the estate. A trusts company, on the other hand, if acting as executor, provided they found the estate solvent so that they could securely do so, would be willing to advance the amounts needed to protect the estate. This is a point which should be noted, not only by those having property to dispose of, but by existing executors and trustees who are charged with the administration of estates which require an advance of money to protect them.

FRONT ELEVATION OF BUILDING.

THE COMPANY'S BUSINESS.

It is the business of the Trusts and Guarantee Company to act (1) as trustee under mortgages and trust deeds, and as relating to life insurance, marriage settlements and declarations of trusts generally, and to receive and manage sinking funds. (2) As executor and trustee under wills. (3) As administrator and guardian. (4) As receiver, assignee and liquidator. (5) As committee of lunatics. (6) As registrar and transfer agents for corporations. (7) As agent for any of the foregoing offices, and for the investment of money, the collection of moneys and rents, and the general care of estates. The capital of the company is two millions, which is liable for the faithful performance of every trust it undertakes. Its board of twenty-seven directors comprise some of the strongest financial names in Canada, giving an assurance at once of careful and judicious management and honest administration.

MAKING OF INVESTMENTS.

The company makes a special feature of investing money for its clients, and is in a position to offer exceptional advantages to those who wish to avail themselves of its services in this line. Because of the large accumulation of funds in its hands it can negotiate upon the best possible terms. As it is widely known as an extensive investor, the best classes of investment are offered to it. It carefully studies investments and securities, and knows when and how to act in the interest of its clients. With its larger opportunities for information it is more likely than any individual investor to have advance knowledge of any adverse conditions which would make a change of investment advisable.

SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS.

The accounts relating to each trust are kept entirely distinct from all others, and from the assets of the company as well. The books and assets of each trust are always open for the inspection of those interested, and are kept in such a way as to be easily understood by anyone at all familiar with accounts. Trust funds and investments are kept quite separate from the funds of the company.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE COMPANY.

J. R. Stratton, Esq., M. L. A., is the President, and D. W. Karn, Esq., of the Karn Piano and Organ Company, and C. Kloepfer, Esq., M. P., the Vice-Presidents of the Company. T. P. Coffee, Esq., is the manager, while Messrs. Macdonell, Boland & Thompson are the solicitors. The directors of the company are twenty-seven in number, all, as has been said, men of financial strength, and all men of excellent business reputation. Mr. Coffee, whose services as manager the company been so fortunate as to secure, is a gentleman of exceptional business ability, who is well and favourably known to the legal profession throughout Canada. Almost every city, town, village and hamlet in Ontario is represented in the list of shareholders.

THE COMPANY'S OFFICES.

The handsome head offices of the Trusts and Guarantee Company at No. 14 King street west, right in the heart of the business centre of the city, are probably the most convenient and thoroughly equipped business establishment in the Dominion. The illustrations drawn by the World's artists from photographs by Charles H. Noble will give some idea of their elegance. An institution of such a stable character, with its capital of $2,000,000, should naturally possess premises in keeping with this character: and Mr. F. H. Herbert, architect of the new offices, seems to have kept this thought in his mind and fittingly expressed it in the sedately elegant, tasteful and substantial premises produced from his plans under his supervision. The striking exterior of the office building in its originality of design challenges attention and admiration even in the busy thoroughfare in which it stands. The heavy fluted Grecian oak columns with enriched carved capitals, Corinthian pillars of solid oak, and the accessory wood work in fine-grained cherry, produce a rich and tasteful effect.

The main entrance is effected through heavy cherry doors by way of a large vestibule with its floor of marble mosaic, in which is inserted in black marble the title of the company. The inner doors of the vestibule of massive quartered oak, with elaborate brass kick plates and hand plates of hammered brass and glazed with plate glass are flanked by oak columns with carved capitals. The side lights are protected by wrought iron grill work in dead black. At the top of the left side wall of the vestibule is a semi-circular marble panel on which are lettered the names of the directors of the company.

From the street at the left of the principal entrance there is a semi-private recessed portico with a facade of cut free stone in which are carved in high relief the words,

THE TRUSTS AND GUARANTEE COMPANY.

This opens upon a marble wainscoted hall, with a side door admitting to the main lobby, which is also gained from the vestibule. From the lobby on the right opens the office of the manager, which also communicates with the general office in its rear. This is screened off from the lobby by circular ended counters of oak, with heavy and highly polished tops of mahogany. The counters are solidly constructed in chaste design, and are supported at intervals by carved columns, with interposed raised panel work and with curved cage ledges supported by carved brackets. The grill work surmounting the counters is one of the specially noticeable features of the office. It is of a substantially heavy but light looking design, finished in oxydised brass in bold relief. It contains openings for cashier and accountant, in addition to the tellers' cages.

At the rear of the general office a corridor leads to the elegant Board Room in the rear of the building, an apartment which has been made a special feature. The large brick mantel, with its projecting canopy and heavy classic carved columns, with enriched monograms is of a most effective and happy design. The ceiling is heavily panelled and the wall dado, being six feet high of quartered oak gives an air of solidity and importance to the apartment, which must be seen to be appreciated, and is in keeping with the weighty and important deliberations to which it furnishes environment.

The entire woodwork of the offices is by the Charles Rogers & Sons Company from working designs furnished by the architect, and the workmanship and finish may be rightly said to be perfection in itself. It is cabinet, not carpenter, work. Every panel and column is in itself a work of art, and the whole effect is pleasing in the extreme.

THE SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT.

The citadel of the Trusts and Guarantee offices is the safety deposit vault, which is, without doubt, the strongest, most solidly constructed and safest receptacle of its kind in the Dominion. It is placed at the rear of the main lobby, and is completely isolated on every side, as well as at top and bottom. The enclosing walls are three feet in thickness and its walls, floor and ceiling are armoured throughout with a lining of four-ply 2-inch thick plating of chrome steel, conditions that absolutely forbid access to the vault except through the door, which is "tyled" in a manner that also foredooms to failure the most skillfully concocted predatory assault, and laughs to scorn the efforts of the fiercest fire to affect the contents of the vault. The door and vestibule of this vault is the largest and strongest of its kind in Canada. The door consists of a thickness of 14 inches of hardened chrome steel plate, and is hung upon a polished steel "scroll" crane hinge, weighing itself nearly one ton. This is the first hinge of its kind used in Canada. This great door, with lockwork, weighs nearly six tons. It is packed on five of its jambs with ashbago rubber packing, which renders it completely air-tight and will make the introduction of liquid explosives impossible. A special feature of this door is the ponderous double-acting steel eccentric pressure bar, which, with the large train of bevelled gears, makes the operation of forcing the door into its rubber packing which is facilitated by the fact of the hinges being provided with ball bearings. The lock and bolt work has also been most carefully designed and executed. On the outer door there are 22 2½ inch locking bolts. There are two 4-wheel Sargent & Greenleaf locks, with outside geared spindles. These spindles are covered with re-inforced bars which prevent their being forced or driven in. The door as its stands ajar with its glitter of massive polished steel suggests the armour-plating of a battleship over its vitals—with its multiplicity of bolts it seems nearly all bolts—and the embodiment of practically invulnerable strength. The time lock on the outer door is a Sergeant & Greenleaf triple chronometer lock, with Sunday and holiday movements. It is furnished by J. M. Mossman of New York, under a contract which binds him to keep it in order at all times. The inner doors of the vestibule are of chrome steel 3½ inches in thickness, with 22 1¼-inch bolts fitted in the same manner as those of the outer door, and with a Sargent & Greenleaf 4-wheel combination lock. There is also a very ornate steel polished day gate with alarm bell, and also a similar dividing gate in the vault. The steel deposit boxes of varying sizes which fill the interior of the vault are of the most modern construction, and all are fitted with two-key Bates locks—one key for the vault guard and one for the patron, and the two must co-operate before any desired deposit box can be opened.

A SIMPLE OPERATION,

A MARVEL OF STRENGTH AND SECURITY.

It would seem in constructing this vault that nothing has been omitted to make it of a strength to resist any assault that can be brought against it, especially when in addition to all the elements of strength and safety recited, its situation within a few paces of the busiest and best patrolled street in the city, is considered.

An additional safeguard is the existence in front of the vault of an enclosure made of very heavy, highly polished steel tubing, finished in rustless black and furnished with a heavy gate with Yale locks. The station for the guard and the cabinets for the examination of securities, properly fitted up, are within this enclosure.

GRACE AND STRENGTH.

The exterior of the safety vault, with all its inexpressible strength, is yet graceful in appearance. The outside is faced with white Tiffany enamelled brick, finished with an ornate classic cornice and entablature. The vault door is trimmed with a heavy but gracefully carved architrave and pediment, finished in white enamel and gold.

AND CONVENIENCES AS WELL.

Across the corridor leading from the general lobby to the Board Room, is a neatly fitted up parlour for lady patrons of the vault, where they may examine securities; it is provided with separate lavatory and toilet rooms.

FOR STORING PLATE.

In the basement are situated large and exceedingly strong deposit vaults for storing silver plate and articles of bulk and several other vaults provided for the books and for other purposes of the company. Complete lavatory and toilet conveniences are also provided in the basement. In addition there are provided all the necessary modern conveniences, such as stenographers' room, sound proof telephone cabinet, etc.

The offices are remarkably well lighted through the medium of large fan lights front and rear, glazed with luxfer prisms, which make the middle of the offices as evenly and well lighted as either end. Artificial lighting is provided by handsome electroliers. The general style of the offices is a free treatment of the Grecian renaissance, and the result is a remarkably beautiful suite of offices of a chaste elegance, unsurpassed, perhaps, in good taste and effect, in the city.

SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN TO COME UNTO ME.

IN AID OF THE HEIRS OF THE KINGDOM.

The Noble Work Which is Being Done to Assist the Little Ones Upward and Onward.

There was a large attendance of both ladies and gentlemen at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society, which was held yesterday afternoon in the town council chamber, with Mr. J. J. McBain, president, in the chair.

Miss Clarke, the secretary-treasurer, submitted her report for the year, as appended:

ANNUAL REPORT.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen.

In attempting to convey to you some slight idea of what she been accomplished by the C. A. Society during the past year in Peterboro, I am met with this initial difficulty—the difficulty of myself estimating correctly the scope and efficiency of the work while my thoughts are fully occupied with its numerous and engrossing details. But certain facts are before us and will necessarily ofr a time engage our attention.

The Society has in all dealt with 89 cases this year of which 41 were cases of juvenile offenders up before our police courts mainly for petty stealing and truancy—not a very credible showing for Peterboro, but one which we hope may improve another year.

For 19 children, former homes have been obtained, most of which have proved eminently satisfactory. Two children were returned and placed out again. Eleven warnings were sent to parents, producing good results in the main.

Frequently mothers bring with pride their adopted children to show the improvement that has taken place in them. "He is not like the same child, is he, Miss Clarke" a good woman said to me the other day. We don't know what we would do without him no.' And of a little girl that was transferred to a comfortable home, a short time ago, the father said "she is a winsome youngster and the very light of her mother's eye," we take her to church and Sunday School now."

The last child that was adopted was absolutely transformed by the handsome and expensive clothing her foster parents brought for her.

There have been 31 children received into the shelter and other homes of the society.

One child was received back once, 2 children were received back twice. Three women during the year found a home at the shelter.

Over 200 visits have been made by the friends working in touch with the society and by the society's officers.

39 pair of boots have been distributed, 38 pair of coats and trousers, between fifty and sixty dresses have been made and given away besides a very large quantity of underclothing and bedding.

SEWING CLASSES.

Another branch of work undertaken this year was the Tuesday and Friday night sewing classes. Since the early fall these classes have met and for most of the time have been very popular. As the majority of the girls attending them, were very ignorant, many of them not able to tack two pieces of cloth together, they were induced to work very carefully, by the reward of having as their own whatever articles of clothing they succeeded in making properly. The girls worked very diligently. They practised making button holes with a zeal that was not all abstract love of labor. Their pride in their finished garments was due partly tothe ownership but mainly I think to the fact that they themselves had made them. They spent together there a great many happy evenings, not only learning to sew but indirectly being helped towards useful and respectable womanhood. The object the society had in view in forming these classes was to keep young girls off the streets, to give them regular employment at something that would interest them, as well as furnish an honest livihood some time in the future. Dressmaking is a profitable occupation, as it is difficult for seamstresses to find girls, who can sew well enough to become good apprentices. One very delightful feature of this work was that the teaching has been done mainly by young ladies. In a warm-hearted way and with real love for their less fortunate sisters the desire to benefit being the inspiring motive. They come to sew and to teach night after night. Tuesday and Friday evenings have this winter been peculiarly inclement. What personal sacrifice they made, only those know, who were intimately associated with them, a sacrifice often of comfort of pleasure, of all that gratifies self and that in a work that is peculiarly discouraging for to unstable minds that have no great desire to learn the lessons of economy, industry and common morality requires a great deal of faith and patience, and unlimited persistency. While rescue work is an interesting, it is also an intricate problem. And here I would say to those who criticize our methods while they themselves rest at ease in Zion that surely any honest effort to better the existing state of things is to be preferred to continued inertness and careless indifference.

Among thoughtful and intelligent persons, there is a wide difference of opinion as to the best methods of work. Indeed, radically different notions are often held on the subject but all are agreed that a reform can be effected that if interest be taken in young girls whose tendencies are lawless and proper instruction given to them, in life the very constitution of their minds change and the whole current of their thoughts and life is altered. How to set about this reform often puzzles those willing to aid in it. So much depends on the girls themselves and the means at a worker's disposal. A girl of fifteen who can't read or write will not be tempted by book or pencil. Other means must be used to reach her, and all truly Christian women recognize an earnest effort to do good work, what ever it's limitations. Adverse criticism does not come either from generous subscribers or active co-workers. In each woman in Peterboro is a personal responsibility not only of cultivating and diffusing a noble and right sentiment toward the weak and erring among her sisters but the equally great responsibility of engaging in active hard work on their behalf.

AID RECEIVED.

One of the features of the work during the past year has been the amount of personal work accomplished. By personal work, I donot mean the work of finding foster homes for neglected and homeless children. That is always the most interesting branch of the work and one that carries its reward with it. But, I refer to certain preventative work in the form of house to house visiting undertaken by a number of ladies and the society's officers to improve the home life of the children whose parents are careless or neglectful of their responsibilities as such. Between 30 and 40 families have from various causes, required special attention and have been more or less regularly visited. We find friendly visiting a remedial agent that never fails to improve the condition of life and the surroundings of a neighborhood when it is persisted in. The homes where the parents on the first visit are found with unkempt hair at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. In these homes if a visitor continues to present herself at regular intervals, a reform will be in time be permanent unless the faith and patience and persistency of the visitor is unlimited, but the conditon o fthings is bettered and the society learns who are incurably lazy and indifferent and who among the parents are merely unfortunate. To these latter every assistance in our power has during the year been rendered. The hungry have been fed, the naked have been clothed and the sick have been ministered unto. I may say that the assistance that is given usually takes the form of clothing as in one way or other the poorest of these people manage to get food and firewood. Experience has taught us that they won't starve or freeze, though they will allow their children to run about the streets doing nothing, the excuse being that they haven't decent clothing. In order to diminish in future the number of those seeking charity, we insist that every child of a school age shall attend public school before we give assistance in any form to their families. As boys who attend school regularly usually grow up to be true types of men and independent citizens. The object of the Society, is not so much to administer charity, as to influence and encourage the poor, so as to make charity, giving more and more unnecessary. In order to provide clothing for those who require it, Thursday afternoon has been set aside as sewing afternoon at the shelter, and the good women of the town who do so industriously work there for the wards of the society and other poor children deserve the warmest thanks of the public. One lady, unassisted during the past year, has made no less than 83 garments, quilts jackets and caps being included among them. Another good friend not only gave us a machine but comes there regularly to work at. Mr. McBain and Mr. Burnham have furnished us with sewing tables and Mr. Comstock has added a clothespress to the assets of the society, while we have made no attempt to keep account of the work that has been accomplished, we have refused help to none. Two weeks ago a box of clothing, bedding, etc., was prepared for Young's Point. The poverty there is described by a resident as something awful.

We have had many warm friends and valued supporters during the year, and we cordially convey our sincerest thanks to each.

The chief of police and his officers have been our staunchest allies, and the chief magistrate has always most courteously considered the wishes of the society, while conscienciously discharging his duty.

To the Auxiliary Committee, representing the various churches, and to the pastors of those churches, to whom the success of our Christmas Festival was so largely due, we would express our high appreciation, not only for the great value of their practical services, but of the honour they do us as a society in giving us so unlimitedly their kind confidence and hearty, whole-souled friendship.

The Collegiate Institute, the Public and Separate Schools and the various local fraternities have generously supported us.

Mr. Richard Hall and Miss Boaster, in their separate capacities, have been kindness itself.

We find it difficult to express the extent of our obligations to those representing the press of our town. Their services to the society have been invaluable.

In moving the adoption of the report, Mr. J. H. Burnham referred to it in terms highly commendatory, showing as it did that the scope of the society was extending, and that the officers were fully capable of grappling with the work. Greater interest in the work was also being enlisted amongst the citizens. The report, in his opinion, was a model one, dealing, as it did, so clearly with all the details that all could realize the situation exactly.

The adoption of the report was seconded by Mrs. J. W. Garvin.—Carried.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—J J McBain.
1st Vice-President—Mrs James Kendry.
2nd Vice-President—A C Dunlop.
Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Clarke.
Assistant Secretary—F Miller.
Solicitors—E B Edwards and R M Dennistoun.

Board of Management—Mrs Birdsall, Mrs J W Garvin, Miss Gow, Mrs Beck, Mrs A L Davis, Mrs G F Warde, Mrs O'Sullivan, Miss Martha Dickson, Mrs Beck, Rev Father Scanlan, Rev Dr Torrance, Rev H Symonds, W B Bamford, P Campbell, J H Burnham, Rev J C Davidson, Mayor Davis, Rev S J Shorey, Rev D O Crossley, T F Matthews and Rev J G Potter.

Representative on Charity Board—J J McBain.

Society Agent—F C Miller.

Auditor—H S Macdonald.

Mr. McBain on being re-elected President made a few remarks, in the course of which he thanked the citizens and the children for the aid extended to the Society during the year. Prospects, he stated, were bright for the society during the next year as far as means were concerned, as he had never yet been refused a personal appeal for funds. The work was being well carried on. The law and the clergy were at the back of the society, as well as the ladies, which meant a good deal. The police lent their assistance, too, and were most useful at times. Many kind friends had come forward and given their aid to the noble work which was being carried on for our Divine Master amongst suffering humanity.

When Mr. J. H. Burnham proposed Miss Clarke's name in connection with her re-election to the office of Secretary-Treasurer he dwelt for some time on the marked ability she had shown in the discharge of her duties. She had, in his opinion, gone far beyond what was required of her and shouldered such responsibility that unless she was careful it would end her days.

Rev. J. C. Davidson also spoke very highly of Miss Clarke's work and her efforts, which he regarded as superhuman. She was only upheld by a Strength other than her own and had won the united support of the people of Peterborough by her unselfish efforts.

After arranging some minor details the society adjourned.

Acute Rheumatism

Pains in the Feet and Limb—A Complete Cure Accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For a number of years I was afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I could get no relief from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and it was not long before I was completely cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me, as I have a family and must always be at my post." THE LEGISLATURE.

Preparations for the Opening on Feb. 1—The Ceremonial Program—Mr. Whitney in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—The preparations for the opening of the Legislature are rapidly nearing completion. The housekeeper's staff has the chamber in readiness, and 300 extra chairs have been provided for the visitors who have been invited to take seats on the floor of the House. The Queen's Printer has placed a neat little package of stationery in each member's desk. The small trunks which were formerly supplied with the stationery will not in future be allowed in the chamber, where they furnished a stumbling-block for the pages, but will be sent to the member's place of residence. There will be the usual guard of honor for His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. The band will also be present, but there will be no powder used in firing a salute on this occasion; neither will there be an escort. The guard of honor, which will be furnished by the Royal Grenadiers, will be under the command of Captain Dr. Meyers. For the convenience of the ladies, judges, clergy and others who have been specially invited rooms will be set apart in the Attorney-General's Department.

Mr. Whitney in Toronto.

Mr. J. P. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, arrived in the city yesterday for the session, and took possession of his room at the buildings. He is looking well and enjoying good health.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

GENERAL EAGAN FOUND GUILTY.

Sentenced to Dismissal From the U. S. Army Service.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 30.—General Eagan, Commissary-General of Subsistence, has been found guilty of the charges of scbduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman and of conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline, and of the specifications thereto, and has been sentenced to dismissal from the United States army, but with a recommendation from the court for the exercise of executive clemency. Under the regulations the court, having reached the conclusion that the accused was guilty, had no choice in selecting a penalty, the regulations prescribing absolutely the one punishment—dismissal—for the offence. Therefore, the only hope for General Eagan is in the direction of commutation, mitigation or disapproval.

FROZEN DEAD, HEAD DOWN.

Peculiar Death of a Canadian Sailor in Buffalo Harbor.

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 30.—A pair of human legs sticking straight up in the air through the ice that covered the surface in one of the slips in the harbor, attracted the attention of some men on the steamer Walter L. Frost yesterday. An effort was made to pull the body out, but it was frozen fast and an axe had to be secured before it could be removed. They proved to be that of William Dormer, a deckhand on the Frost. He had evidently fallen head foremost from the gang plank of the steamer and gone half way through the ice when he was caught and held fast until death. Dormer was born in Newfoundland. He has relatives in St. Catharines, Ont., who have been notified of his death.

Warning and Advice To All Those Going Deathward.

How to Meet and Vanquish Kidney Troubles.

Paine's Celery Compound the Sufferer's Only Salvation.

Too many men and women forget the fact that the kidneys are most important organs of the body. They are wonderfully constructed machines that filter all poisons and impurities from the blood. When, through disease, they are unable to do their regular work, poison and death are carried to all parts of the system. When the kidneys are disordered, the unfortunate victim is quickly and surely brought to a knowledge of the dangers that develop Bright's disease and Diabetes. The back aches; there is lad gestion, dropsy, inflammation of the bladder and a constant call to urinate. There is generally abundant sediment in the water; sometimes it is pale in colour, frequently slimy and streaked with blood.

Any of the symptoms noted above should create alarm, and warn the victim that he or she should at once make use of Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that can put to flight all symptoms of a dreaded and deadly disease. The action of Paine's Celery Compound is prompt and telling in the most aggravated forms of kidney disease; it searches out every weak spot, and its healing virtues bring strength and regular action to every organ. What Paine's Celery Compound has done for others in the past it will do for you now. Do not hesitate or procrastinate poor sufferer; lay hold of Paine's Celery Compound at once, and health will be your reward. It cures surely and permanently.

"IT IS GETTING VERY DARK."

The Words of Mr. Dave Phillips as He Fell Dead.

Phillips, farmer, on Yonge street. Dave was only recently married to Miss Bertha Lundy of Sharon. He was on his way home from Sharon, and called on his sister, Mrs. Angus Williams, and while conversing with her in her house he remarked: "It is getting very dark." On saying this he fell dead.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

Raw from Her Toes to Her Knees

DR. CHASE MAKES A WONDERFUL CURE

Mrs. Knight, 17 Hanover Place, Toronto, makes the following statement :—

MY mother, Mrs. Wright, who lives at Norval, near Doncaster, suffered a summer and winter with Eczema in her feet. She could not walk, and very seldom got any sleep. It became so bad that she was perfectly raw from the toes to the knees. After trying every available remedy without receiving any benefit, and almost hopeless of relief, she was advised to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. She has altogether used 8 boxes since commencing, but with the happiest results, for she is now completely cured. There is but one scar on one of her feet, a memento of her fearful suffering condition. Any person desiring further testimony in this case is at liberty to communicate with Mrs. Wright at her address, Norval P.O.

Mrs. Knight says after such a grand success, is it any wonder we recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment?

The Wheat Markets on Both Sides of the Atlantic Were Easier and Prices Went Down a Notch.

Monday Evening, Jan. 30.

Liverpool wheat futures were easier today, quotations closing ⅝d to ¾d per cental below Saturday's final figures.

To recapitulate, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 55,708,000 bushels, against 54,913,000 bushels a week ago, and 70,042,000 bushels a year ago.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. WHOLE FAMILY DROWNED.

Started in a Clinker Boat From Bass Island to Bury a Little Boy and Nothing Heard of Them Since.

Toledo, O., Jan. 31.—The loss of an entire family in Lake Erie is reported here. On one of the islands in the Bass group lived a family named Robson. The family consisted of the father, mother, a daughter of 20, a son of 5 and a hired man, Henry M. Martel.

The little boy died and his parents determined to take the body back to Canada, whence they came. A clinker boat was used, the entire family starting on the perilous journey. The battered clinker boat has been found, and the body of a woman reported found recently near Fort Barwell, on the Canadian shore, is presumed to have been Mrs. Robson. The other bodies have not been found.

CRUELTY IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Spanish Civil Prisoners Still Held—Girls Subjected to Shame.

New York, Jan. 31.—The Herald has the following: "Manila, Philippines, Sunday.—The Spanish civil prisoners have not yet been released. Tales of suffering, hunger and dishonor come from the provinces. Young Spanish girls are forced to live in open shame with low-born Indians. Their parents, being powerless, appealed to Aguinaldo. His reply was a letter from a dishonored child—exacted after God knows what suffering—saying she is happy and contented. Ladies have suffered dishonor to save their husbands from cruel treatment.

"Five priests have died in one province from hunger and cruelty, although $60,000 had been sent by the corporation for their maintenance.

"Appeal to the American nation, in the name of God, to stop the tragedy."

How to Breathe.

Breathing is an art. We ought to take in fourteen pints of air per minute. At the usual rate of breathing we do so. But if we get into a rarefied atmosphere we take in, at the usual rate of breathing, less than the fourteen pints. Sedentary people can get all the advantages to health of a long walk or other exercise by simply increasing the rate of breathing during one or two hours a day, thus adding to the amount of oxygen that enters the lungs.

CANADA AND BRITAIN.

A Chance for Our Tanners—Canadian Food Products—Butter and Cheese Shipments to Britain.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Every effort is being made by the British leather trade to induce Canadian tanners, leather manufacturers and merchants to take part in the shoe and leather fair shortly to be held in London Mr. John Day, a leading spirit in connection with the fair and editor of The Shoe and Leather Record, has written to Mr. Harrison Watson, curator of the Imperial Institute, offering to set aside King Edward's Hall, which adjoins the main hall, and the main entrance of the Royal Agricultural building in Islington, for the Canadian section of the exhibition. If the offer is accepted it will be necessary for the Canadian exhibitors to pay £50 for the rent of the building. For £100 the building will be fitted up for the reception of the exhibits, but it is optional with the Canadian exhibitors to accept this offer or make their own arrangements for the display of their goods. Mr. Leonard, president of the Federated Association of Boot Manufacturers, has promised that if the Canadian section is arranged he will do everything in his power to recommend British manufacturers and other large consumers of leather to support the Canadian tanners by buying their products at the fair. A definite reply to Mr. Day's offer is required by March 13.

Our Food Products in Britain.

Returns received at the Department of Trade and Commerce show the part that Canada is taking in supplying the British demand for food products, particularly those of the dairy. In 1896 Canada sent to Great Britain 82,857 cwts. of butter; in 1897, 160,402 cwts., and in 1898, 186,865 cwts. The figures for the last month in each of these years are: 1896, 2,713 cwts.; 1897, 7,658 cwts., and 1898, 14,418 cwts. The total consumption of butter in Great Britain in 1898 was 2,209,093, cwts., so that as far as Canada is concerned there is practically an unlimited market inviting her products, and the condition in which it reaches the consumer will determine the quantity she will be able to sell there and the prices she will receive. The average price paid for the choicest Canadian butter during 1898 was from 96 to 100 shillings per hundred weight, and the quotation advanced in January of the present year from 100 to 102 shillings. For the finest quality the prices received by Canada was second only to those for the finest Swedish and Danish product, being from 86 to 94 shillings in 1898, and from 96 to 98 shillings in January of 1899. Of cheese Canada sent to Great Britain in 1896 1,284,297 cwts.; in 1897, 1,526,644 cwts., and in 1898, 1,422,181 cwts. The prices paid for the choicest quality in 1898 were from 44 to 45 shillings per hundred weight, and for the finest, 43 to 44 shillings. During January of the present year choicest brought 50 to 51 shillings, and finest from 47 to 48 shillings.

UNFADING COTTON DYES.

Special Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton That Will Not Wash Out in Soapsuds.

It is absolutely impossible to get a fast and satisfactory colour on cotton from the same dyes as are used for woollen goods, and for that reason Diamond Dyes have a specially prepared line of fast colours for cotton that will give perfect satisfaction. If you want to colour cotton and mixed goods be sure to get the fast Diamond Dyes for cotton, as they will give colours that will not fade even by washing in strong soapsuds or exposure to sunlight. If any dealer tries to sell you the same dye to colour cotton as he would sell you for colouring wool, do not accept it, as such dyes are unreliable, and in the majority of cases will ruin the material on which they are used.

There are some fifty different kinds of Diamond Dyes, so that you can get any colour that you wish. By using them in different strengths any desired shade can be made, and all the fashionable colours are readily gotten with these dyes.

To get a fast, rich, full black, use one of the Diamond Dye Fast Blacks. There are three different kinds, for wool, for cotton and mixed goods, and for silk and feathers. They colour a rich, full black that cannot be distinguished for new goods.

Diamond Dyes are prepared specially for home use, with very simple directions, so that it is but little trouble or work to use them. A direction book will be sent free to any address. Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, Que.

Katie's Butterflies.

When Katie saw Ben's rare collection of insects, she wanted to have some of her own.

"There's lots of butterflies in our garden," she said. "Great yellow ones, with spotted wings; golden-brown ones, and scarlet stripes; and pretty white ones, which shine like silver.

The next day Katie ran into mamma's room, her little fingers tightly closed over the brown head of a splendid specimen. Her blue eyes were full of horror.

"Oh-h-h! I can never do it, mamma, I never can. See it squirm and kick. It don't want to die, dear little thing. God gave it it's life, same's he gave me mine. I don't want any frame of insects—never!" she cried, sobbing in mamma's arms, That was the first and last butterfly that our Katie caught, and she thinks that only cruel folks can kill them.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, mis-shapen caricatures of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago.

Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

A GLIMPSE OF HONGKONG.

Hunting Up an English Newspaper—A Clever Currency Manipulator.

The price of a four sheet local newspaper printed in English is 25 cents. It generally contains one or two short editorials upon some everyday topic, a few snatches from Reuter's telegraphic news, shipping affairs and considerable sore head correspondence from some dissatisfied individual who is desirous of reforming the world at large and Hongkong in particular; but, look as you will, you seldom see a word about the United States. Not so with other oriental newspapers such as the Japan Mail and the London and China Express.

I wanted, upon arriving here, to see a newspaper. There were two in the hotel reading room, but both "occupied." I then wandered down "Icehouse" street to the main street, called Queen's road, and found a stationery shop. They had one Hongkong Press, but it was two days old. I found a Chinamen who could understand what I wanted, and he sent me a block or two up a steep hill. I soon found the office of the Hongkong Daily Press. A Chinaman stood at the door. "Want paper," I said. He nodded and took me up two long flights of stairs. I have found it is far better in addressing Chinese to say as few words as possible. "Want day's paper," I remarked. "Allo gone!" he replied. "I would like one," I continued. He then took me into another room and spoke to a man behind the screen, possibly the night editor. "Man wantee paper much," the Chinaman said.

"What did you do with those two papers down stairs on the desk?" the voice from behind the screen demanded, with a strong English accent.

"Allo light," answered the Chinaman, and he nodded for me to follow him. We went down another flight of stairs into a small room, and upon a desk were two newspapers tied together with a string. I bought them for 25 cents each. "No takee less," he said. Now here is a chance for a Chicago newspaper man to come to Hongkong, teach the Chinese to read English, establish a newspaper and then sell 200,000 copies a day at 25 cents each. There's millions in it.

The residents of Hongkong have Americans "sized up," so to speak, as regards prices. The Mexican dollar and Chinese paper money are worth only one-half as much as ours. To obviate the little difference they charge us precisely twice as much for every article. For instance, a lemonade at the hotel bar is 20 cents in their currency, a shave 30 cents, and so on. Upon a little steamer we had luncheon, and the Chinese waiter asked, "How muchee pay lunch in Mexico?" I replied about 75 cents for a first class lunch. So he figured out the bill at $1.50 each in the local currency. You cannot get ahead of a Chinaman on the currency question.—Chicago Post.

"Yes."

"Then you'll fling in a pair o' woolen sox, I guess."

"Reckin so."

"Hold on; them shoes hain't got no strings, have they?"

"I'll give you a pair."

"Better make hit two pair; one will soon wear out."

"All right, here they are."

"Looks like you might gimme a pair o' suspenders fer a good measure."

"Well, rather than miss a trade, I'll do it. What else?"

Human Nature.

A CHEESE 236 YEARS OLD.

It Carries the Family History of a Swiss Squire.

One of the most peculiar bridal or marriage customs known is one that has prevailed for centuries in what is called the "cheese regions" of Switzerland.

In that portion of the Alpine country, when a pair join in wedlock, it is the fashion for their intimate friends to buy a "register cheese" for the young couple. This cheese is presented to the newly wedded people on the evening of the wedding day, and is ever after retained by them and used as a family register.

On this heirloom cheese the whole history of the family is carved, such as births, marriages, deaths and other incidents which it may be desired to make matters of record. Some of these old Swiss family cheese records are said to date back to the middle of the seventeenth century.

At the agricultural fair annually held at Gessenay a great many cheese records have been exhibited, which were known to be from 180 to 200 years old. The oldest that has yet been displayed belongs to a country squire living near Gessenay, who shows his family record carved on a cheese made in 1660.

SCIENCE AND LIFE.

We are Indebted to the former for the Latter.

Science Gives us Dodd's Kidney Pills—Dodd's Kidney Pills Give us Security from Death—Mr. Charles Dean's Case Proves this Claim.

London, Jan. 30th.—At this season, when everybody one meets is complaining of "the Grip," "Backache," or some other similar complaint, it comes as a relief to know that there are some diseases from which people can free themselves at very slight expense and scarcely any trouble.

When we find that these diseases have for centuries been looked upon as incurable and have carried hundreds of thousands to untimely graves, we have reason to be thankful to science and its votaries, who have given us means to free ourselves from the horrible nightmare of Death.

As everyone knows, Kidney Diseases have, until less than ten years ago, been looked on as utterly incurable. Hundreds of thousands have died of them. Until lately there was no medicine known to man that would either relieve or cure them.

To-day, thanks to the wonderful medicine known throughout the civilized world as Dodd's Kidney Pills, Kidney Diseases are no more dangerous than a common cold.

Proof of this fact has been given by thousands of startling cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills, of cases the best physicians had "given up."

The latest evidence in this city comes from Mr. Charles Dean, an employee at the City Hotel.

Mr. Dean suffered for three years with terrible pains in his back. He could get no relief from any of the many medicines he used.

One day a friend advised him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He did so. As a result he is now as strong and well as he ever was. Dodd's Kidney Pills, he says, are worth their weight in gold. So they are to victims of Kidney Disease.

A DUAL VICTORY FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Senior and Junior Hockey Teams Win Again.

THEY ARE NOW IN THE SEMI-FINALS

The Seniors win the Match and Round from Waterloo and the Colts also Win their Round Although Defeated at Kingston.

The Peterboroughs are playing great hockey this year in both the Senior and Junior series, and whilst other clubs are importing material to help them out, Peterborough is depending entirely upon home talent, and is thus deserving of all the more credit for the victories which are being won every week.

By winning last night both teams enter the semi-finals. The Seniors now play home and home games with 'Varsity, and if they win go into the finals with Queen's. The Colts have to play home and home games with St. George's of Toronto, and if they are again victorious, will play off for the championship with the Upper Canada College team.

Most meagre accounts of last night's games are furnished by the Toronto papers. The Globe's Waterloo despatch says:

Waterloo, Jan. 30.—Nearly 2,000 hockey spectators from near and far witnessed the defeat by Peterborough of the boys in black and yellow here this evening. The final score was 5 to 4. It may be safely stated, Wasson, Peterborough's goal-keeper, won the game for Peterborough. He stopped every shot that came his way in the first half whether on the ice or on the fly, it made no difference. Referee Gauthier from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, called the game at 9 o'clock, and the fastest and finest games of hockey this town has seen began. The playing was fast up and down, from goal to goal, and after six minutes play Peterborough scored the first game. They secured the second in eighteen minutes, but the game was disputed and a change of umpire was the result. Waterloo put shot after shot at the visitors' goal and a number looked like sure tallies, but the umpire thought different. Shortly before half time the visitors scored again, making the half time score 3 to 0, in their favour.

The second half was even faster than the first. Waterloo, with 9 goals to 3 on the round staring them in the face, played like Trojans, and had the rubber around Peterborough's goal nearly all the time, peppering at goal, but the puck would not slip through, Wasson being the stumbling block. The visiting forwards all played well, their being little choice between them. Their defence was rather weak. In this half Waterloo scored 4 goals to Peterborough's 2. The round goes to Peterborough by a score of 11 to 7. The teams were:

Peterborough.		Waterloo
Wasson	goal	Koehler
Reynolds	point	Forrester
Holling head	cover point	Clemes
Bellegham	forwards	Hendry
Crowley		Liffiton
Davidson		Westelock
King		Robson

A despatch from Kingston reads as follows:—Kingston, Jan. 30—(Special)—A very large audience thronged the skating rink to-night to see Frontenac II and Peterborough Colts contest for the junior O. H. A. semi-finals. When they met in Peterborough the Colts led by six points. The match to-night was keen and full of fine work by both teams. They lined up before Referee Chancer Elliott thus:

Frontenacs.		Peterborough Colts
Sears	goal	Comstock
Crothers	point	Graham
Clark	cover point	Armstrong
Britton	forwards	King
Pannell		Crowley
Robinson		Morgan
Hiscock		McBain

The Frontenacs lost the round by one point. The game closed:—Frontenacs 12, Peterborough Colts 7. The game was a very hot one, and it did seem at one time that the Frontenacs would win, but, though they fought hard, they were unable to carry up the score. There were many close decisions and several times the goal umpires had to be changed. Armstrong, of Peterborough, and Pannell, of the Frontenacs, were hurt, but after a time were able to resume work. The contest was one of the hottest ever played here.

Messrs. F. D. Kerr, Walter English and Chris. Graham went down with the Colts and describe the play of the Kingston seven as being very rough in the second half.

The band is meeting the seniors at the 5.30 G. T. R. train this evening and a big crowd will be there to welcome the boys home.

ANOTHER PIONEER PASSES AWAY.

Death of Mr. George A. Elliott, of Smith.

Last night Mr. George A. Elliott, who enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest, or one of the oldest, men of the township of Smith, born in its borders, passed away at the age of 73 years. The deceased gentleman suffered a stroke of paralysis some years ago, and not having fully recovered from its effects, he was particularly susceptible to an attack of la grippe, which he suffered about ten days ago, and which resulted in his death last night. Mr. Elliott was among the first white children born in the township—in 1826. His father, Wm. Elliott, came to Canada from County Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1823, and settled in the then wilds of Smith in 1825. With great energy he put in a crop that year and disposed of it at good prices to the Government for the use of the Robinson emigrants. George A. Elliott, the subject of this sketch, was born in 1826, and has since been a resident of the township, dying on the farm next to that where he was born. He followed farming with marked success. He was twice married—to Miss M'Nelly, of Omemee, and the only son of that marriage, William Elliott, resides in Oregon. He took as his second wife Miss Armstrong, of Cavan, who passed away in 1890. The surviving children are Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, a member of the township council; Mrs. J. K. Moore, of North Monaghan; Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Adam, Janetville, and Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, who resides on the homestead. Mr. Elliott was a successful farmer, and in politics a decided Liberal, and while taking an active part in the promotion of the interests of Liberalism, never sought office or preferment. However, in the early days of the township, he was one of the five commissioners for the Newcastle district, and it was his duty to issue certificates for teachers. Mr. Elliott was a member of the Methodist church, and in all the relations of life worthily won the high esteem which he enjoyed all his life.

The funeral takes place on Thursday, Feb. 2nd, at 2.30 to Little Lake cemetery.

TWO CATHEDRAL WEDDINGS,

WHICH WERE CELEBRATED THIS MORNING IN ST. PETER'S.

Nuptials of Miss M. E. Mahoney and Mr. D. O'Connell, Also of Mr. P. Collins and Miss M. Hoolihan.

The bells of St. Peter's Cathedral rang out a merry chime this morning at nine o'clock, when the nuptials took place of Miss M. E. Mahoney, daughter of Mr. Thos. Mahoney, Downie street, and Mr Daniel O'Connel, one of Peterborough's rising young barristers.

The ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, assisted by the choir. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ball during the service gave a very fine rendering of the duet, 'Ecce Panis."

The bride was handsomely gowned in cadet blue lady's cloth, trimmed with white chiffon and satin. The costume was completed by a large black picture hat trimmed with tips and pinmes. She carried a shower bouquet of cream roses and was assisted by Miss Maud Kelly, who wore a costume of green lady's cloth with garniture of white chiffon and satin. A large picture hat was worn to match. She carried pink roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Duncan Cameron, of Toronto.

A large number of friends witnessed the ceremony, those present from a distance being Mr. Lee, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Greenshields, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Doughtery, of Toronto.

At the conclusion of the service the wedding party repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where the wedding breakfast was served. A large number of very beautiful gifts were received by the bride. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell left on the noon train for Belleville, Toronto and Buffalo. On their return they will take residence on Gilmour street.

COLLINS—HOOLIHAN.

This morning at 8 o'clock was celebrated the marriage of Mr. P. Collins and Miss M. Hoolihan. The bride was beautifully gowned in a travelling suit of blue grey cloth, trimmed with plum coloured velvet, having a white satin front, edged with a garniture of pearls. The hat was of velvet to match, trimmed with grey birds, steel ornaments and white chiffon. She carried a bouquet of white roses and smilax.

The duties of bridesmaid were performed by Miss Fanny Hoolihan, sister of the bride who was beautifully gowned in plum colour serge, trimmed with chenille and apricot silk, and wore a black felt hat trimmed with a large grey bird, grebe-kin and jet buckles. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and smilax.

Mr. Collins was assisted by Mr. J. L. Donohue.

The happy couple left on the 5.30 express to visit the city of Montreal and other eastern points of interest. On their return they will take up their residence on Stewart street, where Mr. Collins has purchased a beautiful home. The presents were many and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held.

THE LIFE WORK OF JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK'S ELOQUENT ADDRESS.

A Large Audience Assembled to Listen to a Literary Treat—The Musical Programme.

The largest audience that ever assembled in the Catholic Association rooms greeted Rev. Father Fitzpatrick last evening to listen to his address on "John Boyle O'Reilly." The reverend gentleman excelled himself in his eloquent word picture of the life of this distinguished Irishman, and held the attention of the audience to the close.

Mr. T. J. Begley occupied the chair, and the programme consisted of a two-act sketch "Trouble in Rubetown," a well rendered banjo selection by Master R. O'Brien, excellent vocal numbers by Misses Kate Dunn and Jennie Riley, a capital recitation by Miss Mary Brennan, and a vocal solo, "Won't You Play House with Me?" by little Eleanor Morrow, which captured the gathering. The little tot has a bright future ahead of her as a singer.

The following is a brief synopsis of Rev. Father Fitzpatrick's address:

The speaker prefaced his remarks by saying that he had decided to speak to them on one of Ireland's most gifted sons, one, who like many more of his fellow-countrymen, was forced from home, forced by the intolerance of English laws, to shed the lustre of his talents on foreign shores. He would speak to them of John Boyle O'Reilly, the soldier, the convict, the journalist, the orator and the poet. He chose the life of this great Irishmen, first, because he was a self-made, a living, visible proof of the maxim, "omnia vincit labor." Second, because he rose to distinction and even fame, in the face of the greatest obstacles, obstacles which many a young man would have considered insurmountable. Third, because he was the friend, adviser and staunch defender of his countrymen in every path of life; and fourth, because he was a credit to the country that gave him birth, an ornament to his church and race and a benefactor to the land of his adoption.

John Boyle O'Reilly was born fifty-five years ago in Dowth Castle, on the banks of the famous Boyne, four miles from the still more famous town of Drogheda, four miles from the hill of Tara and three miles from the hill of Slane—truly a remarkable birthplace, every inch of which told tales of bygone days, and kindled in the young poet a love for faith and fatherland.

Here the speaker entered into a lengthy account of O'Reilly's early days—his close application to study, his marvellous knowledge of English even as a boy, the care and attention of his parents, especially of his kind, warm-hearted Irish mother. His first experience in the printing office, where his courteous, obliging manners, his skill and readiness at work, but above all, his handsome, innocent, childlike face won for him the love and sympathy of all his fellow-workers. This same genial, obliging disposition that made him the pet, not the butt, as the printers' devil too often is, of the printing office, made him in after life, the hero of the military camp, the life of the dismal prison, the admired and loved not alone by masters and superiors, but by the bold, untamed untameable inhabitants of the wild woods of Australia.

The speaker here traced his career from the reporter's desk at Preston England, till the sentence was passed on him of twenty years' penal servitude, for the action he had taken in the Fenian uprising. In 1868 John Boyle O'Reilly enlisted as a private in the 10th Hussars, thereby increasing the proportion of potential rebels. At nineteen years of age one does not weigh dangerous consequences against generous impulse, nor at that age do we always calculate the exact moral value of all our actions. O'Reilly was guilty of high treason, if not in act, at least in intent, from the moment he decided to become a British soldier for he entered the army with the avowed, purpose of sowing the seeds of disloyalty, and of aiding the cause of freeing Ireland from the hand of oppression. He was deeply imbued with the revolutionary principles, then so freely adopted by patriotic Irishmen in every quarter of the world. The time, he thought, was ripe for action. The agitation of O'Connell had failed to repeal the union, the revolt of the Young Ireland party had brought nothing but defeat and humiliation. Famine and pestilence had pacified Ireland. Order reigned there as it had reigned at Warsaw. But it was the calm that heralds the approach of the storm. Already the rank and file of the British army had become acquainted with Fenian ideas. Over fifteen thousand had taken the Fenian oath, and pledged themselves to free Ireland or perish in the attempt. But spies, traitors and informers were in the camp. The English authorities were duly informed of what was going on. Newspapers were seized, the ringleaders were arrested and Fenianism failed to accomplish anything. At least there were no immediate results, other than the suffering endured by those who had risked all for their country's sake. On O'Reilly was passed the sentence of death; this was afterwards changed to imprisonment for life, which was again commuted to twenty years' penal servitude on the barren rocky shores of western Australia. But O'Reilly had made up his mind not to remain in prison, and in less than two years he escaped from Australia on board an American whaler, and landed safely in America, after many hair-breadth escapes by flood and field, and in his twenty-fifth year. Here he began his life of usefulness—first as a public speaker, and though his lectures at this early date were defective in many respects, and little resembling the polished discourses of after life, still they gained for him unbounded popularity, for what was wanting in grace and eloquence was more than compensated for by the fervor, frankness and enthusiasm by which he related his country's wrongs and the sufferings of England's convicts at Millbank, Dartmoor and Western Australia.

But it was in the field of journalism, said the speaker, and not as a lecturer or politician that O'Reilly was to gain his greatest distinction.

Here he stands without a peer—the sureness of his instinct—the soundness of his judgment, the terseness and vigour of all his pronouncements, left him with without a rival. Here he was indisputed master and king. He was the most broad minded and liberal of men. No one had suffered more for his country than he did. No one had greater reason to denounce Orangemen than he, when he was in a free land and in a position to do so. But no, he forgave all, he forgot all, as the following editorial clearly proves. This was called forth by the unseemly quarrel between Orangemen and Catholics in New York City, in which four lives were lost:—

"Is not this cause for deep humiliation? Earnest men have laboured for years to remove that bitter old taunt of our enemies. "You cannot unite." Patient workers have tried to teach the world, and and even ourselves, that this reproach was not the truth. This is the reward of their labours. Our own people in a strange land have insultingly turned on their benefactors and flung their labour in their faces. Oh, what a national degradation is this! We talk of patriotism and independence! We prate and boast of our national will! What evidence is this? What are we today in the eyes of Americans? Aliens from a petty island in the Atlantic, boasting of our patriotism and fraternity, and showing at the same time the deadly hatred that rankles against our brethren and fellow-countrymen. Why must we carry wherever we go, those accursed and contemptible Island feuds? Shall we never be shamed into the knowledge of our frozen impudence of allowing our national hatreds to disturb the peace and the safety of the respectable citizens of this country? Must the day come when the degrading truth cannot be muffled up, that the murderous animosity of Irish patriotism has become a public nuisance, in almost every corner of the World? We cannot dwell on this subject. We cannot, and we care not to analyze this mountain of disgrace to find out to what party the blame is attached. Both parties are to be blamed and condemned, for both have joined in making the name of Irishman a scoff and a by-word this day in America. If the Orangemen determine to parade they have a right to parade, that is, they have as much right to parade with Orange scarfs and banners as a Fenian regiment with green scarfs and sunbursts. But, it may be that neither party has a right to parade, that they have simply been tolerated by the authorities. If it is found that such toleration is detrimental to public security, we think that every reflecting Irish-American citizen will at once say that both processions should be proscribed. There should be only one flag raised in this country, and that flag is the Stars and Stripes.

Races and sects were to him a profanity—
Hindoo and Negro and Celt were as one—
Large as mankind was his splendid humanity,
Large in its record the work he had done.

Again his account of the Fenian invasion of Canada, under General O'Neill, in which he was war correspondent for the Pilot, created no small amount of sensation, for strange to say, he denounced and criticised the whole undertaking as "ill-judged, ill-managed and totally uncalled for. In Ireland Fenianism was a great tragedy, but in America it was a miserable farce." He broke no lances against windmills. Wherever he saw an abuse he attacked it with all his might, nor did he leave off until the abuse was either ended or satisfactorily remedied. The politician who sought his support, on the ground that he was a friend to the Irish, paid dearly for his hypocricy. The poor, helpless, ignorant Irish! Had they not brains and muscle? Had they not the use of the ballot? Were they not in a free land? What more did they ever want to hold their own? What need had they of friend—friends only on the day of election?

The comic Irishman—the wandering Hibernian minstrel—always low, degrading and vulgar, he drove from the stage, by elevating the tastes of his people for something higher, nobler, than the half-drunken, rollicking, devil may-care sort of creature palmed off on the public as a representative of the Irish race.

With Dr. Brownson (one of America's greatest literary men, once a Unitarian minister, but later a convert to Catholicity), he was forced to cross swords over an assertion made by the doctor in his Review, "that Ireland had suffered more from Protestant Irishmen than from Englishmen." O'Reilly knew the history of his country too well to allow such a statement to go unchallenged, and the result was a lengthy controversy out of which O'Reilly came bearing the palm of victory. For once the learned doctor met a foeman worthy of his steel, one he could not vanquish, because he was right, and he wanted the world to know the exact truth of the matter.

The speaker here turned to O'Reilly as a poet, and recited several of his most interesting poems, and the favourable criticism of such men as Whittier, Holmes and Longfellow, the last of whom, said the speaker, regarded O'Reilly as his warmest and best friend.

His speeches and lectures were also favourably commented upon, especially his addresses of welcome to Parnell, O'Brien, Redmond and McCarthy, and his speeches before the Papyrus and Boston Literary Clubs.

His work as a a novelist was slightly touched upon—only one novel, Moondyne Joe, being examined.

As a man, said the speaker, O'Reilly was generous, noble-minded, forgiving and kind. Kindness ruled his every action. Kind to others, he looked for kindness in return—he hated cant and hypocrisy, he loved honesty and manliness. Perhaps the best tribute I can pay to him is to read for you the words of those who knew him best:

Cardinal Gibbons said of him at his death: It is a public calamity, not only a loss to the country but a loss to the church and humanity in general.

President Cleveland said: I have heard with sincere regret that John Boyle O'Reilly is dead. I regarded him as a strong and able man, entirely devoted to any cause he espoused, unselfish in his activity, true and warm in his friendship and patriotic in his enthusiasm.

George Parson Lathrop, a literary man and convert, said: Except for the loss of my father, and my own and only son, I have never suffered a more bitter one than that inflicted by the death of my dear, my noble, my beloved friend, Boyle O'Reilly. Boyle was the greatest man, the finest heart and soul I ever knew in Boston.

He died at the age of forty-six, mourned by a grateful nation.

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, in an eloquent and appropriate speech, moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Mr. John Coughlin, and carried with applause.

JEWELS FOR VETERANS AND ALSO A PAST GRAND.

The Members of Otonabee Lodge Spend a Pleasant Evening in Honouring Old Members.

The proceeding at the regular meeting of Otonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F., were pleasantly varied last evening by several presentations which took place.

Bro. W. J. Patterson, P. G., who is leaving to take up residence in Otterville, was presented with a magnificent Past Master's jewel. The following address was read by Bro. Dr. Rose, P. G., the presentation being made by Bro. F. J. Might, N.G.

Bro. W. J. Patterson, Past Grand, Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F.:

Your brethren of this Lodge, No. 13, can not allow to pass the occasion of your departure from our midst without endeavouring in some way to mark the event with a slight expression of our good will towards you, and as a recognition on our part of your invaluable services to our Lodge, and to Oddfellowship generally in this district.

We feel that we cannot fully appreciate the loss we are about to suffer. Only your absence from the lodge-room and halls, can fully demonstrate to us the intrinsic worth of a whole-hearted, truly devoted Oddfellow.

We must feel grateful, however, when we reflect that a kind Providence has spared you to come in and go out from among us, during all these thirteen long years, and that while others of our membership have been called away to return no more forever, you leave us in the enjoyment of your usual good health, and with the hope of improving your prospects which, we sincerely trust, may be realized to the fullest extent.

Let us assure you that we will ever keep a warm spot near our social hearth-stone for you whenever you may choose to return, and that our best wishes will follow you wherever your lot may chance to be cast. We also trust that you may find a congenial place in the society of brethren of our Order where you are about to make your future home, and that our beloved Order may not lose your able and efficient services, always so cheerfully rendered.

We, therefore, desire you to accept this Past Grand's jewel, as a token of our good will, and a very slight recognition of your worth as a member of Old Peterborough Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F.

Signed on behalf of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F.

A. Rose, P.G.,
Jas. A. Tully, P.G.,
John M. Gemmell, V.G.

The presentation was fittingly acknowledged by Mr. Patterson.

Presentation of Veterans' Jewels were then made to Bro. Dr. Bell, P. G. M.; Bro. John Nugent, P.G.; and Bro. R. M. Roy, P.G. The appended address was read by Bro. Dr. Rose, P. G., the presentations being made by Bros. W. J. Squires, John Gemmell and F. J. Might.

Bro R. W. Bell, M. D., Lodge Physician, and Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario; Bros. John Nugent and R. M. Roy, Past Grands of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F.:

We, the members of Otonabee Lodge, while remembering our indebtedness to a departing brother, feel bound to recognize the fact that while "good men die young," as has been somewhat humourously said, and some good members are departing from our fraternal circle, we still have many good and estimable brothers, many of whose past years have been, and we trust many of whose future years will be spent with us in the unbroken enjoyment of our fraternal associations, which are always so interesting and pleasant, and very much so because of the efforts of those veterans of Oddfellowship.

While thus contemplating their circumstances and recognising their prosperous position as a lodge, your brethren felt it to be the proper time to mark their progress by bestowing upon you, three of our veteran members—tokens commemorative of your many years of service to the Order of Oddfellowship both in this lodge and in your original mother lodges.

On reference to the records of our Order we find that Bro. P. G. Master Bell became a member of Otonabee Lodge on the occasion of its resuscitation December 8th, 1882, although originally a charter member of Stella Lodge, No. 125, instituted January 23rd, 1874, and on removal from Carleton Place to Peterborough in 1876 he became a member of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, and so remained until the resuscitation of old Otonabee Lodge, No. 13 (originally instituted in 1846). Bro. Bell has filled almost every position in the gift of the Order to the Grand Master's chair, and his record has become provincial with regard to Oddfellowship.

We also find that Bro. John Nugent, Past Grand, was initiated into Lindsay Lodge, No. 100, on January 23, 1873, and hence is one year a senior of Bro. Bell as an Oddfellow; Bro. Nugent came to us from Lindsay, Nov. 2nd, 1885, and has since filled, with credit to himself, and great advantage to the Lodge, nearly all of the offices in Otonabee Lodge, and positions on all standing committees of the same.

We also find from the same source that Bro. R. M. Roy, Past Grand, came to us from Belleville Lodge No. 81, Aug. 15th, 1887, in which lodge he was initiated nearly thirty years ago, and is senior both of Bros. Bell and Nugent as an Oddfellow, although their juniors in this lodge. Bro. Roy has also filled with marked distinction and unusual ability almost all the offices in the gift of this Lodge, and has served upon all the committees whenever and wherever his services were required.

Brethren, it is with pride in the fact that we find members of old Old Otonabee Lodge No. 13, so worthy, that we present you with these veteran jewels, knowing that you will wear them with that dignity becoming to their possessors.

Signed on behalf of the lodge,
A. Rose, P.G.
Jas. A. Tully, P.G.
Jno. M. Gemmell, V.G.

Brief congratulatory addresses were made by Bros. Mowry, Walkey and Quinn of Otonabee Lodge, Bros. Perry and McFadden of Peterborough Lodge and Bro. Obendorffer of Kingston Lodge.

TEMPERANCE AND PROHIBITION.

AN ADDRESS ON THE SUBJECT BY REV. E. V. STEVENSON.

The Lecture to Men on Sunday in St. John's Church Proved Most Interesting — Sidelights on the Question.

"Temperance and Prohibition" was the problem which which the Rev. Mr. Stevenson confronted in his lecture to men at St. John's church Sunday afternoon. At the outset Mr. Stevenson indicated the course of the lecture as designed to deal with general principles and not with particulars and details. He argued the question purely as a problem affecting the general social welfare, avoiding the religious aspect of the topic and the statement of statistics, which might be coloured to prove any thesis.

What was evident and apparent to all who did not refuse to see, was the fact that the present condition of the liquor traffic was detrimental to the general interests of society. Useful individual lives were sacrificed, home life maimed and wrecked, and much suffering imposed upon innocent and loving lives, as a direct result of the intemperate use of alcoholic beverages.

Thoughtful men would differ as to the relative advantages or disadvantages of the temperate use of alcohol, but only a knave or a fool could venture to deny the evils of the intemperate use. The evil was not a new one. Noah and Lot did not escape the allurements of intemperance, and Nabal is recorded to have been on a certain occasion "Being drunken." All which seems to prove what has been somewhat controverted, that fermented liquors were known and used in the days of Biblical history. The evil had accumulated with passing ages, and modern provision and attractions of the trade had added to the facilities for intemperate drinking.

Facing these realities, the honest social reformer would ask himself the questions:

(a) Can this traffic be eradicated
(b) Can it be regulated and controlled?
(c) Or is society at large at the mercy of a minority, who are willing to increase their profits at the expense of the bodies and souls of men?

Whether desirable or undesirable in its principle the lecturer seemed of the opinion that a prohibitory measure was not now altogether desirable nor to hoped, for common experience seemed to prove that men were unwilling to be manacled by a law however good it might be. But of the right and duty of the people to control and regulate a traffic so evidently dangerous, the speaker was emphatic. In short, regulation and proper control was the hope of the community to-day.

The Ontario liquor license was reviewed. The speaker considered it a good law so far as it went—if it were strictly and impartially enforced. But the number of licenses in a community of this size appeared far too high, and the inclination to enforce the law too indifferent. There were two points of weakness in this law. First, it still left the profits of the trade in the hands of the vendor, and [a desire to increase sales, consequent. Secondly, in a condition of society not yet utopian, it was possible to conceive—"and mark I only say possible," said the lecturer—that the administrators of this law may be directly or indirectly interested in the profits of the business. Are there any improvements to be suggested in the present conditions of the traffic? There certainly are. First, the speaker offered his own suggestions: He believed that Jesus Christ had emphasized a clear principle of the working of evil when He said, "While men slept an enemy came." Evil always works in the dark and avoid- light. So long as men sleep in indifference the enemy will propogate the evil. Therefore, let men awake and demand a reform. First take away the inducements of personal profit and then clean out the saloons, take down the blinds, remove all obstructions and make the bar room as public as any other legitimate trade. If it is right for men to drink they should do it like men. The result would be that the bar-room "soaker" would vanish and evaporate, the evil surroundings would be removed, and the saloon frequented by a more desirable class of customers than at present. A more radical change was suggested by a system tried in Sweden with marked results. The system is known as the Gothenburg system. This system seeks first to remove advantages of personal gain from the traffic. A stock company is formed of the most irreproachable citizens of the town. This company controls all sales. Under their management the drinking shops have been reduced in number and improved in condition. Managers are appointed for these shops and paid fixed salaries. The profits of all sales are divided thus, 6 per cent. is paid to shareholders on all capital paid up, and the balance divided between charities and local corporations.

The scheme works with success in Sweden and, with modifications, in other countries in Europe.

In closing, the speaker urged for a high and fearless consideration of the question. It was the duty of all men to take some part in modifying an evil so apparent. Bishop Potter, of New York, had rather startled people by his recent assertion that saloons existed in New York because we had failed to provide anything better for men. The bishop only repeated the opinion of the Bishop of Chester, long since expressed, and Mr. Stevenson felt that the Church in every community would do well to provide some wholesome attraction in the way of social entertainment for men, which would prove a strong opposition to the attractions of the ordinary bar.

WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

ANIMAL HUMBUGS.

Tricks of Our Friends to Obtain Favors and to Avoid Work.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake when sick. After his recovery he often feigned coughing in order to procure dainties.

The cuckoo, as is well known, lays its eggs in another bird's nest, and, to make the deception surer, it takes away one of the other bird's eggs. Animals are conscious of their deceit, as is shown by the fact that they try to act secretly and noiselessly; they show a sense of guilt if detected; they take precautions in advance to avoid discovery; in some cases they manifest regret and repentance. Thus, bees which steal hesitate often before and after their exploits, as if they feared punishment.

A naturalist describes how his monkey committed theft. While he pretended to sleep the animal regarded him with hesitation, and stopped every time his master moved or seemed on the point of awakening.

HE THANKS HEAVEN.

That he Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, Which Saved His Life.

Bowmanville, Jan. 23—Marvellous indeed is the case of Mr. A. W. Gibbons, miller, of this town.

Here is his story, as he himself tells it: 'I couldn't eat, nor sleep; had terrible pains in my back and stomach.

"Doctors said I had Bright's Disease But they couldn't cure me.

"Thank Heaven, whether it was Bright's Disease, or anyone else's Dodd's Kidney Pills soon cured it.

"I hope the news of my cure will spread over the whole country, so that all sufferers will hear of the greatest kidney remedy in the world—Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the ONLY medicine that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

The Oasis of El Kantara.

With all the wild, fitful and forbidding nature that belongs to the Sahara, it has also its elements of peace and good will. The cheer of a green oasis is indeed one of its first greetings, and long before the great flat expanse of sand is reached the traveler approaching from the north looks down upon an island of emerald verdure. The oasis of El Kantara, the "first oasis" of the desert on the great caravan route leading to Lake Tchad, backs up its sea of palms to the very walls of the great Atlas, and far into the gateway itself the feathered dates scatter themselves to meet the poplars from the north.

How different, then, is this first view of the Sahara from that which the mind had pictured! It was late in the afternoon of an early September day, with the thermometer steadily rising from perhaps 92 degrees to 96 degrees, that we approached this land of true Africa. The bare and rugged rocks roll off from either side of us, to mingle with the almost endless wilderness of bowlders which cover the mountain foot, far off to the limits of vision. We pass caravans and parts of caravans, the swarthy children of the south contemplating our passage with at least the interest with which we drink in their picturesque garbs, the complacently meditating camels, the trains of yelping Arab curs and children galore. How different the two modes of travel, and what feelings must the contrast inspire within the minds of these poor toilers of the desert sands!—Popular Science Monthly.

THE JAPANESE HOME.

Houses Are Built So as to Withstand Earthquake Shocks.

Ida Tigner Hednett writes of "The Little Japanese at Home" in St. Nicholas. The author says:

The climate, of course, varies in different parts. Even in the midcountry the cold is intense in winter and the heat intense in summer, yet both cold and heat are somewhat lessened by the surrounding ocean. To strangers it seems odd to see orange trees bright with golden fruit and at the same time icicles glittering in the morning sun, but this is one of the strange sights presented to the view.

In their dwellings shelter from the rain, shade from the sun and free circulation of air are mainly sought by the Japanese, who, as a rule, seem to be able to endure much cold. Even on winter days their houses are seen entirely open to the morning sun, and in this respect they set a good example to their western brethren. Then, too, these houses must be such as will not be readily shaken to the ground in an earthquake, for Japan is a land of earthquakes.

For security against this danger the house is put together in a very simple way. All parts of the structure are held together, our author says, by a system of "dovetailing," neither nails nor screws being used in their production except for ornament. It is not made fast to the ground, but stands upon wooden legs, or columns, which are merely placed upon stones high enough to keep the ends out of water. Then when an earthquake occurs the building moves to and fro and settles down again after the vibration has ceased. It is believed that most of the damage from earthquakes in Japanese cities has occurred with houses having tiled roofs, as the tiles are easily shaken loose and, being heavy, cause destruction in their fall. Buildings with roofs of wood or thatch generally escape damage.

It is thought that the use of tiled roofs arose from the dread of fire. Although many roofs are made of stone tiles, the majority are of wood, bamboo or thatch. Thatch is much used in the poorer villages, but even temples as well as dwellings have been known to be thatched. On the ridge of this thatched roof the iris is frequently planted, and, when in bloom, its dark velvety purple blossoms and light green leaves give the house a picturesque appearance. Seen from a distance, the village looks as if there were little gardens on the tops of the houses.

Most dwellings are but one story high. When the roof and framework are made, it remains to arrange for the outside walls and the partitions of the rooms. Most foreigners regard the outside walls as huge windows, for they are mere light wooden latticework frames covered with a stiff, semitransparent paper. These frames slide in grooves, so that they can be taken out at pleasure, leaving the whole house open to the cool breezes. At night they are covered with amado, or wooden shutters, which also slide in grooves along the edge of the veranda or a projection of the floor, and so shut in the house. In the daytime the shutters are pushed back so as to form ornamental side pieces. This kind of wall and window in one is another of the needs of building in an earthquake land, where the use of glass would be dangerous and costly.

The rooms are made by means of sliding partitions of woven bamboo, or else of paper covered latticework similar to the outside walls, fitted into grooves in the ceiling. The ceiling and all the frames for outside and inside walls are of unpainted wood, and all parts of the house are generally kept perfectly clean.

Poor Economy.

The track superintendent of a western railway had recently adopted a new spike, which, comparatively speaking, was pretty expensive. He sent out word therefore that the spikes must be carefully looked after.

One day the road boss was walking up the track to where a section gang was working with the new spikes. He found one lying between the rails and pocketed it.

"Did you get my instructions about those spikes, Mike?" he said to the section boss.

"I did that, yer honor, and it's mighty careful I've been."

"Lose any?"

"Nary a wan," replied Mike, but a trifle hesitatingly.

"How about this?" And the telltale spike was shown him.

"Luk at thot, now!" said Mike in a delighted way. "Shure I've had wan of the min on a hunt fer that same shpike the lasht two days. Faith, it's glad I am yer honor found it."

The spike was worth about 4 cents.—Detroit Tribune.

THROWING RICE.

A Practice That One Railroad is Trying to Stop.

"Showering newly-married couples is a very old-time custom and will probably continue for all time to come—and it is a harmless custom. It is fun for the friends of the bride and groom doing the showering, and not harmful to the showered, but in some places it is a decided annoyance to others," said a traveling man. "On railroad trains for instance, where friends follow the the couple into the car and in their haste to do their work before the train starts not only shower the newly-married, but everybody who chances to sit within two or three seats of them (and I am one of the victims), to say nothing of covering the floor and cushions with rice. At some stations the friends are not allowed to pass out of the depot waiting-room and the rice is thrown as the couple leave, and others going out at the same time receive a liberal share. The floor is also covered with rice. The New York Central railroad sometime ago issued an order prohibiting the throwing of rice in or about the cars or about the depots, but little attention has been paid to it, and the throwing is done so suddenly that the depot attaches are unable to prevent it. Yet it does not occur as often now as formerly, and the railroad people are in hopes that it will cease entirely in the near future."

WHY HIS WIFE DIDN'T OBJECT.

Harvey Wasn't Doing Any Worrying and Could Stay Out All Night.

"Really, boys, I have to quit," said the man with the biggest stack of chips in front of him as he gathered in another jack pot.

"Oh, come off, that's not square," declared the biggest loser.

"Why?"

"You've got all the chips. Aren't you going to give the rest of us a show?"

"That's not it. You know I don't care for your money, but—"

"You're getting it."

"Maybe I am. But I really must quit. You see, I am married. You fellows are single. It is 12 o'clock now, and if I don't get home I will be in a pretty mess. As it is I expect to find my mother-in-law and my wife waiting for me. You are not married."

"I am," declared the man whose luck had just returned.

"And you are going to play all night?"

"If I want to."

"And drink?"

"Bet your life."

"And smoke?"

"Cert."

"Your wife won't say anything to you when you get home?"

"Not a word."

"Doesn't she object to your playing poker, drinking and smoking all night?"

"Oh, I don't know. I am not worrying about it. Stay all night!"

"There; you see it's a bluff!" declared the biggest loser.

"It's all very well for Harvey to talk about the way he has his wife trained, but I can't do it," returned the man with the biggest stack of chips, "but I tell you what I will do, I'll give my stack if he will tell me how he manages it."

"Done!" cried the man whose luck had turned, as he reached for them. "My wife is out of town visiting some friends."—Chicago Times-Herald.

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, appraising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 years' endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 00
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of—	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

CHAPTER XLIII.

A STRANGE PROCEEDING.

Aura Durand returned from the shopping expedition feeling, for some reason, in low spirits. During dinner she seemed preoccupied, and soon after she excused herself, saying that shopping always wearied her, and retired to her room.

If she sought solitude, she was doomed to disappointment, for scarcely ten minutes after she had left the drawing-room Mrs. Richards, too, arose and walked leisurely up the stairs, stopping at Aura's door. She came to consult the young lady upon some unimportant household matter, but she remained long after the matter was disposed of, chatting pleasantly, and seeming not to observe that Miss Durand was yawning, and her eyes growing heavy with sleep.

Suddenly she looked narrowly at the girl and then exclaimed with marked solicitude:—

"My dear child, how heavy and dull your eyes look! Does your head ache?"

Aura, with seeming reluctance, confessed that it did, and remarked that she would ring for Laura, if Mrs. Richards would excuse her, and retire. Instantly Mrs. Richards was at the bell.

"How thoughtless I have been," she said, self-reproachfully, "to keep you up like this. Laura will put you to bed, and I shall bathe that poor head for you. Now don't object, it will be a pleasure to me, and I know I can relieve the pains. I am a strong magnetizer."

It was quite useless to object; Laura was summoned and the disrobing process commenced. While Laura was brushing out her mistress' blonde hair, Mrs. Richards moved softly about, from the dressing-room to the bedside, and back again. On a tiny stand near the dainty bed stood a little ewer and a glass. As Mrs. Richards, in one of her silent marches to and fro, passed this stand, her hand hovered for an instant over the drinking glass, and when she turned away three tiny crystal drops were in the bottom of that glass.

At last Miss Durand was duly ensconsed in the snowy bed.

"Now," said Mrs. Richards, "prepare to go to sleep. Do you feel in the least sleepy?"

Aura said that she did, thinking the while, with an inward laugh, of Nina Annin and her all-night vigil.

"You must have your drink, I see," said Mrs. Richards, touching the ewer. "Take a sip, then, and go to sleep."

She poured out the water, and Aura drank it obediently, and then closed her eyes as commanded.

To and fro, to and fro, moved the deft hands of Mrs. Richards, and presently Aura's breathing became slow and regular, her clasped hands relaxed themselves and fell apart; she was sleeping. Really sleeping. Mrs. Richards satisfied herself on this point, and then she turned away with a triumphant smile upon her lips.

"Go to bed, Laura," she said to the little maid. "Poor child, you look tired, too; I will close Miss Aura's rooms; go to bed."

Laura obeyed quite willingly, and soon Mrs. Richards withdrew, leaving Aura Durand locked in a sleep from which she would not waken for hours. How fair she is as she lies there under the soft glare of the wax lights; Aura never sleeps without lights, subdued lights, near her, and to-night Mrs. Richards has left a few wax tapers ablaze, not only in the bed-chamber, but in the dressing-room and boudoir beyond. Moveless and still lies the fair sleeper.

Tick, tick, tick, tick, the little bronze clock in the dressing-room tells off the seconds, the minutes, almost an hour. Then the door of the boudoir opens as if by the hand of a spirit. Softly, slowly, it swings inward, and then a figure glides in, the figure of a man, a man clad in a long, loose, grey garment, and with his face and head entirely hidden by a velvet mask, and close-fitting velvet skull-cap. He closes the door through which he came, and bolts it without making a sound; then he takes up one of the wax tapers, and, holding it in his hand, passes through the dressing-room and approaches the bedside. He holds the taper aloft then, and bends down, gazing steadfastly at the sleeper. Then he starts back as if astonished; but a moment later he bends still nearer, holding the taper so close that the blonde hair upon the pillow seems almost endangered. At last he seems satisfied with his scrutiny, and then he goes back to the boudoir, replaces the taper, and draws from a pocket of the loose grey garment a tiny lantern of the "bull's-eye" order; this he lights, and the beams that shoot out are strong and bright. Now he is ready for work. He moves without apparent effort, but as noiselessly as a shadow. He must be the very prince of burglars, this masked man.

First, he goes straight to the bedside again, he puts down the bull's-eye, and begins a search about the bed. He puts his arm under the pillow on which rests the head of the sleeper, and lifts it from the bed. Then, with the other hand, he explores. Several articles he takes from underneath the pillow, and then he replaces it and the sleeper's head very gently, and turns to the stand whereon he has placed the things just removed from their hiding-place.

He draws a chair toward him, this nonchalant burglar, places it before the stand, turns the light of the bull's-eye full upon himself, and sits calmly down to examine his booty, there by the very bedside. First, there is a case of jewels, diamonds, superb ones; great blue gleaming sapphires; emeralds, of course Aura Durand would have emeralds; and a necklet of wonderful great pearls, with a shimmering pinky radiance.

They are worthy the jewel case of a crown princess, these gems, and the man seems to admire them, as he holds them up to catch the light, one after another. The settings, too, are splendid, and most of them seem quite new. He gazes at them after having replaced them in their satin beds, and seems to ponder. Then he closes the case, places it upon the stand once more, and takes up the next article. It is a smaller case; opening it he beholds a beautiful diamond-studded watch with its golden glittering chain. On the case of the watch is engraved these words: "Aura, from her father"; the burglar merely glances at this, and then closes the case, and places it beside the jewels.

Then he takes up a tiny, elegantly-mounted pistol. It is loaded, ready for instant use. He turns his face toward the sleeper as he holds it; perchance he smiles behind his mask. Aura Durand is prepared to defend herself, it seems, but she is quite defenceless now. The man turns his face away at last, and bends over the gleaming little weapon, examining it closely. It is of foreign manufacture, this he sees at a glance; and his quick eye soon discovers the name of the maker engraven upon it in tiny lettering.

And now he does something strange, something unprecedented, for a burglar; again he lifts the head of the sleeper, and carefully replaces jewels, watch, and pistol, just as he found them, retaining nothing save a tiny bunch of keys. Then, lantern in hand, he moves about the room, and from that to the next; he opens dressing-cases, drawers, receptacles of every sort; he searches for secret hiding-places, he inverts chairs, he searches their paddings, he feels about the cushions of divans and lounges, he overturns footstools, he peers behind pictures and hangings, he searches everywhere.

Finally, he pauses before a trun that stands in the dressing-room, a lady's travelling trunk, huge enough for a Flora McFlimsy. It is locked; and now he glides back to the bedside, takes from the stand the bunch of keys, and in a moment is kneeling beside the trunk, trying the lock with key after key. At last he has the right one, and presently the trunk is open, and he is rapidly turning over and examining the contents. It has a great many compartments, after the fashion of ladies' trunks, and, one after another, he opens them. Then he lifts out a tray, and begins swiftly to remove the dresses and shawls, the furbelows and laces, the soft silks, and dainty linen. And now the trunk is empty, or so it seems, and the burglar is bending over it, running his hands along the sides and over the bottom. Presently he plunges his hand into his pocket, and draws out a bundle, wrapped in soft flannel; this he unrolls, and then places upon the floor beside him some small and queer-looking steel instruments. One of these he takes in his hand, and half his body disappears within the trunk; then it emerges. Only to disappear again with another twisted bit of steel. When he again raises himself he holds in his hands not only the instruments of steel, but a flat morocco case, and two flat packages. The bottom of the trunk, or what seemed to be the bottom, has parted in the centre, and underneath is a shallow space. It is a trunk such as has been used by smugglers. A trunk with a false bottom.

The burglar places the morocco case and the two packets in his bosom, and then without replacing the contents of the trunk, or closing the hidden opening, he rises and gazes about him. His search is not yet ended. On the opposite side of the dressing-room is a door opening into a large closet. This falls next under his examination. The walls are hung with dresses, wraps, all the paraphernalia of a woman's toilet that ever yet hung on hooks. On the floor are several boxes and two trunks, somewhat smaller than the one without. The masked man examines all the dresses, especially the darker ones, and feels in all the pockets. Then he turns his attention to the trunks and boxes; they contain hats, boots, clothing, what not. The first trunk he finds is not locked; but the second and last to be examined resists his attempts to open it. Again he resorts to the bunch of keys, but they all fail him. He turns away from the trunk and seems to be at a loss. This is what he thinks as he stands there:—

"I have searched these rooms, every nook and crevice of them; where is the key to this trunk?"

Some thought has occurred to him; he takes up the lantern and hurries back to the bed-chamber; he pauses at the bedside, and bends above the sleeper. He pulls away the covering from about her shoulders and throat, and then he opens away from the white neck the robe that is scarce whiter, thereby exposing to view a slender gold chain; it is long, and worn loosely about the neck. He inserts one finger under this chain and draws it carefully upward. Ah, see! On the end of the chain are fastened two small keys. With deft fingers he removes them from the chain, and then he glides back to the closet and again bends over the trunk. The key fits—the trunk is open. As before, everything is removed; but not with so much care, for this receptacle contains discarded clothing, fragments of everything that women accumulate, and all crowded in, in a hasty manner; at the bottom of this trunk there lies a small black valise; this the man lifts out quickly and glances at critically; then to its lock he applies the second key. Again he is successful; the valise springs open, and the man, with eager hands, removes the contents. It is a dark-looking bundle; he unrolls it, glances just once at something inside, and is scarcely able to suppress a sharp exclamation. Then he rolls up the bundle quickly, shudderingly; hurriedly replaces it in the black valise, and then, leaving the contents of the trunks strewn all about, leaving the closet open and the boudoir door ajar, he glides, valise in hand, from the rooms. Five, ten, twenty, thirty minutes are ticked off by the little clock, and then this strangest of all strange burglars returns, comes softly in, bringing back the black valise. He replaces it just as he found it, having first locked it; then he restores to their original places every article removed from the closet, trunks and boxes, pausing at times to assure himself that he is making no mistake. Next he restores to order the great trunk in the dressing room, first replacing what appear to be the three packets in the false bottom. He works carefully, methodically, making no mistakes. When this last trunk is closed and locked he goes once more to the bedside, puts the keys again under the pillow, and the two detached ones once more upon the chain suspended about the neck of the sleeper.

Then he turns about and surveys the room, to assure himself that everything is just as when he first entered; he moves a chair a little, shakes out the folds of a curtain, surveys in the same manner the dressing-room and boudoir, and then, like a shadow, he steals away, closing the door behind, and re-enters no more.

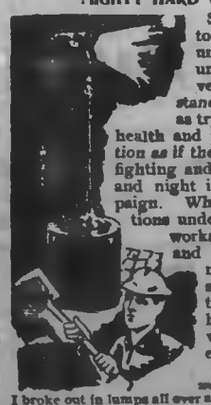
MIGHTY HARD WORK.



Some men have to do their work under all sorts of unusual and adverse circumstances that are just as trying upon their health and physical condition as if they were soldiers fighting and marching day and night in a hard campaign. When the conditions under which a man works are abnormal and unhealthy he needs to take special precautions to build himself up to withstand the extra strain.

"In 1894, I was working at night and I broke out in lumps all over and when these left the skin peeled off," says Mr. John A. Calloway, of 218 26th St., Columbus, Georgia, in a recent letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I had catarrh for four years and also liver and kidney trouble; when it would commence troubling me I would have a slight aching a little below the chest. I used many kinds of medicine but received no benefit. My eyes were sunken and my face was pale; I had pimples on my face and there was brown spots on my face. Now these are all gone. I took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. They are the best medicines I ever used in my life, and I do believe that I am entirely well. I have a good appetite but before I commenced treatment I had no appetite at all. Now I am like a child—ready to eat at any time of day or night. Last year I weighed one hundred and thirty-four pounds and now I weigh one hundred and forty-five. Please accept my thanks. I am so glad I found the right kind of medicine."

"Golden Medical Discovery" is free from alcohol; it is pure medicine and nothing else. Unlike the so-called "tonics" and "extracts" which tend to create an appetite for stimulants, the "Discovery" creates only a healthy natural temperance appetite for good food which nourishes and strengthens. The medicine dealer who says he has something "just as good" knows that he falsifies. If he urges an inferior substitute it is to gain a few pennies greater profit. No matter how discouraged you may be, write to Dr. Pierce for advice which he will send you free and which if followed, is bound to do you good.

CONSOLIDATION OF COUNTY BYLAWS.

A resolution was introduced recommending that Mr. W. H. Casement be appointed on the committee appointed by the county council two years ago to consolidate the bylaws of the county. The work was not completed, and it was considered advisable to retain the services of Mr. Casement until the work of the committee was finished. The resolution was carried.

MR. SHERRY DECLINES TO ACT.

Mr. J. B. Pearce stated that he had received a communication from Norwood, which stated that Mr. Geo. Sherry declined to act as trustee of Norwood High School. He suggested that Mr. W. H. Brethen be appointed to that position.

On motion of Messrs. Buck and Crowe, the name of Mr. Brethen was substituted for that of Mr. Sherry, as trustee of Norwood High School.

The council adjourned.

NEW BRUNSWICK ELECTIONS

On Feb. 13—Premier Emerson Wants the Country's Verdict.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 31.—Premier Emerson yesterday announced the dissolution of the Assembly. Nominations will take place on Feb. 11, polling a week later.

Premier Emerson defends his course on the ground that the action of the Moncton Conservative convention made it necessary for him to ascertain the feeling of the country in regard to running provincial politics on Federal lines. The Premier has placed provincial affairs first. He promises to prove that charges made against his Administration are baseless fabrications, and that the province has received value for every dollar expended.

Dr. Stockton charges the Government with extravagance and claims there was no reason for the dissolution.

The Daily Examiner.

VOL. XXVII, NO. 27. PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1899. PRICE TWO CENTS

Salutatory.

FEBRUARY 1st, 1899.

To-day, the New Firm of Robert Fair & Co. made its first bow to the public.

The Golden Lion, so successfully carried on by Robert Fair since the foundation o the business, has taken in a new partner in the person of Mr. Harry Adams, an experienced and careful Dry Goods man, who has been ntimately associated with the business for a period of over 15 years.

The development and scope of this leading Dry Goods, Millinery and Carpet House has resulted in an extensive and lucrative trade, built on merit.

Mr. Fair has been building for permanency, and he recognized the responsibility of years and the expectation of success.

We know you will expect more of us to-day. But for one pair of hands to oversee and manage a busi- of such importance has become a somewhat arduous undertaking.

The excellent team work of our store staff has, undoubtedly, counted for much, and has helped to run up our present high score. The advancement of one of the team is calculated to stimulate and and encourage still better work.

If we were to put into a few words what constitutes the claims of the new firm for your attention it is this: That our interests in store-keeping is to control a higher grade of goods than are usually sold at popular prices, and to tell a straight story about them without pretence or exaggeration.

To suppose that we shall allow better values to exist outside is not to know what kind of people we are and the way we do things.

It goes without the writing that we will not give first-class room to a second-rate stock.

With a complete knowledge of our business, the members of the new firm respectfully solicit a continuance of the generous patronage so kindly bestowed upon the Golden Lion during the past 16 years.

Yours respectfully,

Robert Fair & Co

We Never, NEVER Allow to Carry Over Stock

- From One Season to Another.

Rather sell below Cost. It brings trade and gives us money in hand, and helps to keep stock fresh.

We have'nt any unsaleable goods stowed away in our cellar or garret.

If we happen to have a line of winter goods and they don't move, we don't fret, worry or feel sore. We move them—price will do it. Bring the people in by low prices—they bring other money with them.

If trade is dull, we can force it. Push comes first, prosperity comes next. Our January Clearing Sale Always gives us a busy month.

We never leave our store to take a social drink, or smoke a Cigar, during business hours.

Don't shop here if you don't want BARGAINS—especially this month.

Opening of the Second Session of the Ninth Legislature.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Sir Oliver Mowat Read It in the Presence of a Distinguished Assemblage—Text of the Document—Many Matters of General Interest Touched Upon —Important Measures Foreshadowed.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—The second session of the ninth Legislature was opened by His Honor Sir Oliver Mowat in due form yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The attendance was very large and the floor as well as the galleries were crowded to overflowing. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor was received upon his arrival by a guard of honor, composed of a detachment of the Royal Grenadiers, under the command of Capt. Meyers. The Government House party consisted of Miss Mowat, Mr. Fred. Mowat, Mrs. Maclennan and Mrs. C. R. W. Biggar. Occupying prominent positions on the floor of the House near the Government House party were Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Harcourt, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Dryden and Mrs. Garrow.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor entered the chamber escorted by his aides, Capt. H. M. Mowat, Q.O.R., and Capt. Cosby, 48th Highlanders, and accompanied by Commander Law and a brilliant staff.

His Honor then read the speech from the throne:

Speech From the Throne.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I have much pleasure in again meeting you as representatives of the province in Parliament assembled. After the adjournment of the Legislative Assembly in August last, it was found to be necessary that the Assembly should be prorogued in order that the bye-elections might be proceeded with and thus effect given to the intention of the Legislature. I, therefore, on the 12th day of October, upon the advice of my Ministers, issued my proclamation proroguing the Assembly.

You have doubtless learned with satisfaction that since you last met Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint the Earl of Minto Governor-General of Canada, as successor to the Earl of Aberdeen, on his resignation a few months before his full term of office had expired. I am confident the people of Canada will find a constitutional ruler who will represent Her Majesty with ability and dignity in all the duties that pertain to his high office.

Lord Aberdeen's departure from Canada was a source of sincere regret to the people of this province. By his deep interest in every matter affecting the prosperity and development of Canada, and by his wise and statesmanlike administration of public affairs, he strengthened the attachment of Canadians to the Empire, and to the principles of constitutional government.

The Countess of Aberdeen, too, specially endeared herself to the Canadian people by the interest which she constantly exhibited in their social well-being and in everything which affected the prosperity of Canada.

The decision of the Court of Appeal upon the questions submitted to that court under the Act of last session, confirming the right of poll constables and others, when otherwise qualified, to vote at provincial elections, is doubtless satisfactory to you all.

The legislation of last year which provided that all pine logs cut on the Crown domain after the termination of the then existing timber licenses should be sawn in Canada, has been made effective by inserting the manufacturing conditions in all renewal of licenses for the current year. In this connection I am pleased to be able to state that the cut of logs for export by American limit holders for the last license year did not appreciably exceed that of former years. It is anticipated that by reason of the legislation referred to there will be a sensible reduction in the revenue to be derived during the current year from timber sources. It will, therefore, be necessary to make provision by which any probable deficiency in the revenue may be otherwise made up. Measures to that end will be submitted for your consideration.

It will be satisfactory to you to learn that the mining industry of the province continues to improve, and that it is giving constantly increasing employment, to capital and labor.

You will be gratified to learn that since your last session the province has assumed the administration of the provincial fisheries. A fishery branch has been established, departmental officials have been appointed, and the outside service is being organized. The important rights and interests which are held by the judicial committee of the Privy Council to be vested in the province relate to a provincial asset which is of great value, which is to be husbanded and preserved as an important source of food supply, and is confidently expected to increase the annual revenue of the province. A bill embodying some needed improvements in the law may be submitted for your consideration and approval.

You will be pleased to know that satisfactory progress has been made in enforcing the provisions of the Act to prevent the spread of the San Jose scale, passed a year ago. A further measure upon the same subject will be submitted for your approval.

Experience has shown that the election laws may be further improved, and a bill for that purpose will be submitted to you.

Among the other measures to be submitted for your consideration will be a bill for amending the school laws; a bill to authorize the Parliament of Canada to pass an Act confirming the survey of the boundary between the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba, made by commissioners appointed for that purpose, and a bill to improve "The Workman's Compensation for Injuries Act."

Upon application of the Lord's Day Alliance, it has been arranged to submit to the courts certain questions respecting the interpretation of the Lord's Day Act. Details of the case to be so submitted are still under consideration, and as soon as settled an order-in-council will be passed for the submission under the statute.

The public accounts and the reports of the various departments of the public service will be submitted to you.

The estimates for the current year have been prepared with a view to economy and efficiency, and will, at an early day, be laid before you.

I feel assured that you will give your earnest consideration to the subjects which I have mentioned, and to such other matters as may appear to you to be for the public good.

Session of the House.

After the withdrawal of society, which was present in large numbers, Mr. Speaker made announcements to the House regarding elections and then the Attorney-General introduced Hon. John Dryden in the customary formula. The same proceeding was gone through with the other new members, Hon. G. W. Ross presenting Mr. Garrow, West Riding of Huron; Hon. R. Harcourt introducing Mr. Barber, member-elect for Halton; Hon. William Harty introducing Mr. Aylesworth and Hon. R. Harcourt Donald Macnish of West Elgin; Hon. E. F. Davis introduced Mr. Douglas of E. Northumberland; Hon. G. W. Ross introduced J. Loughrin, Nipissing; Colonel Matheson introduced William John Allan, member-elect for North Hastings.

The Address in Reply.

The Attorney-General, seconded by Hon. G. W. Ross, then moved that the speech of the Lieut.-Governor be taken into consideration to-day. The reply will be moved by Mr. Russell of East Hastings, seconded by Mr. Pardee of West Lambton.

Mr. Gibson's Absence.

The Attorney-General then moved that the House adjourn, but Mr. Whitney asked after Mr. Gibson, and the Attorney-General said the Minister was suffering from a cold, but he hoped two or three weeks would restore him to health.

The House then adjourned till 3 o'clock to-day.

Bribery Case Dismissed.

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 2.—An interesting case was before Judge Price yesterday. Isaac McEwen sued W. F. Parrott of Wilton for $200 penalty under the Ontario Election Act, alleging that he bribed a man named Revell, by paying him $2 for his vote. There were many witnesses, but the case was dismissed with costs against plaintiff.

Mounted Police All Right.

Vancouver, Feb. 1.—Col. Reicherbach, a recent arrival from the Klondike, speaking of the work done by the Northwest Mounted Police, said that anyone in the Canadian Yukon was as safe as a resident of Victoria, Vancouver or Rossland, the only three Canadian towns he had been in, and was therefore able to speak about. He classed them as a magnificent body of men, with splendid officers. He had not the slightest complaint to make of any Canadian official he had met, from Mr. Ogilvie down.

They're on His Trail.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—His worship the Mayor stated yesterday that he had found out who the employe was that offered Ald. Roy notes to the amount of $600 for a civic favor that he wished to get. The employe works in the health department. He was acting as a go-between for certain outside parties. It is the Mayor's intention to thoroughly investigate the whole affair.

THE N.W. TERRITORIES

Evidences of Their Posperity Supplied by Hon. J. H. Ross.

LOOKING AFTER SUBSIDIES.

Over 500 Local Improvement Districts Have Been Organized—Many Schools Have Been Instituted—The Immigration Policy of the Government Is to Look Sharply After Interests of Newcomers.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Hon. J. H. Ross, Commissioner of Public Works for the Northwest Territories, is in the city. He is here conferring with the Minister of the Interior and other members of the Government on matters affecting the Territories.

"There are no fixed subsidies for the Territories, as there are with the other provinces, and it is therefore necessary to talk over matters with the Government here and give an estimate of what we want," said Mr. Ross.

Referring to the work done in his department last year, Mr. Ross said: "We have organized 500 local improvement districts in order that the people themselves may undertake the carrying out of minor works and improvements, thus giving the Government an opportunity to undertake large and more prominent works."

As an evidence of the Territories' prosperity, Mr. Ross mentioned that during the last few months a very large number of schools have been organized, sometimes as many as two or three a day. No better evidence of progress could be adduced. The people of the Territories are prosperous and a large influx of settlers is expected.

The Territorial Government has no immigration policy of its own, but it takes an interest in looking after newcomers and in this way does much to promote settlement, believing that the best kind of an immigration agent is a contented settler.

MR. HAMBIDGE WAS KILLED.

He Was Father of New York Truth's Great Illustrator.

Ingersoll, Feb. 2.—Mr. George Hambidge of the Ingersoll Pork Packing Company met with an accident at the residence of Mr. William McGrath on Monday night which has resulted fatally. Mr. Hambidge's wife and family are in Toronto visiting relatives, and during their absence he was boarding at Mr. McGrath's. He went to the house for tea a bis usual hour, and after supper went upstairs. When going from one of the other boarders' rooms to his own he had to pass the stairs, and it is supposed stepped over the landing. He fell to the bottom, alighting on his head. He was carried upstairs to his room and a physician was sent for. When the doctor arrived it was found that he was pretty badly shaken up, but his injuries were not thought serious. The people in the house, thinking that he was not seriously hurt, retired at their usual time.

In the morning one of the inmates of the house went to Mr. Hambidge's room, and he was unconscious. The doctor was immediatly sent for, but nothing could be done. He never regained consciousness, and passed away about 11 o'clock. Concussion of the brain is given as the cause of his death.

Deceased had been a resident of this town for a number of years, and has been a valued employe of the Ingersoll Packing Company for over 18 years. He was 56 years old, and one of his sons is Jay, the great newspaper illustrator in New York.

Well Made and Makes Well

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by experienced pharmacists of today, who have brought to the production of this great medicine the best results of medical research. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a modern medicine, containing just those vegetable ingredients which were seemingly intended by Nature herself for the alleviation of human ills. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach and digestive organs and creates an appetite; it absolutely cures all scrofula eruptions, boils, pimples, sores, salt rheum, and every form of skin disease; cures liver complaint, kidney troubles, strengthens and builds up the nervous system. It entirely overcomes that tired feeling, giving strength and energy in place of weakness and languor. It wards off malaria, typhoid fever, and by purifying the blood it keeps the whole system healthy.

DECREASE IN CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

The first installment of the annual report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries has just been issued for distribution, and contains the record of chattel mortgages down to 1897. The figures, tabulated by the London Advertiser, are interesting, as they afford good indication of the progress of the Province. It is a good sign that the number and value of chattel mortgages showed a falling off in 1897, and were the lowest in five years. The number on record and undischarged for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1897, and the eight preceding years is thus tabulated :

1897	21,526	$13,382,195
18 6	21,799	13,861,716
1895	21,891	11,012,880
1894	21,750	11,259,305
1893	19 722	9,383,385
1892	19,382	10.045,477
1891	19,418	9 804,382
1890	17,903	8,978,556
1889	16,214	7,491,946

More than one-half the number of all these mortgages are registered against farmers, but the farmers' mortgages total only $3,933,600. In the number of mortgages York leads, with 2,439; Kent has 1,362, Grey 1,251, Simcoe 942, Bruce 911 and Middlesex 823. In amounts, York leads, with $1,804,656; Carleton has $1,049,157, Peterborough $681,504, Victoria $611,334, Nipissing $579,363, Parry Sound $576,010, and then Algoma, Haliburton, Gray and Middlesex, in the order named. The standing of the large and populous county of Middlesex is very favourable.

THE County of Oxford is emerging from the methods of barbarism and adopting the methods of civilization. The county council has decided by a vote of eight to four to purchase the toll roads and abolish the toll gates, which will soon disappear.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. F. J. Cross, representing the Stock Veneer Co., of Chatauqua, N.Y., is around here picking up birds-eye maple logs. He secured a number of car loads

We noticed in your issue of Monday, in your Toronto column, that Mrs. Phelan, mother of Frank Phelan, who is in the Toronto General Hospital, was dead. Such, we are pleased to state, is not the case, as she is alive and well and able to be around and as smart and active as she has been for years.

A hockey team will be up from Peterborough on Friday night to play a friendly game with our local team.

Mr. Gus Sawers is among those laid up with la grippe.

Rev. A. C. Reeves was preaching in the vacant charge at Chesley last Sunday.

Rev. Hugh Munro, of Knox College, Toronto, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church last Sunday, morning and evening.

Mr. F. J. Tate has a bad attack of la grippe. Small boys are entertained of his recovery.

Mr. Fred. LaFevre has been able to get down into the village.

The churches were badly thinned out on Sunday, owing to the grippe, which is very prevalent, not many homes escaping it.

Miss Nellie Fischer was up from Peterborough, spending a few days visiting her father.

Mr. W. H. Ponton, of Napanee, was in the village on Tuesday.

Mr. Grimson, of Lindsay, was the guest of Mr. Wm. Cox this week.

The Kickapoo Medicine Co., after being here for about ten days, went to Hall's Bridge on Monday. While here they did a thriving trade, drawing large crowds every evening to their entertainments.

Miss Maud Baptie returned home from a visit to Norwich.

Court Lakefield, No. 43 C. O. F., will hold its regular meeting on Thursday evening of this week. Initiation.

On Monday evening will be the regular meeting of Beresford L. O. L., No. 122, in the Orange Hall.

Clementi Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 313, will hold their regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the Masonic Hall.

The regular meeting of Munro Camp, No. 150, Sons of Scotland, will be held in the Sons of England Hall on Thursday evening of next week.

HOCKEY.

On Saturday afternoon last the H Colts of Peterborough drove up to Lakefield and played a friendly game with "The Grove" team. The game was a very exciting one, and was witnessed by quite a number of spectators. The following were the players :

R Dobbin	point	J Sibbald
R Armstrong	cover point	S Ridpath
E Maybee	forwards	R Blomfield
D Hammond		B Ridpath

M L Strickland, referee.

The Colts started the game, scoring the first goal in a few minutes, but it was the last chance they had to score. The home team followed up with five goals, the first half ending in favour of the Grove by 5—1.

The second half was all in the Groves' favour, the Colts not having a chance to score a goal, whilst the Grove put four more between the sticks, the game ending in favour of the Grove by 9—1.

The Grove put up a great game, their combination being very good. The Colts were looked after very closely and were not allowed to get in any combination work.

The Lakefield hockey team was in Bobcaygeon on Monday evening and beat the Bobcaygeon team by 7 to 5.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonising pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

OBMEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Our village during the month of January has been exceedingly quiet owing to the diphtheria scare, but which only developed two cases that proved fatal.

The la grippe epidemic has been passing over every family. Two deaths have resulted from this.

The Victoria county house of refuge has received a six months hoist. No doubt people would look upon the project with more favour were they to give it greater consideration.

Nichol & Parkin's shingle mill are securing large quantities of timber.

Mr. Graham, proprietor of the Commercial House, is gradually working up a fine business.

Dr. Thompson is very busy and has no cause now to remove from the village. Dr. Cornwall is laid up with an attack of rheumatism, and unable to attend to his professional duties.

There is now good sleighing to Peterborough, and will no doubt attract many from this side to the markets.

The Farmers Institute meeting last Friday evening held in the Bradburn hall was fairly well attended, but not so large as otherwise owing to la grippe epedimic. One pleasant feature no allusion was made to it being a political scheme. Owing to this and other means farmers in the township were never so ambitious to advance. Nearly every one has gone into the dairying, and would not change this lucrative plan, nor do they want a change of government.

BAILLIEBORO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Thursday, Jan. 12th, 1899, there passed away one of the oldest residents of South Monaghan in the person of Margaret, widow of the late George Kidd. The deceased, whose maiden name was Margaret Lattimer, had attained the age of 86 years and was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, on the 6th of March, 1812, and came to Canada in the year 1832, and was married to her late husband in St. Paul's church, Port Hope, on June 2nd, 1836. Mr. Kidd, who was born in County Down, Ireland, in 1806, was a blacksmith by trade and after a short residence in Port Hope, settled in Baillieboro, where for many years he did a large and successful business until he died about 15 years ago.

There are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother, Henry, who falls heir to the property; William, near Owen Sound; Joseph, of Oil City, Penn.; Mrs. John Myers, Toronto; Mrs. John Bevington, of St. Paul's, Minn.; and Mrs. Isaac Doyell, of St. Thomas. One daughter, Mary Ann, and two sons, John, late of the Grand Trunk Railway, Toronto, and James, predeceased them.

TWIN TORTURERS!

Lumbago and Rheumatism made Harmless by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lumbago and Rheumatism cause endless pain and suffering. Every man and woman who runs chances of getting wet, or catching cold, is liable to suffer from one or both. Our hospitals are full of sufferers from these diseases; none are more painful. Every nerve is on fire; every joint is a centre of agony; every muscle an area of torture. To move hand or foot makes the victim shriek with agony.

Rheumatism makes more cripples than all the railroad accidents that ever happened. Twisted, pain-shaped skeletons of humanity, who cannot walk without misery, are to be seen every day. The kidneys are to blame. If they are healthy you needn't fear Rheumatism or Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys healthy and cure Rheumatism and Lumbago. Dodd's Kidney Pills ALWAYS CURE.

THE LOCAL MARKETS.

THE GRAIN MARKET.

In a conversation with Mr. J. J. McBain this afternoon he spoke as follows :

The deliveries in grain are increasing quite rapidly during the last few days. English and American markets have dropped about 6 cents a bushel during the past three or four days. Last week there was quite a boom. It looked as though we would have considerably higher prices for a time, but a reaction set in quite suddenly and the local prices are now about 70c for wheat: which is full value in accordance with outside markets. There is no doubt a considerable quantity of grain still left in farmers' hands throughout the district, which is largely composed of wheat, oats and peas. We expect liberal deliveries during the months of February and March.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

There has been a marked improvement in the cattle trade during the week. Export steers weighing from 12 to 13 cwt. brought from $4 to $4.50 per cwt. live weight. Bulls fit for export, weighing from 14 to 17 cwt, brought from $3 to $3.50 per cwt. There is also an advance of about 25c. per cwt. in good butcher cattle. Good butchers' steers and heifers weighing ten to eleven hundred bring from $3 50 to $4 per cwt, with common cattle, fat cows and medium butchers cattle selling down as low as 2½ to 3c. per pound. Stockers are in first class demand at steady prices.

Sheep and lambs sell at 3 to 3½ for export, sheep and lambs $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

The hog market shows no improvement at present. Strictly selects 160 to 200 lbs. bringing 4¼c. Lights, 4¼c. and all thick fat hogs any weight, 3¾c. These prices are weighed off cars.

The advance in prices in good cattle is general and it looks at present as though we were going to have stronger prices for this class of stock for the balance of the season.

Should prices remain as they are at present or show any advance, the local butchers will find it necessary to make a material advance in the prices of their beef, and it is the opinion that best cuts will have to retail in a short time at 15 cents per pound.

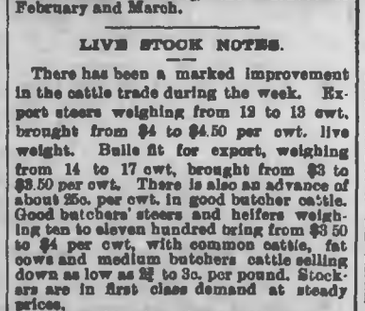
The butchers in Toronto and Montreal have already found it necessary to advance their prices.

To-day Mr. H. P. Kennedy is shipping two cars of stockers, mixed butchers and exports. He bought a bunch of choice butcher cattle from John Johnston, of North Monaghan, at 4 cents per lb., and a pair of fine export steers from S. Redmond, of Otonabee, at 4¼c. He paid as high as 4½c for a fine bunch of steers to Messrs. Herb and Bert McKee, of Smith, to be delivered in a few weeks time.

THE HIDE MARKET.

The hide market is fairly brisk as a good deal of killing is carried on amongst the farmers during the cold weather until the Lenten season sets in. In a conversation with Mr. Thos. Brightman this afternoon he quoted hides at from 6½ to 7½ cents per pound. The price paid in Toronto is seemingly higher, as the figures offered are larger, but it must be borne in mind that the muzzles, legs and tails, as well as other portions, are not allowed to count as weight, which more than balances the scales in Peterborough's favour.

Calf skins or deakins are worth from eight to nine cents, according to the size and quality, and sheep skins bring from fifty to eighty cents. Good fleece runs at about 15 cents, and $3.50 is offered for tallow.



BACON FOR ENGLAND.

It is hard to conceive of the immense quantity of bacon which is being shipped by the Matthews Co. to England. The last shipment consisted of ten cars, and these are of so frequent occurrence that it seems hardly necessary to paragraph them every time a shipment is made, and with the increased facilities the firm possesses for the next season's operations, the hogs in this locality will be of short lived duration when they become prime and ready for the English breakfast table.

VETERAN MOTZ HONORED.

The German Journalist of Berlin Banqueted by His Friends.

Berlin, Ont., Feb. 1.—Mr. John Motz, the veteran journalist of this country, and numbered among the oldest and most influential citizens of this town, was banqueted in an elaborate manner last evening by the Concordia Society and the press. The affair took place in the spacious quarters of the Concordia Society, which were filled with a body of men highly representative of the civic bodies, professional and business men.

Mr. Motz, together with Mr. Rittinger, whose death occurred a year ago, founded The Journal, a capital German weekly, that was the means of making the owners wealthy. The honor conferred upon Mr. Motz marked his retirement from the journalistic field, which he entered in 1850. Mr. Motz has also been connected with the Concordia Society for over 20 years.

Did Not Find Her Brother.

Buffalo, Feb. 1.—Miss Tillie Bryson came from Quebec a week ago to look for a long-lost brother, and the Poor Department will have to send her back to Canada. John Bryson, the brother, disappeared from his home in Quebec when a young man. That was nearly 25 years ago, and no member of the family has seen him since. Recently the sister heard that he had worked as a carpenter in Buffalo three years ago, and as soon as she could get enough money to bring her to Buffalo she came. She spent all her money in searching for him. She will be sent to her home at once.

The Cornwall Burglars Tried.

Cornwall, Ont., Feb. 1.—Thomas Carney and Jack Dignam, the burglars who last week broke into Mrs. W. Colquhoun's cellar, came up yesterday afternoon before his honor Judge Pringle, and entered a plea of guilty. Carney is an old offender and was sentenced to five years in the Kingston Penitentiary. Dignam's sentence will be given to-day.

It will be remembered that Carney was caught red-handed by three plucky boys, and he afterwards squealed on Dignam.

BALFOUR'S BRAVE WORDS.

Personal Interests Will Not Prevent Him Speaking His Mind—The Church Crisis.

London, Feb. 2.—Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader in the House of Commons, received at Manchester yesterday a deputation from the local branch of the Protestant League, who visited him with reference to his recent advocacy of the establishment of a Catholic University in Ireland, and also to learn his views as to the action to be taken in connection with the so-called lawlessness in the Established Church.

In regard to the university, Mr. Balfour emphasized his previous arguments in favor of it. He said he did not advocate it on behalf of the Government. His advocacy was due to his personal conviction, which he had conscientiously expressed. He was aware that he had thereby offended many of his Protestant friends, and that his personal interests as regards his political position had been injured by the views he expressed. It was, however, a matter of indifference to him whether he remained in public life or not, but it was not a matter of indifference if, by remaining in public life, he was prevented from expressing the views he conscientiously held.

The Illegal Practices.

Referring to illegal practices in the Established Church, Mr Balfour said he had not observed them himself, but was willing to accept the statement that such practices existed in certain places. He agreed with the deputation that these practices were highly objectionable, and constituted a grave danger to the Church, which ought to be ended. He doubted, however, whether a demand for Parliament to intervene would be wise. He thought that those favoring such a demand despaired too soon of the bishops restoring discipline. He admitted that the bishops during the last few years had been slack in preserving discipline, which fact was recognized by them, as was evident from the recent action taken by them. He believed that the erring clergy would now bow to the authority of their bishops. Mr. Balfour pleaded that the controversy should not be embittered by pressing for legislation until its necessity was absolutely demonstrated.

The address, on the whole, satisfied the deputation, though several of the members emphatically expressed their distrust of the willingness of the bishops to enforce discipline.

LIKE RHODES IN AFRICA.

Mr. Morgan, British M.P., Will Administer a Portion of China.

Pekin, Feb. 2.—The final contract of the mining concession of Mr. William Pritchard Morgan, member of Parliament for the Merthyr-Tydvil division of Wales, in the Province of Szechuan, has been signed. It is understood that the contract secures for Mr. Morgan, in partnership with an American syndicate and the Chinese authorities, control of all the mine and oil fields in the province. The Americans, it is added, provide 25 per cent. of the capital, the Chinese officials provide 50 per cent., and Mr. Morgan to provide the balance. Mr. Morgan, it is further asserted, intends to start with a capital of $5,000,000, and proposes to administrate Szechuan on the same lines as followed by Mr. Cecil Rhodes of South Africa.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E Hart, of Crotos, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My Husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

Cambon Was Cautious.

London, Feb. 2.—M. Paul Cambon, the French ambassador, addressed the French Chamber of Commerce in London yesterday. He did not fulfil the expectations of those who predicted that he would take a leaf from the book of Sir Edmund Monson, the British ambassador in Paris, whose recent speech on the relations of France and England caused a sensation. He did not refer in any way to the international situation. He appealed in a general way to the chamber to use its influence to promote harmony in the interests of common prosperity.

A Thousand Francs Wagered.

Paris, Feb. 2.—The French are annoyed at the recent criticism of the submarine boats, for which the Government has made large appropriations, and are arranging for exhaustive trials to justify their adoption. The skeptical ones are not all outsiders. The editor of L'Illustration here has wagered the editor of The Echo de Paris 1,000 francs that a vessel which he has selected can avoid a submarine attack. The trial is to be made shortly, and there is enormous interest in the test.

German Army Gambling Scandals.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—In the Reichstag yesterday there was a discussion of the recent gambling scandals in Berlin and Hanover, in which a number of army officers were implicated. The Minister of War expressed regret at the occurrence and said the Emperor was proceeding unsparingly against those who were concerned in the scandals, in order to uproot the evil.

Too Little Blood

That is what makes men and women look pale, sallow and languid. That is what makes them drag along, always tired, never hungry, unable to digest their food, breathless and palpitating at the heart after slight exertion, so that it is a trouble to go up stairs. They are "Anæmic," doctors tell them; and that is Greek for having "too little blood." Are you like that? Are your gums pale instead of being scarlet? Pull down your eyelid—Is the lining of it blood-shot and pale? That is where "too little blood" shows.

More anæmic and weak people have been made strong, energetic, cheerful men and women by taking than by any other means. They are the finest Tonic in the world; they have cured more people than any other medicine, but you must get the genuine—substitutes are worse than useless, they are dangerous.

In package like this—Always printed RED.

David R. McKay, the well-known baker, of Stellarton, N. S., writes—"I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was very badly run down; could not work and could not sleep at night. My appetite was poor and I was loosing flesh. I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was surprised at the rapidity with which they built me up. In a few weeks my weight increased from 130 to 149 pounds. My appetite returned, I could sleep well, and could do my work without feeling tired.

If your dealer does not keep them, send the price, 50 cents a box or $2.50 for six boxes, to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, and get the genuine by return mail.

RAILWAYS IN B. C.

Hon. Joseph Martin Is Working Some New Ideas—The Pass System Gets a Set-Back.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 2.—Recognizing the defects, which are many, in the methods pursued by the late Administration in dealing with railway matters, the Government purpose instituting some radical changes in the railway policy of the province. Under the old regime, a company building a railway under a charter granted by the Legislature could, after securing any subsidy granted, obtain a charter from the Dominion Government and then laugh at, and deliberately violate, the restrictions and regulations of the Provincial Act.

To remedy this, it is proposed to provide that should a railway company obtain a charter from the Dominion Government, with a view of over-riding the Provincial Act, thus evading the regulations laid down therein, the privileges conferred by the Provincial Act shall cease. This will of necessity put a stop to the practice of thus setting provincial legislation at naughts, and will secure to the province absolute control of all railway charters.

It is further the intention to provide in future railway charters that all those persons whose transportation would otherwise be a charge against the Government of the province shall be conveyed without charge. This will not be an act of courtesy or privilege accorded by the railway, but one of the conditions on which the charter is granted. This will result in a tremendous saving to the province. It needs but a glance at the public accounts to recognize what a large difference this will make in the expenditures, especially in the administration of justice.

The employment of Chinese or Japanese on the railway during construction or afterwards, in any capacity, will be prohibited, on pain of forfeiture of charter.

Mr. James Farr, of the well-known firm of J. & E. A. Farr, Chilliwhack, B. C., writes: "I have been very badly troubled with catarrh for years, and tried all the advertised remedies and many Doctors, but in every case the catarrh came back. One year ago I purchased six boxes of Japanese Catarrh Cure and since finishing the treatment with this remedy, have not felt the least sign of catarrh. My nephew, William Bentley, was also so bad with catarrh that it was unpleasant to go near him; he has also been cured by Japanese Catarrh Cure. Pleasant Moments.

It has been said with a great deal of truth, that you can never really become acquainted with a man until you have supped with him. In order to insure a pleasant time, good tea must be used. During the past five years "SALADA" has become a familiar word to every newspaper reader, and, judging from the immense consignments which are being sent out every day, "SALADA" Tea must be just as familiar in the homes. In the face of keen competition that has arisen since it was first put on the market in the package form, the fact that the demand is steadily increasing requires no comment; it tells its own story. "SALADA" is King. 1d

THE MARRIED MEN'S ESSAY

A Very Fair Success, Considering—A Large Attendance and Varied Programme.

By a Lady Contributor

But man, vain man,
Drest in a little brief authority—
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
. . . . .
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven
As make the angels weep.—Shakespere.

The married men's social held in the George street school room last night was in a sort of a crude way a great success—considering the elements concerned in its management and considering that the refining and systematising influences of the ladies was entirely wanting.

The programme of the evening was entirely provided by the married men and the wives present regarded with sarcastic interest the efforts of those who have often made home vocal with their self-sufficient theories of how things should be done.

Mr. Frank Dobbin occupied the chair and introduced the programme, which was exclusively contributed by benedict talent. Hearty applause, not unmixed with a suspicion of patronage, was accorded the first number, a chorus by the married men, whose successful attempts at harmonious co-operation seemed all the more creditable from their lack of practice in their domestic relations.

This was followed by a novelty called a walking debate on the subject of the too great length of the Canadian winters. The affirmative was taken by Messrs. S. R. Armstrong, J. C. Smith, W. S. Robinson and G. Carruthers, and the negative was supported by Messrs. J. Jeffries, H. P. Lindsay, A. E. Dixon and H. B. Meharry. The speeches, which were delivered on foot, were gauged in length by the walk from one end of the room to the other. The different paces assumed doubtless represented the amount of bottled-up eloquence to be released. Some of the speakers rushed as if they were anxious to avoid too late a return from the "lodge," and others crept as if dreading the reckoning that awaited their arrival home. The affirmative won the day.

Mr. Mulligan contributed a well sung song, which was followed by a humourous reading by Mr. Dumble, in which Mr. Denis Moriarity's opinion of the origin of Adam and Eve were cleverly exploited.

Mr. W. Daly contributed a well sung song, which was followed by a series of two minute impromptu speeches. The subject of the speech was assigned by lot, to Messrs. Wm. Might, John Nugent, Geo. Powell, T. W. Robinson and Mr. Wm. Yelland. The duty of the latter was to answer the question: "Should city aldermen receive salaries?" which he did emphatically in the affirmative, and waxed eloquent in defence of his position. A pleasing solo and quartette was given by Mr. Mulligan, and Messrs. Daly, Dobbin and Morgan. Mr. Francis was permitted full swing in an address on the telephone, which was so humourously presented that he was recalled to the platform and responded with a recitation over 1800 years old.

The delightful programme was followed by an appeal to the seat of man's affections—the stomach. Refreshments were served, consisting of tea, coffee and sandwiches of such a substantial character as only the grosser nature of man could suggest. The bread for the sandwiches was cut by machinery, and the free and easy, plain and unadorned character of the arrangements ignored the frivolities of cut glass and snowy linen. But there was no limit to the extent of the hospitality. The quality and abundance of the viands would have appealed to and satisfied the appetites of a big party of half-starved Klondyke miners. The affair was very successful, considering that it was managed under the auspices it was. The financial result was, I believe, very satisfactory—the "gate"—I think that is what the men call it—totalling over $60.

OBITUARY.

The Funeral of the Late Henry Day on Tuesday Last.

The funeral took place on Tuesday last of Henry Day, aged 90 years, who has been a resident of Peterborough since about 1850. For many years he was engaged in the brewing of ale, but in later years devoted himself to gardening. Eight children survive to mourn his death, viz., Mrs. Geo. Hutchinfon, Mrs. Geo. Edgecumbe and Mrs. Geo. Fitzgerald, of town; Mrs. Joseph Maude, of Lakefield; Mrs. Arthur Head, of town, and Miss Lily Day, of Rochester.

PERSONAL

Miss Arnold and Miss Mabel Stewart, of Toronto, are guests with their aunt, Mrs. R. H. Leary, Water street.

Rev. S. J. Shorey has returned from Chicago, where he attended the wedding of his nephew, Mr. Fred. McMullen.

Rev. Mr. Bastow, the new pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, has arrived in town, and will take charge of the services on Sunday next.

Mr. F. J. Tate, of Lakefield, has been ill for the past week with pneumonia. It is to be regretted that his condition shows no improvement and that little hope is entertained of his recovery.

An old time concert was held in Hastings on Monday evening, and the Hastings Star makes the following complimentary reference to the Peterborough talent which was present: "The singing of the Misses Bellegham, of Peterborough, was excellent and fully up to expectation. These two young ladies can depend on being well received if they ever return for a like purpose. The star of the evening was little Miss Carrie White, the child elocutionist, of Peterborough. The rendition of her part was par excellence and brought down the house at each appearance. Though only seven years old her voice and manner show careful training, and reflects great credit on her teacher, Miss Simons."

MR. PETER HAMILTON RE-ELECTED CHAIRMAN.

OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

The Inaugural Meeting was Held Last Evening—The Committees Struck and the Different Chairmen Selected.

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening, the members present being Messrs. J. J. McBain, W. H. Hill, Robt. Fair, W. H. Wrighton, Geo. Burnham, M.D., W. G. Ferguson, Henry Denne, Wm. Caldwell, M.D., Jas. Stevenson, Peter Hamilton, W. B. Bamford.

The secretary, Mr. W. G. Morrow, made the usual declaration, and asked the members to elect a chairman for the year.

The first ballot resulted as follows:

W H Hill	3
Peter Hamilton	4
Henry Denne	2
W G Ferguson	1

SECOND BALLOT.

Peter Hamilton	7
H Denne	2
W G Ferguson	1
W H Hill	1

THIRD BALLOT.

Peter Hamilton	8
W G Ferguson	1
W H Hill	3

Mr. Hamilton having received a majority vote of the members of the Board was declared elected chairman.

In taking the chair Mr. Hamilton remarked that a year ago he had stated his reasons for believing that the chair should not be occupied for more than two years, consecutively, by one member. At that time the majority of the Board was of the same opinion and thought, with him, that it was in the best interests of school administration to make a change occasionally. In a body of this kind there were always a certain number of the members who had different ideas and if these members were given an opportunity of giving their views from the chair the school system would certainly derive much benefit therefrom which it would not otherwise obtain. As the majority of the Board had seen fit to place him in the chair for another year, he would act as the majority saw fit and would feel guilty of an act of disobedience if he did not do so. When he felt that the duties were becoming too burdensome he would simply have to separate himself from the Board. He had not sufficient leisure time at his disposal to give the educational interests of the town the necessary attention which they needed. He had felt this and therefore was anxious that the Board should this year select another member to fill the office. However, he thanked the Board cordially for the confidence reposed in him, which he would try to be worthy of to the best of his ability and concluded by expressing the hope that another year the members, in their own interests, would make a change.

Moved by Dr. Burnham and Mr. W. G. Ferguson, that Messrs. McBain, Denne, Ferguson, Hill and the mover be a committee to strike the standing committees of the year.—Carried.

The committee retired and subsequently reported as follows:

Finance — Dr. Burnham (convenor), Bamford, Hayes, Caldwell, McBain and the chairmen of the Supervision and Property Committees.

Supervision—Messrs. Denne (convenor), Eastwood, Hill, McBain and Edgecumbe.

Property—Messrs. Ferguson (convenor), Fair, Wrighton, Hartley and Stevenson.

Committee on Appointments—Messrs. McBain (convenor), and the whole board.

Visiting Committee. First term—Messrs. Bamford (convenor), Edgecumbe, Stevenson and Wrighton.

Second term—Messrs. Fair (convenor), McBain, Ferguson, Hartley and Eastwood.

Third term—Dr. Burnham (convenor), and Messrs. Denne, Hill and Hayes.

The report was adopted on motion of Mr. W. G. Ferguson and Dr. Burnham.

The board then adjourned, and at subsequent meetings of the committees the following chairmen were elected:

Mr. McBain was appointed chairman of the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. W. H. Hill was appointed chairman of the Supervision Committee.

Mr. W. G Ferguson was appointed chairman of the Property Committee.

Dr. Burnham was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee.

A. MERCER & CO.

Mr. Harry Stock Becomes a Member—The Same Old Firm Name—he Same Sterling Methods—With Up-to-date Additions.

For over forty years the firm of Mercer & Co. has stood as a synonym of reliability and square dealing. The announcement made in another column informs the public that Mr. Harry W. Stock, formerly connected with the business, but latterly with a high class firm of merchant tailors and furnishers, has acquired an interest, with the position of manager, Mr. Mercer also retaining a substantial interest. Mr. Stock has a first rate practical knowledge and experience of high class tailoring methods and requirements; and this fact, taken with the securing of the services of Mr. Henry E. Bradley, of Toronto, one of the foremost cutters of the city, will be ample guarantee that the old firm's future will be in keeping with its splendid past. The fact of Mr. Mercer's connection with both the Kennedy Company and with A. Mercer & Co. admits of two new departures entirely in the interest of the patrons of the local firm. All goods will be bought direct from the mill, the connection of Mr. Mercer with the Kennedy Company, with its extensive buying powers and its consequent pull upon the market, will give A. Mercer & Co. a share in the profit of direct close-buying which the immense and extensive connections of the Kennedy Company afford. Another important specialty of Mercer & Co., in the interests of its customers, is that it is the only establishment between Montreal and Toronto that will and can handle the semi-ready high class clothing made by the Kennedy Company, the most extensive manufacturers of high-class clothing on the continent.

These added inducements, combined with the solid reputation of the firm, indicate conditions that promise not only a continuance, but a substantial increase of the patronage the firm of Mercer & Co., have so long enjoyed.

FELL DEAD.

Mrs. Robt. Carew is Suddenly Stricken With Paralysis.

The Cincinnati Times-Star contains the following account of the death of Mrs Robert Carew, whose husband is a nephew of Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, of town;

While Mrs. R. G. Carew, wife of Robert Carew of the Mabley & Carew company, was walking along Highland avenue, Mt. Auburn, about noon Saturday, she was stricken with paralysis and sank to the sidewalk. It was at first thought that she was unconscious and had fallen in a faint. Residents of the neighborhood ran to her assistance and found that she was dead. She was carried into the residence of Howard Saxby, 2307 Highland avenue, and Coroner Haerr was notified.

Mrs. Carew lived at 252 Southern avenue, Avondale, and was "house hunting" when she was overtaken by death. She went to Highland avenue to look at No. 2333, a vacant residence, with a view to renting it. She was thirty-five years of age.

EVENING WITH THE CANADIAN POETS.

Appreciative Tribute to Mrs Catharine Parr Traill.

A friend of the EXAMINER in Toronto furnishes the following reference which will be of local interest: In the lecture room of the Broadway Methodist Tabernacle on the evening of Monday, the 30th ult., an "Evening with the Canadian Poets" interested and instructed a large audience. Miss FitzGibbon contributed a most interesting sketch of her grandmother, Susanna Moodie, whose name with that of her gifted sister, Mrs. Traill, are inseparably connected with the annals of Canadian literature. Miss Fitzgibbon gave a delightful sketch of the home life of the Strickland sisters and of the formative influences that shaped their literary career. The chairman of the evening made a happy reference to Mrs. Traill and her work, remarking upon her having but recently entered her ninety-eighth year in good health, with faculties unimpaired and with no apparent probability of confining her span of life to the century mark. Mr. M. Parkinson gave a capital address on the "Later Canadian Poets"; Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith read from "The Habitant"; Mr. L. A. Kennedy gave selections from Sangster, McLachlan and Lapman, while popular Canadian songs were sung by Messrs. Dilworth, Baker and Hayes with fine effect.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself safe and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1 00.

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Of the Salvation Army to be Held for Four Days, Beginning on Friday, February 3rd.

Brigadier Complin, who is coming to Peterborough in charge of the party of officers for the series of special meetings mentioned in our columns yesterday, occupies the position of general secretary to Miss Booth for Army affairs in Canada. As may be expected for an officer in such a position he has had a wide experience. He entered the Army some fifteen years ago and has risen step by step from the ranks to his present position, having filled quite a variety of appointments during that time. He was sent by the General to superintend the work of the training of officers in Australia, in which country he had several important appointments. At one time in Australia he held the position of secretary to Commissioner Coombs, a former Canadian commissioner, and in that capacity travelled over the principal Army centres in the island continent. He came from Australia to Canada some five or six years ago, having been appointed by the General to the editorship of the Army's publications in Canada. After a successful career of office as editor he was transferred to the general secretary's department a few months ago.

Staff Capt. Manton, who forms one of the party of officers, is the oldest soldier and officer of the Army in Canada. He was well known in Toronto for many years as a public singer, and equally so since his connection with the Army for the last seventeen years. He has lost none of the enthusiasm of the early days, and his presence in the meetings will be appreciated by the many friends of the Army in Peterborough, were he is well known.

Adj. and Mrs. Stanyon are both able officers, whose term of service in the Army totals nineteen years. They are both typical Army officers. Mrs. Stanyon has held important positions for many years in connection with the training of officers for field work, and is an able exponent of Bible truth.

Ensigns Nellie and Dick Griffiths have been known for many years throughout the country for their musical talent, and with Capt. Easton, who was an undergraduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, will add much to the interest of the meetings.

ST. PAUL'S CONGREGATION

ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING—SATISFACTORY RECORD FOR YEAR 1898.

The Yearly Reports Presented—Financial Statement—Flourishing Condition Indicated—The Schemes of the Church.

The annual business meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday evening, February 1st.

Rev. Dr. Torrance opened the meeting with a few appropriate remarks. After the singing of the one hundredth Psalm and prayer, the pastor asked the meeting to appoint a chairman.

Sheriff Hall moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that Mr. John Carnegie preside at the meeting.—Carried.

REPORT OF SESSION.

Rev. Dr. Torrance read the following report of the session:

The report which the session has to submit for the past year is not so encouraging as could be desired. The attendance at the Sabbath services has kept up fairly well, but the additions to the membership have been fewer than for some years. In the month of April St. Andrew's church joined with our own in a work of special evangelistic services. They were conducted by Rev. Mr. Patterson, of Toronto. The attendance was large each evening, and very considerable interest seemed to be manifested. The following week Mr. Yarley was with us and several other congregations united in the services. The results from the services were not as great as we had reason to expect.

For the first half of the year the attendance at the weekly prayer meeting was good, but during the autumn it was not so large. There are very few of the men of the congregation who attend the weekly prayer meeting.

There were six members taken from us by death during the year. Early in the year Mr. R. Hamilton was called away suddenly by a terrible accident. Then followed Miss B. West, a highly respected Sabbath school teacher, and two months afterwards we were called to mourn the loss of Mrs. Mack, who had long been a member of the church.

Mr. Gilchrist removed to Toronto during the year. Since coming among us six years ago, he had been a very active member of the church. For part of the time he discharged the duties of superintendent of the Sabbath school with great efficiency. During the whole of the time he was a faithful member of the Session.

There were added to the membership during the year, twenty-one by certificate, and twenty-five by profession of faith. There were restored to the roll three who returned to town without having presented their certificates of disjunction elsewhere, and four names which had been inadvertently left off the roll were placed upon it. Six were removed by death, forty-one by certificate and sixteen other names were taken from the communion roll. This makes a decrease of ten in our membership, while the number of families continues about the same. It is a matter for regret that so many of the young men of the families of the congregation are not in full communion with the church. The Session would recommend that the meeting on Wednesday evening should occasionally be a meeting for special prayer that our young men may be brought under the power of the Gospel.

The number of families in the congregation is 375, and the number of communicants 745.

E. F. TORRANCE,
Moderator of Session.

On motion of Rev. Dr. Torrance, seconded by Mr. R. Jones, the report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE MANAGERS.

The Secretary, Mr. J. W. Bennet, read the following report of the Church Managers:

It is gratifying to be able to note from the treasurer's statement submitted herewith that during the year the balance due the Ontario Bank has been reduced from the sum of $479.80 to the sum of $54 35.

The Board earnestly desires now that a period of financial prosperity seems to be a reality, that the mortgage debt, which has remained so long at a standstill, may be reduced yearly by at least $500.

During the year 1899 the ordinary expenditure will be augmented to the extent of over $250 to meet the usual triennial insurance premium, so that a number of new subscribers and greater liberality on the part of some of the old contributors will be necessary to accomplish this manifestly desirable result.

The Board have during the year procured and hung on the walls of the church parlour a speaking likeness of the late Rev. J. M. Roger, M. A., the revered founder of this congregation.

The Pew Committee is continually embarassed by the lack of accommodation, and unless certain holders of pews, that are indifferently occupied from Sunday to Sunday, will volunteer their use, the committee will be compelled to take advantage of the provisions found printed in the annual reports.

The members of the Board retiring this year are H. S. Macdonald, Chas. N. Brown, A. E. Lech and J. W. Bennet, all of whom are eligible for re-election. A new member will also require to be elected in the room of Mr. Mulholland, whose removal to Toronto has created a regrettable vacancy. Auditors will also require to be elected.

Respectfully submitted,
J. W. BENNET,
Secretary.

Peterborough, January 18th, 1899.

On motion of Mr. Bennett, seconded by Mr. Tucker, the report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Mr. J. D. Collins read the report of the Missionary Society, as follows:—

Our reports this year must re-affirm what has been said in the reports for the past few years, as to the unsatisfactory results of our present method of raising our missionary money. While in 1897 there were 195 contributors to our mission fund; in 1898, there were only 185; and this against 275 contributors in 1893. From this it appears that the number of contributors is steadily declining. In the last report it was recommended that every family should be asked to contribute a definite sum to missions monthly, quarterly or annually. Some of the districts were canvassed for this purpose with good results, but in most of the districts the canvass was neither complete nor satisfactory.

The amount in the hands of the treasurer is $952, of which $25 is an additional contribution for the Augmentation Fund. Of the above amount twenty-two have contributed $524. Your committee is of the opinion that it would be better to return to the old method of raising our mission funds.

Mr. Collins moved, seconded by Mr. D. H. Moore, the adoption of the report.

Sheriff Hall took objection to the recommendation in the last paragraph of the report. He was opposed to going back to the old way of compulsory missionary collection. He thought it was backward step to return to the forced system of raising money for the church by collections, and quoted a number of instances elsewhere to show that the voluntary system had proved the most satisfactory. He thought that a decrease in the missionary contributions showed a lack of the proper spirit and of a right understanding of the missionary cause among the members of the congregation. He also took strong ground against what he called the compulsory system of raising missionary funds, because it was unscriptural, and mentioned several passages in the Bible to prove his contention. He hoped the meeting would amend the recommendation.

Mr. Peter Hamilton held similar views. He disliked the idea of sending collectors out to the different districts to canvas for a fixed sum for missionary purposes. He believed members and adherents of the congregation were inclined to do what was right in this respect, but they overlooked the importance of the missionary cause. He would not like to see a change made.

Rev. Dr. Torrance said he did not wish to influence the meeting in their decision, although he was in sympathy with the report. He gave his reasons why he would favour missionary collectors in their case, and showed that while one system might be used successfully in one congregation, another would work well in a different congregation. Very much depended upon the spirit and privileges, as well as the customs of different congregations.

Sheriff Hall moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, that the present envelope system be continued, and that the open collection on the first Sunday of every month be devoted to the use of the missionary schemes of the church.

This amendment was carried, and the report so amended was adopted.

Mr. R. Innes, moved, seconded by Mr. A. E. Lech, that the amount of missionary moneys collected be divided as follows:—

To Home Missions	$400 00
To Foreign Missions	400 00
To Augmentation (additional)	25 00
To French Evangelization	127 00

Rev. Dr. Torrance read the report of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society,

OTHER REPORTS.

The reports of the Sunday school, Christian Endeavor Society, Ladies' Aid Society, Fraser Mission Band and Faithful Workers' Mission Band were also submitted and adopted and ordered to be printed with the other reports.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

On motion, Mr. R. S. Davidson was re-elected for a term of three years as trustee on the Nicholls Hospital Board.

On motion, the following members were elected members of the Missionary Society:—President, J. D. Collins; vice-president, D. H. Moore; secretary-treasurer, R. Innes; committee, Messrs. A. J. Johnson, J. H. Connal and A. E. Lech.

The retiring members of the Board of Managers this year were Messrs. H. S. Macdonald, C. N. Brown, A. E. Lech and J. W. Bennett.

Mr. Innes moved, seconded by Mr. Collins, that the retiring members of the board be re-elected.—Carried.

Dr. Greer was elected a member of the Board of Managers, in place of R. Mulholland, who had removed to Toronto.

Mr. G. M. Roger moved that in future a list of the retiring officers of the church be printed along with the annual statement to the congregation.

On motion, Messrs. John Crane and W. H. Hill were re-elected auditors for 1899.

Mr. Peter Hamilton moved, seconded by Mr. A. J. Johnston, that a hearty vote of thanks be passed to the choir and organist. Mr. Hamilton supported his motion by a pleasing reference to the efficiency of the choir and the painstaking efforts of Mr. Crane in making the musical services of the church so interesting.

Mr. Crane acknowledged the vote on behalf of the choir briefly, by some practical remarks and suggestions. He drew the attention of the meeting to the necessity of making some changes in the position of the organ key board.

Mr. D. H. Moore, an old member of the choir, made a strong plea for that body, and stirred up the meeting to a lively sense of the obligations the church was under to their organist and choir for the excellent musical services they were enjoying.

Moved by Mr. Roger, seconded by Mr. Moore, that this meeting recommend to the managers the advisability of making the changes to the organ required by Mr. Crane, as soon as possible.—Carried.

Rev. Mr. Bennett made some appropriate remarks on the Augmentation schemes of the church.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman.

At the close of the business of the evening, coffee and refreshments provided by the ladies were served.

The Late Winter Coat.

The winter days were fiercely cold,
And yet the luckless plodder wore
An overcoat so torn and old
Its like had scarce been seen before.
He had an ulster on his mind—
That did not keep the cold away—
A fur lined coat for which he pined
And which he hoped to buy some day.

But still the winter weeks passed by,
Each growing colder than the last,
And still the man with weeping eye
And tattered coat plunged through the blast,
For he was poor in parts and purse,
And, though his coat was full of rents,
He could not pay the rent, and, worse,
His gas and coal bills were immense.

At last a friend philanthropist
Observed his plight and bought the man
An ulster lined from tail to wrist
With fur, but when the man began
To wear the ulster such a thaw
Befell as never had been known
Before. And this is nature's law:
The weather's way is not our own.

A LAKE PILOT'S LEG.

How It Solved the Mystery of the Wreck of a Steam Propeller.

"We are never amazed when vessels go aground and are wrecked on Lake Erie during the gales that are common on that treacherous water, for we expect such things then," said a lake skipper, "but when one is grounded on a clear day and wrecked on a course as clear as the day in the hands of a pilot that knows the ground like a book we naturally wonder a little and want to know the whys and wherefores. Such was the case of the propeller Susan E. Peck that went aground near Bar point and was lost with a $20,000 cargo.

"The captain of the Susan E. had sailed successfully hundreds of times between Point Pelee and Bar point and in all kinds of weather, and this time he had a wheelman who was known from one end of the lake to the other as one of the most expert navigators in the lake business. He had been lying up a long time, for the very good reason that owing to an accident to one of his legs that leg had to be amputated to save his life. The lost member was replaced by an artificial leg, and then the pilot was ready to take his post at the wheel again. His first service after his misfortune was this trip of the Susan E. Peck, and he ran her aground.

"The puzzle to everybody was how it was possible for the propeller, handled by a man of such skill and experience, on a straight course only 40 miles long and with every sailing condition favorable, to leave her course. The pilot was the most puzzled and astounded person of all. He soon got another vessel, and this one he ran in such an erratic manner, but fortunately with no disastrous result, that he was compelled to give her up, and his usefulness as a pilot was gone. He and others went to investigating to see if they could discover what was wrong with his seamanship.

"After awhile they discovered what they believed was the trouble. In the pilot's artificial leg a great deal of steel had been used in the joints and other places. Sitting close to the binnacle, as he did while steering, this steel deranged the compass so that it threw the wheelman way off his reckoning and led to the wrong piloting that had wrecked the Susan E. Peck and endangered the other vessel that the wheelman navigated subsequently. This was what they argued, and to demonstrate the correctness of the theory the pilot took charge of a vessel without wearing his false leg. Everything worked to a charm. The mystery of the Susan E. Peck was solved, and the pilot was restored to his old place in the confidence of Lake Erie skippers and vessel owners."

That was in October, 1883, when Lord Coleridge, Lord Chief Justice of England, sat with the justices.

Some cough mixtures smother the cough. But the next breeze fans it into life again.

Better put the cough out.

That is, better go deeper and smother the fires of inflammation. Troches cannot do this. Neither can plain cod-liver oil.

But Scott's Emulsion can. The glycerine soothes and makes comfortable; the hypophosphites give power and stability to the nerves; and the oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues.

ON THE OPEN TRAIL.

This paltry earth and the low hung sky,
Like a little tent around it,
Too cramped I find to feel at home,
Too cramped I always found it.

Since I was ever a vagabond,
A vagrant-foot and rover,
Oh, give me the width of the skies to roam
When my earthly days are over!

Let me out where worlds the milestones are,
Where the unresting stars walk my way—
Out, out, where a man has elbow room
To travel his old time highway!

And when the journey is done God grant
That one lone inn I find me
Where I may enter and greet but her
And close the door behind me!

South America's Suicide Wind.

In Brazil and other parts of South America the natives know and fear a certain condition of the air which they call "suicide wind."

It is not a superstition, but an actual condition of the atmosphere which seems to drive the people to madness, and during its continuance self inflicted deaths are numerous.

Criminologists and scientists all over the world are interested in this peculiar atmospheric influence, which is indicated by a soft, moist, warm air that settles heavily on the earth.

The climatic condition known as the "suicide wind" is greatly dreaded in that part of the country.

Statistics prove that suicides and other crimes occur together or in waves as they are described.

The Moral Is Plain.

"Once upon a time," says the Houtsdale (Pa.) Journal, "a man got mad at the editor and stopped the paper. In a few weeks he sold his corn at 4 cents less than the market price. Then his property was sold for taxes because he didn't read the sheriff's sale. He paid $10 for a lot of forged notes that had been advertised two weeks and the public warned against them. He then rushed to the printing office and paid several years' subscription in advance and had the editor sign an agreement that he was to knock him down if he ordered his paper to be stopped again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment...

Endorsed by Dr. C. M. Harlan of the American Journal of Health

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE....

He says:—Among the proprietary medicines recognized is Dr. Chase's Ointment, compounded by Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, as a remedy for Piles, Eruptions and Eczematic Skin Diseases, for which it has been used with marked success and has effected remarkable cures. It is not the practice of the Medical Profession indiscriminately to use proprietary medicines, but there are hundreds of physicians throughout this country who are using Dr. Chase's Ointment in their practice. We handed out during the last month 2,700 boxes of free samples of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the thankful results have been something astonishing. Here is what one of the cures says:

Mr. O. P. St. John, 216 Shaw St., Toronto, in his letter states: I suffered for some years from Itching Piles, at times being unable to sleep for the annoyance caused by them. After trying almost every remedy known, I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and can say one box entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of it, and have recommended it to several of my friends, all whom have been cured by its use.

THE CHILD CAN'T HELP IT.

When a child does wrong wilfully, there is some reason in correcting it.

But when a little one's Kidneys are weak—can't control their water at night—it's wrong to scold and punish.

Thousands of children have been whipped for wetting the bed, who simply couldn't help it.

Parents are coming to understand that this is a disease that needs curing—not a "bad habit" that requires correcting, and are giving their children which strengthen and restore the Kidneys to healthy action, and prevent further trouble.

DOANS KIDNEY PILLS,

Mrs. Young, 15 Garish Street, Halifax, N.S., cured her little boy by giving him Doan's Kidney Pills. This is what she says:

"My little boy, 13 years old, has for several years been afflicted with weakness in the retention of his water, and did not seem to have any control of his urine.

"Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box, and must say that they helped him wonderfully. He has now finished his second box, and I feel they have cured him. He is pleased to think he can retain his water, as it was so distressing to have the trouble of this inconvenience."

A Woman's Crime.

A THRILLING STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE.

By LAWRENCE M. LYNCH.

Author of "John Arthur's Ward," "The Diamond Crucifix," "Against Odds," Etc., Etc.

Suddenly a shadow fell upon the girl's face.

"Then—she is in the city," she said, gravely. "Mr. Ferrars, I have something to communicate to Mr. Bathurst, something that he should know. Is he—where I could see him?"

"I am sorry that I cannot inform you, Miss Seaton. If you feel that you could trust Mr. Jocelyn—or—myself, as our interests are one with his—we would endeavour to communicate with him."

Kate hesitated for a moment, and then said:—

"If you are the present protector of Lenore, you, too, should know of this, I think. In telling you, I must betray the confidence of my patroness. But she is implacable against Lenore."

"If it affects Miss Armyn or Mr. Bathurst, Miss Seaton, you should not hesitate; this is not an ordinary case," said Francis Ferrars.

"Be seated, Mr. Ferrars," said Kate, with sudden resolve, at the same time seating herself. "I will tell you all that I know."

The detective took a seat near her, and she went on hurriedly:—

"Several days ago a man called to see Mrs. Arteveldt, sending up word that his business was important. She went down all eagerness, of course, and in a little more than an hour returned terribly excited; and this is the sum of what she told me, in her half hysterical way. The man had introduced himself as a detective from abroad; he said that he had been employed to find the mother of Lenore Armyn; she, Lenore's mother, having fled from home after purloining a will that would enrich certain ones whom she hated. He had pursued her in order to regain the will, but finding that the mother was dead, and being informed that her papers were all in her daughter's possession, he had turned his attention to Lenore, of course. Three times, so he said, he had found her, and each time she had escaped him, twice through the interference of a young man whom he believed to be a detective. He had some reason for believing that Mrs. Arteveldt was being trifled with by the detective in her employ, and came to her privately, and as a friend, in the interest of justice and right. If Mrs. Arteveldt would favour him with a description of the man who was operating for her, he could then tell her if his suspicions were correct. As you may guess, he beguiled her into giving him a full description of Mr. Bathurst, and then he declared that he was not mistaken; that Lenore was in town, and that she had escaped from him, this man, only a week before. He had tracked her to an obscure locality, he said, had obtained access to the house, and was in the act of arresting her, knowing the charge against her, when a man, answering to the description of Mr. Bathurst, darted in, knocked him down with some iron weapon, and fled with the girl, leaving him lying senseless. All this had disturbed Mrs. Arteveldt, and put all manner of absurd ideas into her head. She declared her intention of sending for her lawyer, but the man held her to a promise to hold his communications as confidential, saying that if she would say nothing about the affair, but would inform him when she would receive a visit from Mr. Bathurst, he would be near, and trace out the hiding-place of poor Lenore. He has been here two or three times, and every visit seems more and more to unsettle Mrs. Arteveldt's faith in Mr. Bathurst. His brief reports of late, and his mysterious absence from the city, she construes against him—and I believe that she has promised to inform this man as soon as she has heard from hi—malthough she has not told me so."

Mr. Ferrars was listening to this very gravely, and when Kate ceased speaking, he sat for a few moments in thoughtful silence, then he asked:—

"Did you see this man, Miss Seaton?"

"Yes: I believed him, from the first, to be an enemy to Mr. Bathurst, and I wanted to see him, so that if it seemed right to give warning, I would be able to describe him; the second time he came I waited in the drawing-room—they were in the library, and I came out so as to meet him face to face in the hall."

"Describe him, please."

Kate complied, and the detective instantly recognized the picture she drew. It was Bradwardine.

"Miss Seaton," said he, gravely, "you have done a brave and wise thing. The man you describe is an enemy, not only to Mr. Bathurst, but to Miss Armyn. Mr. Bathurst saved her from death at his hands. I hope it will not be long before you may know the whole truth, meanwhile, you have put us on our guard. I will tell you this much now. We hope, not only to clear Miss Armyn's name, but to find the true criminal, and you may, nay, you have, aided in this. Now about the keys. Can you help us there?"

Kate's eyes gleamed with the light of a sudden resolve.

"Yes," she said, with decision; "I will. I am a favourite with the housekeeper. I know where she keeps the keys. I will get them, and you shall have them."

"When?"

"To-morow morning. Will that be in time?"

"Ample. How will I receive them?"

"I walk every morning; if you can promenade the avenue then, say for two or three blocks south from here, at nine o'clock, I will be there—with the keys."

"Thanks, Mr. Jocelyn was sure we might depend on you."

Again a rosy blush overspread the girl's face.

"I am ready to do anything to serve Lenore," she said.

"And you have served her. Have no further uneasiness about this meddler, Miss Seaton; you have balked his game, and I will look after him henceforth."

A few more words and they separated, and as Francis Ferrars walked briskly towards his "quarters" once more, he muttered: "So, Mr. Bradwardine, we have not done with you yet."

CHAPTER XLV.

AT THE MASQUERADE.

It was the night of the masquerade ball; the night on which Miss Annin had desired that Aura Durand should accompany her. Miss Annin had insisted, too, that "Cousin Charles" should not accompany them. There had been some sharp skirmishing between these two young ladies. But in the end, Miss Annin had triumphed, and Charles Durand reposed at home in ignorance of all that he might have enjoyed; while the two young ladies, each with a secret dread of the other at heart, mingled with the masked and brilliant throng at the Tip Top's masquerade. Such a scene as it was; such glow, and glitter; such bursts of music; such ripples and shouts of laughter, such knights and ladies of high degree; such an assembly of guests from long-closed tombs; of elves from other planets; of beings from the impossible realm; and they were so clever and condescending, and social withal. There were the Queen of Scots, Darnley and Queen Elizabeth, all on the best of terms. And they chatted and danced with Washington, Napoleon and Marie Antoinette. There was Old Mother Hubbard waltzing madly with a big Cardinal; and Martha Washington taking an ice with Robin Hood. Then the brigands and gypsies, the pages and fairies; the Nights and Mornings, the flower girls, the harlequins, the monks, the nuns, the fiends and the graces, they were all there. Through this glittering, varied throng moved two daughters of Araby, hand clasped in hand; their snowy flowing veils thrown back, their bright eyes gleaming out from behind their velvet masks, and wandering restlessly over the throng. They looked like affectionate sister houris, who had stolen from the harem for a brief hour of pleasure, and were somewhat overawed by all this glow and dazzle. Thus they looked, as they paused in a little alcove of vines and flowers; but this is what they said:—

"I don't see any such mask, and we have been all through the rooms; you have come on a fool's errand."

"Stuff!" It was the houri who had taken the lead that made this answer. "I tell you I saw the bill for the costume; he will come as Lara; we have only to wait."

"And what then?"

"And then see who she is."

"And after that?"

"After that—" with a short, bitter laugh, "I may ask your advice."

"Bah! I know what will happen. There will be a scene, raving, recriminations; and then—reconciliation. I know you."

"Not so well as you will—later. There will be no scene; neither will there be any blood shed. My dear, I shall come back to you, and shall ruin him, that is all."

The second houri started back.

"Ruin him!" she exclaimed. "That will be to ruin yourself."

"Not—if I am within the pale of respectability," with a mocking laugh. "Not if I am protected by you."

"And that you will not be."

"That I will be! Don't be a fool, please."

The second houri moved forward a step and then uttered a sudden exclamation. "See," she said, turning to the other, "yonder comes your Lara, and he is in excellent company; on one side a priest and on the other the devil."

True enough, advancing toward them, came Lara, Mephistopheles, and a funereal-looking monk; and not far behind them a grey nun, with meekly-folded hands and drooping head, moved after.

"Well," said the houri, who had last spoken. "There is your Lara; now to find his fair enslaver."

The three masks were directly opposite them now, and the eyes of Mephistopheles fell upon them.

"Houris!" he cried, dropping the arm of Lara. "Houris escaped from the Sultan. Look at them, Friar Lawrence."

But the monk crossed himself devoutly. "They are pagans," he groaned. "They are not like this holy sister," putting his hand out as the grey nun approached. The second houri laughed, a soft, cooing laugh. "You are powerless to harm us, oh Satan," she said, in the softest of tones, drawing near his sulphuric majesty. "We are promised Paradise."

"But I enter Paradise," quoth Mephistopheles, bending toward her, and suddenly seizing her hand. "Come fair one, I will show you my kingdom, and then—you shall"—he paused, and the monk finished the sentence. "And then—you shall know purgatory. Houri, begone."

The houri laughed again, and suffered the Prince of Darkness to lead her away. At the same moment Lara turned impatiently, made a sign to the monk, and moved across the vast hall. As he did so, the first houri, casting a glance in the direction taken by her companion and Mephistopheles, followed him swiftly, keeping a few paces from him.

When they were a little distance from the others, the second houri, clasping the satanic arm, and lifting appealing eyes to the Mephistophelian mask, said:—

"Sir Mask, I have suffered you to lead me away that I might ask a boon of you. Will you grant it?"

"If it is within my satanic power."

She looked back with a pretty bird-like motion of the head, and then lifted her eyes again to his.

"You can," she whispered, eagerly. "It is only to convey a scrap of paper into the hand of the knight Lara."

He gazed intently down into those appealing eyes for a moment, and then he said:—

"Satan submits; give me the paper, Houri."

IT NEEDS STEAM.

If there's no steam in a fire-engine it won't do its work. Heavier metal or larger wheels won't help it. It needs steam. It's the same when a man's strength is gone, he wants new life—fresh vitality. It makes no difference how large his frame may be or how big the muscles on his arms and legs; if the inner power and force of life is lacking he can't do his work; he is practically a sick man. You can't make him well by feeding him with oily emulsions. There's no use in flabby fat. His proper weight will come after he gets well. The first thing he needs is strength, force, steam.

"About a year ago," says Mr. John Brooks, of Boylston, Mass., "I was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs. The doctors said I was in consumption and could not get well. I took emulsion of cod liver oil and it did me no good. After taking it four months I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and wrote to him for advice. I have taken this medicine and it saved my life. I felt so sick when I wrote to him I thought I would not live the winter through.

"In the morning I would raise an awful lot and spit all the time, with pains in my chest all the time. My bowels would not move more than once or twice a week; my strength was nearly all gone; I could not do a whole day's work. Now my bowels are regular every day, and I feel no more pains in my chest. I feel a great deal stronger. I am working hard every day, driving a team in the woods, and I owe my thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I know it saved my life. I cannot praise it enough. I am proud to tell my friends what cured me."

The way this great remedy acts in bronchial and lung diseases is more fully described in Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page Common Sense Medical Adviser, sent FREE for 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. He is always ready to give free advice by mail.

A NEW INVENTION

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practising. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which delights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. For correct and full information regarding the new invention and NEWCOMBE PIANOS, write to our Direct Representative. Easy Prices. Liberal Terms.

Her Hat.

"And is my hat on straight?" she asked
As in the hall they stood together.
He gravely measured with his eye
The angle of the brim and feather.

Then, lowering his gaze a bit,
He saw the charming face below it,
Now wearing quite a conscious look,
Abashed, but trying not to show it.
A strange light came into his eyes,
And her eyes swiftly fell before him.
It is not safe to let man look
Too deep in eyes when they adore him.

What happened then I shall not tell,
Save that he said, "You little gypsy!"
And then remarked, quite needlessly,
"Well, no—I think your hat's on tipsy!"

"IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY."

To Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR.—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15 year endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me viz.:

Cash value	$1,564 98
Paid-up Policy, payable at my death, for	2,560 00
Yearly Income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, IT IS VERY SATISFACTORY. This returns me the full premiums of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the low ing rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

A COLUMN OF SPORTS.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

HOCKEY.

The crack St. George's team, of Toronto, run up against the Colts here on Saturday night and the game should be a good one. The St. George's team has won from Barrie, Collingwood and Wellingtons, whilst the Colts have the scalps dangling at their belts of Hamilton, Parkdales, Lakefield and Frontenacs. No one should miss this match as the Colts are deserving of every encouragement.

The Toronto Evening News contains the appended aftermath comments on the big game: The Peterborough players returned from Waterloo late yesterday, and while in town en route home the victorious hockeyists were besieged by hundreds of anxious local enthusiasts who eagerly enquired for news of the battle. The great game was rehearsed in all its details, the consensus of opinion being that Waterloo had seen the fastest game of the year. Waterloo went on the ice confident, while Captain Hollingshead in the dressing-room instructed the visitors to make the pace from the start and hang right on to the Waterloo forwards. The Peterborough forwards, particularly Crowley, never once let up in a hard, ceaseless checking game. Condition was imperative, and that Belleghem, King, Crowley and Davidson were able to pull up fresh and strong reflects the greatest credit upon Trainer Jimmy McCabe's ability. The Waterloo forwards could not get away to save their lives. Westwick found a Tartar in Crowley. Lifflton at times worked in pretty individual rushes. The Peterboroughs' showing in the first half quite took the wind out of the home seven, and at half-time the Waterloo players talked excitedly and evinced unmistakable signs of distress. Wasson let the Germans know that Koehler as a guardian of the flags has a superior. Captain Hollingshead says Lifflton was by far the most effective man for the black and yellow. Big Robson did not do at all too badly. Peterborough received generous support from Berlin, and when time was called the Berliners simply went wild over Waterloo's reverse. Very little rough play was indulged in by either team. Captain Ed. Seagram entertained the visitors handsomely after the match. Mr. Jack Macdonald, of Berlin, officiated as Peterborough's timekeeper. The betting men from Berlin, Guelph and Stratford were on hand, but little speculation was done. The Peterboroughs deny the statement in yesterday's press despatches regarding the betting. Waterloo would not venture a bet on the round and absolutely refused to entertain anything but even money propositions on the game. Reynolds, the Peterborough point, is a stonkily, well built man and an acquisition to the team. He is a Montrealer. Reynolds or Hollingshead, Waterloo men claim, was responsible for a hard body early in the first half that almost put Westwick down for keeps and hampered his work thereafter. Peterborough expects to win from Varsity by hard, fast hockey and the adoption of checking methods that will break up the collegians' forward combination worked up by Snell, Sheppard and Isbister. A number of Torontonians will journey to Peterborough to witness the meeting of Varsity and Waterloo's conquerors.

In referring to the Junior series the News says:—The finish in the junior O. H. A. championship series promises to be of more than ordinary interest. Again this year the honours seemed destined to repose upon the trophy mantle of one of the creek local juvenile organization. Upper Canada College will find a world of trouble in beating the St. George seven. Lovers of the fast, clever stick work await with expectancy the appearance on the ice of Warden, Morrison, Fraser and Temple. The youngsters play the prettiest hockey imaginable. The Peterborough juniors are quite a proposition, but Stratford, with Lightfoot, Irvine, Perry and possibly Rankin off, can hardly be as formidable as last year in the final at Waterloo. Last night the Classic City only beat Galt by one game. At Peterborough the townspeople are up in arms over the treatment accorded the Peterborough juniors at Kingston by the Frontenacs. The Kingston men, it is charged, deliberately set out to disable the visitors' most effective men. Armstrong is frightfully marked up. His face is badly discoloured, and two deep gashes are to be seen on the left side of the head, Graham is another of the victims.

The Colts practice this afternoon and the seniors to-night.

CURLIANA.

Peterborough Curlers have made some record scores this year against their opponents. Last week Myles Hamilton won his tankard gained by 27 to 7, only letting the Queen City score in four ends and on Tuesday night Skip Dickie Davidson won a Colt trophy match from Skip McKelvie by 26 to 6, the Norwood rink, only winning four ends.

ENNISMORE.

The Death of a Pioneer Resident of the Township.

Died on the 24th of January, 1899, Catharine Costello, relict of the late Michael Costello, aged 86 years.

The deceased lady who was a daughter of the late Eugene McCarthey, was born in the city of Cork, Ireland, in the year 1813, and with her father and mother and their family, emigrated to Canada in the year 1825. After a long sea voyage on a sailing vessel they landed at Quebec. Then after a tiresome journey they arrived at Ennismore, where she lived for the last 74 years. She was united in marriage to the late Michael Costello in the year 1835, and settled on the farm where she spent the remainder of her life. Her family consisted of ten children, six of whom are still living. Paul Costello, ex-reeve of Ennismore, is a son of the deceased. Three of her daughters live in Ennismore and two in Rochester, N.Y., all of whom are married. She has one brother living, Jeremiah McCarthey, of Grand Forks, N.D., also two sisters living in Ennismore, Mrs. Jas. Gorman and Mrs Francis Moloney. She was universally respected by all who knew her.

The funeral took place from her son's residence to the R. C. church, where the Rev. Father McColl sang the solemn funeral mass for the repose of her soul. The funeral cortege then proceeded to the Chemong Lake Cemetery, where her remains were laid at rest beside those of her husband and children whom she loved best. May she rest in peace.

You wouldn't die of thirst if you knew that plenty of pure cold spring water was close at hand!

You wouldn't think that anyone would suffer the tortures of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation nor Heartburn, if he knew that he could easily get a medicine that will cure these complaints as completely as water quenches thirst!

There is such a medicine. It is within easy reach of every man and woman in the country. And its name is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

If you suffer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Sick Stomach, Nervous Headache, Heartburn, Biliousness, or any other Stomach or Liver Complaint, use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They'll cure you as surely and as completely as a drink of cold water banishes thirst.

VOL. XXVII, NO. 28. PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1899. PRICE TWO CENTS

Salutatory.

FEBRUARY 1st, 1899.

To-day, the New Firm of Robert Fair & Co. made its first bow to the public.

The Golden Lion, so successfully carried on by Robert Fair since the foundation o the business, has taken in a new partner in the person of Mr. Harry Adams, an experienced and careful Dry Goods man, who has been intimately associated with the business for a period of over 15 years.

The development and scope of this leading Dry Goods, Millinery and Carpet House has resulted in an extensive and lucrative trade, built on merit.

Mr. Fair has been building for permanency, and he recognized the responsibility of years and the expectation of success.

We know you will expect more of us to-day. But for one pair of hands to oversee and manage a business of such importance has become a somewhat arduous undertaking.

The excellent team work of our store staff has, undoubtedly, counted for much, and has helped to run up our present high score. The advancement of one of the team is calculated to stimulate and encourage still better work.

If we were to put into a few words what constitutes the claims of the new firm for your attention it is this: That our interests in store-keeping is to control a higher grade of goods than are usually sold at popular prices, and to tell a straight story about them without pretence or exaggeration.

To suppose that we shall allow better values to exist outside is not to know what kind of people we are and the way we do things.

It goes without the writing that we will not give first-class room to a second-rate stock.

With a complete knowledge of our business, the members of the new firm respectfully solicit a continuance of the generous patronage so kindly bestowed upon the Golden Lion during the past 16 years.

Yours respectfully,

Robert Fair & Co

If trade is dull, we can force it. Push comes first, prosperity comes next. Our January Clearing Sale Always gives us a busy month.

We never leave our store to take a social drink, or smoke a Cigar, during business hours.

Don't shop here if you don't want BARGAINS—especially this month.

ADDRESS IS ADOPTED

The Premier's Able Reply to Mr. J. P. Whitney's Attack.

SHARP DEBATE IN THE HOUSE.

Leader of the Opposition Talks of Bribery and Corruption—A Garbled Version of Mr. Hardy's Speech—Speeches of Mover and Seconder of the Address in Reply.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—The Legislature, after a debate of about four hours, last evening adopted the address in reply to the speech from the throne without a division. The debate, which was confined to the mover and seconder, the leader of the Opposition, and the Attorney-General, was vigorous and characterized by a rather savage tone on the part of the leader of the Opposition, in which wholesale charges of corruption in the bye-elections were made. The Attorney-General's reply was forcible and argumentative, and brought into strong light the inconsistencies and lack of policy of his opponents. Notice was given of the intention to introduce a number of Government measures on Monday.

Mr. Samuel Russell, M. P. P. for East Hastings, was the mover of the reply. After adverting to the honor paid his constituency in thus giving him this honor, he referred to the record of the Government in defending the rights of the provinces; the satisfactory and gratifying results of the bye-elections during the recess; the fisheries as an asset and their regulation by the province; the wealth that lay in our mines and forests, both of which, he held, were much assisted by the progressive policy of the Government; the roads and railways, and finally the proposition for a satisfactory Workmen's Compensation Act. He closed by moving the adoption of the address in reply.

Mr. F. F. Pardee, M.P.P. for West Lambton, seconded the address in reply. He argued against American lumbermen coming here for logs and rafting them across to Michigan; he advocated a Crown Timber Regulation Act, by which lumber coming in from the States should be absolutely free or they should not be allowed to take a stick out of Canada; he hoped some scheme would be devised to populate the vast areas of the province still unsettled, preferably by an extension of existing railway lines further north. Mr. Pardee closed with a congratulatory paragraph on the result of the bye-elections and the gain of six seats to the Government.

Mr. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, followed. The most striking thing in connection with the speech was, he said, that there is nothing in it. He was anxious to know why the House was called at such an early date, with a Minister absent through illness. Was it to prevent the certain sitting of a certain court in which the Minister of Agriculture was interested? He congratulated the Government in at last, after many years, beginning to lop off rotten branches, but they should go the whole way and lop off the entire Department of Public Works, which was now entirely useless. The school laws should be amended in the direction pointed out by the Opposition, and the Government would find it as profitable to follow his indication as it did in the matter of registry law. The Lord's Day Act bill was of a piece with all their legislation—it had to be interpreted by the courts. The speaker then animadverted upon the bye-elections and said people said there had not been such open and shameful bribery known before in the 19th century. He referred to speeches of the Minister of Education and the Attorney-General to show that followers of the Government were supposed to pass whatever legislation they demanded. Referring to the Dryden charges in the South Ontario cross-petition, Mr. Whitney said the Minister had made the mistake of his life, because he would make him substantiate all his statements. He characterized the statement in the Government organ of the day respecting his connection with the St. Anthony Lumber Company as false. "Regarding lumber, we are not afraid of British influence, and are ready to stand by the Government. I am not afraid of what the Premier of Canada was afraid of, and as this is a provincial matter, I am prepared to vote with the Government against the giving away of the embargo on logs going out of this province."

The House arose for recess.

Hon. Mr. Hardy, in reply to Mr. Whitney, said the Government had fulfilled its promises and Messrs. Dryden and Gibson were back in their places. In addition they had a distinct acquisition to the Cabinet in Mr. Garrow, the member for West Huron. The Government could congratulate itself upon the constable vote, and the fact that the Court of Appeal had upheld the views expressed by every member upon that side of the House. In reply to "Lex," who claimed that the prorogation was illegal, he could assure them it was perfectly legal, as well as the calling of the present session of the House. He said his hon. friend had referred to the speech as a humdrum one. He would like an interpretation. A speech referring to the education of the people—a subject in which he takes a vital interest—a speech which promises to amend one of the great Acts affecting labor ought not to be "humdrum;" a speech which pointed out means to supplement the revenues of this country, the great timber questions of the country; a speech which promises a measure to further protect orchards and vineyards ought not to be considered a "hum-drum" speech. He was afraid his honorable friend was in a hum-drum mood. He said Mr. Whitney had taken garbled reports of his speech by which to convict him. On the question of the timber bill, the Premier said Mr. Whitney did not know much about it. He showed that Mr. Whitney's remarks upon education were monstrous. The judges were appointed and paid to interpret legislation, and this Act—the Lord's Day Act—had been passed hundreds of years ago. He then devoted considerable time to the charges of corruption, and claimed that the Opposition had not shown any. "Let the courts decide," said Mr. Hardy. The Premier defended the early calling of the Legislature, and said the Government had acted with its usual promptness.

Hon. G. W. Ross rose at the conclusion of Mr. Hardy's speech, and explained that he made no bid to electors in West Elgin by promising them favors. He merely told them what had been done a year ago.

The address was carried without a division and the House adjourned till 8 p.m. to-day.

A BIG STAKE.

No Wonder There Are 15,000 Armed Boers in South Africa.

New York, Feb. 3.—The Post's London correspondent says: If there is one question more than another to which financiers and business men generally are most anxious for an answer, it is: "What is the truth about Delagoa Bay?" which is the key to the whole internal position in Africa.

I am enabled to send you a reply which Sir Alfred Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa, made to this question before he sailed for the Cape last Saturday. He said: "I can tell you no more than this, Delagoa Bay is all right. Portugal fell into our arms like a fainting woman."

"But what," asked his questioner, "about the King of Portugal's speech the other day, when he declared Portugal never would consent to alienate any of her colonies?"

Milner replied: "Ah, the King has opposition to consider. You must draw no other conclusion from what he said than that he had this strong opposition in mind. But though Delagoa Bay is securely British, that will not itself settle the Transvaal question, which is South Africa's problem. The central fact in the Transvaal is this: You have 15,000 armed Boers sitting upon £100,000,000 worth of bullion. What would you do if you were one of these 15,000? Take that as a lamp when you look into the future."

DEATH OF JUDGE DARTNELL.

The Senior Judge of Ontario County Has Passed Away.

Whitby, Feb. 3.—George Henry Frewen Dartnell, senior judge of Ontario County, died suddenly from paralysis at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been in feeble health for a year past, but was able to be about, and was in chambers the day before.

George Henry Frewen Dartnell was the son of the late Edward T. Dartnell, a native of Limerick, Ire., who was for some years county attorney and clerk of the peace, Prescott and Russell, Ont. He was born in Limerick, Feb. 14, 1834, and was educated at King College School, London. He came to Canada in 1850, and was called to the Ontario bar, 1858. He was appointed master-in-chancery, Whitby, Ont., Dec., 1858; junior judge of the County Court of Ontario, Oct., 1878, and senior judge, Dec. 12, 1896.

Boundary and Reciprocity.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The sub-committee work of the Canadian High Joint Commission yesterday was divided between Alaskan boundary question and the reciprocity clause of the treaty. The reciprocity session was the longer of the two and was the first at which Mr. Payne, the new American member of the Commission, was able to appear. It is thought that the two sides will reach the bedrock possibilities of an agreement within a few days. Just what these will be would be impossible to say at this time. The boundary question presents fewer angles and a settlement satisfactory to both sides is regarded as very likely.

AUSTRALIAN UNITY.

Unanimous Agreement Reached by Melbourne Conference.

THE OUTLINE OF THE BILL.

The Premiers of the Various Colonies Will Have Two Houses—Provisions for a Deadlock—A Capital Neutral as Is Washington, D. C.—History of the Federation Movement.

Melbourne, Victoria, Feb. 3.—The unanimous agreement finally reached by the Australian colonial premiers, who have been in conference here for some days regarding certain unsettled questions connected with the Australian Federation bill, referred to them by the colonial legislatures, seems to insure the success of the federation project.

The Federal capital will be, like Washington, Federal territory, the existing capitals being excluded. It will be established in New South Wales, but at least 100 miles from Sydney, the colonial capital. Pending the erection of a capitol building, the Australian Parliament will meet in Melbourne.

The Parliament is to consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives and an absolute majority of the members of both Houses shall decide all differences that may arise between the two. In other respects the original bill is unaltered.

The delay in accomplishing Australian federation has been principally due to the hesitating policy of New South Wales, the chief trouble originating with the financial basis of the proposed commonwealth. The matter first came formally before the representatives of the colonies at a Federal convention which met in Adelaide in March, 1897. The colonies of Victoria, New South Wales, Tasmania and South and West Australia sent delegates. Resolutions were adopted embodying the principles of the new constitution, and a committee was appointed to draft a bill, to be reported to the convention, and then after discussion, to be referred to the various colonial legislatures.

The draft having been made, submitted to, and modified by the convention, went to the colonial legislatures in March of last year. The subsequent decision revealed the existence of an important anti-Federal section, the crux of the difficulty being the question of securing the rights of the smaller states, without depriving the others of the advantages which should be theirs, from the fact of their larger populations. One by one, however, the colonies, with the exception of New South Wales, approved the bill. Victoria, South Australia, West Australia and Tasmania derive their revenues from excise and customs duties, but in New South Wales these have been partially abolished, their place being taken by income and land taxes.

The opponents of the federation project in New South Wales contended that, as under a Federal Government, the four protectionist colonies would lose a large portion of their revenue by the abolition of border duties, and as a Federal tariff of somewhat prohibitive nature would become necessary, except in New South Wales, where there are no border duties to be repealed, the practical result would be that the deficient revenue of the four protectionist colonies would have to be made good very largely at the expense of New South Wales. That is to say, Australian federation on the lines of the bill as originally prepared would mean an increase of taxation in the parent colony, and diminished fiscal burdens in the others.

Apart from this feature, the New South Wales colonists have all along approved the proposed constitution, and it is fair to assume that their demands for an equitable fiscal arrangement have been met, as the foregoing despatch from Melbourne refers to a "unanimous agreement."

The Australian Federation bill vests the legislative authority in the Queen, who will be represented by a Governor-General, and in two Houses of Parliament, the members of each being elected on the basis of manhood suffrage, and each elector having only one vote. Each colony, or state, will return six members to the Senate, each elected for six years. The House of Representatives will consist of 64 members, elected for three years, 24 by New South Wales, 23 by Victoria, seven by South Australia, five by West Australia and five by Tasmania.

The Australian Parliament will have power to make laws regulating trade and commerce with other countries and among the several states; regulating taxation, but not so as to discriminate between states or parts of states, or between persons or things passing from one state to another; regulating also bounties on the production or export of goods, borrowing money on the public credit of the federation, postal, telegraphic, telephone and other like services, naval and military defense, navigation and shipping.

The Executive Government is to consist of seven Ministers, with salaries estimated at £1,500,000 per annum. Each state will, for the present, retain possession of its own railways subject to the control of an inter-state commission, and so long as this is the case the Federal Government will not have charge of the public assets.

JUBILEE YEAR IN TRADE AND COMMERCE,

SAYS THE PRESIDENT OF THE MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

Interesting Figures as to the Great Expansion of our Trade in all Directions.

Montreal, Jan. 31—Strong testimony to the general prosperity of Canada was given to day by Mr. James Crathern at the annual meeting of the Board of Trade, of which he is president. Having expressed satisfaction that work had at last been begun on harbour improvements and that the high level plan was adopted, he said: "I think to-day I may venture to congratulate this board that the past year has certainly been to us what may be termed a jubilee year in connection with the trade and commerce of this country. During the 45 years in which I have been actively engaged in business as a merchant in this city I have passed through many seasons of mercantile and financial depression, but at no time have I known the commercial and financial interests of the country to have been on a sounder or better footing than at present. We have been blessed with a bountiful harvest, and all engaged in commerce and manufacture report a satisfactory volume of business; payments are also most satisfactory, with losses through bad debts much reduced. This last statement is corroborated in an article which recently appeared in The Montreal Witness to the effect that in 1804 the liabilities of Canadian insolvents amounted to $24,000,000, against $9,000,000 in 1898, and in the same article it is further stated that the proportion of Canada's business failures last year to the whole number engaged in business was smaller than in any other year of her existence. As a commercial body, and interested as we all are in the development of the trade and commerce of this country, the following statistics, which I have obtained from the department at Ottawa, will indicate the progress we have made since Confederation: The first Dominion holiday was celebrated July 1st, 1867, and I find that at the end of the first fiscal year, June 30th, 1868, the imports were $73,000,000, in 1898 $140,000,000; increase 90 per cent. The exports in 1868 were $58,000,000, in 1898 $164,000,000; increase 180 per cent. The exports of 1898 exceed the imports by $24,000,000. Our financial progress has been as follows:—On the 31st of December 1868, bank capital $30,000,000; 1898, $63,000,000; 1868, bank rest not stated; 1898, $28,000,000, or 44½ per cent. of the capital. Public deposits, exclusive of Government deposits, 31st of December, 1868:—

	1868.	1898.
Chartered banks	$41,000,000	$245,000,000
Government and other saving banks	5,000,000	65,000,000
Loan companies' deposits	700,000	19,000,000
Totals	$46,700,000	$329,000,000

An increase of $282,000,000.

"In 1868 the total visible cash resources, bank capital and deposits, were $76,000,000; in 1898 bank capital, rest and deposits $423,000,000, or an increase of $347,000,000. These figures are, I think, a satisfactory indication of the commercial and financial progress of the country.

AUTHORITY IS RESPECTED.

That has the Puissance of the British Empire Behind It.

Is there not a feeling of pride in every Canadian's breast when he reads what the Hon. Mr. Sifton said in his speech at Waterloo:—"I was told that all the soldiers and policemen in the Dominion of Canada could not go out on those creeks and collect those duties from the miners with their six shooters. Well, we sent out two mining inspectors, with nothing in their pockets but a jack-knife, and they collected $400,000 of that royalty last spring. Next year we will clear something like $800,000 of royalty, and these same two men will collect it." This is what the administration of the Yukon has done. Law and order are as firmly maintained as in any civilised land. The severest test of the effectiveness of a country's institutions is the extension of authority over distant and unsettled regions.

GOMEZ PACIFIED.

He Will Now Go to Work Actively to Help Uncle Sam in Cuba's Reconstruction.

Remedios, Province of Santa Clara, Feb. 3.—General Maximo Gomez, the Commander-in-Chief of the Cuban army, placed himself squarely in position yesterday as an active ally of the United States Government in the work of reconstruction of Cuba.

As a result of the conference which Mr. Robert P. Porter, the special commissioner of President McKinley, has had with General Gomez, the latter cabled to President McKinley yesterday afternoon, assuring him of his co-operation in disbanding the Cuban army, and distributing among the Cuban soldiers the $3,000,000 appropriated for the purpose of enabling them to return to their homes.

General Gomez also telegraphed to Major-General Brooke, saying he would accept the latter's invitation to go to Havana. The success of Mr. Porter's mission greatly simplifies the returning of the military Cubans to the pursuits of peace. In view of General Gomez's supposed prior attitude of hostility toward the United States, Mr. Porter came here clothed with absolute authority and the tender of the $3,000,000 was practically a verbal ultimatum. Had it not been accepted no more overtures would have been made.

Mr. Porter said that President McKinley needed, and was entitled to, the co-operation of all interested in the welfare of Cuba, and that he needed the co-operation of General Gomez above all others.

Disbandment the First Thing.

The first problem, Mr. Porter then pointed out, was the disbandment of the Cuban army, and the return of the Cuban soldiers to work. This was the specific mission which had brought Mr. Porter to Remedios, and in which President McKinley expected General Gomez's aid.

The Cuban Commander-in-Chief replied that he was ready and willing to give the aid required, but asked how he could do so.

To this Mr. Porter replied that President McKinley would be glad to have him go to Havana and co-operate with General Brooke in disbanding the Cubans and in paying over the $3,000,000 appropriated for that purpose. General Gomez said the amount was too small, but that was not his fault, and he would make it go as far as possible, likening it to the miracle of the loaves and fishes.

General Gomez specially requested that the money for which Mr. Porter had orders in his pocket should be paid over to Gen. Brooke and not to himself, as he did not want the personal responsibility of keeping it.

The formal compact was then presented to Gomez by Mr. Porter and was assented to.

What the Compact Is.

In brief, the compact is as follows:

First, the Cuban officers in each province shall assist the American officers in distributing the funds.

Second—That these officers shall at once meet at some convenient point and decide how, when and where the payment is to be made, and arrange any other details.

Third—That the sum paid to each man shall not be regarded as part payment of salary or wages due for services rendered, but to facilitate the disbandment of the army, as a relief of suffering, and as an aid in getting the people to work.

Fourth—The Cubans shall surrender their arms to the Cuban Assembly or to its representatives.

Fifth—The committee on distribution shall use its best endeavors to distribute it among the population so that all may secure work.

Sixth—That the $3,000,000 shall be placed subject to the order of Gen. Brooke, and that action in the matter shall be immediate.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Mr. C. S. Griggs.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—A startling story is told by Mr. C. S. Griggs, carpenter, living at 151 Queen street south. Reputable citizens vouch for the strict truth of every detail.

Mr. Griggs endured the most agonizing pains for eight years. He was a victim of Bright's disease, and the best doctors could not help him.

Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured him. To-day he is sound and well in every way.

It is wonderful how many Hamilton people have been cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have never been known to fail in a single case.

The Canadian Press Association.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—The Canadian Press Association held its 41st annual meeting in Toronto yesterday. Vice-President Dingman occupied the chair in the absence of President Holmes. All the provincial and trade journals were well represented. The following officers were elected: W. S. Dingman, Stratford, president; J. S. Willison, Globe, 1st vice-president; A. G. F. Macdonald, 2nd vice-president; John A. Cooper, secretary-treasurer; Charles A. Matthews, assistant secretary-treasurer.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, but Safe and Effectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diatase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

MAKE BELIEVE METEOROLOGY.

Illusions of the Stage and How They Are Produced.

Whatever may be the state of the weather outside, the stage manager within can bring about rain and hail, wind or a thunderstorm at will, and the illusion is so complete as to sometimes make nervous members of the audience insensibly shudder. Hail and rain are represented by a closed wooden cylinder about six feet long, which is obstructed inside by various crosspieces, a quart of peas completing the arrangement. By turning this cylinder first one way up and then the other, the peas rattle through it with close imitation of the sound of heavy rain on a roof.

The wind arrangement consists of a wheel of about two feet diameter set in a frame like that of a grindstone. This wheel is furnished with ribs on its periphery somewhat like the floats of a water wheel and drawn tightly over these ribs is a piece of thick silk. When the wheel is turned, the ribs rub against the silk, and by turning the handle first quickly and then slowly a very good imitation of the soughing of the wind is produced. Lightning can easily be imitated by chemical or electrical means, and the usual mode of producing thunder is by shaking a large sheet of flexible iron plate. Some theaters have, however, a far more elaborate and effective thunder arrangement, which is used as an auxiliary to the sheet of iron when a storm is supposed to reach its height. This consists of a number of cannon balls held in a trough and allowed to fall at the right moment and to run over a floor above the ceiling of the theater.

A snowstorm is brought about by a perforated revolving cylinder above the stage, charged with paper cuttings. Unfortunately these messengers of frost have a habit of resting on all kinds of projections and dislodging themselves in subsequent scenes when their presence is not desirable.—Chambers' Journal.

Insects That Eat Cables.

Prof. Bouvier, at the Paris Academy of Sciences, has been describing the destruction of a telegraphic cable by insects. The cable (a land one) was laid in Tonkin in 1894, and was composed of seven copper wires protected by an insulating envelope coated with cotton and jute. In addition to this, it was placed in a leaden pipe. Notwithstanding all these precautions, the cable, which was laid on a marshy soil, began to show signs of decay in 1895, and it was found necessary to replace it in the spring of the present year. On examining the cavities in the protecting envelope M. Bouvier discovered that they had been made by termites. Milne Edwards, commenting on the professor's address, said that it was not the first time that injury to metals by insects had been noted. During the Crimean war bullets were found to have been perforated by hymenoptera, which came from the deal boards of which the packing cases had been made.

To Catch Them Both.

"I think I shall try the two volume system with my next novel," said Timmins.

"Isn't that sort of thing out of date?" asked Simmons.

"But this is a new scheme. I'm going to marry them off happily at the end of the first volume in the good old style, you know. That will catch the mothers. In the second volume the villain, the elopement and the divorce appear. That will catch the daughters. Isn't that great?"—Indianapolis Journal.

A PHASE OF LIFE IN RUSSIA.

The Writing Master Who Conquered His Insolent Pupils.

The teacher of writing, Ebert, who was a German Jew, was a real martyr, says Prince Kropotkin in the December Atlantic. To be insolent with him was a sort of chic among the pages. His poverty alone must have been the reason why he kept to his lessons in our corps. The old hands, who had staid for two or three years in the fifth form without moving higher up, treated him very badly, but by some means or other he had made an agreement with them—"one frolic during each lesson, but no more"—an agreement which, I am afraid, was not always honestly kept on our side.

One day one of the occupants of the back forms soaked the blackboard sponge with ink and chalk and flung it at the caligraphy martyr. "Get it, Ebert!" he shouted with a stupid smile. The sponge touched Ebert's shoulder, glanced into his face and down on his white shirt, covering both with ink and chalk.

All saw it and were sure that this time Ebert would leave the room and report the fact to the inspector; but, taking out his cotton handkerchief and wiping his face, he only exclaimed, "Gentlemen, one frolic—no more today!" "All the shirt is spoiled," he added in a subdued voice and continued to correct some one's book.

We looked stupefied and ashamed. Why, instead of reporting, he had thought at once of the agreement! All sympathies turned in his favor. "What you have done is stupid," we reproached our comrade. "He is a poor man and you have spoiled his shirt! Shame!" somebody added. The mischief maker went at once to make excuses. "One must learn," was all that Ebert said in reply, with sadness in his voice.

All became silent after that, and at the next lesson, as if we had settled it beforehand, many of us wrote in our best possible handwriting and took our books to Ebert asking him to correct them. He was radiant. He felt happy that day.

This fact deeply impressed me and was never wiped out from my memory. To this day I feel grateful to that remarkable man for his lesson.

The Raid of the Lasius Niger.

On one occasion one of the herds of aphides under observation was discovered by a wandering black ant (Lasius niger), which reported her discovery to her comrades. At once a marauding expedition was inaugurated by these cattle thieves, which fiercely attacked the yellow guardians of the herd. The black reavers swarmed up the grapevine, but were met by the brave yellow warriors, which valiantly withstood their attack. Finally the yellow ants were in danger of being overwhelmed by numbers, when I suddenly perceived that they were being re-enforced.

Closer examination revealed the fact that they were crawling up a neighboring vine and then dropping from an overhanging leaf on to the leaf on the stem of which the aphides were feeding. They could not reach the herd by way of the original path on account of the intervening army of back ants, hence their shrewd and most intelligent use of the neighboring vine and overhanging leaf. I am glad to report that the yellow ants were victorious, and that they completely routed the would be robbers.—James Weir, Jr., in Popular Science Monthly.

A AYLMER CASE.

Mrs. C. H Burdick of that place restored to health after ailing for three years.

Her friends all want to know how it came about, so she tells the story of her cure.

The little life savers have been doing good work in Aylmer, Ont., lately.

They've been curing many people of that town who have tried all sorts of remedies for years without obtaining any relief.

One of these is Mrs. C. H. Burdick.

She was troubled for several years with heart weakness, smothering feeling, sleeplessness and nervousness.

Now she's enjoying the best of health.

When asked what brought about the change she told the following story:

"For three years I had been ailing with fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath, and smothering at night.

I was often very dizzy, and my eyesight became obscure.

At times I found it difficult to remember passing events, and I was troubled greatly with sleeplessness and a general condition of nervous prostration, being easily startled, weak and listless.

Last September I commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store. They did me so much good that I bought a second box. The effect of two boxes have been remarkable.

All my troubles are removed, the shortness of breath and nervousness have disapeared and healthful restful sleep has been restored by the their wonderful tonic action and my appetite has also returned. In fact, they have made me as well and strong as I ever was in my life."

All druggists sell Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Price 50c. a box or 3 boxes for $1.25. T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto, Ont.

OUR TRADE WITH UNCLE SAM.

One Yankee Orator Says Canada Is More Worth Than the Tropics.

New York, Feb. 3.—At the regular monthly meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Osborne Howes of Boston addressed the Chamber on the commercial relations with Canada. He said that as a representative of the Boston Chamber of Commerce he wished to interest New Yorkers in the work of securing the freest possible trade relations with the Dominion of Canada. He wanted Canada placed, as nearly as international conditions would permit, on the same trade basis as that occupied by one of the States in the Union. He cited the large amount of commerce which existed between the two countries, and drew the conclusion that Canada was a better market than all the tropics.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Means.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said "Try Stuart's Tablets." I did and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

Montreal Live Stock.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The receipts of cattle at the East End Abattoir this morning were 500 head of cattle, 30 calves, 50 sheep and 50 lambs. There was a good attendance, and the following prices were firmly maintained: Good cattle, sold at from 4½c to 4¾c per lb.; lower grade from 2c to 3c per lb. Calves were sold from $3 to $10, according to size. Sheep brought from 3c to 3¼c per lb., for choice, and culls from 2c to 2½c per lb. Lambs sold at from 4½c to 5c per lb. Hogs were sold at from $4.10 to $4.80.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

East Buffalo, Feb. 2.—Cattle—In the absence of sale receipts the market was nominally unchanged. The feeling on good butcher grade continues firm. Calves were in moderate supply, fair demand, steady. Choice to extra were quotable at $7.75 to $8; good to choice $7 to $7.75.

Sheep and Lambs—The market was in very unsatisfactory position, with 26 loads through, a limited demand and lower and weak prices. The basis was $5.15 for the best lambs; good to choice $4.75 to $5. Sheep, choice to extra, $4.25 to $4.50, good to choice $4 to $4.25, common to fair $2.75 to $3.75. The feeling is for lower prices on lambs for some time. There was only a small portion of the offerings sold today.

Hogs—There was a fair trade, at the prices. The demand was fairly active at the opening, on medium and heavy, and slow on Yorkers. Medium and heavy were quotable at $4.05 to $4.10, Yorkers $3.90 to $3.95, pigs $3.65 to $3.70, rough $3.25 to $3.50, stags $2.50 to $3.25. The market was well cleaned up, and strong on the close.

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from these dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Most women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past ten years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest discovery of this great scientist, are put up to sell 25 doses for 25c. All dealers.
